SPLENDID STAMP PRICES

New Issues From Various Countries As Seen In Recent Weeks

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

The value of rare postage stamps is an ever increasing quantity. Year by year the standard of condition set by philatelists becomes more and more exacting, until little short of perfection will satisfy the present-day connoisseur of stamps. As a result, specimens that once were accepted as average copies are now rejected, so that the always inadequate supply of philatelic treasures is still further curtailed.

To the greater discrimination of more advanced philatelists is directly attributable the steady upward trend of stamp values that has manifested itself of recent years. The majority of modern philatelists treat their collections as a form of investment, and to this end devote themselves specially to collecting immaculate and unique stamps. Thus it comes about that exceptional copies of quite ordinary stamps, such as the first issue U.S.A., and more especially unsevered pairs and blocks of imperforate stamps, frequently command figures that are out of all proportion to the current market quotations for the normal stamp. Some remarkable prices have been realized recently at London stamp auctions by unusually fine copies and exceptional "pieces" of scarce stamps.

OLD COLONIAL STAMPS.

The sale of the so-called "Mayfair" find of early Colonial and other stamps, in entire or part sheets (Post Office), the property of Lady Naylor-Leyland, was a big event in the philatelic world. While some excellent prices were obtained, it was obvious that many of the items offered were too unwieldy to attract the ordinary collector, for whom compactness and portability are two of the hobby's chief charms. The fact that in some instances the sheets had remained folded up for many years, further detracted from their value in the eyes of "condition cranks." Nevertheless a complete sheet of the 2½d British Columbia 1861 (240 stamps) sold for £750, or just under "full catalogue," and another of the ½d lilac Ceylon 1858, slightly damaged, for £650. A sheet of the first 1d stamp of Grenada in perfect condition fetched £115, but two similar sheets, creased and with only part gum, were knocked down for £70 and £75 respectively.

An almost complete sheet of the 1d orange-vermilion stamp of Queensland, 1862, realized £450 (about two-thirds "catalogue"), while 104 stamps from a lower half-sheet of the 2d blue sold for £325, two of the rows being imperforate between. One of the best prices of the sale was £80 for a mint block of 12 of the 4d pale blue Western Australia, 1854, which included two rare varieties of transfer.

"RECORD" PRICES.

At another London auction room a collection of British Colonial stamps of the Victorian and Edwardian eras, in mint blocks of four, made extremely good prices, establishing a "record" in the case of the Gibraltar "value omitted" error, 1889, the mint block of which realized £225 under the hammer (the catalogue value of a single copy being only £38). Among the modern rarities offered at a third sale, a £25 stamp of Northern Nigeria, mint (unquoted in catalogue), sold for £130, and the 10s Malta (C.A. wmk.) achieved a new "record" at £26 10s.

All this goes to show that the day is past when fine copies of good stamps could be picked up at a considerable discount off catalogue quotations, and that in philately, as in other branches of collecting, the exceptional piece demands an exceptional price.

A special issue of postage stamps has been prepared by the New Zealand Government in connexion with the South Seas Exhibition, which was opened at Dunedin this month. The design includes a general view of the exhibition, and is the work of Mr. H. Lindley Richardson, R.B.A., the artist responsible for the present general series of the Dominion. It is understood that there are three values only in the exhibition set—viz., ½d, 1d, and 4d. This is in accordance with precedent, similar stamp issues having been made in connexion with the exhibitions held at Christchurch in 1906 and Auckland in 1913.

NEW ZEALAND EXHIBITION SET

Wilcox, Smith & Co. favor us with a set of the New Zealand exhibition stamps which have just appeared. There are three values, all in the same design, ½d yellow green, 1d carmine and 4d purple. The inscription "New Zealand and South Seas Exhibition 1925-26" indicates the purpose which the set serves. The Exhibition was opened by the Governor on Tuesday, November 17.

H. F. COLMAN, 509 7th Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

Few history books contain any reference to the battle of Sarandi, where the forces of the newly-proclaimed Republic of Uruguay under General Artigas defeated their Brazilian oppressors on October 12, 1825. A striking set of three commemorative stamps depicting a charge of Uruguayan cavalry forms a reminder of the centenary of the victory. The stamps, which were lithographed in large format by the Imprenta Nacional at Montevideo, comprise three denominations—viz., 2 centesimos green, 5c violet, and 10c blue.

A very effective study of native cattle grazing, by the Belgian artist Gusto Leys, adorns a new 60 centimes postage stamp of the Belgian Congo, issued to meet a revised postal rate. This stamp has also been overprinted for use in the mandatory provinces of Ruanda and Urundi.

The Territory of Transjordan has just been provided with another long series of stamps, printed in London from the plates of the obsolete series of the E.E.F. post offices, but bearing the distinguishing imprint "Sharq al ardan" in black Arabic characters.

FAMOUS CANADIAN STATESMEN.

Famous Canadian statesmen who are to be portrayed upon the impending series of historical stamps of the Dominion include Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir J. A. Macdonald, Thomas D'Arcy McGee, Baldwin, and Lafontaine.

There is prospect of an avalanche of Christmas charity stamps this year. Besides the annual issues from Switzerland and Holland, we are promised child-welfare stamps from both Austria and Germany, while Belgium has in contemplation a charity series in aid of the anti-tuberculosis campaign. The new year is to see the advent of an extraordinary Italian stamp issue in commemoration of the seventh centenary of St. Francis of Assisi.

A very remarkable series of stamps is about to be issued by the Government of Bolivia with the avowed object of obtaining funds for the restoration of the ruins of the ancient Inca temple of the Sun at Tihuanaca. They have been printed in Germany and reproduce the bas-reliefs that are traced upon these celebrated megalithic remains.

A recent Royal decree authorizes the creation of a series of charity postage stamps in connexion with the 62nd anniversary of the founding of the Spanish Red Cross. These stamps will be sold for a premium on March 1, 2, and 3, 1926. —London Times.

N. Z. ON LITH. WMK. PAPER

A valued correspondent sends us the following information in regard to the New Zealand stamps that have appeared on the new lithographed watermarked paper. He advises us that it is from a New Zealand exchange, which does not enable us to give proper credit. The paper may be the New Zealand Stamp Collector or the Australian Stamp Journal. Here is the clipping:

The ½d and 1d dues of New Zealand have appeared on the curious lithographed watermarked paper, and these complete the list of this issue. All are very scarce and will be rare.

The paper with lithographed watermark was used as a last resort when all the other suitable paper had been exhausted. Although unsurfaced, it was what is known as imitation art paper, and was supplied from stock by the Government Printer. In order to minimise the possibility of forgery, the Stamp Department instructed the printer to print a watermark on the paper. Trial sheets were submitted with the watermark lithographed, and this method was approved. The Government Printer used a lithograph varnish and, as his instructions, stipulated that the watermark should be clearly visible, it was necessary to add colour to the varnish. Owing to the difficulty of satisfactorily colouring the varnish, it was found impossible to maintain a uniform shade and hence the lithographed watermark is found ranging in shade from pale grey to blue.

A few sheets of the 1d Dominion were issued with the lithographed watermark almost black, but these are very scarce. Although it has been stated that the 3d George was printed with the lithographed watermark, this is incorrect. The only stamps printed on this paper were the ½d and 2d George, the 1d Dominion, and the ½d and 2d postage dues. A small quantity of the 1d Dominion was overprinted OFFICIAL.

The total number of sheets with lithographed watermark was comparatively small, and the bulk of the printing comprised the ½d and 1d values. The 2d was issued to only a few post offices, and should prove to be a very good stamp.

UNITED STATES "EDUCATORS"

For those who are not certain of their classifications of 19th Century U. S. stamps (and that means nine collectors out of every ten) we have made up this series of packets and approval booklets, in which every stamp has its correct catalog number.

Packet A.—30 varieties of U. S. postage only, all classified, including every issue from 1851 to 1890 inclusive, only $2.00

Packet B.—20 varieties of the hard-to-place Bank Note issues each one numbered according to Scott's catalog, 1871 to 1890 ..... $1.00

"Educator" Approvals contain almost all regularly issued stamps of the United States from 1847 to 1900. No stamp priced more than $5, most of them at big discounts from catalog prices. Sent only against references or deposit. [H

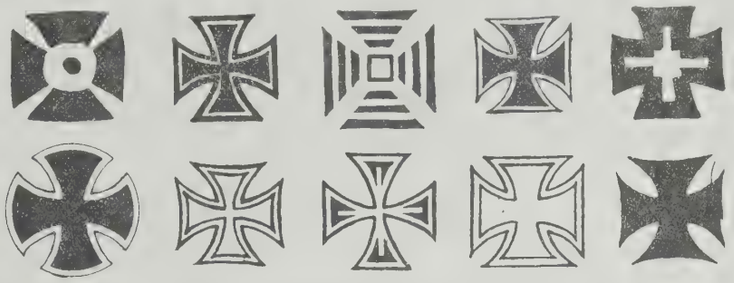
THE FORUM—UNITED STATES ISSUES 1847-70

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.



DESIGN—Maltese Cross. Occurs—1861-1893, Soft Paper Bank Note Issues especially.
COLORS—Purples, Blues and Blacks. Recorded by Mr. S. C. Rogers.

This first group is well known to all. These may be designated as stamps in a sheet, our No. 1 showing a dot in the center, and No. 6 having curved ends. If a mixed group with no particular name, the issue of MEKEEL'S, as whole number 1824, or the December 21st number, 1925. This will be the system followed throughout, as it permits unlimited expansion of a group at any time, which might not be possible if we tried to use consecutive numbering.

This type of Cross was probably in use prior to 1861, tho none have been received, and many are perhaps seen on issues later than the Columbians, yet they are common by this time, and on stamps from 1890 on, the designs shown will be in general the prettiest and least common ones only. They appear on many denominations, the 15c American being the biggest value seen.

Crosses come frequently on Departments, also on Postage Due stamps. A 3c Agriculture with cross gives a beautiful color combination of purple and gold. The magenta N. Y. cross with thin pointed ends is a great attraction on one of those Due Stamps, which as a rule are hurried by in any collection.

These designs are from the cancellation collection of Mr. Rogers, and if you may have sent in similar copies, you are not alone in this respect, as they have arrived from all parts of this country—far too numerous to attempt quoting denominations, and issues, and owners.

Some readers will file these groups consecutively, together with the text; others will cut the illustrations from the WEEKLY, and file as they see fit; some will cut them apart and "mount" the cancel as shown along with copies of their stamps bearing the cancel in question. Some will throw their whole paper away—take your choice. A page with a printed illustration of the Kicking Mule, some examples on stamps, and the brief write-up as taken from some philatelic magazine or paper makes an interesting page, with your data right where you can find it.

Please do not frown on our first showing, they are merely to start something, and really Nos. 1, 3, 5 and 8 are not plentiful. Oh, yes, you will see some pretty and unusual cancels before very long. My idea is to have you look this whole layout over critically, then make any helpful suggestions which you think might benefit their presentation for the Forum readers. Is anything omitted? The rarer cancellations will, of course, be handled individually, giving color of cancel, town that used it if possible, denominations, owner, and brief history if known.

Proofs of the first twenty groups are before me, on glancing thro them I can see a number of cancels where the town which used them is unknown. Others are of such unusual design that they must have a meaning not generally understood. You may be called on frequently for the data on some of these unusual cancels, your answers will be printed a couple of weeks from the time received, and can be added to the cancel at your leisure.

When the odd ones begin coming, you will probably find out what some of the cancels you have shown in part only, may actually be, for often we find an adhesive with what should be an interesting design, except for the fact that a large part is not there. Put it on the cancellation (they are "life size") and if it fits, your copy is it.

Some of the best cancellations ever seen come on dog eared stamps, maybe torn in half, maybe on a stamped envelope "cut round", the stamp may be most disreputable, yet if the cancel is unusual, the Forum would like to see it, for we are not after condition at all.

We want cancellations—let 'em come.

TYPEWRITERS AND SUPPLIES
For the past thirty-two years I have been a stamp collector actively and am known by the majority of MEKEEL'S readers for my work on permits, meters and slogan cancellations. For the past twenty-seven years my vocation has been repairing and selling typewriters and other office appliances. Recently I opened up a new store in this city in the center of the business district and will carry a very complete line of rebuilt typewriters and supplies. All stamp collectors as well as dealers should own a typewriter, and my facilities enables me to offer a much better grade of typewriter of any make at a much lower price than they can be bought anywhere else. Besides, I will be willing to make a special discount of from 10% to 25% to philatelists. I am not a stamp dealer, and do not at present intend to carry philatelic supplies of any kind. Will be glad to meet stamp collectors when they are in Binghamton but cannot spare the time for long visits. Ask for my special bargain list on typewriters and supplies, if you want to save money.

CHARLESTON CARRIER STAMPS

By JOHN N. LUFF.

About 1895 a number of our leading collectors decided that certain stamps, which had hitherto been classed as issues of the Charleston local posts, ought to be regarded as semi-government issues because they originated with men who were regularly employed by the Post Office Department as letter carriers. Eventually the publishers of the Scott catalogue accepted these views and gave the stamps place among United States issues in the 1898 edition of the catalogue.

These changes have sometimes been attributed to me but I must protest any such responsibility. I did not attain to the dignity of editorial work on the catalogue until some years later. In deference to the opinions of collectors of experience and standing, I accepted these semi-official carrier stamps and listed them in my work on United States stamps. But I must confess that, with later consideration of the stamps and profiting by the investigations of Mr. Henry C. Needham and other students, I am today inclined to the opinion that many of them were more correctly placed when they were listed among the local stamps, i.e., as private and not as government issues. It is true that the stamps were issued by men who were employed as United States letter carriers and that they were used on letters to and from the post office. But these stamps were ordered by the carriers, who paid for the printing, sold the stamps and retained the money received for them. The government had nothing to do with the stamps beyond permitting them to be used. In the same way many other local posts were "feeders" of the post office and their stamps have an equal claim to recognition as semi-official carriers.

In old albums that provided spaces for local stamps and in the cheap packets of these stamps which were freely sold for many years, we find a great number of counterfeits, usually including a set of the Charleston carrier stamps of the catalogue types C 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 18. They are printed on stout bluish paper, of the same shade for all, whereas the paper of the genuine stamps varies in shade and thickness. The Kingman stamp (type C16) is also printed on green paper but from a setting which differs slightly from that used for the counterfeits on the bluish paper. These counterfeits can be traced a long way back. Records in the collection of Mr. Needham show that they originated with George A. Hussey, founder of Hussey's Post and a dealer in stamps, especially those of the local posts. He was an enterprising individual who endeavored to meet the wants of collectors. He had a large stock, mostly of remainders and reprints. When voids could not be filled otherwise he did not hesitate to have counterfeits made. He also sold duplicates of his dies to dealers and publishers. One or two seem to have used these dies to print imitation stamps. Others employed them merely to illustrate their publications, to which, of course, there can be no objection, since the intention was merely to assist collectors to place any stamps which they might have. These illustrations are to be found in many old catalogues and publications and some of the cuts are in use today.

Collectors who are interested in the United States carrier stamps will probably be surprised to find that the 1926 edition of our catalogue does not list certain of the Charleston carrier stamps which have, for many years, been included among the semi-official issues. There were two reasons for these omissions: First, the conclusion that some of them are not to be found on the paper (white) that has been assigned to them; Second, a lack of evidence that the others exist or have ever existed as genuine postal issues.

Before deciding on these omissions I have tried to find copies of the doubted stamps but have had no success. I have examined old catalogues and files of old philatelic journals in the endeavor to trace the listing of the stamps and their first appearance in philatelic literature. And I have had the invaluable assistance of such students and collectors as Messrs. H. C. Needham, Elliott Perry and A. N. Caspary, to whom I tender my thanks for their aid.

This may be an appropriate place to mention that, when gathering material for my book on United States stamps, I made extensive search for information about the semi-official carriers. I corresponded with leading collectors and everyone who could probably help me. When stamps were type-set, I borrowed every copy I could locate and had it photographed. Apparently I never saw certain of them, as I have no photographs. This suggests that they are either of extreme rarity or non-existent. The following stamps will not appear in our 1926 catalogue:

Attributed to John H. Honour.
1818 C9 2c black on pink.
1822 C12 2c black on white.
1823 C12 2c black on bluish, pelure
1827 C14 2c black on white.
Attributed to E. J. Kingman.
1830 C16 2c black on white.
1831 C16 2c black on green.
Attributed to Joseph G. Martin.
1835 C18 2c black on white.
Attributed to John F. Steinmeyer.
1840 C20 2c black on bluish.

With numbers 1827, 1830 and 1835 we have merely to consider the question of paper, which is claimed to be white in each instance. I have not been able to see these stamps myself or to find any collector who has seen any of them on paper which was really white. The general opinion is that any paper that purports to be white is merely the ordinary bluish paper—so generally in use at the period of issue of these stamps—from which the color has been discharged by sour gum, gases, dampness, etc. There seems to be no justification for including any of these stamps on white paper in the catalogue.

The other doubted stamps cannot be so readily dismissed. When seeking information about them, I naturally turned to old publications to see what "the fathers" had to say. I found practically nothing about the origin and history of the stamps, but they were included in all the early catalogues and in the reference lists given in handbooks and articles. The leading early publications that I consulted were:

"The Private Posts of the United States of America," by C. H. Coster, French edition, 1882.

"A History of Postage Stamps," by J. W. Scott, American Journal of Philately, 1888-89.

Moens' Catalogue, 1892.

PAID IN ADVANCE 20 YEARS.

To Chas. R. Morse, Knoxville, Tenn., belongs the honor of a paid-up subscription for 20 years. The correspondence that has passed between Mr. Morse and the Managing Editor will prove of interest in more ways than one, but to this paper the profound fact is apparent that our friend believes in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. Mr. Morse is a member of the A. P. S. and S. P. A., by profession an attorney and for side-lines he fusses over stamps, college honor society work and books. He resides at 1303 Highland Ave. and if you want a live wire correspondent just communicate the right password.

Mr. Morse Writes Us

If you gentlemen will consider a mathematical proposition, I will add a bit to my subscription besides the remittance enclosed. My expiration number now is No. 2500—which means thirteen years and three issues into December ahead of time. I am enclosing a check for $7.02, which will extend it to No. 2865, which will be exactly twenty years from the first of January, 1926. Now, I note that you are adopting Life Subscriptions if taken to the age of seventy, or something of the sort. I am a bit too young to take out that sort of a subscription at the moment, but I am wondering if you will gamble with me on the expectancy proposition, and make a good reasonable compromise! I'm just a few months over 29 years of age. This subscription carries to 49—and the money, if invested as a special fund, or put in the savings bank, would yield 80c a year at 4%. If five dollars additional came in, it would yield the regular subscription rate, annually, even in the savings bank. Would that be a good enough proposition? I suggest it on that basis—$25 in advance to give a life subscription. The idea occurred through some of my fraternity affiliations' methods of figuring, though very few of them charge that much (or have so thoroughly entrancing a publication, to me, I'll admit!).

If you'll adopt that as a standard price, I'll endeavor some time to scrape up the amount and donate a similar subscription to our public library here in Knoxville. Meantime I've forgotten when their sub. expires, so wish you'd let me know, as I'm the donor and want it to go on even as I give them a catalogue each year.

Our Reply

It is very difficult for us to return your check. Indeed, it is always difficult for a newspaper man to part with money when once it has been received, and we are going to take the pains to write you this word relative to the matter brought up by your letter.

We think it inadvisable to accept life subscriptions on any other basis than laid down in our seventy-year age proposition, to which you referred in your letter and yet when a subscriber gets to be sixty years old we feel that he may well meet us on the life subscription plan.

It is, however, rather a debatable question as to how far we should go in mortgaging our service of the future. True, the A. P. S. can take in life members and easily assume the attendant obligations, but the piling up of several thousand life subscriptions at $25 each while very attractive to the stockholders of today might be viewed in an altogether different manner a dozen years hence.

Perhaps the most vital consideration after all is the one of meeting the obligations that might be incurred. Our Honor Club carries us five years into the future and this seems to be as far as we should go. No newspaper can be considered a permanent institution and this is especially true where good-will is the principal asset. A day may change the destinies of a people and twenty years may certainly change the destinies of a newspaper.

One thing impresses us, and that is the spirit of friendliness and appreciation which your letter carries with it. It is certainly a strong indication of the hold our paper has upon the affections and even pocket-books of our subscribers.

Mr. Morse in Rejoinder

I refuse to accept the return of my check, and return it again to you all! If you won't accept this as a Life Subscription payment (It would not have been the total amount, at that!), I insist that you take it anyway, and thereby make me a twenty-year subscriber, and this, on the basis as of my last letter, when I shoved the subscription forward a bit, will (if I fail to live that long, which Heaven forbid!) make the Lawson-McGhee Library of this city my beneficiary for the unexpired term of my subscription.

Likewise, I enclose another small check to shove the present Library subscription forward for a year and the rest of the second to make it come out even on January 1st, 1928. Reckon they'll not inherit my subscription for that long a time, anyway! And when it expires, if I haven't already shoved it forward again of my own volition, let me know with a bill and it will go ahead. I'm sending them the Scott Catalogue each year, and this, just to keep the kids of the town up to date.

Figuratively, consider yourselves the recipient of a shaken fist! I'll get even with you yet, whenever I get wealthy, and shove that subscription of mine clear ahead to the seventy-year mark—watch and see!

Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News

To be Published Monday, January 25, 1926

To All Members of the Stamp Trade:

It is the purpose of the WEEKLY to make our issue of January 25 a real business producer and to that end we shall send out a large number of sample copies to stamp collectors not on our list. We intend to secure addresses of active persons from our subscribers for that purpose.

All advertising copy must be in by Wednesday, Jan. 14, at the latest, but a letter indicating the amount of space to be used will help us with the make-up of our advertising "dummy".

A quarter page, 12 ins., for $25.00; a half page, 24 ins., for $45.00 and a full page, 48 ins., for $85.00 are bargains in advertising. No stamp paper in the World can compete with these offerings!

EDITORIAL.

WHILE an interesting review of the year now in the discard could be fashioned by the analyst or statistician, yet it seems a fruitless thing this year to hark back over the twelve-month, even though deductions of comforting kind would be the chief stock in trade of the historian. The year, 1926, monopolizes the thoughts of the forward-looking collectors and they in contemplation of the future have little time to dwell in the past. This year will be that of the great philatelic comet which will attract the eyes of philatelists all over the world and some of the stamp folks will travel many miles to witness it at first hand. The International Philatelic Exhibition at New York next October now begins "to be about to be" and from today there will be no idle moments for those who have the great enterprise directly in charge. The foundation for the world event has been laid and the place for the exhibition has been secured and is in keeping with the magnitude of the undertaking. It is now a theoretical project and it becomes incumbent on the managers to finance it to practical completion; and a scheme has been adopted through the working of which the hard cash will be gathered.

WE quote from a letter received from Theodore E. Steinway, chairman of the ways and means committee who appointed the following committee, "whose duty it shall be to solicit funds necessary to finance the Exhibition." T. Charlton Henry, Philadelphia; Chas. K. B. Nevin, Boston; A. H. Caspary, New York; Col. E. H. H. Green, New York; J. Phillip Benkard, New York; Sidney P. Hessell, New York; C. E. Severn, Chicago, and A. H. Wilhelm, San Francisco. It is requested that this committee begin work at once. Mr. Steinway says: "According to the budget as it is at present, we will need between forty and fifty thousand dollars and it is suggested that we obtain donations and pledges to cover this amount. It is manifestly impossible for this committee, constituted as it is, to hold meetings, and I am wondering if perhaps the out-of-town gentlemen would not form sub-committees, which is entirely within their power and raise funds in their own locality so as to bring about the universality of interest and support." The stage is about set for the prosecution of the task of raising the money and it is anticipated that by a systematic canvass, the amount required will be forthcoming. In making an appeal for funds, the solicitor stands on firm ground and unless we greatly misunderstand the disposition of philatelists generally, they will put the Exhibition over the top in a financial way as an affirmation of their faith in the Exhibition itself and what it stands for.

FEW drives have been attempted in philately's name and it would be unthinkable that the one about to be under way would not meet with a ready response. The loyal collector probably would resent the operation of any plan to ensure the success of the Exhibition by which he would not be called upon to do his bit and it will be a matter of pride with him to be represented in the momentous movement. Each philatelic benefactor will be the arbiter as to how much he will give but each will offer something. It has sometimes been complained that collectors do not always work with unified effort to accomplish measures for the improvement of their pursuit and we are hopeful that one of the fair results of the Exhibition will be to solidify philatelic sentiment and that its influence, in consequence, will have best expression, under the new order of things. The thinking philatelist not only considers the Exhibition, in itself, but he ponders over the effect that it will have; and it is a reasonable prediction that the Exhibition will strike away the remaining shackles that trammel the freest expression of our pursuit. It will show the world that stamp collecting has arrived and that its long period of probation in public estimation is over.

A LONG letter has been received from Mr. Marchmont L. Dix of New York, who writes to protest against the tendency to belittle recent issues from South America on the score of "needlessness." He makes the statement that he is in touch with these issues and knows that by comparison with some of the issues from other parts of the world, they are worthy of the best collecting consideration. Mr. Dix does not say that he objects to any particular remarks that may have been made but he seems to resent the general tone. We are not aware that the issues that we have commented upon were treated harshly but only such news as was received from sources that were named was given. It is our opinion that collectors have the intelligence to arrive at their own conclusions, but that they are entitled to such information as is to be had. It is not good policy to take a stand antagonistic to any new issues, unless the facts of their origin are so flagrant that it becomes a duty to condemn them.

IN its junior department, Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal speaks of the interest shown in inverted watermarks by correspondents who send in "something like a hundred letters a year asking why they are not listed." In a milder degree, our readers express themselves on the subject of such stamps and we take the following observations from our contemporary: "Sideways watermarks are usually much rarer than inverteds. It is much less likely that a sheet of paper will be put through the machine sideways than wrong end first, as in the former case, the dimensions are usually different and the mistake would be more readily observed. In sorting common stamps it is well worth while to look out for these watermark errors. They may not be catalogued, but the specialists want them and if they can be bought at the price of the normal variety one can hardly lose on them." When a collector finds something striking or out of the ordinary, it is advisable that he put it to one side as there is a possibility that in the course of time, some sort of development may make the specimen of value. One thing to be considered in connection with fancy or unplaced varieties is that the whirligig of time may give them an interest, as no one knows what a future trend will effect in this regard.

WE are pleased to see that the private proprietary stamps of the U. S. of the Civil War period have gained a partizan, in the following letter that has come from a gentleman who is not unknown, by any means, in the larger field of literature and from whom we hear occasionally, much to our edification: "Having had occasion to examine the files of one of the daily newspapers covering the 'reconstruction period' I was much taken with the patent medicine advertisements that entered so largely into the advertising columns. In these days, such publicity is almost negligible in comparison with the volume that it once attained. If one wants an uncolored slant on human nature of that time, let him study these ads, which were aimed at the great mass of the American reading public. I have turned to my little lot of the proprietary revenue stamps with the determination of adding to them and I have no doubt that there will be a revival of interest in them by those who are appealed to by American traditions, as it were. The designs, legends and engraving of these stamps tell their story in a manner that must strike a responsive note in the breast of the collector who gives heed to the whispers of the past and its people."

AEROPHILOSEMY

That the above named branch of Philately is rapidly gaining in interest as well as numbers was asserted by Dr. Thatcher R. Kimball at the December meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society.

Dr. Kimball in a most interesting address told of the beginning of the air mail and of the many interesting flights that had been made; each cover as shown bringing out some different story from the last.

Some covers were without stamps, having only the postmarks to tell the story. He showed a cover that fell into the Atlantic when Harry Hawker made his attempt to fly across in 1919. A cover which made the trip later with Captain Alcock and Lieut. Brown was there, as well as one that travelled by airplane from England to Australia. Sir Ross Smith and his brother, Sir Kieth, were knighted for this feat.

Covers that have flown with the Shenandoah, others that were carried by the Los Angeles to Bermuda and Porto Rico, and that crossed the ocean from Germany aboard her when she was the ZR-3, as well as one which crossed the Atlantic on the British dirigible, the R-34. An unused copy of the 24 cent aeroplane stamp of this country with the aeroplane upside down was shown, as well as many of the first flight of the many United States routes.

The Aero-Philatelic Society of America has about 200 members and is in constant communication with similar organizations in London, Paris, Switzerland and other places.—GIDEON G. RYDER.

A NATIONAL CAPITAL LEADER

Albert E. Gorham of Washington, D. C., is an attorney by profession. He is an ardent philatelist and is the secretary of the Washington Philatelic Society, a position which he has held for a number of years. He is also active in the Society of Philatelic Americans. He has attained high honors in Masonic circles and quite recently was elected and installed Most Illustrious and Grand Master of the Grand Council of Maryland Royal and Select Masters. Besides his Masonic honors he is Past Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias and past presiding officer of various other societies, including the Patriotic Order of Americans, Woodmen of the World, etc. Mr. Gorham is known to our readers as a frequent contributor to our columns. He keeps closely in touch with all matters philatelic, having a genuine interest in all that pertains to stamps and stamp collecting.

POT POURRI:—

The Philatelic Plate Number Association is taking space in Adlets to advertise the organization of this new Association. If at any time you want to know the address, consult the Adlet department.

The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. announces the removal of its offices to new and enlarged quarters in the Brentano Building, 1 West 47 St., N. Y. City, on January 18, 1926.

Bronson B. Tufts sends us a useful clipping from the London Times and also advises us that a nice stamp article appeared in the New Republic of recent date. It is entitled "What American Postage Stamps Reveal" and is written by M. M. Ellis.

The "Stamp Herald", published at Kitchener, Ont., Can., expresses its hearty appreciation of our reports of the Third Canadian Philatelic Exhibition. Special mention is made of the report sent in by Charles J. Phillips, of whom Mr. Johnson writes that he is perhaps "the greatest authority on B. N. A. stamps in America."

No. 7 of the "Stamp Hinge", published by the Fellowship Stamp Agency, 433 Rowell Bldg., Fresno, Calif., is interesting not only from the standpoint of the contents of the sheet, but because of the fact that it is mailed in a Clovis, Calif., postmarked envelope, and the postage is paid by a handsome Clovis precancel on the Harding 1½c.

We have received from A. E. Hussey, M. D., Sales Manager of the S. P. A., No. 2, of the "Chatterbox," which is issued by the Sales Department. It is a pretentious little publication with matter of common interest to the members of the Society. Major Guy W. A. Camp contributes an article "Have You Done Your Part?" There is quite a little advertising, which evidently covers the cost of publication, and the Society is to be congratulated upon having such a good means of communication between the Sales Department and the members.

SINKLER COLLECTION ACQUIRED

I desire to call the special attention of those interested in the postage stamps of the United States to my page advertisement appearing in this issue announcing the acquisition of the wonderful Wharton Sinkler collection of United States General Issues, Departments, Newspapers, Dues and Special Deliveries.

The collection is practically complete from 1847 to date and includes mint singles, blocks and covers of those varieties that can only be obtained when a property such as this comes upon the market.

Each item is individually priced and will be individually sold. The collector who is looking for the odds and ends to fill in his series and issues and the advanced specialist who wants a block here and there are likely to find it in this wonderful collection.

Serious buyers are invited to view the collection in Philadelphia, but those who find it impossible to do so will have their want lists given prompt attention.

17c Woodrow Wilson

As these notes are being written, four of the eight Wilson plates for the new 17c stamp have been completed, stamps have been printed and are ready to be placed on sale on Monday, December 28th, the anniversary of the birth of the late President.

These stamps will be available on the first day as mentioned in this column at Washington, D. C., New York, N. Y., Princeton, N. J., and Staunton, Va. There has been information spread around that the stamps would also be available at Columbia, S. C., but this is not the case. The list as originally furnished in this column was official and correct.

The Department had considered the advisability of placing them on sale at Columbia as a former home of the late President, but they finally decided that the four cities enumerated were the logical places for the stamps to appear.

1922, 1c Rotary Perf. 11

I have received numerous letters not only from collectors but from dealers as well relative to the 1922—1c rotary, perf. 11, which is listed but not priced by Scott as No. 594. There is hardly a want list coming in that does not ask for this stamp and other dealers have found requests for the variety numerous.

Several months back, in this column, we described the appearance of the variety, which was found at that time in used condition. Investigation in Washington proved that upward of a year earlier, imperforated coil waste of the current 1c stamp had been perforated 11 both ways and placed in the regular stock. The stamp had come and gone and been used up before we even learned of its appearance. The Agency received no supply and we do not even know as to what city used them, but supposedly New York or Chicago, where a good portion of the coil waste salvage has gone heretofore.

The variety is not known unused and a scout around among those who have as a rule put away current issues and blocks has failed to reveal the existence of a single mint copy.

The 2c stamp of the same issue is by no means common for the supply was not great and outside of the few distributed by the Agency, I doubt whether any of the others reached the hands of the collectors.

2c Black Harding

Mr. W. J. E. Wyllie submits for inspection the southwest pane of the 2c Harding perf. 11 from plate 14886, wherein the forty-sixth stamp shows a distinct vertical line passing through the back of the white collar. This is no doubt a heavy scratch on the plate and would probably be found on all other impressions from the same pane.

New Provisional Error Envelope

The Scott Stamp & Coin Company have shown me copies of the 2c green on amber, size 5, issue of 1887, with the single line overprint 1½c issued by the New York post office. About twenty-seven copies were found in with the regular stock.

The 1½c on 2c buff round circular type has also been located and about the same number were found. These along with the 1½c on 1½c and the 1½c on 2c on white are the only other error varieties that have come to my attention as yet.

not extend back of this date. It should be noted that in these publications all the Charleston carrier stamps were regarded as issues of local posts and none of them were listed as government or semi-official issues.

I find the Honour stamp type C9 listed and illustrated in all the above mentioned works. As no copy is known to collectors today, the inference is that it was confused by the early writers with the similar stamp of type C8. The latter is known on original cover but was not recorded anywhere until I listed it in my U. S. articles in the American Journal of Philately for March, 1899.

The Honour type C12 is also listed and illustrated in all the four publications to which I have referred. The illustrations are usually from the Hussey counterfeit. This stamp was probably confused with the genuine stamp of type C11. The latter is authenticated by copies on original covers. It is not mentioned by Coster, is described in the Scott article and in Moens' catalogue, and first illustrated in the Scott catalogue for 1894.

The Kingman stamp 2c black on green is mentioned by Coster and listed but not illustrated in the other three works. It is not known as an original, on cover or off. All copies that I have seen or heard of were the Hussey counterfeit. Some years ago I was offered a copy on a small "valentine" envelope. It was not cancelled, even with a pencil mark. As it agreed exactly with half a dozen of the Hussey counterfeits that I had, I could not accept this cover as proof that the stamp attached to it was genuine.

The Steinmeyer stamp of type C20 was not known to Coster. It was first recorded in the J. W. Scott article in the A. J. P. for February, 1889, and subsequently in the other publications. The only thing that I have been able to locate, that in any way resembles the illustration, is a poor counterfeit of it which was shown me by Mr. Needham. The design of C20 suggests an attempt to reproduce the design of the Charleston stamps with the borders of pearls. Probably someone decided that, since four of the Charleston carriers had stamps of this design, Steinmeyer must have used it also. Not finding such a stamp to copy (because none existed), he made an unsuccessful effort to imitate it.

I believe I have presented sufficient arguments against the doubted stamps to justify me, as editor of the Scott catalogue, in dropping them from that work.

It is probably superfluous to state that there is no question of the genuineness of such of the Charleston carrier stamps as have not been mentioned in this article. They are all known on original covers and well authenticated.—Scott's Monthly Journal.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

Our old friend, R. S. Nelson of Alabama, offers a nice batch of interesting things, as well as some additions to the list of railroad postmarks.

First a stamped envelope with an 1887 2c green, beside which reposes a 4c Trans-Mississippi. Both stamps are canceled with the circular postmark MIL. P. STA. No. 1, TIENTSIN: CHINA, dated Nov. 7, 1900. And I imagine that if the truth were known more copies exist of Type I 1c 1851 than covers like this. Rare I call it, not scarce.

A registered stamped envelope from Boston, Mass., has a 2c adhesive vermilion embossed stamp, a 2c adhesive vermilion of 1879, and a pair of 3c vermilion, used in 1899, which is long enough ago to believe that it wasn't made up just for a stamp collector. And the oval Boston, Mass., mark on the stamps looks pretty good.

A 2c brown stamped envelope of the 1884 series canceled with EVANS & NASH AGT and the stamp obliterated by a large S, 16mm high.

Two stamped envelopes 2c 1884 brown. One stamp is canceled by three pen strokes and dated in mss., Oct. 25, and the other not canceled nor dated. The first is addressed to Woods Bluff and the second to Davis Bluff. On each is hand stamped in a dull purple ink the mark of a packet boat. These things are hard to describe in words. Outside, a large notched oval. The long diameter is 56mm, and the short one 29mm. Inside is an inscription in six lines, with a picture of a steamboat between the second and third lines. The first line follows the curve of the oval and reads REGULAR WEEKLY. In the center just below this is the word PACKET, then the picture of the steamer below which is

NEW STEAMER,
LOTUS NO. 2
RATE LOW AS ANY OTHER BOAT.

Not being a printer the technical names of the type are unknown to this deponent. Perhaps you can visualize the thing.

Here's another. A 3c stamped envelope 1874. Too intricate for me to study out the die and catalogue number. Addressed to Vienna, Ala., with the word "Boat" written in the lower left corner. All the writing in purple ink and undoubtedly all written at the same time by the same person. Marked with a large rectangular packet handstamp in dull purple, partly covering the stamp, which has no other cancellation. The rectangle is 55mm by 37mm made up of small semi-circles with the curve outward. The inscription reads,

REGULAR SATURDAY INDEPENDENT PACKET
STEAMER D L TULLY,

Below this is what looks like a picture of a short train of cars between two steamboats and below this the inscription goes on to say

FRANK STONE MASTER
Leaves Mobile every Saturday for Demopolis, Gainesville Warsaw, Vienna & Pickensville.

A stamped envelope of the 1864 series is addressed to Grove Hill, Ala. On the left end is printed the return request. Below this is written a name, but as the handwriting differs from that of the address, it was probably written by the receiver and is the name of the person who wrote the enclosure.

In the upper left corner is the stamp of a Packet Boat in dull purple, so clearly impressed that it looks as if it had been printed and not handstamped. This also is rectangular, the frame being formed by straight double lines. This frame is 36mm by 23mm. At the top in the center is the picture of a steamboat. On the left of this picture the word "TUESDAY" and on its right the word "PACKET".

The remainder of the inscription reads:

For Bladon and Demopolis!
Steamer Clara.
Woodie Stone, Master,
S. M. Chidsey, Clerk.

Besides these there are two stamped envelopes of the 1874 issue, one addressed to Woods Bluff, and the other to Pickens Ldg. The first has in the lower left corner "Ruth," and the second in the same position "Lotus #2," both words written by the same hand that addressed the letters, which eminated from the firm of Wm. H. Ross & Co., of Mobile, Ala., as is evidenced by their return request printed in the upper left corner. These are both canceled by the DEMOP & MOBILE AGT postmark and the stamps are canceled by a cut cork obliterator. Evidently Packet Mail and the Agt in these instances undoubtedly means Steamboat Agent, or whatever official title he may have borne.

The towns named in the above Packet stamps are on The Alabama River and these covers show that these Packets were still carrying mail on that river in the '70's, and they are no doubt just as scarce as the covers carried by the Mississippi Packets in the earlier decades. At any rate I do not remember ever having read anything about them in any of the philatelic journals and these are the first ones it has been my privilege to see. Our thanks are due friend Nelson for the opportunity.

Major C. H. Bonestell in sending a package of R. R. cancellations includes some that deserve more notice than simply listing them in the Railroad list. One has the postmark of the So. PUEB. ——S. AGT. The rest of it cannot be read. It also has on the face DENVER & RIO GRANDE RAILWAY. On the back is the postmark of the town at which it was received, viz.: FORT ANN WASHINGTON Co. N. Y. JOHN HALL P. M. in circular form between two circles, the outer one being double lined. The outer one is 33mm in diameter and the smaller one inside the inscription is 22mm across. In the center in four lines is the date "Oct—16—1881—10 AM". An unusual and interesting form of this type of postmark.

Also a cover carried by a 3c re-engraved stamp with the railroad cancellation in blue. This reads CHI. MIL & ST PAUL RY. DUNNING, ILL in a circle 32mm in diameter. At the top under the letters MIL & ST PAUL are the letters

C. B. DIV. and below them a horizontal line curved at each end to join an inner circular line running around the remainder of the postmark below. Inside this is the date JUN. 21 1883.

And a 3c re-engraved struck twice by a red postmark in which are the R. R. and the word HIGHLANDS. Too bad it's not on the cover.

Who ever saw a Railroad postmark in green? Not the kind that you're doubtful about, but the kind that everyone would look at and say "green" without hesitation. Well, Mr. S. W. Ritchie is the lucky man this time. It's one of those large envelopes that were used to send legal documents to court houses and on it is a strip of three 3c stamps, each one hit by the L. E. & L. R. R. postmark and for good measure an extra postmark just as verdant as the ones on the stamps. Probably unique hits the mark exactly in the center.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

Plate block six imperf. (No. 1894a)
1891 Dues—Complete in imperf. blocks four

The breaking up of a collection of this size offers an unusual opportunity. The serious collector may obtain pieces that he has been looking for for years, priced at fair figures based on rarity and quality.

I strongly recommend the purchase of the general issues of the United States, for at today's prices they are the best field for investment that philately offers. The demand seems unlimited—a supply is only available when a collection such as this comes upon the market.

For personal, telegraph and phone calls—address my office at 112 South 16th Street, Philadelphia (Phone, Rittenhouse 9734) but continue to address mail as heretofore to—

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

James F. Morton, Jr., N. Y. City.
George Staplin, Jr., Mannsville, N. Y.
Albert E. Gorham, Washington, D. C.
J. M. Westphal, Joliet, Ill.
H. H. Bremer, Chicago, Ill.
H. N. Bugbee, Fitchburg, Mass.
Charles S. Brenneman, Lancaster, Pa.
R. K. Thomson, Atlanta, Ga.

It is very evident that certain of our subscribers are making Christmas presents to themselves with memberships in our Five Year Honor Club. Indeed, we have many subscribers upon our list who would have been glad to have Santa Claus remember them in this fashion.

First upon the list this week is James F. Morton, Jr., of New York City. The Managing Editor has known Mr. Morton during the past thirty-five years and both were interested together in amateur journalism and later in cold-water agitation until Mr. Morton shook the dust of Boston from his feet and landed in the great metropolis. He is now curator of the Free Public Library, of Paterson, N. J.

We also enter George Staplin, Jr., of Mannsville, N. Y., as a member of the Honor Club. A remittance from George M. Staplin covering the same is acknowledged with thanks.

We are pleased to acknowledge the receipt of check for $5 from Albert E. Gorham, of Washington, D. C., for membership in our Honor Club. Mr. Gorham was former secretary of the S. P. A., and is now secretary of the Washington, D. C., Philatelic Society. In his letter he calls attention to the second annual stamp exhibit of the society in the Washington Public Library to be held Feb. 1 to 13 inclusive. He predicts that this will be a wonderful event and will give a great impetus to local philately.

Our fourth application for membership in the Club comes from Julius M. Westphal, mortgage investor, Joliet, Ill. Mr. Westphal considers it a nice Christmas present for himself to make sure of the WEEKLY for the next five years.

H. H. Bremer, 4743 N. Hermitage Av., Chicago, Ill., also takes his place as a member of our Honor Club with a remittance of $5 for five years renewal.

Our oldtime subscriber Herbert N. Bugbee, 82 Charles St., Fitchburg, Mass., writes us:—"I have been a subscriber for many years and the pleasure of each week is much enhanced by the perusal of the NEWS. In other words, it 'brightens the corner where you are'." Mr. Bugbee enclosed check for $5 for membership in the Five Year Honor Club.

Charles S. Brenneman, Box 97, Lancaster, Pa., using our regular renewal blank makes his application for membership in the Honor Club with a remittance of $5. We accept the same with thanks.

Our list of applications for membership in the Honor Club is further increased this week by the receipt of $5 from R. K. Thomson, 615 Chamber of Commerce, Atlanta, Ga. Thus the membership of the Club continues to grow.

YONKERS EXCHANGE, YONKERS, N. Y.

SALMAGUNDI:—

An important announcement is found elsewhere in this issue. The great Sinkler collection has been acquired by Philip H. Ward, Jr., and is now offered for sale. It will come as a distinct surprise to the trade and this aggregation of superb United States stamps will doubtless attract the attention of the entire philatelic world.

Price-lists are at hand from two stamp firms. The Metropolitan Stamp Co., 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City, submits two, one a price-list of the postage stamps of Ecuador and the other listing special sets of stamps from all countries. Albert H. Goetz, 7 W. 42 St., N. Y. City, issues a price-list of single stamps, sets and packets. No doubt these firms will be pleased to send copies of the lists upon request.

The Midwest Stamp Co., 720 Delaware St., Kansas City, Mo., has issued a neat 8 pp price-list which can be had for the asking. It is full of interesting items.

The Managing Editor is profoundly grateful to the many friends who have remembered him with Christmas and New Years Greetings. Doubtless his two co-editors will voice the same gratitude.

Our special number for Jan. 25 is already shaping up well. Advertising space is being allocated and many extra copies of the issue will be mailed.

Remember in your correspondence with the WEEKLY a few facts. All money to Beverly. For missing papers and changes of address write Portland. Our department editors should be addressed direct but take care and follow instructions.

May 1926 be good to you and yours!

Recruiting Special January 25, 1926

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS

The Philatelic vacation is a short affair now, and we are soon back again in the midst of the rush of sales and other activities. Some exceptionally fine lots are coming under the hammer this autumn, but as regards the scarcer modern Colonials, these will in no degree satisfy the demand, especially in rare Georgians, which are everywhere being sought after.

A glance at certain Continental auction catalogues is quite instructive, as we see here not only the catalogue value, but also, in every case, the reserve price, below which no bids are accepted. These latter are interesting, and, if reliable, show prices to be higher than here, not only for Europeans, which might be expected, but also for modern Colonials. A few examples of these minimum reserves may be worth recording, being higher in some cases than the stamps can be bought for in the Strand and elsewhere. A few examples:—

Virgin Islands, 5sh K. Edward	19sh
Natal, 1909, 5sh K. Edward	17sh
B. Honduras, 50c, 1905, K. Edward	6s6d
Samoa, 6d/50ph, 1914 (used)	7sh
Curacao, 1923, 5 gulden	£7 10sh

The latter price is remarkable. This Jubilee set is comparable to the St. Kitts Tercentenary set of the same year, and had a somewhat similar history, although it was never boycotted to the same extent. The 5 gulden should be worth not more than the 5sh St. Kitts 1923, as of the former 4000 were sold as against only 3068 of the latter, so that the figure given is remarkable. Even if Dutch Colonies have a wider vogue on the Continent, British West Indies are more sought after in America, and, of course, this country. In a recent article in the Philatelic Magazine these Dutch Jubilee high values were tipped as a good buy, but it was meant at reasonable prices up to 4 or 5 times face; within the last year the above mentioned 5 gulden was obtainable in London at 10sh, and more recently at 30sh to 40sh.

It is a curious fact that a few years ago (1919-20) when prices for Edwardian Colonials were very high, prices on the continent were much lower (owing to the exchange rates falling suddenly), and large numbers came to England; the position now appears reversed and the highest prices are being fetched abroad. This shows that catalogue prices are not always reliable, and in a yearly list tend to lag behind with either a rise or a fall. As an example, taking one of the rarer Edwards, the 5sh Cayman Is. salmon and green when only catalogued 50sh (a few years ago) it was fetching 45sh to 50sh in auction. Now, when catalogued 70sh, it is fetching about 40sh.

Cyprus.—It is to be hoped that collectors at all keen on the financial side took the tip about Cyprus stamps. Startling increases have occurred in the Georgian emissions.

In the 1921 Script set, all values from 9pi to £1 are especially desirable; the later stamp is likely to become almost unobtainable. The lower values are also increasing proportionately, and money invested in this set may well show a thousand per cent. profit.

Nor should the 1912 issue be neglected. At the present prices the 6 and 18 piastres will turn out profitable. The Edwards have also been in demand, and the two rarities missing from most collections are the 9 and 45 piastres, of which only about 2600 were printed. A rise is overdue in these stamps.

Southern Nigeria.—The Georgian set of Southern Nigeria has not improved as much as was expected. The best values, proportionate to face, are the 2½d, 4d and 5sh, which are getting scarce. The 3d is rather over-catalogued, and is much commoner than the 2½d, especially used. The Georgian £1 value does not seem to be following the Edwardians in price tendency. It is curious that all three Edward £1's are priced the same in the catalogue, although not all of equal rarity. The first or single CA stamp is actually easily the scarcest, as less than 1000 were issued, which is less than most Edward or Georgian high values, and it is a wonder that it is not priced at £10. It is the only S. Nigeria stamp that has fetched a "fiver" at auction. The last 5sh Edward in the universal colours seems to be the best of this denomination in the Colony, and is gradually rising in value, and, despite the attractions of neighbouring colonies, such as Gambia, will eventually come into its own. The whole group of West African colonies, if we take the emissions since 1900, is a very fascinating one to take up for specialization, as used copies are usually much easier to obtain than of that equally fascinating group, the British West Indies.

Mauritius.—It is curious how the introduction of the King's head type in this colony helped to popularise it, when a few years ago interest was waning; and its 20th century emissions have been in favour ever since. It is doubtful, however, if the boom over the Edward issues ever assumed the proportions attained by the Georgians, some of the old watermarked varieties of which are increasing astonishingly. The 50c often referred to in these notes, when obtainable for 2s6d is now selling at a pound or over, whilst certain other varieties may show nearly as sensational rises when properly listed and priced. As a tip, buy the 25c orange-buff and pale yellow Die I; you will soon find how scarce they are, whilst the 5 rupee in all three varieties (not catalogued yet), are bound to be very good indeed. The 10 rupee on experimental paper is probably the greatest rarity of the 20th century issues, and is worth full catalogue price—if you can get it! The motto for the modern Colonial enthusiast is buy now, or tomorrow may be too late; prices that appear high today may seem very low in six months' time.—Philatelic Magazine.

THE PHILATELIC INSTRUCTOR

By FRANCIS M. BOTELHO, Ph.D., Wayne, Pa.

CHAPTER VIII.

Adding to One's Album.

Some of your relatives and friends probably have old envelopes or receive mail from abroad. If they themselves are not philatelists, they will doubtless pass the stamps on to you on learning of your interest in the hobby. However, you cannot depend entirely on your relatives and friends to feed your hungry album.

In an earlier chapter you were shown ten ways for increasing your collection. Ways Nos. 6, 7 and 8 may be put into practice without any other cost than that of time, and as your hobby is primarily intended to utilize leisure time for pleasant recreation, research and acquisition of specimens, you need not feel niggardly.

But ways Nos. 6, 7 and 8 have their limitations. Although they may lead you to lay your hands on desirable "finds," they cannot help you to obtain all the specimens for which you have set your heart.

As you acquire more specimens for your album, you will be also acquiring duplicates. These should never be discarded. Every bit helps. Good duplicates may be turned into profitable use by being utilized in exchanging with other collectors. And "exchanging with other collectors" is way No. 4, while "trading with philatelists in other countries" is way No. 10.

If, in your town, there is a stamp collectors club, you should join it. There you will meet other enthusiasts, from whom you may learn much about the hobby, and with whom you can secure additions to your album by giving some of your duplicates in exchange. The basis of exchange is usually the pricings of a standard catalog, but sometimes the arrangement is by mutual prior agreement for the occasion.

A convenient way to show your duplicates is to either mount them on loose sheets, in exactly the same manner as you mount your specimens in the album. Or, you may use specially-made cards or books for the purpose. These are so arranged that the duplicates are neither pasted nor mounted, but held down in their spaces by strips of transparent or opaque paper affixed lengthwise. The smaller sizes are known as "pocket-books" and the larger ones as "stock-books," ranging in capacity from about 300 stamps to 35,000.

Should there be no local philatelic club where you live, you are not debarred from membership in a club located in some neighboring town. Or, if you feel yourself equal to it, you may organize a local club. Many now active and successful local clubs have been brought into being by novices originally; every novice is a potential expert.

In addition to local clubs or societies, there are national philatelic organizations. Membership is usually open to respectable candidates residing anywhere; the fees are not burdensome, while the privileges are worthwhile. Names and addresses of prominent clubs or associations may be readily found among the advertisements of any publication devoted to chronicling philatelic news.

Trading stamps with philatelists in other countries is always interesting and instructive, although not always profitable. In every flock there are black sheep. Likewise, among philatelists here and elsewhere there are those who do not seem especially familiar with the golden rule. However, on the whole, philatelists abroad are, as a group, quite honest and willing to do the right thing at all times. Most of the difficulties may be traceable to the language obstacle and the time element. If you wish to practise your French, or Portuguese, or German, Italian, Spanish, Russian, Scandinavian, etc., corresponding with collectors in their own tongues is one of the best practical aids.

CHAPTER IX.

On Buying Specimens.

We have dealt with five of the ten ways enumerated for adding specimens to one's album. There remain the other five, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 5 and 9, all of which use the transitive verb "to buy."

There is a difference between buying by a collector and buying by a stamp dealer. The former buys specimens for his or her collection, the latter buys stamps for re-sale.

You should, therefore, right here understand properly one fundamental thing relative to your hobby. It is this: When you see a stamp advertisement, figure out as best you can if the message is intended for you, a collector, or if it is for a stamp dealer. If the "copy" emphasizes re-sale profit possibilities, or offers lots of several specimens of the same stamp, or describes "dealers' parcels," then the message should be unheeded by you unless you contemplate at some future date to undertake dealing in stamps.

The importance of this suggestion should be obvious. If you buy "dealers' bargains" you are likely to load yourself, a collector, with duplicates and stock that you are unequipped to dispose of conveniently.

For the beginner, buying from stamp auctions is not recommendable.

He should also avoid buying single stamps from the standard catalogues, because, at this stage in his philatelic career, there are available for him many other means and opportunities for securing specimens at considerably less than catalogue prices. But he can safely buy the catalogue publishers' packets, provided judgment is exercised.

TYPEWRITERS AND SUPPLIES

For the past thirty-two years I have been a stamp collector actively and am known by the majority of MEKEEL'S readers for my work on permits, meters and slogan cancellations. For the past twenty-seven years my vocation has been repairing and selling typewriters and other office appliances. Recently I opened up a new store in this city in the center of the business district and will carry a very complete line of rebuilt typewriters and supplies. All stamp collectors as well as dealers should own a typewriter, and my facilities enable me to offer a much better grade of typewriter of any make at a much lower price than they can be bought anywhere else. Besides, I will be willing to make a special discount of from 10% to 25% to philatelists. I am not a stamp dealer, and do not at present intend to carry philatelic supplies of any kind. Will be glad to meet stamp collectors when they are in Binghamton but cannot spare the time for long visits. Ask for my special bargain list on typewriters and supplies, if you want to save money.

H F. COLMAN, 509 7th Street N. W., Washington, D. C.

Generally talking, the beginner finds his best buys among the packets offered by reputable dealers. If he started collecting without stamps, he should buy the largest "all-different" variety packet his cash appropriation permits. After spreading the contents of that packet among the pages of his album, he should select another packet guaranteed as to contents, so that he may know what he would be receiving, and thus not run the risk of being "stuck" with stamps that are duplicates of his first purchase.

The larger a packet, the more disproportionate is its price compared with the "first unit." For instance, an ordinary 1000-variety packet may cost you only $1.25, but a 2000-variety packet may be priced at $4 instead of $2.50, and a 3000-variety packet is likely to be offered at $20 instead of $8. This seeming enigma is easily accounted for. In making up a 1000-packet, the dealer can include the cheapest values from a large number of countries. Whereas, when the packet is larger, he must include some of the higher values. And, of course, different dealers' packets contain different assortments, both in face values and condition of specimens, so that dissimilarity in prices for same-sized packets is not mysterious.

Selling "stamps on approval sheets or books" is the backbone of the philatelic business, it is said. The method employed is thus: a dealer sends you a batch of stamps mounted on loose or bound sheets. Underneath each stamp is noted the catalogue number and the dealer's selling price. When the latter is "net," then the offering is known as "net approvals." When, instead, the catalogue price, or some other list (true or fictitious) figure, is given, the dealer offers a discount ranging from 40% to 80% off. These offerings are known as "40% approvals," "50% approvals," etc.

You are required to return the stamps you have not taken from such sheets and to remit for those you took. It is evident that the dealer's labor is greater than in the case of "packets," and consequently when you buy from "approvals" you must expect to obtain fewer specimens for your money. In spite of this disadvantage, buying from approvals, when judiciously done, will enable you to get items otherwise difficult to locate without resorting to buying at full price from catalogue.

Sometimes a fellow-collector may have duplicates of stamps you lack, and you may not have duplicates of those he lacks. In such a case, when a trading basis cannot be agreed upon, you may choose to buy his duplicates usable by you. This is way No. 5, "buying from other collectors."

STRAGGLING ITEMS

We are advised by the H. W. Doscher & Co. firm that it is now well located at their new address, Room 209, Pacific Bldg., 4th and Market Sts., San Francisco, Calif. The firm's advertising re-appears in this issue.

Some of our subscribers have been kind enough to ask that the WEEKLY be sent to Launcelot Reeves during 1926 prepaid by them. We thank all for their interest, but beg to say that the coming year has been provided for.

From time to time complaints are recorded with us concerning the removal of stamps from mail in transit. In fact, our own office mail suffers much in this direction. The latest complaint comes from the Fellowship Stamp Agency of Fresno, Calif., and we quote Mr. Lampson:—"Recently we mailed a large quantity of catalogs prepaid with stamps of unusual value, only to have several of the packages arrive with the stamps removed. This was all the more annoying to us because we had advertised that such stamps would be used." Mr. Lampson also notes similar depredation with Norse-American stamped mail and in his indignation he asks that something drastic be done by the P. O. Department.

The fine precancel 3c Victory collection of Wm. H. Field, Charleston, W. Va., was recently stolen from the office of the Rotnem Stamp Co. It was sent on consignment and the firm has liquidated the full value, $500.

Alfred Spicer, in renewing his subscription, submits a 15c Morocco Agencies printed on the new watermarked paper. Three values have thus far appeared, the 15c, 50c and 1fr.

Through Francis Greeley, Sec. of Branch No. 1 of the Society of Philatelic Americans, we learn that 74 Christmas Cheer Packets were distributed to worthy shut-ins. The WEEKLY is thanked for its assistance.

GREENLAND PARCEL POST STAMPS

Valdemar Weiergang of Washington, D. C., writes us as follows regarding the Greenland parcel post stamps:—"Parcels can be sent from either the post-office or the Royal Greenland Commerce Co. in Copenhagen. When sent from a post-office the ordinary domestic postal rate is charged and the parcel sent to the company's office for forwarding to its destination. Parcels sent direct from the company's office have a special label attached and are franked with the Greenland parcel post stamps issued by that company. As this way is much cheaper than through the post-office it is used to a large extent. The stamps were first issued in 1905, 1 ore olive green, 5 ore brown, 10 ore blue and in 1914 2 ore orange, 15 ore lilac and 20 ore red were added to the set. The cancellation in violet or black is a crown with Danish inscription meaning 'Administration of the Colonies in Greenland'." We thank Mr. Weiergang for this very fine explanation of the use of these parcel post stamps.

Woodrow Wilson --- Victory

A STRIKING COMBINATION!! An Airmail cover mailed from Washington to San Francisco on December 28th, the day the Wilson stamp was issued. It bears a 3c Victory, 17c Wilson and 5c Norse American, a most attractive and historical group of stamps. The purple of the Victory stamp and the black of the Wilson are the proper mourning colors for a commemorative cover and the blue and black of the Norse American harmonize with these colors and the blue stripe of the airmail envelope. Note the significance of the Victory-Wilson stamps combination. You have to see this cover to appreciate it! Send me two dollars and I'll send it to you. If you don't like it send it back and back comes your money.

DO YOU LIKE MUSIC? Send 20c in stamps for my little house-organ, "Washington Stamp News." The dope about new U. S. stamps and bargains offered will please you.

THE FORUM—UNITED STATES ISSUES 1847-70

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

7.	Oddity	3c 1851	Canton, Miss.	"	H. V. Swallow
8.	Black Hand	3c 1879	?	"	A. Bode
9.	Buzz Saw	#2406 Env.	?	"	J. D. Cox
10.	Black Hand	3c 1867	?	"	Dr. Wm. Evans

On reading over this list you may know where No. 2 or No. 4 comes from, as it has not yet been seen on a cover. If you will please let the Forum know where any of these cancellations with the question marks following may have been used, it will help complete our data.

In many cases the same cancellation has been sent in by several collectors, and I have given credit to the first sender, or the one whose copy was most clear as the case may have been.

This system of showing the cancellations will be followed hereafter unless some better method may be suggested, and suggestions are welcome always. I did not make special mention that the cancel was on cover, for if the town is given, you may generally assume that it is taken from a cover. Also note that in case a cancel falls on a stamped envelope the Scott Catalog Number of that envelope will be given, rather than the year etc., as it saves space.

There are many forms of Heart cancellations. Types similar to No. 3 without circle are often found on 3c '61's from small towns. This No. 3 as shown is also seen on 7c vermilions making a very attractive item. Nos. 2 and 4 have not yet been shown to me on 3c greens, they seem to come mostly along in the '80's, and are uncommon.

Companies who made these cancellers sold to postmasters from illustrated circulars, and certain forms sold well in certain sections of the U. S. A. The grid and target are among the most abundant of these commoner forms. The shaded star, and Maltese crosses found much favor in the late '70's and continued in use for many years. The Dakotas were very fond of these Maltese Crosses.

No. 7 is an interesting affair, and is from Canton, Miss., which brings to mind that celebrated Carroll Hoy correspondence, which is perhaps better represented in our collections than any find ever to come to philatelic notice. I have heard many tales of this marvelous "find", and if any reader has the authentic information, and will send it for publication in the Forum, it will be very readable matter. It was found in New Orleans, and we are so far away that the story has been so magnified in the telling around here that I could not accept it as authentic as told to me by many enthusiasts.

In the '50's this Canton pmk. deluge started, and no single town seems to have given as interesting a lot of cancels. I once saved up 17 different in that period, tho many were on the stamped envelopes—Nesbits. The two types of lyres, and the Odd Fellow are among the better known varieties of their odd postal markings. They would make a fine group from one town.

The 1847 issue gives us almost no "odd" cancels, the '51's start us, and the Civil War issue give us a wonderful range, continuing into the Bank Note issues, and later. Odd cancels began to die away from that period on, till now we must save machine cancellations or nothing, for our regular blobs of ink are just that, and it is well that so few towns use them.

From Ottawa, Canada, comes a very cheerful looking Santa Claus, their slogan being "Mail Early", so I'll hustle this right into the mail "toot sweet".

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

F. W. ALLEN, Editor, 521 So. 4th St., Grand Forks, N. D.

STATE GROUP DIVISIONS.

The collecting of precancels is a pastime that is coming to the fore. Because of its popularity, some consideration should be given it. The problem of what to collect is a vital one in this, as well as the regular postage field. General collectors of regular postage, that is, the seriously inclined, are now scattered. Where there is one collector giving his attention to the issues of all countries, there are a hundred centering their activities on a continental group, a colonial group or a single country.

General collectors of precancels are finding that they have tackled a huge proposition. They need a flock of albums, a wealth of time, and a sizable bank balance to keep up with the new varieties. Some have turned to the issues of the cities in a single state. These state specialists face the opposite extreme. They soon find it difficult to acquire enough new material and their interest consequently slackens. A happy medium between the two extremes of precancel collecting should be found and outlined so as to guide those wishing to derive the ultimate enjoyment from the hobby. That happy medium, in our opinion, is not to be found in the collection of a single issue, such as the 1902, 1917 or 1923, nor in specializing upon certain values, such as the one-half and one and one-half, or the thirteen and fourteen, or the two cent Harding, nor in giving all one's attention to the field of special issues and commemoratives.

We firmly believe that the sanest and most fascinating way of collecting precancels is according to State Groups. In whatever part of the country one calls his home, there lies an interest in that section. Not only in the home state but in neighboring ones. One need not ignore the precancels of states outside his chosen district, for this would work against him in corresponding with his fellow collectors. It is well to have an interest in all precancels, for a knowledge of them will stand in good stead. Precancels of high grade that are not from the chosen district, will come one's way often but they may be in demand by the specialists of other districts. Exchanging is therefore desirable and to intelligently exchange, one finds need of a good general knowledge of all precancels.

The question arises, can divisions be made geographically which will be fairly equal groups for precancel specialization? Yes, we think a suitable grouping system has been formed and submit it at this time.

Group Name	States
New England,	Me., Vt., N. H., Conn., Mass., R. I
North Atlantic,	N. Y., N. J., Pa.

We will appreciate the reaction of interested readers to our suggested groupings.

ODD BITS

James F. Duhamel, when renewing his subscription, writes us as follows concerning the Washington (D. C.) Philatelic Society:—"This Society has jogged along for some years with a limited membership, renting quarters twice a month, but some of the members came to the conclusion that permanent quarters should be secured. One year ago a large room in the heart of the business section of the city was rented, the yearly dues being raised to meet the expense. This was followed by regular Wednesday night meetings for auctions, exchange relations and general activity. It resulted in twenty new names being added to the membership. The local papers have generously reported our meetings and our large room is generally overcrowded. Our boys' meetings at 2 P. M. Saturdays also draw large numbers of young enthusiasts. We are looking forward to our second exhibition, to be held at the Public Library the first week in February. When in Washington on Wednesday night you will be welcome at Room 6, 1333 G St., N. W."

A kind friend has sent us a clipping from a New York paper in which reference is made to Revillon Freres as responsible for an article "Plain Tales of the North." Can any subscriber advise us where to address this firm in order to secure the privilege of using this copyrighted article?

We are pleased to announce that the Home of the Postage Stamp, Jackson Heights, N. Y., has taken out a contract for 5,000 lines of advertising space to be used during 1926. As this duplicates the contract for 1925 it is very evident that advertising in the WEEKLY pays, especially when it can be had at the rate of $1.50 per inch.

When sending in their advertising copy for this issue Arns & Schrott wrote:—"We are pleased to say that our American business is getting on splendidly, owing largely to your paper." The varied character of the advertising we carry week by week is the best evidence of the truth of a statement of this character.

We are indebted to Albert E. Gorham, secretary of the Washington Philatelic Society, for specimens of three first day 17c Wilson covers. Princeton, N. J., New York, N. Y., and Staunton, Va., have all arrived with a Dec. 28 cancellation. We thank Mr. Gorham for his courtesy. Mr. Gorham also sent Launcelot Reeves one of these covers, as a result of the recent article published in the WEEKLY.

Knowledge Is Power = Dollars
Do you realize how often you "give up" or "pass by" a real rare variety thru lack of knowledge?
Let me explain: Denmark No. 2, 4rbs brown is known with over 150 different numeral cancellations. No. 1 is worth $0.20 but dozens of them are worth $5.00 to $10.00 each and a few are rarities.
All these and nearly all Danish varieties are priced in my new Detailed Priced Catalogue of Danish Stamps of 1851-1899. I quote prices of shades, pairs, strips of three, four, six, blocks, sheets, stamps on cover, cancellations, recuts and scores of Inverted Frames, never before priced.
Illustrated Catalogue, 52 pages, printed on one side only, price $1.00 postfree.
Books of used Danish Stamps can be sent on approval. [tf

METROPOLITAN STAMP CO 1482 BROADWAY (OPPOSITE TIMES BLDG.), N. Y. C.

Written for MEKEEL'S.

JAMAICAN PICTORIAL, 3d

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Announced in the official Gazette of April 7, 1921 (Vol. 44, No. 19), Jamaica's 3d pictorial was issued April 8, 1921. Horizontal rectangular in shape, 27x22 mm., it was printed in pale blue and green, from line engraved plates, in sheets of 80 stamps (8x10), on white paper watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA upright, perforated single line 14.

"Stamp Office, 6th April, 1921.

The following is a description of the three penny adhesive stamp to be used for Postage and Revenue purposes.

This stamp will be put into circulation on 8th April, 1921.

The design of the stamp represents the landing of Columbus on the Island on its discovery.

The denomination 3d is shown on a shield (with laurel leaves beneath) in the left and right corners at the top.

Postage Revenue

Above the word 'Jamaica' is a row of pineapples. At the bottom of the design are the words and figures—

'Jamaica Discovered by Columbus, 1494.' and underneath these words there is another row of pineapples.

The border of the stamp is blue, and the center green.

Signed, C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

Between shields on laurel wreaths in the upper corners containing the value 3d, is "JAMAICA". "Postage—Revenue" immediately below conforms to the arched vignette opening lettered at the bottom "Jamaica Discovered by Columbus, 1494." The lettering is colorless. A row of ten and twelve miniature pineapples is at the top and bottom respectively of the design.

The vignette represents a crescent shaped bay with headland and three ships (the Nina, and her two consorts), in the distance, and nearer, several canoes. On the shore, in the foreground, is the landing party, with two dogs, and several fleeing Indians. In design the stamp resembles the 3d of Newfoundland's Cabot series of 1897. The vignette plate number 1 is in the left margin, outside the double marginal line, and is usually cut from the sheet in trimming to size.

Jamaica was discovered by Columbus on May 3, 1494, while sailing south from Cuba, and was named by him St. Jago. As he neared the island, a number of carved and painted canoes crowded with Indians came out to meet him a league's length from shore. After giving them presents, Columbus sailed on, and dropped anchor in a place which he named Santa Gloria (probably St. Ann's Bay), on account of its extreme beauty. Passing the night there, he sailed westward to find a closed port in which to careen and caulk up his vessels. About four leagues further on, he found such a port, resembling a horseshoe in shape, and which he named Puerto Bono. It was here that on May 4, 1494, their first landing in Jamaica was effected, of three boatloads of men accompanied by the pioneers of those hounds which afterwards did such fearful execution among the poor Indians. The horseshoe shape of the harbour and other evidence point to Dry Harbour, in St. Ann's as being Puerto Bono, and the place of Columbus' first landing in Jamaica.

Printings on Roman CA watermarked paper totalling 12,239 sheets of 80 (979,120 stamps) were dispatched to Jamaica. Script CA watermarked paper was first used for the 1d and 2½d of Bermuda's first Legislative Tercentenary series, issued Nov. 11, 1920, and prior to June, 1921, the 3d pictorial of Jamaica had been printed on script CA paper, and dispatched to the island. The stamp was released to stamp dealers by the Crown Agents in August, 1921, but was not put on sale until March 6th of the following year. Printings on script paper were from a new vignette plate numbered 2, which numeral is in the same position on sheets as the numeral 1 on the Roman CA printings.

EDITORIAL.

THE advertising of Harold C. Brooks, mayor of Marshall, Michigan, in the newspaper press has been noticed by many of our readers who have called attention to it. Mr. Brooks, it will be remembered, attended the convention of the American Philatelic Society, held in Detroit in 1924, where he exhibited many fine specimens of U. S. in particular, among which was a New Haven provisional that received high acclaim. Mr. Brooks is a very busy man with various interests that crowd upon his attention and so he did not yield at once for our importunity for the story of his New Haven, but finally he has favored us and here we have his recital, word for word: "The last issue of the WEEKLY proves of especial interest to me owing to the comment regarding the death recently of Mr. E. B. Sterling and particularly in connection with his discovery of a New Haven envelope in 1892. I paid more than ten cents for the one that I secured from the south last year, but feel sure that my good fortune is directly due to the publicity that attended Mr. Sterling's find. About ten years ago, I purchased from Mr. John Klemann a large number of bound volumes of old philatelic journals, including the American Journal of Philately dating from 1868, the Philatelic Journal of America, the Post-Office and others. Being troubled with insomnia, I used to depend on late reading to induce sleep. Many of these old volumes contain very interesting material and one article that impressed me was that in which Mr. Sterling's find was chronicled in the Post-Office. Subsequent issues of this same magazine contained communications from Mr. Sterling and others regarding the proper spelling of the name of the sender of this particular New Haven envelope, the dispute being over the question of whether it was Silliman or Silleman. Not being satisfied with the ultimate decision that 'Silliman' was correct, another correspondent tried later to raise another point, that of the identity of the Professor Silliman who wrote the letter. It seems that there were two professors by this name at Yale, father and son. Whether this weighty question was ever settled cannot be shown by later issues of the Post-Office. Possibly the publisher concluded that it was about time to let the Silliman family rest in peace. Later, continuing my midnight reading, I had one of the bulky volumes of the WEEKLY propped up in bed, looking at advertisements quoting prices that nearly tempted me to take a late chance and write anyway, also enjoying youthful portraits of Messrs. Deats, Severn and others, when my eye focused on the name of Silliman! This was an item to the effect that Professor Silliman had passed away, probably never having realized the furore that he once caused by the innocent mailing of a letter from New Haven. This last notice appeared, I think, either in 1903 or 1904, but did not say whether he was the father or son. Personally, I think that he must have been the grandson; and no doubt there is still a Professor Silliman at Yale."

"YES, yes," we say with bated breath, the while Mr. Brooks pauses for breath; and now give ear: "My sleeplessness was finally conquered, but the name 'Silliman' made such an impression on my mind that it really resulted in the discovery last year of the New Haven, blue on white paper, a hitherto unknown variety. On opening up a large package of covers sent me from an old southern home, I found a few mediocre Confederates together with a great many folded letters without stamps running from 1835 to 1850. As the hand-stamps on these were very ordinary I threw them aside, but before returning them took one final look, a leisurely curiosity leading me to unfold a few, for stamps have been found tucked away in such apparently valueless letters. The second one opened was postmarked, 'New Haven, Ct. Jul. 7' and I experienced a slight shock when I saw that the letter was written and signed by 'B. Silliman, Sr.' This letter, dated July 7, 1843, was addressed to Dr. James F. Sowell, Athens, Alabama, and solicited financial aid for the purpose of securing a certain valuable collection of geological specimens for Yale. Regretting my luck in finding only this echo of a name that figured so prominently in the philatelic world thirty years previous, I carelessly slithered through the rest of the lot when —bang!—my eye caught that famous signature, 'E. A. Mitchell.' If ever I had a real thrill, it was right then; and I was especially pleased to find later that this particular envelope constituted a variety unknown up to this time. I do not think I would have found this envelope (which had been caught in the fold of one of the letters) had it not been that the name of Silliman in some psychological manner urged a further search, even though I had no hope. Unfortunately, no letter was in it, but the chirography is identical with that on the folded letter written by Professor Silliman. I have never seen an illustration of the New Haven discovered by Mr. Sterling and it would be interesting to compare that one with mine as a further verification of the coincidence. If such an illustration was published in 1892, I would greatly appreciate a temporary loan of the magazine containing it. Perhaps if the name, Silliman, finds tenacious lodgement in other minds, it may some time lead to further discoveries. It has been my experience during the past three years that to successfully bring to light good things from original sources, it pays to follow up communities or individuals simply on the strength of a possible connection of names or circumstances." Comment on this readable bit of philatelic history seems superfluous.

MR. CHARLES SYDNEY THOMPSON, philatelist and naturalist of renown, weaves ornithology and philately in an instructive manner in his analysis of a recent Bolivian issue; and he heads the story, El Condor: "Bolivia has been producing some weird issues lately, not the least of these being a stamp issued ostensibly to honor the first centenary of the republic. This production is a large oblong, showing a condor grasping the pinnacle of an Andean peak, while he spreads his wings and gazes towards the Pacific. This bird is a strange specimen of ornithology, as he has but seven primaries in each wing instead of the legitimate dozen. Furthermore, each of these 'feathers' has the outline of a sabre blade. This, combined with the delightfully-Latin expression, 'Hacia el Mar,' is likely to produce anything but approval from both Chile and Peru, who are alleged to be holding a little plebiscite to determine who is going to retain Arica and the adjacent territories, which originally were part of Bolivia. The 'Hacia del Mar' part of it may be translated conservatively as 'Look to the sea' or liberally as 'Forward to the ocean,' or as a member of the late A. E. F. would say, 'Where do we go from here?' In any event, this stamp is no triumph of diplomacy. The value is 25c and at the bottom, the stamp bears the dates, 1825-1925 and 'Bolivia, Centenario de la Republica,' perforated 14 and engraved and printed by Perkins Bacon and Co."

WE are glad to find in a copy of Forward, a Presbyterian Sunday-school paper, sent by Mr. R. E. Skellie, assistant postmaster, Windom, Minnesota, a philatelic simile that provides a novel setting for the U. S. commemorative issues. This may be the first instance of record where stamps have afforded a basis for moral inspiration of this kind and as such we shall remember it in this season of good resolutions:

"The Post Office Department is doing a fine thing in its rather frequent issuing of special series of postage stamps commemorating important events in our national history as they are celebrated in different portions of our country. These well-designed stamps, with their unusual shapes and colors, effectively break up the monotony of our mail, and remind us forcibly of the great events in American history which they commemorate.

There is no reason why a similar practice should not be adopted in our individual lives. It is a poor life that does not have many events to commemorate: special victories over bad habits and sins, special mercies granted to oneself or to dear ones. Remembrance of these and rejoicing over them is a blessed feature of the Christian life."

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

Fifty years ago Philadelphia celebrated the hundredth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, by holding an exposition which everyone called, "The Centennial."

Every philatelist knows about the red and green envelope stamps issued to commemorate it, and most of us know that all the stamps that the Government had issued up to that time, were reissued and sold there at face value. We also know that a special postmark was used at the same time. This was not much different from the postmarks in general use and was very simple in design. It consisted of an outside circle, with CENTENNIAL at the top, PHILADA, PA. at the bottom, and the date of the month and hour in the center. The obliterator was simply a cut cork or a quartered design on wood.

But some postmasters throughout the country desired to take some part in the celebration, and expressed their desire, and perhaps their patriotism by having made or purchasing from firms who supplied them ready made, obliterators that would manifest this desire. Some of these were fairly elaborate, while others were very simple in their design. Above are some examples of what was done along this line. One gentleman was so anxious to join the procession that he evidently whittled his own obliterator and forgot how it should be cut to make it appear correct when applied to the stamp, with the result that he got it in reverse.

These "engravings" are tracings of cancellations as they appear upon the stamps. No attempt has been made to correct irregularities nor remedy defects. They are not perfect, not intended to be, but illustrations of these cancellations, "as are." Now, if you have cancellations showing some other form of this centennial celebration and will send me an accurate tracing or will send it to me to be traced we'll have some more illustrations later on.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.
Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."
C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."
The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

HOLYOKE, MASS., PROV. ENVELOPE

T. J. Gridley, 653 State St., Springfield, Mass., sends us the following information in regard to a new provisional envelope:—

It may be of interest to those readers who are collectors of U. S. provisional envelopes surcharged 1½c on 1c to know that the Post Office at Holyoke, Mass., while not surcharging any of their own stock, did overprint 20,000 envelopes for a local concern. The die used for this operation was sent from the Department at Washington, and as far as is known, was not used on any other stock in or near Holyoke.

The concern in question is the C. F. Church Manufacturing Co., toilet seat makers, located in Willimansett, Mass., a suburb of Holyoke. So far as is known, all the covers were white, size 13, and all bear the firm's card in the upper corner.

Those collectors who wish to include Holyoke in their sets of 1½c on 1c will have to search for these covers, as they were the only ones surcharged at Holyoke, and they are sent all over the world. They were first surcharged in September, 1925.

UNITED STATES ISSUES
FINEST STOCK IN THE WORLD

It is with great pleasure that I am able to inform my clients, that today, I hold the finest stock of the general issues of the postage stamps of the United States in the hands of any professional. This covers a period from the first to the last and includes singles, pairs, strips, blocks and covers in great profusion — of the early as well as late emissions.

When one considers the quarter of a million dollar Sinkler collection added to my own enormous holdings, one will appreciate that I now offer the specialist an opportunity of picking up the unusual seldom to be found.

Readers are referred to the detailed list of Sinkler rarities mentioned in my advertisement appearing in MEKEEL'S for last week.

Correspondence is invited with all interested in our issues whether your demands are large or small. If you collect United States stamps, your name should certainly be upon my mailing list for during the last few years I have handled possibly more United States when value is considered than any other dealer.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. 17c Black Wilson

The 17c Wilson printed in bank note black was placed on sale as scheduled on Monday, December 28th, the sixty-ninth anniversary of the birth of the late President. The stamps appeared at Washington, Princeton, New York and Staunton, these cities having received 100,000, 20,000, 1,000,000 and 20,000 copies respectively, in addition to the delivery of 50,000 to the Philatelic Agency. There was ready at the Bureau at the time 21,000,000 which will be distributed throughout the country.

I can hardly say that the stamp is of pleasing appearance but it is different from any other portrait variety that we have ever had and is of unusual appearance. The portrait used is not the official portrait as approved by the late President and which was filed at the Bureau during his administration as the portrait by which he desired to be remembered by posterity, but is a portrait selected by Mrs. Wilson, which I understand was taken during the latter part of Wilson's first administration. He looks much younger from the stamp than he had ever appeared as President.

The die proof from which these stamps were made was approved by Postmaster General New on November 30th. Eight plates have been engraved bearing numbers 18021-18028. I have not had an opportunity of checking up the plates for varieties but no doubt minor plate items will be discovered.

13c Green Harrison

While in Washington I had the opportunity of viewing the die proof of the new 13c green, bearing portrait of President Harrison. This proof was approved by the Postmaster General on December 14th and the portrait is the same one to be found on the 13c, issue of 1902, but is much larger. The frame is made to agree with the lower denominations of the current series and the stamp will make its appearance on January 11th at both Washington and Indianapolis, as well as the Philatelic Agency.

New Rotary Stamps

From the plate list given below, it will be seen that new plates for the 7c, 8c and 9c rotary stamps have been made and I can hardly say that they will appear in short order, for I was informed in Washington that these have not as yet been ordered from the Bureau but will probably make their appearance this Spring. When these three denominations appear, the complete series from 1c to 10c will be on sale. They do not contemplate making the ½c rotaries for there is a substantial supply of this stamp on hand at the Bureau, sufficient to take care of all needs for many months to come.

No Change In The Postal Laws

By a joint resolution of Congress the recent report of the Postmaster General recommending changes in the Postal Laws and Regulations, as well as rates, has been deferred for one year so that the postal rates which went into effect April 15th last will remain in force until at least the next session of Congress, which starts in December, 1926.

Plate Number Data

Through the courtesy of Mr. A. W. Hall, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, I am enabled to bring our list of plate numbers up to and including those issued to December 21, 1925. In this list the first plates of the new 13c and 17c make their appearance, as well as the first of the rotary plates for the 7c, 8c and 9c.

ALBANIA. — Mr. Benjamin Cadbury calls our attention to the 10q stamp, type of A20, which he has with the diagonal surcharge "Repuqlika" instead of "Republika". Mr. Cadbury adds that this is evidently not merely an inverted type as the "q" differs from the "b" in design. The stamp came on a letter as regular correspondence and is not a philatelic cover, there being one of the 5q and 2 of the 10q stamps, the latter showing the error.

DANZIG.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the 15pf red and 35pf blue of the type of A19 have been surcharged "Dienstmarke" in two lines as in the 1924 issue.

DENMARK.—Mr. A. E. Pade calls our attention to the 30ö dark blue and 40ö orange, in current design, which he has just received. This is a changing around of the colors of the two values. Changes of color are further expected in the 20 and 25ö values and a new design of its own is expected to take the place of the present "Gebyr" surcharge.

FALKLAND ISLANDS. — Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 6p, line engraved, script watermark in bright orange color.

FINLAND.—Whitfield King & Co. call our attention to the 20p brown, 60p red violet, 2m dark blue and 5m red violet and grey which have been issued on watermarked multiple Swastika paper.

FRANCE. — Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the 3fr violet and blue, in the design of the franc values of the 1900 issue.

Whitfield King & Co. send us the 40c rose red and the 60c green in the postage due series.

GERMANY. — We have received from Mr. R. Roberts the 50pf Eagle type, in orange, watermarked chicken wire.

IRELAND.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the 2sh 6p and the 5sh stamps with the "Saorstat Eireann 1922" with a closer setting than heretofore. The "1922" is 5mm long instead of 6mm, Bradbury printed.

Mr. Roberts also adds that he is informed under date of the 7th inst, last, that the 10sh of this setting has not yet been put on sale at the G. P. O. in Dublin.

LATVIA.—In a recent letter from Mr. Karl Koslowski we are advised that two new stamps will shortly be issued in this country. They are the 5Lat and 10Lat. The color is not announced, but the shape, design, and size, is to be like the present high values of the "Arms" type. Mr. Koslowski further informs us that the stamps are very much needed to avoid the annoyance of very valuable mail being covered up with stamps to meet the value of the postage demanded.

MALTA.—Mr. Joseph Bosmici and the Economist Stamp Co. send us copies of the current 3p stamp with the surcharge "Two pence halfpenny" in two lines in black.

MONACO.—Whitfield King & Co. inform us that a new value has appeared. It is a 1fr 5c in red lilac, type of the 40c of the 1923-24 issue.

MOROCCO AGENCIES.—Mr. W. T. Wilson reports the appearance of the 15c and 50c stamps surcharged on the 1½p and 5p stamps of Great Britain of the new Waterlow print and watermark.

NEW ZEALAND.—The Economist Stamp Co. send for chronicle three values of the Dunedin Exhibition stamps. They are all of the same design, oblong in shape and picture an esplanade with an exhibition building in the distance. Each stamp bears the inscription "New Zealand and South Seas Exhibition 1925-26" in a three line label with the figures of value in each lower corner. The colors are ½p light green, 1p red and 4p lilac.

SIAM.—We are advised that the new air mail stamps will shortly be overprinted in Siamese with an inscription signifying "Siamese Kingdom Exhibition," and that the issue will consist of 100,000 copies only.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

SWITZERLAND.—Copies of the new Pro Juventute series of 1925 have been received from Whitfield King & Co., the Economist Stamp Co. and Mr. R. Roberts. There are four stamps all printed in sheets of 100 watermarked Crosses, perf. 12: 5c+5c violet, black and green on buff; 10c+5c green and black on buff; 20c+5c carmine, black, blue and yellow on buff and 30c+10c blue and red. The former figure denotes the value allowed for postage purposes and the latter amount goes toward the annual charity.

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the 1sh black on green, type of the 1922 issue, on script watermarked paper.

TRANSJORDANIA. — Whitfield King & Co. have shown us a copy of the 1m dark brown, watermarked Crown and Script CA stamp of Palestine with a two line surcharge in black of native characters which they report as a postage due stamp. They also advise that they have received the 2m yellow, 4m pink, 8m red, 13m dark blue and 5 piastres all surcharged in like manner.

CANADA

Another Collection Just Purchased

I have just purchased the large collection of Canada stamps formed by Mr. H. J. Brook of Simcoe, Ont., Canada.

This collection was in a number of large volumes quite unsuitable to sending by post. I am therefore transferring the whole of it into my approval books and the following are priced (net) and can be sent to collectors to select from.

Stamps On Covers

Three books of 3d.—These include laid, wove and ribbed papers, "re-entries" and "cracked plate" varieties.

6d, laid paper.—One book full, some grand shades and mostly well tied on.

6d, wove paper, 7½d green and 10d blue, a fine book.

½d imperf., ½d perf., 3d perf., a fine lot.

1859.—Three fine books, 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 12½c, and 17c, pairs, strips, combinations and varieties.

1868.—Two books, lot of good cancellations.

Stamps Not On Letters

3d laid and wove.—About 300 copies, singles, pairs and rare varieties. Three fine books, well worth inspection.

6d laid and wove.—A very fine lot, about 60 copies.

7½d green, 10d blue, ½d imperf.—A fine book with the narrow and wide varieties.

½d perf., 3d perf. (30 copies) and 6d perf.—Another good book.

Numeral Cancellations of 1859 and 1868 Issues

Mr. Brook paid special attention to these and has secured many very rare varieties in these much sought for stamps. I have made up six books, the best lot I have ever had.

1859 Issue.—The collection is very strong in this issue, e. g. 10c, 270 copies; 12½c, 240 copies; 17c, over 200 copies. Many dated postmarks, so much wanted by collectors who wish to study the order in which shades and papers were used. I have 10 new books ready.

1868 Issue.—Equally strong as last, hundreds of each value. I have arranged dated copies in order of issue. Many of the laid and watermarked papers. Very strong in rare cancellations, Railways, Maple Leaf, colored cancellations, etc., etc. A number of books now ready.

About a dozen books of the "Small Cents" and later issues, unused and used.

Proofs and Essays

One large volume of these very desirable items, which I am glad to get as I had no stock left. Many rare die proofs. Selections can be sent to those interested but the rare items of which I only have one copy will be very soon sold so order an approval lot early, if interested. There is one volume of later issues, with some fine blocks and many rare cancellations in the small cents of 1870-1882.

Collectors who wish to dispose of rare items, or fine collections of the early issues of British North America, will find I am a liberal buyer, pay cash down, and save risk and commission of auction.

At a meeting held at the Southern Hotel in Columbus, Friday evening, Dec. 18, the Columbus Philatelic Club was organized and the following officers elected: President, W. R. Wilson, 39 Thurman Ave.; Vice-President, Fred G. Jackson, 263 13th Ave.; Sec'y-Treas., Ray Shepard, 809 Kelton Ave.; Directors, G. W. Linn, Paul Bauer and Prof. W. S. Elden.

A constitution was adopted along the lines of the one used by The Rubber City Stamp Club. Stamp collectors over the age of 20 are eligible for membership.

Meetings will be held each Friday evening at 8 o'clock, commencing with Jan. 8, 1926, at the Southern Hotel, until the membership votes to meet elsewhere. Out-of-town collectors in our city on any Friday evening will always be welcome and are urged to attend our meeting.

We would appreciate it greatly, if you would assist us in publicly thanking Mr. C. A. Bensinger, Sec'y-Treas. of The Rubber City Stamp Club, to whom we are indebted for the model of our constitution.

The issues of United States being so popular by all classes of collectors, necessarily limits the extent of our approval selections. We have a few books suitable for the beginner or medium collector. To advanced collectors or specialists desiring fine copies, cancellations, etc., we would urge that you send us a detailed want list of your needs in all issues. In this way you receive just such stamps that will be of interest and we do not tie up our limited stock unnecessarily.

TRY SENDING THAT WANT LIST TO-DAY. References required unless you have an approval account.

Advance sheets of the 1926 Standard Precancel Stamp Catalog are at hand. They reach us in the form of a pamphlet listing Harding precancels. It requires twenty pages and the expense of the pamphlet is underwritten by V. W. Rotnem, G. W. Linn and J. L. Sanford. It is accompanied by a Universal Style Chart Folder, which will be of great value to any collector of these stamps. We will not take the space to deal with the new experimental system which is used in this edition, as all collectors of precancelled stamps will undoubtedly want this catalog, which may be obtained at 50c postpaid from the Rotnem Stamp Co., 803 Wash. Av., Mplis., Minn.

HERE AND THERE:—

A subscriber desires to purchase a copy of the book "Commemorative Stamps of the World," by James H. Lyons. If any dealer can furnish this book we will make News Gleaning mention of it for the benefit of our subscriber.

A very handsome Christmas list of choice sets, single items, philatelic supplies, etc., has been issued by Milton T. Mauck, 911 Harlam Av., Baltimore, Md. Apply for a copy if interested.

E. T. Parker of Bethlehem, Penna., old time stamp dealer and A. P. S. member, who advertises in the WEEKLY under heading "1c and 1 minute," has been seriously ill in St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, since Sept. 1st, during which time he has had three major operations requiring the attention of a surgeon, six doctors and two nurses. He reports as being out of danger and expected home by Christmas.—Courtesy Midwest Stamp Co.

This paragraph will serve to introduce to our readers Perry W. Fuller of Baltimore, Md., who begins this week to use our advertising columns. Mr. Fuller is a collector of twenty years standing and is a member of the A. P. S., No. 4243. He has attended several of the conventions. He is a specialist in U. S. stamps and his name will doubtless be quite familiar to many who are similarly interested. Mr. Fuller's offices are located in the Bible House, Baltimore, Md., where one will find a large stock of U. S. and British Colonials, as well as packets, cheap sets and albums.

In order to encourage stamp collecting, the Rutherford Stamp Club has secured an auditorium of one of the public schools in Rutherford for the evening of Feb. 11. The program calls for an illustrated lecture and a talk by one of the most prominent men in philately. This gathering has been arranged in order to bring collectors together. It is expected that many junior and senior collectors will be present who are unaware of the existence of stamp clubs and that these organizations are of mutual benefit to all those interested in the hobby. Some pleasant surprises are in store for all collectors, so keep the date open. It is most convenient to reach Rutherford from New York, direct bus line from the Hotel Imperial, at 31 St. and Broadway. The bus marked Rutherford leaves every hour on the half hour, that marked Lyndhurst leaves every hour at fifteen minutes past the hour. For further information, write to Mr. W. O. Staeb, 89 Feronia Way, Rutherford, N. J.

REBUTTAL

Mr. Milo C. Reynolds, editor, thus impales a scurvy critic in his paper, Burlington, Vt., Suburban List, of Dec. 24, 1925.

FICTITIOUS VALUES.

It is difficult for a person who does not know the technique of postage stamp collecting to understand the high prices paid for the postage stamps. Here's this from the Rutland Herald:

"Speaking of factitious values, think of a postage stamp, made in Vermont, selling for fifteen hundred dollars. Yet five copies of the Brattleboro stamp brought from two hundred to fifteen hundred dollars at the sale of a rare collection in Paris recently."

There are hundreds of postage stamps which have sold for even more than fifteen hundred dollars for spot cash at auction sales. The top notch record is the 1-cent British Guiana stamp on red paper issued in 1856, which was bought by Arthur Hind of Utica, N. Y., for $32,500.00 at an auction sale in Paris. It is the only known copy of this stamp. Several early United States stamps have sold at auction for $10,000.00 or more. These prices may be fictitious but for Mr. Hind (worth many million dollars) to pay $12,000 is no more in comparison than for a boy collector to pay ten cents. The sale of the Ferrari collection by the French government has been completed and the entire lot brought over two million dollars.

It is difficult for a non-collector to understand where the "kick" comes in with stamp collecting. It is simply the eternal chase for something. One person is out to make a record in sports, another wants the fastest horse, a woman wants to be the best dressed or have a purely exclusive hat, others go in for public life. Costs money. Of course. Everything costs money — radio, music, the movies, sports, the clubs, socials, etc.

Measured in terms of amusement there are no more fictitious values in stamps than in other forms. There is a fictitious value in paying a couple of hundred dollars for a woman's hat. There is a purely fictitious value in horse racing and thousands of dollars have been lost in developing horses that never made a record. Stamp collecting is a hobby but no one can see anything in it until the "bug" gets in its sting. Thousands of people can see nothing in golf, but it is interesting to those that know and play the game.

There is money in stamp collecting if the right ones are picked. A United States 5-cent stamp issued in 1860 now sells for $150 in unused condition. Hundreds of others show a like proportionate increase. True, the value may be fictitious, but they sell for those figures just the same. If anyone thinks it easy to get together a single copy of every stamp issued by the United States government just let him try it even among the big dealers. It will be a bigger job than getting a seat in Congress or being made governor of Vermont—and it will cost a great deal more.

It is true that the value of stamps is fictitious as the Herald states, but there is always a ready sale for cash of rarities and there is every evidence that the hobby will increase. But there are unreal values in other things as well.

CHICAGO PHILATELIC SOCIETY

The annual election of the society was held December 17, 1925, and the following officers were successful at the polls: President, J. Max Golding; Vice-President, F. J. DeWitt; Secretary, J. A. Zalud; Treasurer, C. F. Mann; additional members of the Board of Directors, Messrs. Hennan, Severn, Voorhees, Boehm and Lauritzen. Nearly fifty members were present at this closing meeting for the year and much interest was shown at the election; the regular ticket with a single exception was victorious. Mr. Golding, the new president, is a popular collector and he has devoted his time and energy to the promotion of local philately. He has many ideas for the extension of collecting interest in his city, as he realizes that the best field for cultivation is one's home city; and the indications are that his administration willl be a progressive one. The society under the direction of the retiring president gave a good account of itself for 1925 and the new year certainly will establish a record for activity. Votes of thanks were given the retiring officers and the editor of the WEEKLY was honored by a special vote, a tribute that he appreciated.

FUTURE OF ENVELOPE STAMPS

AGITATION AT WASHINGTON INDICATES ENVELOPE STAMPS MAY BE DISCONTINUED

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

At the present time there is considerable agitation in Washington relative to the Departmental stamped envelope which manufacturers of envelopes have desired discontinued. The lobby is also being carried on by the printers who claim that they lose considerable business through the furnishing by the Government of stamped envelopes with return cards.

The Chairman of the Committee on Post Office and Post Roads of the House of Representatives requested the views of the Postmaster General upon the subject and under date of December 9th Mr. New replied in great detail, first calling attention to the fact that stamped envelopes are manufactured by a private concern under contract with the Government, and that the procedure has been followed by thirty-one Postmaster Generals through an unbroken period of more than seventy years. He states that organized efforts to have these envelopes discontinued have been made periodically for more than fifty years and that in the case of the present campaign, communications were received by the Department from envelope manufacturers and others, including the unsuccessful bidder for the present stamped envelope contract, the latter protesting strongly against the practice of the Government in furnishing these envelopes.

The statement is made that the demand is mostly from professional men, fraternities, county and municipal organizations, country banks, churches, farm organizations, colleges, dairy enterprises and individuals on rural free delivery routes, and that more than 72% of the orders received by the Government for return card imprints are purchased in lots of five hundred and one thousand. The Postmaster General states that he has no recommendation to make which would disturb this present service.

For the benefit of the Committee, the Postmaster General calls attention to the fact that it has been authorized by law to enter into four-year contracts for furnishing the postal service with stamped envelopes, and that in proceeding to award such a contract, more than one hundred proposals were sent out on June 28th to envelope manufacturers and allied enterprises inviting bids for supplies for four years beginning January 1, 1925, the bids to be submitted not later than August 7th. Only two proposals were received, one from the International Envelope Corporation of Cincinnati, which was unsuccessful, and one from the Middle West Supply Co., of Dayton, Ohio, to whom the contract was awarded, the latter firm quoting in the neighborhood of a million dollars lower. It is estimated that more than ninety million pounds of paper will be required to execute the present contract.

An agent of the Department with a small corp of assistants is on duty at the Dayton factory to see that the exacting requirements of the contract are fully complied with.

The issue of stamped envelopes was first authorized by Congress in 1852 and express authority for printing return directions or "corner cards" as they are commonly known, was given to the Post Office Department by Act of March 3, 1871. It will, therefore, be seen that this postal facility is one of the oldest facilities of the service antedating such special services as rural free delivery, postal savings and parcel post.

The Act of June 26, 1906, provides that no envelope shall be sold by the Government containing any lithographing or engraving or any printing nor advertising except a printed request to return the letter to the writer.

Prices for stamped envelopes are fixed by the Postmaster General under authority of the act of July 12, 1876, which provides that stamped envelopes "shall be sold as nearly as may be at the cost of producing them (including all salaries, clerk hire, and other expenses connected therewith), with the addition of the value of the postage stamps impressed thereon."

The Postmaster General admits that the prices at which these can be furnished are much less than the same envelope could be bought by the small user in the open market, but calls attention to the fact that the small user if he had to pay a private printer to have the corner card printed would naturally do without it and this would work as a disadvantage to the Department. With the corner cards considerable saving in time and expense is made for the letter may be promptly returned to the sender instead of the slow process of first advertising it at the office of delivery and then forwarding it to the dead-letter office where perhaps weeks will be required for its return even if it is possible to return it at all. Upward of twenty-two million letters found their way last year to the dead-letter office and all of these would have been returned without expensive delay to awaiting senders without going to the dead-letter office, had the corner cards been present. Upward of a million of these communications contained property

For the past thirty-two years I have been a stamp collector actively and am known by the majority of MEKEEL'S readers for my work on permits, meters and slogan cancellations. For the past twenty-seven years my vocation has been repairing and selling typewriters and other office appliances. Recently I opened up a new store in this city in the center of the business district and will carry a very complete line of rebuilt typewriters and supplies. All stamp collectors as well as dealers should own a typewriter, and my facilities enable me to offer a much better grade of typewriter of any make at a much lower price than they can be bought anywhere else. Besides, I will be willing to make a special discount of from 10% to 25% to philatelists. I am not a stamp dealer, and do not at present intend to carry philatelic supplies of any kind. Will be glad to meet stamp collectors when they are in Bingham ton but cannot spare the time for long visits. Ask for my special bargain list on typewriters and supplies, if you want to save money.

of value. It is felt that if the corner card service is discontinued, the quantity of dead-letter mail will vastly increase.

Statement is further made that from an examination of the record during the period of the past twenty years, there has been no loss whatsoever of stamped envelopes through dishonesty or casualty while in the process of manufacture or in the custody of the contractor. Train robbers have broken into stamped envelope packages in a few instances only to leave them scattered around. Their bulk and the tell-tale "corner cards" destroy their value as loot.

In closing his communication, the Postmaster General states that practically every postal development has won its way into our fixed and efficient service over the stubborn opposition of interests who set up the cry of unfair competition with private business. The money-order service encountered the hostility of the banks, as did the postal savings; and parcel post found express companies relentless foes. Now, after more than fifty years of increasing usefulness and favor, Congress is called upon to lay an additional burden upon hundreds of thousands of citizens to meet the narrow purposes of a comparatively few. The attack by the country weeklies is the more indefensible when it is recalled that this class of publication has enjoyed for many years the privilege of free county circulation of their newspapers.

In view of all these facts, Mr. New states it is inconceivable that Congress will seriously consider so radical and backward a step in postal progress as to abolish this facility.

HEAR YE:—

The Chicago Tribune recently published a large picture of a scene of philatelic action, over the text: "Boys auction off their stamps to be Good Fellows. Boys of the Y. M. C. A. Stamp Club raising $50 at the Hyde Park department of the Y. M. C. A., at 1400 East 53rd St., to aid poor families on the south side." All hail, ye philatelic philanthropists, who we can attest are fitly represented by their energetic leader, H. Heumann.

The Air Post Bulletin, London, has a "U. S. A." edition for November, which is replete with notes on the subject nearest the hearts of many collectors, "flown covers."

The holiday card received from Mr. Frank Godden, the dealer of London, is an artistic creation indeed, showing, as it does, the old stage coach in danger of becoming snow bound, "in the good old days."

The Collectors Club has issued its program, scheduling events up to May 19, 1926, when the Hon. E. R. Ackerman will show early British on covers used abroad, in addition to other British. The program fairly exudes philatelic talent.

The following letter has been received from Mr. Edward H. Sterling, Trenton, N. J.: "I wish to thank you for your kind letter of recent date and to tell you how much we appreciated the splendid editorial you wrote about my father."

Mr. R. D. MacGuffin, Narbeth, Pa., has written an excellent little booklet: "The Most Important Thing in Philately," with the further explanation: "Wherein is contained comfort and encouragement for philatelists of all kinds, not only the expert, but the novice." The pamphlet of sixteen pages is published at Mr. MacGuffin's own expense and is a remarkable analysis of the investment and other phases of philately. The writer speaks plainly and has the courage of his convictions which are based on the necessity as he says of "holding the new recruit after he has made his start."

The Capital City Philatelic Society of Harrisburg, Pa., signalized its first meeting last November with a dinner. Weekly meetings are held and looking over the roster it strikes one that collecting interest is at high tide in Harrisburg.

On April 22, 1926, W. F. Slusser, whose name is inseparably connected with the American Stamp Dealers' Association, Inc., will sail for Hawaii, where at Fort Kamehameha, nine miles from Honolulu, he will serve his country.

Mr. R. L. Hustis, ole M. T. Dome, of Milwaukee, always has a riot of ideas in his noodle and now he asks why the week of January 25 to 31, 1926, should not be devoted to philatelic proselyting, making it a Missionary Week. Further, he tells how the occasion could be launched, as it were. Something should be done with the suggestion and that, soon. All those in favor of such a week, say in April, say, Aye.

Mr. LeGrand Payne, Indianapolis, Ind., sends a copy of the Star of his city, that shows on the pictorial section of The Boys' and Girls' Page, a copy of the V.R. one penny black with the explanation: "V.R. official penny stamp black. Put into practice in England, Jan. 10, 1840." This description is somewhat fanciful but we wonder where the cut of the V.R. originated; the stamp was never placed in service.

Mr. Shirley Moisant, Kankakee, Illinois, writes that on his visits to Hartford, Conn., he always called upon Silas Chapman, Jr., whose death was mentioned some months ago; and that they had many a chat on philately of the time when both were active collectors. From an insurance paper we learn that Mr. Chapman left an estate valued at over a million dollars.

The following historical reference is taken from a newspaper review of the Pacific Mail Steamers, whose great careers are now closed:

"The history of American finance would not be complete without frequent references to the Pacific Mail. Established in 1847 in New York by William H. Aspinwall and associates on a capitalization of $400,000 and with a mail subsidy of $199,000 annually from the government, it had reached the towering capitalization of $2,000,000 by 1850.

The line was formed to institute a monthly mail service to the new territor opened up by the treaty of peace betwee Mexico and the United States on Apr 13, 1848, and vast unexplored Orego lands made available by the Angl American treaty of the same period. Th Western terminus was to be on Puge Sound, but the gold rush blocked tha plan and the ships tied up at the rainbow end in California."

7c ROTARY PRESS

A Government official, at a meeting of the Washington Philatelic Society a short time ago, stated that, among others, the 7c rotary press stamp would be issued in the near future. Just to get your name on my mailing list I will send you an unused single or block of four of this stamp as soon as issued at FACE VALUE plus 2c for return postage.

Packet A.—30 varieties of U. S. postage only, all classified, including every issue from 1851 to 1890 inclusive, only $2.00

Packet B.—20 varieties of the hard-to-place Bank Note issues each one numbered according to Scott's catalog, 1871 to 1890 .....$1.00

"Educator" Approvals contain almost all regularly issued stamps of the United States from 1847 to 1900. No stamp priced more than $5, most of them at big discounts from catalog prices. Sent only against references or deposit. [H

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

In the early days it was necessary in forwarding a letter to pay the same amount of postage for this service as the original postage. Just when this practice was discontinued is not apparent, but it was certainly before 1870. And yet there seem to have been those who believed it necessary in the '80's. An instance of this has come to hand. Mr. Roy H. Huetson in submitting some R. R. covers included one bearing two copies of the 2c red brown of 1883. It is addressed to Atchison, Kan., and re-addressed to Chicago, Ill. The original postmark is partly covered by one of the stamps. The part visible reads CHI. R. P. O. O. DIV. The first stamp was half cut away when the letter was opened. The Atchison postmark has a later date than the R. P. O. and the second stamp is canceled by a large S. It was evidently put on for forwarding purposes. Why?

Mr. Robert Weber submits some very fine examples of damages to plates, or foreign bodies on the plates, which caused marks on the stamps. Two copies of the 2c red-brown of 1883 show identical flaws which are doubtless due to some damage to the plate. The stamps both have straight edge at the right, which indicates that they are both from the same plate position and as one of them has an arrow at the lower right corner that position is No. 100 of the left pane. The flaw begins about the center of a line drawn from the lower right angle of the shield horizontally inward to the pearls of the oval surrounding the white frame of the vignette, and consists of about three rounded spots of color, the bottom one of them almost obliterating the perpendicular stroke of the T of CENTS. The middle one shows plainly in the diagonal white frame of the shield, and the top one is inside the shield. Just below each of the two upper ones is a little white spot, curved around the lower border of the colored flaw.

A 3c Continental has a heavy horizontal line of green 4mm below the upper right angle of the stamp, extending across the white perforated margin into the design. It is 2mm long and looks as if the next stamp to the right must have had an extension of it.

Another 3c Continental shows a series of colored spots beginning just to the left of the white oval about on a level with the chin and extending almost horizontally across to the white oval on the right. Looks as if something had hit the plate on the right side and bounded across it leaving a mark at each bound and there are nine or ten of them. Peculiar and unexplainable.

Marks of the character of these are not unfrequently found on the lower values of these issues. Some of them are no doubt due to damage to the plate, and others are without doubt due to foreign bodies on the plate, such as a tiny piece of the material used to wipe it, which escaped the eye of the workman. These would in all probability be removed the next time the plate was wiped so that only one stamp would show the effect of its pressure. But a damaged plate would print each time the press was operated and duplicates of its printings might be found. They are all interesting and have a place in a collection, though probably not adding greatly to the value of the individual stamps.

Besides these it is not unusual to find blurs of ink on some of these stamps varying in size from mere dots up to blots two or three millimeters in diameter. Sometimes a stamp shows only one and then again a copy will be found showing a number of them. These are produced by improper wiping of the plate. The ink was not removed at these places and was transferred to the paper.

We also sometimes find copies of the 3c green that look as if they had been printed on green paper. The border and the part of the stamp that should be white is green, and this is due to the fact that the plate was not properly wiped, and enough ink was left upon it to stain the paper and give it this appearance. Of course none of the stamps were printed on green paper, and a glance at the back of these copies will soon dispel any thought that the paper is other than white, or with a pale yellowish tinge, and even that is doubtless due to age, and was not the original color of the paper. Those of us who have collected the 3c 1851, remember seeing copies part of which show the design clearly and distinctly printed, and the rest blurred by insufficient wiping of the plate, but I do not recall having seen this peculiar condition on any of the stamps issued after 1870. This doesn't prove that they do not exist since I haven't seen quite all of the stamps printed since that date. Some of you may have been more fortunate and if so, you will confer a favor by sending on your copies for inspection. Any stamp issued between 1870 and 1900 is included in this request except revenues. Our field in this quest will include the Department stamps as well as the postage.

You all know the cancellation used in several cities consisting of an oval gridiron with a number in the center. A friend wants to know how high these numbers run on the 3c green, 2c red-brown of 1883, 2c green 1887, 2c 1890, and on the 2c Columbian. Please give me your highest number on each of these stamps, and I'll report.

Of course New York City had the largest number of substations and probably the highest number will come from there.

Letters were also used in these same gridirons instead of numbers, and the same correspondent also asks "What letters are missing? Having made no special effort to collect more than one of each type my collection lacks U, X, Y and Z. Has anyone any one of these four?

This means only in this particular type of cancellation please. For the present the other types will not be attempted. Too many to try to get them all classified just now.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF HAYTI

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXI.

The Permanent Stamps of 1906.

The provisional stamps referred to in our last chapter were replaced in August, 1906, by the permanent series engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Company, of New York. At the same time the 1904 stamps were replaced by a set of four values which were intended for local and interior postage only. The former set has the values expressed in "CENTIMES DE PIASTRE", while the latter shows the values in "CENTIMES DE GOURDE".

All sixteen stamps bear the date 1906 and the inscription "REPUBLIQUE D'HAITI". The 1c and 3c values of the internal set and the 2c, 5c and 20c of the external series are alike in design and show a portrait of Nord Alexis in the centre. The two remaining values of the inland set and the 1c and 50c denominations of the foreign series also correspond and show the Arms of the Republic with motto as a central device.

The other values of the set for foreign postage provide a number of local views, viz.:—3c, the Market Hall of Port-au-Prince; 4c, the castle or fortress of Sans Souci, built by Henry Christophe; 7c, the Independence Palace at Gonaives; 8c, the entrance to the Catholic College at Port-au-Prince; 10c, the Catholic Monastery and Church at Port-au-Prince; 15c, the offices of the Departments of Exterior Relations, Public Instruction, etc., in Port-au-Prince, in front of which is a monument to Alexandre Petion; and the 1 piastre, a view of the President's Palace.

The stamps are all oblong in shape, were engraved in taille douce and printed in sheets of 100 (ten rows of ten); and every stamp shows the imprint of the manufacturer's at the base in tiny capitals, i.e., "AMERICAN BANK NOTE CO., N. Y."

The paper is white wove, the gum yellowish, and the perforation gauging exactly 12 is the work of single-line machines.

CHAPTER XXII.

The Provisionals of 1907-08.

From October, 1907, until about the middle of July, 1908, Hayti suffered from an epidemic of surcharging. It is said that the many provisionals were due to a shortage of 1c and 2c stamps, but it seems more probable that a mistaken sense of economy afflicted the postal authorities so they decided to use up the remainder of the Nord Alexis issue of 1904. As 1c and 2c stamps were in most demand, what more reasonable than to reduce the value of the old stock and thus effect a speedy (and profitable) sale?

The two handstamps used in 1906 were resurrected and the officials had a merry orgy striking these in red or black as fancy willed on the unwanted 5c, 10c, 20c and 50c stamps of 1904. Mr. Crouch says the red surcharges appeared first and that none of the black ones were issued until 1908. We cannot find any definite authority for this statement and there appear to be no official statistics available. Apparently the inks used got badly mixed at one time for all four varieties are known with a "brown" surcharge formed by a combination of red and black inks. Occasionally, too, some exuberant spirit struck the handstamp on the wrong pad so that surcharges of a blackish-red or reddish-black color are found.

Most of the varieties are known with inverted and double surcharges and also in pairs, one with surcharge omitted; these, so far as they have come under our personal knowledge, being fully recorded in our check list.

We have seen the 1c on 20c orange with violet surcharge and though the variety is duly listed in Scott, we can learn nothing about it. It was certainly unknown at the time the provisionals actually appeared and may possibly be a posthumous and unauthorized variety. Gibbons lists the 1c surcharged in black on the 50c and says it is only known inverted. This is apparently the variety already referred to in Chapter XIX and listed by Scott as belonging to the 1906 provisionals. We must confess profound ignorance as to the actual status of this variety.

The 1c on 10c is known in horizontal pairs, imperforate between the stamps.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The 1910-11 Issue.

In 1910 new 2c, 5c and 20c stamps for foreign postage and a 1c for interior letters were issued bearing a portrait of President A. T. Simon, who had, some little time previously, been elected to the Presidential chair. The stamps are all printed in two colors like those they replaced, the portrait of Simon being in black in all cases and having below it "A. T. SIMON 1909" in very tiny letters and numerals. The borders are exactly similar to those of the corresponding denominations of the 1906 issue and it is very evident the same plates were used. These stamps were engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Company of New York and bear that firm's imprint under each stamp. The sheets were the same size and the paper, gum and perforation are all similar to those of the corresponding values of the series of 1906.

In 1911 the 2c stamp of the series for domestic postage was issued in yellow instead of orange and the 3c intended for foreign postage was issued in orange instead of brown. The stamps were in all other respects exactly similar to the corresponding denominations of 1906.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The 1912 Issue.

President Simon's tenure of office was not a lengthy one for 1912 saw the appointment of C. Le Conte. A 5c stamp for foreign postage, bearing the portrait of President Le Conte was issued in July, 1912, and in September of the same year 1c and 2c stamps for domestic postage appeared with his effigy. The portrait on all three values is the same but the treatment of the borders is distinctive in each case. The 1c value shows "RE-

Knowledge Is Power = Dollars

Do you realize how often you "give up" or "pass by" a real rare variety thru lack of knowledge?

Let me explain: Denmark No. 2, 4rbs brown is known with over 150 different numeral cancellations. No. 1 is worth $0.20 but dozens of them are worth $5.00 to $10.00 each and a few are rarities.

All these and nearly all Danish varieties are priced in my new Detailed Priced Catalogue of Danish Stamps of 1851-1899. I quote prices of shades, pairs, strips of three, four, six, blocks, sheets, stamps on cover, cancellations, recuts and scores of Inverted Frames, never before priced.

Illustrated Catalogue, 52 pages, printed on one side only, price $1.00 postfree.

Stamps As An Investment

Cut this out and show it to your wife and non-philatelic friends. In 1891, when I started collecting, Scott's catalogue listed 33 postage stamps of Netherlands, used, at a total value of $1.73. (#1 light blue was 6c; #3, 12c; #6, 12c.) Now the same 33 stamps list $38.23, an increase of $36.50, which is over 21 times their 1891 value. This is an average increase of 6 times every ten years. I have made a study of stamps as an investment and shall be glad to write you on the subject. There is a certain unchanging rule which if followed in your stamp investments you can't go wrong. I sell stamps by approvals. Tell me about yourself and what you like best. 20th Century Brit. Colonials at 50% dis. Old Europe and U. S., too.

SEEN AND HEARD:—

Bright & Son, 164 Strand, London, England, have just issued a new price-list of British Colonials with multiple CA and new script CA watermarks. A nice line of sets is also listed.

Clinton L. Chalfant believes that a news item giving a list of "plebiscite" issues would be appreciated by the general run of collectors. If any subscriber is interested enough to dig out this information we shall be glad to use it.

We have received from Albert C. Gakenheimer, a copy of The Forester, published by the students of the Forest Park High School of Baltimore, Md. It is a very fine publication and especially creditable for a year-old effort. One of the students, Henry Suter, has an interesting article on the Canada map stamp.

"The Scrantonian," published at Scranton, Pa., has a stamp department entitled "Philately". It is edited by Alexander Cope. What Mr. Cope has done in Scranton may be done in any locality, as the average editor is keen in realizing the value of stamp news.

The Pathe Stamp Co., Atlanta, Ga., whose advertisement will be found in this number, has contracted for regular space in the WEEKLY. Mr. K. Pathe, the owner of the business, informs us that he is operating his stamp shop from the clubroom of the Atlanta Collectors Club, 303 Walton Bldg. He states that his trade has grown to such an extent that he has found it necessary to open a local shop. He is a member of the A. P. S., No. 6586, and of the S. T. P. A. No. 156. The firm has a large stock of U. S. and British Colonials including many sheets, blocks, etc.

H. P. Husom of Laramie, Wyo., can get no replies to letters addressed to R. V. Rich, 820 W. 27 St., Norfolk, Va. If anyone else is similarly situated please communicate with Mr. Husom. Rich advertised in Adlets, November 30.

THE NEWSPAPER STORY

The sale of the stamps discovered recently by a lady in her Mayfair mansion attracted a very large attendance to the auction rooms of Mr. H. R. Harmer, at 6 Old Bond Street, yesterday. The anterooms and passages were crowded with people who failed to secure admission to the large sale-room, and in the sale-room itself the buyers at the back found vantage points on tables and ledges. The 118 lots of stamps sold realised a grand total of £7,707 6s, of which the portion found in the lady's attic realised £5,525 6s. These stamps cost their original collector rather less than £30, but they had lain forgotten for over sixty years. A sheet of 240 2½d stamps of British Columbia and Vancouver Island realised £750, the purchasers being Messrs. F. B. Smith, Ltd., of the Strand. A pane, or quarter-sheet, of the same stamp, was sold to Sir Hildebrand Harmsworth for £160. An intact sheet of 120 halfpenny Ceylon stamps, imperforate, was bought by Mr. J. Lee at £650, and a similar sheet, but lacking two corner stamps, went to Messrs. F. B. Smith for £530. A sheet of the halfpenny orange stamps of the Ionian Islands brought £110 (W. Houtzamer).

One of the most remarkable lots in the sale was a nearly complete sheet of 229 Queensland penny stamps, which Sir Hildebrand Harmsworth secured at £450. Another large part of a sheet with ninety-two of the stamps sold to Mr. T. Allen, of Wanstead, for £185, the same purchaser securing a block of 106 of the two-penny blue stamps of the same issue for £325. A halfsheet (100 stamps) of the 15 cents orange, first issue of Holland, was sold to a Dutch buyer at £450.

Included in the sale were a few items from another remarkable find, consisting of Uruguayan stamps discovered in Manchester. These eight lots brought a total of £1,055, most of them being secured by Mr. J. Lee.—London Daily Telegraph, Nov. 10, 1925.

EDITORIAL.

WE return our sincere thanks to the host of readers who remembered us with cards and messages offering greetings appropriate of the season. Particularly, those foreign correspondents, who so nicely timed the arrival of their communications are assured that their attentions are appreciated. Old friends and new showed that they had a thought for the WEEKLY during the busy holiday weeks and a few generous souls were so prodigal as to send letters with the new Harrison stamp. We are afraid that we have been favored beyond our deserts.

FROM a copy of the San Francisco Examiner, we learn that Mr. A. F. Merell has been instrumental in introducing A. H. Wilhelm, the president of the American Philatelic Society to radio audiences. Too, "the stamp man," as Mr. Merell is now called by the newspapers, succeeded in securing Mr. K. A. Millican, manager of the Pacific National Bank, as a radio attraction, and withal Mr. Merell proceeds on his way dutifully, enlightening the youth of his section by his regular talks. Mr. Merell is quoted as saying: "The interest that I have aroused through my talks astounds me. I have been forced to move to larger quarters in order to accommodate the people who call on me all during the day and if the interest increases proportionately during the next few months, I am afraid that I will find it necessary to occupy the Civic Auditorium." Here is an example of devotion to the cause of philately and under his ministrations, Mr. Merell's acorn is growing so rapidly into the mighty oak that the authorities on arborculture are sitting up and wondering.

MR. RUPERT RAWLINSON evidently has a keen eye and a mind in keeping for the symbolism of stamps and we are glad to submit the following readable description for its own sake and to prove that there is something in and on stamps: "The Phrygian Cap. The lover of stamps is apt to allow his imagination to run riot on color and design. He may be the regular space-filler, who, we must admit, is the orthodox philatelist, but we heretics get much of our pleasure in responding to the thrill of a variant shade, a change of perforation or an elusive watermark. Those who know British colonials are adepts at perforation and watermark; and this is a saving grace to these somewhat tiresome arrays of perfection in printing and design. On the other hand, the gorgeous panoply of Uruguays from 1856 down to 1922 were never disturbed with watermarks and this is true of Nicaragua with its volcanoes, classic buildings, prosaic ship docks, scrappy statesmen, with mustachios and goatees, except for the issues here and there. The ugly little design so messed up of 1898, with its ill-fashioned geometric figure in the center may be purchased by the set, mint, for a few cents, but these are Seebecks! The genuine is on thin paper, instead of thick and bears the Phrygian Cap as a watermark. When you have one of these you have a good little stamp, used or unused. The Phrygian Cap is always pictured on the head of Paris, the bowman of the Trojan war. He it was who caused the war by abducting the beautiful Helen. These defeated Trojans or Phrygians are said to have settled early Rome where the Phrygian Cap appears as the symbol of liberty, but a more interesting probability in tracing the history of the liberty cap is that of the Emperor Julian, the glorious heretic of the early Christian era and himself a native Phrygian, changed the name of Lutetia, Roman settlement on the Seine, to Paris, where in the stormy days of the Commune, the Phrygian Cap again came forward as the national symbol of liberty. France has never discarded it. In the days of the French Revolution, Dr. Franklin and Mr. Jefferson were in Paris, and the idea so impressed them that the head of the American Columbia has always been adorned by the Phrygian or cap of liberty. Our troubles with Spain came to a head in 1898 and it does not seem utterly impossible that the Nicaraguans took the occasion to covertly express their feelings in the controversy by inserting the Phrygian Cap in their little stamps!"

THE following "dirge" appeared in Riq's column in the Chicago Post, where it caught the eye of several of our readers:

"Wives have lost husbands
By death, drink or vamps—
But I've put on mourning
Since mine collects stamps.
—SHEILA GAE."

Why should the beauteous Sheila Gay thrum her heart-strings so sadly? Let her look with kindly eye on the innocent little pledges of postal payment and soon her aesthetic nature will respond to the gay suggestions of the messengers, at once so chaste and comforting. If she would share her husband's pleasure in his stamps, she would double it for him.

WE chronicle the death of J. H. Prince, Chicago, one of the oldest friends of the WEEKLY, with much regret. He passed away at a hospital after a short illness, but maintained his interest in stamps to the end, almost. Latterly, he had been much attracted by precanceled stamps and found pleasure in spending his time on them. For many years he took our paper, for which he showed an affection of no ordinary kind.

FROM Mr. Anoir A. Mariam Khan, Baghdad, Iraq, we have received by air-mail via HAIFA, the following letter: "I was fortunate enough to have just received from Persia the enclosed set of six provisionals, of which there was but a small number issued, according to my correspondent. The stamps are revenues of Persia, surcharged in gilded letters, in order to make them valid for postal use. They were placed on sale on November 9 and 10, 1925, when parliament declared Persia a republic and Riza Khan Pahlawi, its president; and on the very day the royal family was given twenty-four hours' notice to clear out of Persia. The surcharge may be translated: 'Post of Temporary Govt.—Pehlevy—1925. 9th Abanmah. 1304.' The values range from 1ch to 1 kran." The Persian coupe-d'etat naturally would have philatelic consequences and it may be that the set that Mr. Khan has sent for inspection is the advance agent of others to come.

AN interesting half-tone has been shown us by a correspondent that pictures the original cover carried by the Pony Express that enclosed the tidings of the election of Abraham Lincoln in 1860. The envelope is endorsed on the face with "Election news. Lincoln elected" and bears the address: "W. Benham, Esq., Julesburg, for the Rocky Mountain News, Denver." The pony express impression on the envelope is dated St. Joseph, Nov. 8, and the other marking is the usual one: "The Central Overland California & Pikes Peak Express Company, Nov. 8, St. Joseph, Mo." The original of this illustration is not unknown to fame and it has been the subject of many accounts that graphically described the furious pace at which the important letter was conveyed. It is evident that the sender clipped the reproduction from a book, as on the reverse side of the paper a reference is seen to Robert Haslam, who as "Pony Bob" shared honors with Buffalo Bill as an intrepid carrier. The stage line to Denver was called the Pikes Peak Express; and as readers may remember, the Pony Express was under way on April 3, 1860, the day on which a rider left Sacramento and another started from St. Joseph, the eastern terminus. An advertisement of the express in the New York Herald of March 26, 1860, was headed: "To San Francisco in Eight Days by The Central Overland California and Pike's Peak Express," and was signed by W. H. Russell, President, Leavenworth City, Kansas, March, 1860." If one had all the printed references to the Pony Express in one's possession, a whole shelf of the library would be necessary for the accommodation of the scrap-books.

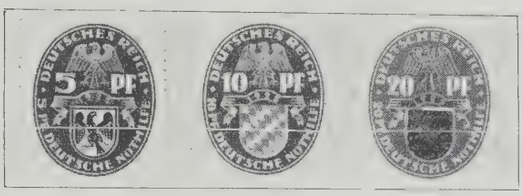
NEW GERMAN CHARITY STAMPS



Arns & Schrott submit for our inspection a set of the new German charity stamps. They were placed on sale December 15, and will remain on sale until January 15. After March 31 they will have no postal value.

The purpose of this set is similar to that of the Swiss pro juventute sets issued each year at Christmas for the benefit of suffering youth and people without work. The nominal values of these stamps are 5, 10 and 20 pfennig, but they are sold at double the prices indicated. The stamps may be used for inland and foreign post of all kinds. The 5pf shows the arms of Prussia, the 10pf Bavaria and the 20pf Saxony.

Messrs. Arns & Schrott believe that it is intended to issue a set of this kind every year. 12,000,000 of the 5 and 10pf values were issued and 4,000,000 of the 20pf.

DO YOU KNOW?

THAT the Hoover Stamp Auction in sending out some auction advertising to their patrons enclosed a 1926 calendar. Thanks for the copy sent to this office.

THAT the San Francisco "Examiner" of December 19 had an interesting article commenting favorably upon the evening talks given by A. F. Merell on the radio KFRC. Recently Mr. Merell obtained the services of President Wilhelm and Kenneth A. Millican, manager of the Pacific National Bank, to assist him in an evening's broadcasting. A letter from Mr. Merell contains the information that a great deal of interest is being manifested in his radio talks.

THAT Argentine will issue a commemorative set of four stamps July 1, the first centenary of the establishing of the Post Office and Telegraph Departments. There will be four types:—
3c green, Rivadavia (5 millions).
5c red, San Martin (300m).
12c blue, Buenos Aires P. O. Bdg. (15m).
25c brown, 1st, B. A. Building (10m).
Printed in London. Courtesy J. J. Arce.

THAT next week we shall issue a special number. It will mean a severe tax upon the resources of our print shop. If your paper of Jan. 25 is late in reaching you, don't get nervous. Give us a margin of two or three days.

THAT some subscribers get all tangled up in writing the WEEKLY. Once more, all remittances should be sent to Beverly. Suppose we write it ALL. Moreover ALL requests for changes of address and back numbers should be sent to Portland. Seems very plain to us.

THAT a special postmark was used on the Royal train during the Prince of Wales' recent tour in So. Africa. According to the "Philatelic Magazine" five values of the Union set received the marking.

A BIG LITTLE CITY

Sharon, Pa., does not show up very prominently on the map, but from a philatelic viewpoint it ranks with New York, Detroit and other stamp centers.

Naturally the number of collectors is not large, but they are a live, wide-awake bunch, and they have got the stamps, and they know stamps.

In how many of our leading cities can you produce three collectors who have all three 3c 1851 comprising the big crack?

Mr. John Thomas now has nearly a dozen albums of this one stamp. Blocks of four to ten, strips of three to nine, scores of pairs, an album of orange browns, one of railroad covers, containing a dozen not listed by Dr. Chase, and a great variety of combination rates which include the 3c stamp.

Mr. L. J. Schaunessy has made an intensive study of plate varieties, and can probably identify correctly as many "locations" as any specialist.

Messrs. J. F. Schartle and P. P. Wentz also have unusually fine specialized collections of U. S., while Mr. J. R. Dunfee is specializing in covers without stamps.

On the occasion of the writer's recent visit there the "boys" gathered at the residence of Mr. Thomas on Saturday evening. The "evening" session broke up at 2.30 in the morning, to be resumed at 10 o'clock, and it was with difficulty that they were persuaded to close with fifteen minutes to catch the train for home.

I hate to tell tales out of school, but, this bunch of "boys" recently drove all night to spend a day with Bro. Brown at Olean, N. Y.

They are now working as a "press gang" dragging in new recruits for the A. P. S., so as to have the requisite number to organize a branch.—MacLaren's Stamp Hunter.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

NOTE.—In lieu of regular U. S. notes this week Mr. Ward contributes the article elsewhere in this issue, "Future of Envelope Stamps." This article is well worth the special display accorded it.—W. O. W.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC. — The centenary of the introduction of the postal service in the Argentine (by Bernardino Rivadavia) is to be celebrated in July next by the issue of commemorative stamps. According to M. Champion, the designs will include portraits of prominent personalities and a picture of the first Argentine post office in 1826 or of the present-day G. P. O. in Buenos Aires. — Stamp Collecting.

BELGIUM. — Owing to the sudden increase in the inland rate from 25c to 30c, many letters have had to be surtaxed double the deficiency, with a consequent big demand for 10c Postage Due stamps. It seems that a few days ago the stock of these at the Charleroi G. P. O. was entirely exhausted, and authority was given, for three days only, to use the ordinary postal adhesives bearing a hand-stamped letter "T."—Stamp Collecting.

BELGIUM.—We have received from Mr. Henry Hooreman the 1fr, type of Scott's A59, in blue.

Mr. Hooreman also sends for chronicle a set of three stamps bearing the words "Pro Tuberculatis Belli" with the usual red cross just above. The three values are, 15c+5c lilac, 30c+5c gray green and 1fr+10c blue.

CAPE JUBY.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 5c red violet, 10c blue green and 20c violet of the 1922-25 series of Spain with the surcharged "Cabo Juby" in black, in the same manner as the 1919 overprint.

DENMARK.—Mr. R. Roberts forwards a copy of the 2kr grey and claret, watermarked multiple crosses.

Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of 30o and 40o orange, type of Scott's A16, perf. and watermark as before.

FRANCE. — During October Caen, in Normandy, indulged in a Philatelic Exhibition all to itself, the proceeds being intended for the benefit of the Post and Telegraph Orphange. A special post office was installed in the Exhibition hall and letters deposited there were postmarked "Caen * 25-10-25 Kermese Postale." For the occasion the War Orphans stamps of 1917-18 were placed on sale and accepted for postal use on all such letters.—Stamp Collecting.

GERMANY.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us three new Charity stamps, watermarked chicken wire and perf. 14. They are 5+5pf green, yellow and black (Arms of Prussia); 10+10pf red and light blue (Arms of Bavaria) and 20+20pf dark blue, pale brown and black (Arms of Saxony).

HEDJAZ.—Our Alexandria correspondent, Mr. A. Sempad, having previously advised us that no errors were to be found on the sheets of the 10 piastres stamps with the year overprint on the left, now informs us that he has just discovered a sheet of this adhesive with the following varieties:—Counting from right, the 20th, 27th, 46th and 50th stamps have the year inverted and the 14th, 37th, 48th and 50th have the "5 Rabi el Awal" also inverted.—Stamp Collecting.

HOLLAND. — The 9 cent, foretold in Stamp Collecting, No. 629, has not yet appeared. The 1 gulden and 5 gulden are to appear very shortly in the current type of the lower values. The 2.50g will, however, not be re-issued for the time being on account of the large stock on hand of the present type.

The postal authorities state that there is a large stock of the first printing of the current 35c still on hand, that since October 1st the quantity sold has fallen off considerably (presumably in consequence of change of postal tariff), and that consequently further printing will be suspended for the time being; there is no definite intention to withdraw it at present.

We are indebted to our Rotterdam Special Correspondent, Mr. P. Gordon, for the foregoing. He also informs us that the 1 cent has now appeared with the syncopated perforation. — Stamp Collecting.

HUNGARY.—From Continental sources we learn that Hungary is to have a new currency, the "pengö," as from January 1, 1927, but the idea does not seem to be popular with the Magyars, for the reason that the necessary mental calculations will involve the following operations: multiply the value in krone by eight, strike out the two noughts of the total, and divide the result by one hundred. Cross word puzzles won't be in it!

So far as we can gather the pengö will be on a parity with the German gold

FOR EXCHANGE

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

ITALY.—Messrs. Bright & Son report e 1 lira, brown and green, of 1901, perf., in a used block of 4 on cover. is does not seem to be listed in the icial Italian catalogue. L'Echo states at the 70 on 60c rose, Express, has been ught at a Padua post office, with surarge inverted. — Stanley Gibbons onthly Journal.

ITALIAN COLONIES. — The recently ised King's Jubilee stamps of 60c and lira have been overprinted for Tripolania, Cirenaica, Eritrea, Italian Somaliid and Jubaland. Our agent states t they are being issued in Rome, the e being at present restricted to five sets ten varieties to each purchaser.—Whitld King & Co.'s Bulletin.

JAPAN.—Messrs. Yuasa & Co. state t improvements are to be made in the rforation of the 3 sen, the value in greatest demand for inland use. A Gerrotary machine, which both prints d perforates the stamp, is to be emyed, instead of the old hand-perforatmachine. The gauge will be the same, t the registering of the perforation will better, and the holes will be slightly ger. — Stanley Gibbons Monthly rnal.

SALVADOR.—The new Centenary of San Salvador issue arrived too late to be put on sale during the celebrations, hence the issue of the 2c provisional, previously listed. The plates of the Centenary issue have been destroyed by Messrs. Waterlow & Sons, Ltd., in the presence of the Consul for Salvador. All these stamps have been largely speculated in by Post Office officials.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

SPAIN. — In the November Bulletin Mensuel we find the terms of a decree, dated October 12th, authorizing the preparation and issue — in March next — of postage stamps to commemorate the sixty-second anniversary of the foundation of the Spanish Red Cross. STAMPS FOR CHURCH SCHOOLS

BRUSSELS, Dec. 18.—The Belgians collect old stamps, corks, silver paper, etc., and send them to church-training colleges, where they are sold for the benefit of national missions. The mission workers have just counted up how much these little objects have produced from 1891 to 1923, and have discovered the nice sum of 425,000 francs. Of this amount, 300,000 was produced from old stamps, the collecting of which is the particular work of Liege. With this money the Belgian Congo is richer by six villages, one hospital and thirty-nine farm chapels—Balto Sun.

STAMP MARKET—LOOKING ROUND

By "MARQUETTE"

I have received a most interesting letter from a reader who heartily endorses my recent remarks re the value of postally used modern issues of many British Colonies. It seems certain that an investment in these should prove profitable when their comparative scarcity is more widely realised.

The same reader asks for my views on the recent Egyptian "Geographical Congress" stamps. I believe our Publishers are still able to supply these at half a crown a set, but there are very few on the market. On the other hand, though the numbers printed were not large, it must be remembered that there are plenty of speculators in Egypt, who probably took the bulk of the issue, so that no very startling rise need be looked for as yet. Probably they will steady down at between 3s 6d and 5s.

A group which received renewed attention of late consists of British East Africa, Zanzibar, and Uganda. All issues of these countries are now in steady demand. Another country which should be watched is North Borneo. Many of the once despised Pictorials are getting very short in unused or postally used condition, and stocks are depleted. The old-time prejudices against certain pictorial and unnecessary issues have been broken down during the past few years, probably because they are now numerically unimportant in comparison with the flood of new issues of the past ten years, while the passage of time tends to give them the dignity of age.

A New Zealand correspondent tells me that there are no stocks of the recently withdrawn 8d, Official, in the Dominion, so that it should pay to pick up a few if they can be found in English stocks.

Another Australasian tip concerns the 1s, Commonwealth Due, wmk. Type D5, perf. 14, which was only on sale for about a month in 1923. Readers who are able to pick this up while it is about should not be losers. Its present catalogue price (No. D86) has been cancelled.

I repeat my warning that Irish controls are worth getting while they are still obtainable at moderate rates. The Irish demand is not a "boom," but an almost world-wide call for stamps in which everybody is interested, and of many of which there are not enough to go round. In the rise which must follow on such a condition of things, the controls must share—and remember, there is only one control to 240 ordinary stamps.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

RANDOM NOTES:—

Recently F. B. Turpin of London advertised some Cayman Island stamps, and unfortunately Yvert's numbers were quoted instead of Scott's. We make this statement at the request of Mr. Turpin, who believes that the advertisement in question may cause him some embarrassment.

J. L. Riedel of Nurnberg, Bavaria, writes us from Paris under date of Dec. 22, and sends us the advertisement, which appears elsewhere in this issue. We quote from his letter:—"I am in Paris at present and although business is not as brisk as the low value of the franc would indicate, it is much livelier than the next biggest countries from the philatelic point of view, viz.:—England and Germany. I came here for the first time seventeen years ago when I was but a young fellow. Many things have changed since, but the charm of the Ville Lumiere is and always will be the same."

The veteran dealer, J. E. Handshaw, is now wintering in Florida, where he has a splendid plantation. He is enjoying excellent health and is still dealing in stamps, as will be noticed from the advertisement in this issue.

We have received a set of Belgian Charity stamps from J. L. Riedel. The stamps were issued Dec. 15, and there are three values in the set:—15+5, 30+5 and 1fr+10.

Alois von Isakovics, Monticello, N. Y., A. S. D. A. 324 and S. P. A. 3770, who has used considerable advertising space in recent months, announces that in the future he will operate under the name of the Alvonis Co. He informs us that the WEEKLY has been a profitable advertising medium.

Amongst our numerous holiday greetings was a letter from W. T. Wilson of Birmingham, England, accompanied with a copy of one of the best British Christmas annuals, the "Sphere." It is certainly a handsome production. Many thanks.

A clipping is at hand from Francis M. Bothelho, Ph. D., taken from the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. It deals with the interest that Henry Lewis Appleton takes in stamp collecting. Mr. Appleton is a member of a large hardware concern in Philadelphia and his interest in philately has extended over a good many years. His collection fills twenty-three large volumes in his library.

MISSIONARY NUMBER

Special Collections

10,000 Varieties

Reduced to $87.50

"The 10,000 variety collection arrived and is highly satisfactory. We don't know how you do it, but if your supply holds out we can surely use plenty of them. Please book our order for one collection each month and forward another at once!" — Pikes Peak Stamp Co., Colorado Springs, Colo.

This collection has scores of good points which lack of space prohibits us from enumerating here. There are thousands of the attractive picture stamps which are in such demand by the great class of medium collectors; page after page of picturesque Persians, animal stamps from Benadir, North Borneo, Nyassa; war tax and commemorative issues of many British Colonials; hundreds of South and Central America; over 1,000 French Colonials and about half as many Portuguese—these are but a few of the fine things contained.

The collection having been assembled in Belgium with the Yvert & Tellier catalogue as a guide, will contain possibly one or two hundred stamps not listed by Scott. These few varieties, however, will not detract from the excellent value of the collection, which will probably catalogue in the neighborhood of $700.00.

The stamps are mounted in ten large approval books, each page being blocked to hold 25 stamps and ruled to permit the insertion of catalogue number, value and net price under each stamp. If desired the pages can be removed from the books and sent individually to approval customers, thus effecting a big saving of time and labor.

A truly remarkable offering for the 1926 season at

The "Commodore" Collection of 12,000 Different

"The 12,000 variety packet (mounted) was most certainly a wonder and we'll want another one shortly." H. W. Myers & Co., Berkeley, Calif.

"The collection of 12,000 varieties arrived yesterday. I looked it over last night and want to thank you for the best lot of stamps I have ever seen for the money." Stuart Horn, Wilmington, Delaware.

"The 12,000 variety collection is more than satisfactory. I bought one of these collections last year from another source, but find yours to be as different as day from night. Am sure I can make large profits in reselling the stamps." G. C. Rheinfrank, 2031 Berenice Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Our "Commodore" Collection of 12,000 Varieties represents a real, dyed-in-the-wool opportunity for the collector, exchanger or dealer!

Neatly mounted in twelve large books and containing a relatively large number of the scarcer stamps which are seldom seen in an offering of this size, the collection is unequivocally guaranteed to give complete satisfaction or money and return postage will be refunded without question.

Catalogue value is estimated at approximately One Thousand Dollars!

for $475.00

This collection, one of our "best sellers" to dealers and collectors wh want the best, contains twenty thousand all different stamps, in good conditio and neatly mounted in twenty large books.

Having been assembled according to the Yvert catalogue, several hundre varieties not listed by Scott will be found, but the percentage is so small that w feel the outstanding excellence of the collection as a whole is not affected i any way.

The exact catalogue value has not been computed, but will probably tota more than $2,500, with some of the stamps cataloguing up to several dollar each.

The collection is guaranteed to be of as good if not better value than thos of the same size offered by firms in this country and abroad at prices rangin from $600 to $1,000; it is sold on the understanding that the purchaser ma have ten days in which to make an examination and that the full purchase pric will be refunded if he is not highly satisfied.

Un used stamps are in the majority and used copies are lightly cancelled in mos cases. Condition throughout is excellent, great care having evidently bee taken by the former owner in the selection of fine copies.

Total catalogue value is estimated at more than $1,750.00.

Catalogue valuations on Portuguese colonials have been reduced to un justifiable lengths the past two years and many of these stamps, particularly th scarcer varieties, are now underpriced.

The collection, which we do not believe could be duplicated at retail— stamp for stamp—for less than eight hundred dollars, is a genuine bargain a our price of

The Charm of It All!

By WILLARD O. WYLIE

WE are creatures of fancy and we cannot be ourselves unless we give it play. So a great host of men and women who delight in the artistic, who revel in intricate problems, who desire tangible possessions, turn to the cult of philately to give them real rest and refreshment.

This great number of the world's greatest stamp paper dignifies philately as the pre-eminent hobby of the day. You are invited not merely to make a courtesy towards it, not merely to taste and see, but to drink deeply of the "Pierian spring."

You are urged to delve into the mysteries and intricacies of a hobby that is most entrancing, that numbers in its ranks all degrees of intellect and wealth and wins the kid and the king to its manifold charms.

THE FORUM—UNITED STATES ISSUES 1847-70

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Herewith a very patriotic selection of obliterators, starting in 1851, and ending in 1883. (They run right thro till today, as our present machine cancels are flags, so please do not be surprised if you have one not shown in this lot—there are a great many of them.)

Some wrote in that they had a Maltese Cross not shown among the ten in our first lot. There are possibly 100 Maltese Cross cancels. If you have a pretty, or unusual type, that is not in our designs, let it come and welcome.

Under "Town" heading you will see that we have five of this group listed, a percentage better than normal. When you see a town with "?", it will be appreciated if you can send the name of this town for future listings in a group every month or so. Have had no criticism of this arrangement of groups, so this will be the "layout" right thro the whole gamut of cancellations.

No. 1 in this group is made in the same style as Nos. 2 and 4 in Jan. 11. Pretty cancels. Albany, N. Y., is the home of many handsome designs, many of patriotic nature. Am sorry that I could not find a copy of the Lincoln on cover in order to show it complete. They used U. S. in a circle with stars cut in this circular frame right much, and it makes a pretty obliterator.

Many birds have been sent in, some so indistinct that I was unable to draw them—or even see them! Please send only the birds that have two wings, and look like birds! Have had butterflies (?) with all the way from one to five wings, will not bother to show them to you. Sometimes a stamp will be lapped over another on a cover, and if the two stamps are heavily hit this will leave a series of small points (where the perforations were on stamp above) looking like sawteeth, and often mistaken for a "saw". Pen cancels are sometimes called "Folded umbrellas" or "canes" etc. Often a pen cancel is made like our dollar mark ($), and you'll sometimes see them in the same

Unused U. S. Imperfs.

Plate Positions

Just on the off chance that there may be collectors engaged in plating Scott's No. 29 who have not filed their want lists with us we give the following list of identified positions at present in stock:

LEFT PANE, NOS. 6, 14, 26, 27, 42, 47, 57, 59, 63, 71, 72, 78, 87, 90, 97.

RIGHT PANE, NOS. 1, 8, 12, 15, 26, 31, 37, 41, 42, 43, 45, 55, 65, 71, 72, 73, 74, 78, 80, 83, 95.

In addition to these we have scattered about in approval selections or in stock but not plated another score or more. Most of these rate "very fine"; none are poor. There are a few pairs, a strip of three, and many fine covers. Of minor varieties we note, 3 copies of the shift in POST OFFICE, both X shifts, and the shift at bottom; there is the HAIR LIP (which we first mistook for a pencancelled copy), several SHORT TRANSFERS, some split and overdrawn frame-lines.

If You Work on the 12c Stamps of 1851-57

We have in stock many of the outstanding varieties of recutting, some of the important shifts, a number of pairs and strips.

IF YOU ARE WORKING ON ANY EXHIBIT FOR THE INTERNATIONAL SHOW YOU CAN'T LOSE BY FILING YOUR WANT LIST WITH US.

form with the bottoms of the two vertical lines thro the S united, making a monogram US, which is said to be the forerunner of the $ sign.

Mr. D. H. Stafford has shown me a 3c 1851, cover pmkd. "Jul 11 1853, New York", has anyone an earlier copy, or one dated later than July 26, with the 1853 year date inside the pmk.? He also has a very neat design on 3c '61 cover from Old Point Comfort to N. Y. City with MISSENT in a curve with a flat base containing the word FORWARDED, while the AND comes inside the space between the curve and bottom base. It is a very neat design.

From Mr. L. W. Robitaille comes a magnificent cover, 10c '51 Type III, with wide margins all round, the left side running way out beyond the center line, which in this plate is 5mm from the edge of the design. The "pmk" is a rectangle (hit twice over the stamp) 11mm high and 50mm long, differing materially from any pmk. I have ever seen on an early U. S. stamp. Inside the rectangle the top line reads "ROLLING PRAIRIE WIS." in small thin capitals, while the line below shows the date, probably "Jan 16, 1858", to judge from the dated letter inside, which is from the home of our dear old friend "Matilda Ann", Beaver Dam, Wis. The letter goes to Folsom, Calif. The writer says that his farm is on the Milwaukee & LaCrosse R. R. and he is delighted with the location, even as I am with this beautiful cover.

Mr. Louis Sinise has sent in two documents dated 1857 and 1870. These are Postage Receipts, about the size of a pocket check of today. At left in an ornate frame we read "POSTAGE DUE". That of 1857 has a printed form with the P. M.'s name, and the town, Hollidaysburg P. O., Pa. It reads "Box 130 to P. M., Dr., To letter postage .03; To Newspaper Postage .20; To Box Rent .25; Total .48 for July to Oct." This is receipted by the Hollidaysburg pmk., and the word "PAID", as we see it so frequently falling on covers and stamps.

Mr. Franz Miller has shown me the oldest stamp album in printed form that I have seen. It looks not unlike our Scott Specialized in its leather cover, tho it has a flap held in place by a strap around the little volume as a civil engineer's field book. The fly leaf reads "THE POSTAGE STAMP COLLECTOR'S POCKET ALBUM, WITH A COMPLETE TABLE OF ALL THE KNOWN STAMPS. SECOND EDITION, ENLARGED AND CORRECTED TO THE PRESENT TIME."

If you would like to know exactly how many stamps there were at this time (1864), this book lists them all—Europe 901, America 557, Asia 53, Africa 52, and Oceanica 126, Total 1689. It was published by "D. Appleton & Co. 1864". The pages are stamped in pink, and the pages are made to hold either 8 or 15 stamps. There are some beautiful Ceylons, and early U. S. The pmks. of note are an O.K. on 1c 1869, and three P. O. Dept. stamps, one having pale blue "quarterings", the other two with pmks. in same color, one reading "STAMP DIVISION P—— Nov 17 1877". This ring is about 26mm, and some of you may be able to supply the missing portion. It is a very neat little affair, and a great contrast to the albums of today.

FAR AND NEAR:—

Herman W. Boers of Detroit, Mich., in renewing his subscription, calls our attention to the fact that he is one of our oldtime subscribers. He first subscribed when the paper was published in St. Louis, and this was 29 years ago. Mr. Boers mentions a score of dealers who advertised in our columns in 1896 and of the number only Morgenthau, Bartels, Wolsieffer, Scott Co. and E. T. Parker are now actively dealing. Mr. Boers is publicity representative of the Michigan Stamp Club and has contributed a great deal of matter to the philatelic press. His name is a familiar one to the readers of our publication.

We are indebted to Gerald D. Bliss of Cristobal, Canal Zone, for a very interesting airmail cover. It was posted at Cristobal 7 A. M., Dec. 29 per Plane No 41 and received a San Jose, Costa Rica, postmark the same day. The inscription of the San Jose postmark reads as follows:—"San Jose—Servicio Aero—DIC—29—1925—Recibo", in six lines. The cover reached Beverly January 11. On the reverse side of the cover is a postal marking as follows:—"San Jose—Servicio—Aero—Transito".

A 13c Harrison mailed from Washington, D. C., Jan. 11, the day of issue, has been received from Albert E. Gorham. Thanks for the courtesy. Mr. Gorham also advises us that he recently addressed a stamp club at the Central High School, numbering about thirty of the students. Also that Fred S. Gichner has surprised the Washington Society by making and presenting a handsome metal hat and coat rack.

"I am sure it would interest your readers to know that the Philatelic Society of the Oranges obtained a warrant for the arrest of Chas. E. Cowell, former salesmanager, on a charge of embezzlement. As yet we have been unable to locate Cowell, but believe he is operating in the New England States. Should any of your readers know of his whereabouts they should notify the East Orange police or F. E. Tappan, 108 Riggs Place, West Orange, or both."—J. G. JEWETT.

Plans are progressing nicely for the second annual stamp exhibit of the Washington Philatelic Society to be held in the Public Library, Feb. 1-14 inclusive, under the able leadership of Col. W. N. McKelvy, Chairman of the Exhibition Committee, who, by the way, is scheduled for the next talk before the Society on the Stamps of Hayti. The lecture recently given by Vice President James F. Duhamel being a revelation on the discovery, settlement and development of the stamp issuing countries of Africa. There has been so much interest manifested in the meetings of the Society that they are now being held weekly instead of 2nd and 4th Wednesdays, in the new headquarters, 1333 G St., N. W. Meetings of the committee on exhibit are also being held weekly, and the Post Office Department and Philatelic Agency will co-operate with exhibits.—ALBERT E. GORHAM.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL
A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.
Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."
C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."
The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

Stamps As An Investment
Cut this out and show it to your wife and non-philatelic friends. In 1891, when I started collecting, Scott's catalogue listed 33 postage stamps of Netherlands, used, at a total value of $1.73. (1 light blue was 6c; 3, 12c; 6, 12c.) Now the same 33 stamps list $38.23, an increase of $36.50, which is over 21 times their 1891 value. This is an average increase of 6 times every ten years. I have made a study of stamps as an investment and shall be glad to write you on the subject. There is a certain unchanging rule which if followed in your stamp investments you can't go wrong. I sell stamps by approvals. Tell me about yourself and what you like best. 20th Century Brit. Colonials at 50% dis. Old Europe and U. S., too.

MR. BATES SPEAKS AT CLEVELAND

BY PROXY HIS PAPER WAS READ AT A MEETING OF GARFIELD-PERRY STAMP CLUB

Reported by W. G. WHITTAKER.

I am both flattered and embarrassed in appearing before you tonight. I can not help having a sensation of extreme pleasure that so many of you who have known me so long and who have so often listened to my chatter regarding my own especial hobbies should have turned out tonight to listen to me again. At the same time I am embarrassed because of necessity many of the things I shall say to you tonight I have told over and over again.

It is rather odd that at the very time I am withdrawing from activity in the pursuit of the Three Cent Green I should be talking to you on the subject of the Bank Note issues. However, my reason for discontinuing my activities in specialization is simply that the time has come when my business demands practically all my time and not because of any disloyalty. It happens that I am so constituted that I cannot be happy to have a certain collection in my possession unless I can be continually devoting time to it and to increasing it.

However, as most of you know, I am not withdrawing from the philatelic field. I have selected for my future pastime a sideline that does not require anywhere near the time or study that my Three Cent Green Collection did. I find that by now I am even more interested in this sideline and expect to get a maximum of pleasure at a minimum of cost, both of time and money.

Three or four years ago I made the assertion in print that specialization in the lower values of early United States stamps had been sadly neglected. I modified this statement by saying that while probably just as much had been printed about early low values before 1890, most of which are comparatively cheap in price and accessible consequently to the average collector as had been printed about the five and ten cent 47 and other costly gems, the editors of the stamp press had not given the cheaper stamps anywhere near the play they merited by reasons of the great interest in them on the part of the majority of collectors.

Right away the editor of MEKEEL'S rose up to say that if I would supervise the editing of the kind of material I spoke of he would print it. You all know the results. Today our good friend Atherton and others are carrying on the work most wonderfully and there is scarcely an issue of any stamp magazine of merit that does not carry articles that will help almost any fellow to turn to his accumulations of stamps that sell for a dollar or a few dollars a thousand and have a lot of fun looking for some heretofore unknown variety.

In spite of the vast increase in interest in specialization in these lower priced stamps that has been evident in recent years, I say to you tonight that I believe the subject is still in its infancy.

The other day I heard a fellow say that a friend of his told him he had met a fellow who had said he heard a dealer say that the collecting of cancellations was on the wane. Really, that makes me laugh.

Another said that there were four or five collections or accumulations of United States stamps so vast in themselves that when, at some future time, they came on the market it would result in a material lowering of prices. Again, it is to laugh.

What about the unloading of the Ferrari accumulation. Did that lower prices? Not by a jugful. Stamps that he bought many, many years ago for tens of dollars brought thousands. It probably did more than anything else to strengthen the market and raise prices. And I say to all of you who are commercially minded that the unloading of any future accumulations will only serve to establish new high marks in the value of similar material that you own and there will always be enough collectors to absorb anything that comes onto the market.

As for cancellations being on the wane, I cannot see any reason for the statement. The craze for them seems to be getting stronger and stronger all the time, old supplies and stocks are being absorbed into thousands of collections and each year we see thousands of old time collectors turning to specialization.

One future development that we will all see will be a greater interest in minor varieties. More and more collectors will turn to an intensive study of plate, paper and printing, and the interest in dots, scratches, double transfers, cracked plates and the like will grow in intensity every year.

The big reason why I make this statement in absolute confidence is that I find that about nine out of ten collectors are to some degree commercially minded.

Now I don't mean to belittle or commercialize our hobby. We all, or at least most of us, enjoy the aesthetic side of collecting. The stamp collector is a combination of the artist, poet and connoisseur — he loves his stamps as the Eastern potentate might love his collection of precious stones. The pastime educates him, inspires him to greater accomplishments in his outside life, brings him delightful companionships and makes him a broader man.

But aside from all that if it wasn't for the fact that most of us know that our money, conservatively and wisely invested in certain kinds of postage stamps, will bring us an ever increasing return as the years go on, I don't think many would accumulate valuable collections.

That then is one of the fascinations of specialization. We study a certain few stamps and get to know more about them than the average fellow. Others bring these stamps to us at prices that seem excellent to them, we discover a pin point or hairline that we alone know about and right away we magnify the value in our own minds. The result is that the seller thinks he is holding us up and we have that pleasurable thrill which only comes when we feel we are getting the best of the other chap. And not because this tiny bit of printed paper with its pin point or hairline is worth any more than it was before, but because of our own foolish but at the same time divine faith in the accuracy of our own opinions we make it worth what we believe it to be worth and in time others come to agree with us. Therefore a profit has been made and that I hold is one of the big fascinations of the game.

Now what I speak of can be done with almost any stamp there is. But really, there's not much fun doing it unless it is a stamp in which a lot of our friends or acquaintances are interested in. I tried it once with Mexico. I had a nice collection of plate varieties and district cancellations, freak perforations, ruled papers, watermarks and the like and enjoyed them greatly for a time. Then I brought them around to the stamp club and the first fellow I met drew a long face—you know the expression I mean—and said: "Hum, yes, those are nice, but you can't sell 'em—nobody wants them." The next fellow yawned and said: "Why don't you collect black Jacks?" And finding nobody interested in them I got rid of them and decided to collect something the other fellow was interested in.

Right here in our own country everyone is interested in United States, just as our British cousins go wild over penny blacks. And because the volume of the present and late issues is so tremendous that a fellow would have to devote a lifetime to them to make any kind of a decent showing, the greatest interest naturally is in the earlier issues, especially the rarer ones.

There was a time when no specialist could see any merit in any United States stamps after 1869. But in the last ten or fifteen years so many thousands of collectors have turned to specialization in one form or another and the very earliest issues have been absorbed so fast that there has been a turning to later issues and today even the most hardened of hardshell oldtime collectors will admit that any United States before 1890 is good property. In the decade to come we may expect to see the interest extended to the Columbian issue and others up to about the beginning of the present century.

From the experience I have had and the sense it has given me of the things philatelic I want to prophesy to you tonight that you'll find the Bank Note issues during the next few years the most profitable investment you can make.

Bank Notes are still much undervalued. Some denominations it is true are still available in thousand lots and a few in tens of thousands, but go out and try to turn up an absolutely unpicked lot of 5,000 of any of them and see how long it takes you to get it.

In my pursuit of the Three Cent Green I have made some lucky finds. But really I only found a few scattered unpicked lots. Someone had gone over most of them and removed the kicking mules, the skulls and crossbones, the unsevered blocks and other valuables.

But when it comes to minor varieties, the situation changes. Many of the lots that were not prolific in yielding valuable cancellations brought me stitch watermarks, shifted transfers, double papers and many other valuable varieties.

One of the finest and scarcest things I know of, the big gash on Washington's throat on the 1879 three center came to me out of the poorest little lot you ever saw—it made me sick to look at them at first.

Another piece that I consider of extreme rarity—a pair of the 1879's showing the line through the bottom labels on both stamps, crossing the margin in the center, was likewise an original find of mine.

I bought a shifted transfer in the 1873 issue that I call the all-over shift from a

SPECIALIST IN ALL ISSUES TO 1880

10 WEST 86TH STREET NEW YORK

CHIPS:—

Scattered through this issue are numerous advertisements of the Hussman Stamp Co., a firm which has patronized the WEEKLY through a long term of years. Some two years ago the firm re-organized its business and Mr. Calman, the new manager, has put pep into the affairs of the concern. One cannot fail to note the offerings in this issue.

Mr. Watson of the C. S. Watson Co. informs us that Mr. Polk, the firm's office manager, was seriously injured in the crash at the Pasadena grand-stand on New Year's Day. This will come as news to many of Mr. Polk's Boston friends, who will sympathize with him.

Our old friend J. H. Houston, the veteran dealer of Washington, D. C., is advertising in this number. While not as active as in former days he nevertheless likes the dealing atmosphere. In a letter just at hand he encloses a picture taken outside the Capitol building. Mr. Houston will be 76 years old July 4.

The two-column advertisement of the Metropolitan Stamp Co., is but the beginning of a series of advertisements of this character. After running the same, our Portland printshop will make reprints for a price list. Other firms will do well to consider this method of obtaining a price list at a low figure, combined with the profit that must result from circularizing our entire mailing list.

The Contract Air Mail Service announces that first flights from Chicago to Detroit, Cleveland to Detroit, Detroit to Chicago, and Detroit to Cleveland, scheduled for Feb. 1, 1926, have been postponed to Feb. 15. Thanks to Albert E. Gorham.

The Saturday Afternoon Stamp Club (N. Y. City) will hold its annual dinner at the Pierrette Tea Room, 15 S. Williams St., N. Y. City, Saturday, Feb. 13, at 1 P. M. Interested parties will please communicate with the Secretary, C. H. Fournier, 226 W. 25th St., N. Y. City. Price of dinner tickets will be $1.50.

907 HAROLD AVE., HOUSTON, TEXAS

Member American Stamp Dealers Association No. 200.

Safety.—A bluish paper, originally used for British Revenue stamps, being so prepared that any attempt to remove the writing-ink obliteration would destroy the impression.

Surfaced-Coloured Paper.—Paper coloured on the surface only and provisionally employed for certain British Colonial stamps during a shortage of dyed paper, usually termed "white backs."

Toned.—Paper with a slight tint.

PERFORATION.—Clean Cut.—Denotes that the holes are well cut out.

Comb.—A machine which perforates three sides of each stamp in a row at the same time.

Harrow.—A machine which perforates a block or sheet of stamps at one operation.

Machine Perforation.—Rows of holes punched between the stamps, the small round pieces of paper being cut out.

Perforation.—(Perf., Pf.). First devised by Henry Archer, in 1852, as a more convenient mode of separating stamps than cutting them apart with scissors. It consists of small rows of holes, punched out from between the stamps to facilitate their separation.

Pin Perforation.—A row of small holes, merely pricked between the stamps without removing any paper.

Rough.—When the holes are not clean cut, but ragged.

Roulette.—A line of short cuts, either straight, oblique, or triangular, punched between the stamps. A primitive form of perforation.

Single Line or Guillotine.—A machine which perforates one vertical or horizontal row at a time.

Plate.—The metal sheet or block from which the designs are transferred or printed on to the paper.

Plate Numbers.—The number of each plate of a particular value appearing on the margin, or sometimes on the stamp itself.

Postage Due Stamps.—Adhesives affixed by officials on letters, etc., to denote that same has been insufficiently prepaid.

Postmark.—Sometimes called cancellation or obliteration. The official method of defacing a stamp so that it cannot again be used for postal purposes.

Proof.—Trial impression before printing in black or colour from a die, plate, or stone. A proof is usually on different paper, or differs in some detail from the stamp.

Provisional.—Stamps used to meet a temporary shortage; usually another denomination is surcharged with the value required.

Re-cut, Re-drawn, Re-engraved, Retouched.—These terms imply slight repairs or alterations of the die, plate, or stone, generally necessitated by wear.

Remainders.—Stocks of stamps remaining on hand after that particular issue has been superseded or withdrawn.

Reprints.—(Fr., réimpression; Ger., Neudruck; Sp., reimpresión).—Impressions taken from original printing plates or stones of stamps that have ceased to be issued by the post office, as specimens for sale to collectors or otherwise.

Se tenant.—Means "joined together." A term used when two stamps have not been separated, the one generally being an error or variety.

Sheet of Stamps.—An entire unsevered quantity of stamps as printed.

Specimen.—Stamps overprinted thus have been sent to the members of the "Universal Postal Union," or to postmasters as samples of new issues.

Strip.—An unsevered row of stamps, either vertical or horizontal.

Sulphuretted.—Erroneously termed "oxidized." A change of colour, generally due to action of fumes of sulphur upon the printing ink.

Surcharge.—An "overprint" which confirms or alters the value of a stamp.

Tête-bêche.—Signifies the inversion of one stamp of a pair in relation to the other. When such a pair is severed the peculiarity disappears.

Un=unused.—A stamp that has not done postal duty.

Us=used.—A stamp that has done postal duty.

Used Abroad.—Are stamps of one country which are used in another, or in a Colony, the only means of detection being the postmark.

Variety.—A variation from the normal design or other feature.

War Stamp.—(Fr., Timbre de guerre; Ger., Kriegsmarken; Sp., emisiones de guerra.)—A stamp whose issue has been necessitated or influenced by the circumstance of a state of war or blockade.

Watermark.—(Wmk.) A mark made in paper in the forms of letters, figures, words, or designs.—"Stamp Collecting" Annual.

OLD AGE INSURANCE

By PAUL FLOYD CORNISH.

The haunting skeleton of old age rattles in our mental closets frequently, in spite of our efforts at keeping the door locked and the key hole plugged, by telling ourselves that we are young yet and that our evening time of life is far away. In the noon-day of life our many interests keep us bright and mentally alert, but in the afternoon, one by one these interests fade partly or entirely out and as a grandfather or a great grandfather we may find ourselves rusting out rather than wearing out. To learn, to cultivate a hobby or some business that we can carry on, independent of location or circumstances should prove an asset of value; for nothing can take the place of an active mind, an ability to do and be a man among men with a lively interest in world affairs.

A man called at my office recently, a dealer in stamps for forty-six years, past eighty years old, on his way from Montreal to a city of the Central West. A collector from early boyhood, a lover of stamps, with as keen a mind as a schoolboy of today, but his wife is gone, his children are grown, and left to himself he finds in his stamps and the friends he has made a pleasure far greater than any kind of wealth could bring him. He has something to tie to in the Autumn and Winter of life.

We can insure against material want but money cannot purchase peace and content for a mind that finds no interest outside of its own narrow mental path. Stamp collecting is one of the broadest and most adaptable combinations of pleasure and business that can be learned by young and old of either sex.

We shall dread to hear the old age skeleton rattle far less if we know that laid away on our mental shelves is a wealth of knowledge that will enable us to enjoy life when evening comes.

HOW TO BOOST STAMP COLLECTING

By R. D. MacGuffin.

Once upon a time there was a stamp dealer who, thinking to avoid being asked to buy back in a year or two the stamps he sold to collectors, made it his custom to say, "Now, Mr. Collector, get the right slant on this. Stamps are great fun and beautiful recreation and education, but do not expect to get your money back. At least the first hundred dollars you should charge up to fun and kiss it goodbye. We want you to have your fun and to forget all sordidness. So do not expect me to buy these stamps back." After a time a committee of stamp dealers and collectors, seeing his methods and knowing that he was seriously hurting philately, called on him and said, "We know that in the course of time you will go broke and leave, but in the meantime we want to know your motive for trying to put philately on the bum. It has become noised abroad that money put into stamps is money lost, because none other than the stamp dealer says so. Money is timid and easily scared. Why do you scare it away?" To which this stamp dealer replied, "Leave me alone. I will build up a clientele of the right class of people, who are above sordid motives." So they went their way and he continued his methods and to the astonishment of many there were a few people who did buy from him, enough to keep him ekeing out an existence and philately barely alive, but with no more pep than one could expect from people who are indifferent to the value of money.

Folks, money is the most interesting thing on earth. Love and marriage and beauty and food and shelter and life itself, all are made possible by sordidness and money. Stamps are a good investment, stamps and money go hand in hand and cannot possibly be divorced. Nevertheless there are many in the industry and many collectors who say, because they do not think, that money put into stamps is money spent for amusement, spent and gone. If stamp collecting can survive such tactics, or salesmanship, if you can call it such, how it would boom if intelligent methods of salesmanship were used and the facts presented in the way that would attract all mentally alert people. No person who is indifferent to money is mentally alert. We must show that stamps are a good investment if we are to attract the pepful man who does things or at least as many of that kind as stamps deserve to attract.

Have we the facts on our side? Can we prove by figures and actual experience that stamps are a good investment? How good? Is it true that the beginner, or novice, in collecting must lose most of what he invests in stamps? I say, "Yes, stamps are a good investment and the novice will get good returns on his investment if he holds his stamps a reasonable length of time." I have found it so in my own experience and have observed the experience of many others who have so found it. In one year my collection lying in my safe earned for me by its appreciation in value a sum equal to about half what I earned by working every day as manager of the Philadelphia branch office of a bookkeeping machine company and that year my income tax was close to $150.00, none of which, however, was paid on stamp appreciation. To be sure that I was not dreaming and due for a rude shock I have sold enough stamps to prove to myself that stamps are a readily marketable commodity. Pardon this reference to personal experience.

But the best way to prove that stamps increase in value is to take the old catalogues and make comparisons. Here are a few figures:

In 1891 Norway had 38 postage stamps which were priced used. Their total catalogue value was $3.17. In the 1926 edition these same 38 stamps were listed at a total of $38.10, an increase of $34.93 which is 11 times their 1891 value, which is 1100% in 35 years. In 1901 there were 58 major varieties listed under Norway, which were priced used at a total of $7.47. These same 58 varieties listed a total of $49.80 in the 1926 edition, an increase of $42.33, which is 5 5-7 times their 1901 value, an increase of 5 5-7 times in 25 years. In 1915 there were 83 major varieties of postage stamps of Norway, which catalogued used at a total of $20.94. In 1926 these same stamps were catalogued at a total of $63.22, an increase of $42.28 which is more than twice their 1915 value. These increases all beat compound interest. In 1891 there were only four stamps of Norway which catalogued 25c or more and their total value was $1.85. The other 34 stamps were of course the common stuff (none of them cataloguing over 12c) whose total value was only $1.32 in 1891. Now in 1926 the total value of the four rarities is $18.25, an increase of $16.40, which is an increase of 8 8-9 times their 1891 value. Whereas the 34 cheap stamps now list a total of $19.85, an increase of $18.53, which is 15 times their 1891 value. The cheap stamps increased 15 times their 1891 value as against the 8 8-9 times of the scarce items.

Would the novice have bought the 34 cheap stamps or would he have bought the 4 rarities? If left to himself unadvised would he have invested his money wisely or not? Should we pity the beginner and assure him that he must buy his experience dearly?

How shall we boost stamp collecting? With arguments that appeal to children or those that appeal to men of keen commercial minds?

SNAKES ON STAMPS

DR. E. C. BULL.

Reported by Wm. A. P. White.

On Wednesday, November fourth, Dr. E. C. Bull spoke to the Stamp Club of the Pasadena High School on the subject, "Snakes on Stamps." Later I interviewed him for the following article.

Each stamp has its own particular story, and one of the greatest pleasures of philately lies in following up these stories. The snake appears on stamps in practically all its legendary aspects. Let us commence with Medusa.

The twenty lepta of the first Olympic (1896) issue of Greece depicts a large vase bearing a picture of Minerva. On Minerva's shield is shown Medusa's head. Medusa, as all know, was a most horrible and repulsive Gorgon, whose head was adorned with snakes for hair. For a mortal to look upon her meant death, but Perseus, using a highly polished shield, slew her by watching her reflection. Minerva taught him this trick, hence the representation of the Gorgon's head on her shield. The Garibaldi, commemorative of Italy, shows Medusa's head at the base.

Medusa was mother of Pegasus by Neptune. The winged horse sprang from her body when her head was cut off. He was watered at springs by the Nymphs, and appeared to poets as a symbol of inspiration. He appears to collectors on the Spanish special delivery stamps of 1905, and on those of Spanish Morocco for 1914, 1915 and 1918.

Then there is the Caduceus of Mercury. On the Greek issue of 1901, Mercury appears holding this Caduceus, and again on the surcharged charity stamps of 1917. Mercury himself is common on many stamps, but these and the French issues from 1876 to 1900 are practically the only ones on which he bears his Caduceus. Mercury's head is especially familiar from the Austrian newspaper and special delivery stamps, and his winged cap is shown even on our own special delivery for 1908. The rod of the Caduceus is the trunk of the Asvatthan, the tree of Life and Being, which grows from the two dark wings of the Swan (Hansa) of Life and descends thence at every Beginning or new life-cycle. The two serpents are the ever-living and its illusion—Spirit and Matter—whose two heads grow from the one head between the wings.

The eagle and the snake are a frequent combination. The Indians of the Southwest in their snake dance pacify the snake by fanning it with eagle feathers. The snake can not strike unless coiled, and (though the reason is unknown) can not coil because of the eagle feathers. The eagle, in catching a snake, flaps its wings until the snake uncoils, and then grasps it. On the Greek stamps for occupation of Turkey, 1913 (surcharged for charity, 1917), one sees the short-toed eagle of Greece bearing off victoriously a snake representing Turkey. On the Armenian stamps of 1921, the Armenian eagle has just slain a snake by the simple expedient of chopping it in two, and stands triumphant. The eagle and snake occur on very many Mexican stamps and coins, including the Oaxaca provisionals (of which Dr. Bull showed several full sheets, including many shades and errors, of the different printings.) The legend is that a migratory tribe received a prophecy that where they would see an eagle, sitting on a cactus and holding a snake in its beak, there would they find a great city. Mexico City is the fulfillment of that prophecy, and Mexico's coat of arms bears eagle, cactus and snake. The ancient Aztecs, original inhabitants of Mexico, believed that their god, Quetzalcoatl (meaning feathered snake), who had left them on a raft of serpents, would return, and mistook the Spaniards for their returned god and his companions. The feathered snake figures in many Aztec, Maya and Inca carvings, and out of Bolivia's huge centenary set, probably one stamp will show Quetzalcoatl.

The Bible's story of the fall of man (which, according to the latest reports, took place in Iraq) is very similar to that of Greece, Egypt, China, Babylon, Assyria, and the Americas. In all these religions, the snake has both good and evil significance. The Virgin is supposed to have crushed the head of the Serpent by giving birth to Christ, and is often represented trampling on its head. A snake seems visible in the clouds on the Liechtenstein Madonna stamps of 1920. Could anyone tell me if the Saar Madonna is shown with a serpent?

Moses had two ophidian experiences. One was the transformation of the rod (Exodus VII, 8-12). "And the Lord spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying, When Pharaoh shall speak unto you, saying, Shew a miracle for you: then thou shalt say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and cast it before Pharaoh, and it shall become a serpent. And Moses and Aaron --- did so ---: and Aaron cast down his rod before Pharaoh --- and it became a serpent. Then Pharaoh also called the wise men and the sorcerers: now --- they also did in like manner --- For they cast down every man his rod, and they became serpents: but Aaron's rod swallowed up their rods."

Later in the wilderness (Number XXII, 6-9) "--- the Lord sent fiery serpents among the people --- and much people --- died --- And Moses prayed for the people. And the Lord said unto Moses, make thee a fiery serpent, and set it upon a pole --- And Moses made a serpent of brass, and put it upon a pole, and it came to pass that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the serpent of brass, he lived."

An early sect of Gnostics, called the Ophites, revered the serpent as a symbol of hidden and divine wisdom.

Saint Paul was once attacked by a snake on the island of Melita (Malta). His shipwreck there is shown on some of the shilling values of that country. The story is told in Acts XXVIII, 3-5. "And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand. And when the barbarians saw the venomous beast hang on his hand, they said ---, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet vengeance suffereth not to live. And he shook the beast off into the fire, and felt no harm."

Then, too, there is Saint Patrick, who drove the snakes and other such vermin from the Emerald Isle.

So much for the snake in the Christian Religion. The French India stamps of 1914 show Brahma seated on a swan with a cobra at his feet. (Also I may say that dragons, such as those in the frame design of Indo-China, 1907, are really snakes in origin.)

Apollo is shown in the Vatican statue with his hand on a tree stump, and a snake crawling up from a hole at the root. His son, Aesculapius, father of modern medicine, is always represented with a club fashioned from the root of a tree and a snake climbing up it. (The snake is most frequently shown on a rod or cross of some sort.) The daughter of Aesculapius was Hygea, Goddess of preventive healing, whence our word hygiene.

The ancient medical idea of the snake was that it served as a link between the departed spirits and the mortals on earth. The old hospitals had educated snakes which were trained to lick the patients' sores. The person who was being cured was then supposed to dream, and in this dream the departed spirits, linked to him by the snake, told him the cure for his case. This cure the priests executed. If it worked—well and good. If he died—why, he must have told the wrong dream. The snake was the symbol of convalescence.

The later Greeks thought that Atlas who supporting the world on his shoulders, stood on a turtle, which in turn was held up by a snake. What the snake rested on, records do not state. The earlier Hellenes, however, conceived of the serpent as surrounding the earth, as he is represented on Achilles' shield. They also held the snake to be the symbol of vapor or water.

"The House With The Goods"

FRANK GODDEN, Ltd.

359 Strand, LONDON, W. C. 2

CABLE ADDRESS: ATELAPHIL-RAND, LONDON

Dr. Bull's theory is that after the earth had cooled, a band of vapor, like Saturn's rings, surrounded it. This might easily enough have seemed like a serpent. Detached bands of this at the poles, swirling around, formed the swastika, and also that Siamese weapon of the gods, to be found as a watermark. Noah, by observing these streamers, decided the whole band was due to fall, and prepared. The rainbow was seen for the first time because the vapor had previously prevented the refraction of the sun's rays from being visible.

According to the Greeks, a great serpent, the Python, arose from the slime after the deluge. Apollo slew him, and in honor of this event the Pythian games were held every four years, on the second year of the Olympiad, at Apollo's temple at Delphi.

In Egypt, the headdress of Isis bore an asp as a symbol of wisdom. This is shown on the two milliemes, 1914.

The 150 reis Vasco da Gama of Portugal and her colonies shows a snake cut in two. I would be very glad if anyone knowing the story of this would write in to this paper, as it would help Dr. Bull greatly in his researches.

An odd old Massachusetts note, engraved by Paul Revere, shows a rattlesnake holding its rattles in its mouth.

Liberia is a fine country if searching for any animal, even a lung-fish, so of course one can find snakes—on the 1921 registry stamps.

Besides snakes, Dr. Bull showed two other unique collections of his. One was of spectacles on stamps, ranging from Bavaria and Sweden to our own five cent blue Roosevelt, whose glasses, by the way, were made by Dr. Bull's brother.

The other is of stamps and paper money pertaining to Benjamin Franklin. He has pages of shades—of the five cent 1847, and the thirty cent from 1851-56 to 1861!

I hope that these notes may stimulate others, as they have me, to "seeing snakes"—on stamps.

HEAR YE:—

"You will be interested in this old priced catalogue of a good sale of U. S. by R. F. Albrecht, New York, early in 1894," says a collector, who for some years lapsed from grace, "especially when I say that I bought lot 95 (among others) for $2.25. The stamps were the six, twelve and fifteen of 1869, each on original envelope. The lot was sold by the piece at 75c each; and I thought I was something of a plunger to back up my liking for covers at this early date by paying so much. In the Specialized U. S. catalogue that you sent me, I find these covers catalogue $47.50 for the three; I paid $2.25." There are many note-worthy prices in this catalogue that could be quoted to show the mighty strides that many stamps have taken in about thirty years.

In his column in the Chicago Daily News, Keith Preston allows the "Column Widow" to offer some "indigent philatelist," a complete unused collection of a half-dozen Christmas seals; and the column conductor asks collectors to make their applications early. This is an act of self-repression that may jar Keith's ganglia, inasmuch as before fame found him out, he was an innocent little stamp collector. On second thought, he probably thus cheerfully relinquishes his claim to the stamps because he still has acumen enough to know how valuable they are!

Plans are being made for a stamp exhibit to be held in the Carnegie Public Library, the first two weeks in February, under the ausices of the Washington Philatelic Society.

Invitations are out for the banquet of the Collectors Club of New York to commemorate the thirtieth anniversary of its founding, to be held at the Hotel Astor, on January 30, 1926, at 7 P. M. Dancing is on the program and the tickets are six dollars. The event will be an occasion, at which the fairest and bravest of the polite philatelic world will enjoy an evening of unalloyed pleasure.

Mr. W. F. Goerner, Edgewood, Rhode Island, brings back fond memories by wishing us a Happy New Year and he loans point to his greeting by sending in a card: "Wishing you the Compliments of the Season and a Happy New Year. Chicago Philatelic Society and the Philatelic Gazette. Chicago, Dec. 25, 1888." This card was one of P. M.'s early triumphs and is tastefully printed in purple and black.

From Mr. W. R. Parker, Stockton, California, we have received a copy of the Stockton Record that pays a remarkable tribute to collecting. Over a half-page is devoted to western pictures of pioneer days as a setting from a wonderful lot of western franks, under the heading: "When Private Express Companies Carried Uncle Sam's Mail in California." Mr. Parker's superb collection of these covers is written up by Joe Dietrich, Jr., under: "Cancellations Tell Tales of Ghost Cities" and column after column is used to tell the glories of the covers. We cannot conceive of a more thorough exposition of the subject than is given and it is evident that the writer gave great care to his work. A picture of Mr. Parker is shown, under the slogan: "If you have early California letters stored in your attic, W. R. Parker wants to see 'em." We shall refer to this article again.

The post office department, under date of January 11, 1926, says:

"Postmaster General New today awarded to Charles Dickinson, of Chicago, the contract for carrying the United States mails from Chicago to Saint Paul and Minneapolis, via Milwaukee and La-Crosse, Wis. Dickinson will begin operation just as soon as he has equipped his landing fields. He is to receive 48 per cent of the revenue derived in carrying the mails.

The contractor for this commercial air mail route has three ships of the Laird type ready to fly at once. Each will be capable of making 96 miles per hour."

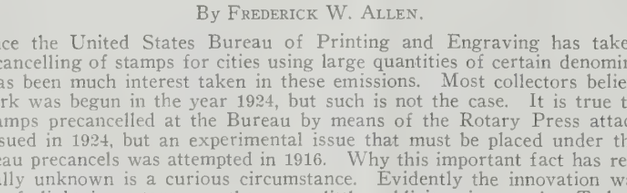
SOME INTERESTING PRECANCELS

THE FIRST ISSUE OF U. S. BUREAU PRECANCELLED STAMPS

By FREDERICK W. ALLEN.

Since the United States Bureau of Printing and Engraving has taken over the precancelling of stamps for cities using large quantities of certain denominations, there has been much interest taken in these emissions. Most collectors believe that this work was begun in the year 1924, but such is not the case. It is true that the first stamps precancelled at the Bureau by means of the Rotary Press attachment, were issued in 1924, but an experimental issue that must be placed under the head of Bureau precancels was attempted in 1916. Why this important fact has remained practically unknown is a curious circumstance. Evidently the innovation was considered of slight importance, as there was little publicity given to it. Today, however, with precancels to the fore, and thousands interested in their collection, that comparatively unknown fact is of vital interest.



To the late Joseph B. Leavy, former philatelic expert in charge of the U. S. Government collection of postage stamps, we are indebted for the history of this issue. Mr. Leavy set forth the story in the American Philatelist under the heading "Bureau Printed Precancelled Stamps" as follows:—

A number of years ago the Post Office Department authorized the use of precancelled stamps by parties holding permits, in order to lighten the work of the clerks in the cancelling division of numerous post offices throughout the country, and thereby save congestion of the mails. While the cost of precancelling has been paid by the Post Office Department, the work has until now always been done locally and there has been a wide divergence in cost as claimed by the various post offices.

Recently the Post Office Department called for an estimated price from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the precancelling of stamps, with a view to having the work done there for all post offices using 4,000,000 or more precancelled stamps in a year. Twenty offices come within this class:

Augusta, Maine; Baltimore, Md.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Cleveland, Ohio; Dayton, Ohio; Des Moines, Iowa; Detroit, Mich.; Kansas City, Mo.; Louisville, Ky.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Minneapolis, Minn.; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Pittsburg, Pa.; St. Louis, Mo.; Springfield, Mass., and Springfield, Ohio.

At only three of these offices was the cost of precancelling in excess of the estimate of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing: Augusta, Maine, New Orleans, La., and Springfield, Mass. Accordingly an estimated year's supply for each of these three offices was ordered precancelled at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, in hopes that after operating the Bureau would find that a cut could be made in the estimated price which would bring it to a figure equal to or below that of several more offices.

It is not the intention to precancel stamps at the Bureau for those offices where the work is being done, or can be done, cheaper locally.

The denominations and quantities precancelled for each of the three offices were as follows:

Augusta, Maine: 1c, 4,000,000.

New Orleans, La.: 1c, 3,600,000; 2c, 50,000; 3c, 50,000; 6c, 10,000; 1c Due, 20,000; 2c Due, 270,000.

Springfield, Mass.: 1c, 3,000,000; 2c, 600,000; 3c, 30,000; 4c, 30,000; 5c, 30,000; 6c, 20,000; 7c, 30,000; 8c, 20,000; 9c, 50,000; 10c, 20,000; 11c, 10,000; 12c, 20,000; 15c, 20,000; 20c, 30,000.

The cancellation is practically uniform for all three cities, the usual heavy horizontal bar top and bottom, with "Augusta-Maine" in two lines, "New-Orleans-La" in three lines, or "Springfield-Mass." in two lines, in tall heavy line capitals.

The overprints were type-set at the Bureau in blocks of twenty-five, five by five rows. The type-set frames of twenty-five were then sent to the Government Printing Office where a number of electrotypes were made of each frame, the electrotypes and type-set frames were returned to the Bureau, the electrotypes cut into blocks of fifteen, five by three, and blocks of ten, five by two, and set up in frames of four hundred, spaced so as to meet the shrinkage of the paper in the sheets of stamps. The stamps were precancelled in sheets of four hundred and perforated after being precancelled.

Owing to the fact that the exact date of the above article is not available, I cannot state just when the stamps appeared, but believe it was during the fall of 1916, as they are of the 1916-17 series, perforated 10, and unwatermarked.

They are all listed and priced in the Standard Precancel Catalog. Some varieties are included under these types that were not issued. This will be corrected in the next edition and there is likely to be a number of price changes, as the establishing of these issues as the first Bureau precancels will enhance their value considerably. Every specialist in Bureau precancels will naturally desire a complete set of this trial government printing, for no collection of Bureau printed precancels can be complete without them.

SCHAFFNER EXHIBITS HARDINGS

The regular meeting of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club was held in its club rooms on December 18, 1925. Twenty-two members and ten visitors were present.

Mr. W. H. Schaffner of Marion, O., entertained the meeting with his specialized collection of Harding stamps. This consisted of six volumes of blocks, pairs and singles, perforated and imperforate unused and used in every conceivable manner. For instance, there were covers postmarked at cities and towns named after our presidents, from Washington to Coolidge, "McKinley" only being lacking, but Mr. Schaffner said he hoped to acquire this very shortly. Mr. Schaffner and the late President Harding were closely associated in business and otherwise almost since early manhood, Mr. Harding being a director in the bank of which Mr. Schaffner was president. One volume of his collection was made up of old newspaper clippings, and other printed matter relating happenings in Marion years ago in which the late president took part. There were also many personal letters written by the president to Mr. Schaffner, which are interesting. The entire display was very much enjoyed by all those present. Mr. Schaffner was accorded a hearty vote of thanks, and in addition elected an honorary member of the club. We were given to understand by Mr. Schaffner that this collection will some day become the property of the Harding Memorial Society at Marion.

It is well known that Mr. Schaffner also possesses one of the largest general collections west of Utica, N. Y., started thirty-five years ago.—P. A. FINLAYSON, Sec.

By FRANCIS M. BOTELHO, Ph.D., Wayne, Pa.

CHAPTER X.

Kinds of Dealers.

There are no statistics to show the volume of philatelic trade, but the fact that stamp collecting is an important factor to the advantage of postal departments in every country is incontrovertible. Philatelic activities accelerate and enhance the volume of first and second class mail matter, increase the quantity of registered covers, and augment the revenues through outright sales of stamps purely for absorption in collectors' albums and dealers' stocks.

Dealing in used and unused postage stamps has become a definite occupation, calling into play a knowledge of seasonal market conditions, selling possibilities, channels of distribution, and businesslike systems.

Unfortunately, however, too many people are imbued with the belief that the philatelic business is more or less a spare-time proposition, which can be successfully carried on by Tom, Dick or Harry. It is these amateur "dealers" who are retarding the advance of philately in the general commercial world, by their juvenile outpourings in advertisements and "house organs" badly-edited and poorly-printed.

In this connection, however, it is not forgotten that Stanley Gibbons, the famous internationally-known British stamp-dealer, was a minor chemist clerk when he began his philatelic business with a sack of Cape of Good Hope triangles bought for a song from a couple of unappreciative sailors. Nor is it overlooked that a certain New England dealer began in a tiny basement and is now handling a voluminous nationwide business, catering chiefly to beginners.

But this is 1926, not 1894. Methods that were good enough then are not good, if not deleterious, now. Therefore, it behooves stamp dealers of today to strive more than ever towards lifting the business into higher planes. "House organs" are helpful; the more there are of them, the more missionary work is realized. But hous organs should not be made the vehicle of detraction, casting reflection on the ability or intentions of competitors. Editors of house organs should not reveal themselves as men of small minds. Good writing attracts desirable followers; the other kind of writing wounds feelings, hurts the susceptibilities of cultivated readers and creates a general air of discord, breeding disharmony, recriminations, ill-will.

Much of these unwelcome features would be non-existent were it not for the meteor-like survival of a few amateurish "dealers". These are, as a rule, very immature persons who have accumulated "duplicates" and seek to "do" gullible philatelic tyros. More often, they themselves are victims of some get-rich-quick wholesaler who had painted too vividly the picture of easy money in the stamp business.

Whatever your stamp purchases, however small, they are helpful to the trade, and you should patronize the small dealer in preference to the well-to-do "big fellows", but, in justice to yourself, analyze the advertisements that may come to you and exercise discrimination.

CHAPTER XI.

Catalog Prices and Values.

In the early days an enterprising surveyor was seen offering a stock of foreign stamps nailed to a board!

It is a long leap from that crude method to the present-day worldwide distribution of philatelic weeklies and monthlies, sets and packets, approval sheets and books, hinges and albums, pricelists, house organs and catalogs.

Some of the standard catalogs are Stanley Gibbons, Whitfield King, Scott, Senf, Yvert & Tellier,—remarkably complete books, illustrating and listing the stamps of all known stamp-issuing countries, past and present.

Owing to the difference in localities of publication, the prices necessarily differ, especially as they are meant to represent the valuations set by the publisher-dealer based on his own supplies, costs and ideas of appraisals.

You should, therefore, keep constantly in mind that because a stamp is listed in any given catalog, it is not proof that the said stamp is in the stock of the firm issuing the catalog. No dealer, however, important, can claim to have for immediate delivery every item catalogued. This is particularly obvious in the case of rarities, costing thousands of dollars and of which only a few copies are known to be extant.

Moreover, even experts suffer from misjudgments at times, so that in the case of some numbers the catalog-compiler has been known to have erred. Instances have been cited where stamps are overpriced in catalogs; likewise, instances are mentioned of others being underpriced. As the dealer offers "subject to stamps being in stock", he retains the option of declining to fill an order if circumstances lead him to decide to do so.

Hence, the apparent anomaly occasionally encountered with, in genuine worthwhile stamps being offered by some non-catalog-issuing dealer at as much as 50% discount. In a case of this kind, either the catalog price is inflated, or the dealer just referred to had been fortunate in buying a supply at less than prevailing wholesale quotation. Or again, he may want to turn certain portions of his stock into cash quickly. Still again, he may be advertising a "leader" to attract customers.

Even the most cursory examination of a standard catalog will show you that there is a minimum price. In some editions, the minimum has been 1c for the lowest priced, irrespective of actual face value of the foreign money, be it one-tenth or one-half of an American cent. The necessity of fixing a minimum lies in the fact that the item must be printed, and printing a cheap item costs as much as for a more valuable item. Also, there must be a margin of profit in case any collector should pick out single copies of low-valued items only.

From all these circumstances and others (such as the interests on capital invested in the dealers' stocks), catalog prices can always be "bettered" by the smaller trader. Accordingly he offers selections at a discount from catalog. This in turn forces the catalog house to compete also by approval sheets and books priced at less than list figures.

Thus it will be seen if you shop wisely you will strike interesting bargains here and there. But it is neither fair to conscientious dealers nor inspiring for the pursuit of your hobby to cause honest tradespeople unnecessary labor or undue expenditure of postages and time.

Every stamp has its value. When you have acquired experience sufficiently to venture bidding at auctions, either in person or by mail, you will discover that sometimes you will have to pay more than catalog prices for really good superb rare copies. And yet, you may not.

The law of supply and demand cannot be evaded. Stamps of any large recent emission will be lowpriced for some time to come. Limited emissions enjoy accrement in value more quickly. The Japanese pre-earthquake series may be mentioned as an example of what unexpected events may entail. Some issues enjoy special popularity among philatelists; then two things happen — faster assimilation and rapidly enhanced prices.

BOOK REVIEW

Clifford M. Drury sends us a pamphlet on Chinese Postage Stamps. It is a publication of twenty pages with cover and has two halftone plates. The issues are all covered in an abbreviated form but even so the booklet is of more than ordinary value and the beginner especially will find it profitable to have.

Quite recently there has been running in the Stamp Lover a serial dealing with the U. S. Postage Stamps 1922-25. It has now been published in booklet form, price 60c. The author is Fred J. Melville, which of itself bears testimony to the merit of the work. The writer deals with the processes of manufacture including perforations and gum. Numerous illustrations are scattered through the book, including several dealing with the Washington offices of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

PRECANCEL ITEMS

By H. S. DICKEY.

Christmas, 1925, will long be remembered because the 8c, 16c and 24c aeroplanes were precancelled by many places, among which were Selina, Chanute and Newton of my state, Kansas.

Of the higher denominations the 14c Indian and the 30c buffalo are the leaders. A Chicago collector has three hundred varieties of buffalo cows in his herd.

Who will show the new 17c Wilson in precancelled form? It will be interesting for someone to locate it. This will be true also of the new 13c Harrison.

The rotary press stamps precancelled are now in general use all over the U. S. and precancel collectors are very much interested.

The 1917 issue of U. S. will go down into history as a unique issue in that only two heads were on them, Washington and Franklin. This is some different from the present issue which is a regular picture show with every stamp different.

EDITORIAL.

THE propriety of a Missionary Number just now is not to be gainsaid and the present number is intended to augment the swelling tide of interest in stamps in this country. With a concrete example of the activities and ramifications of the philatelic world in hand, one has a good argument for the pursuit that engages the attention of a considerable proportion of the population of the country and our paper will have some effect both in wooing the errant interest of those who have strayed from the path and of those who have only a vague understanding of collecting as an orderly pursuit. As our experience grows, the question of recruiting loses some of its complexities and perhaps the most direct results are reached by re-establishing the fading recollections of the many adults who as boys and girls had stamp collections for a time only to relinquish them in favor of some other diversion that the mind of the younger generation seized upon. Almost every boy gathered stamps or knew someone who did and so, as a man, he is not wholly unacquainted with the philatelic theme. Consequently, such a subject offers the best field for practice, it may be said, and our few remarks are based on the actual knowledge that many a man is stirred to inquire into the present status of a pursuit that he knew as a somewhat formless and go-as-you-please pastime. When a connection is made between him and the philatelic world as we know it, he is apt to be pleasantly surprised and often he becomes a sterling collector. Until the time comes when a broad and aggressive campaign is instituted by philatelic interests to bring outsiders into the fold, missionary efforts must be mostly individual and as has been said before, the good work, in the aggregate, that is done by collectors acting on their own impulses evokes our gratitude. This number of the WEEKLY should be helpful in fixing the eye of the outsider on philately.

WHILE the great New York date is still months in the future, yet already there is a quickening of interest in the Exhibition and in a few months or so, we shall almost feel the breath of the mammoth undertaking on our cheek, to mix metaphors a bit. This will be a philatelic year, indeed, and the enthusiasm that will be generated by the Exhibition will sweep the country and penetrate even to isolated sections. Those who are collectors will be inspired by the preparations for the enterprise and will give more attention to stamps than in any ordinary year and the sounds of the tools of the builders will be heard everywhere and will reach the ears even of the uninitiated. Mr. Charles M. Ams, the secretary of the Exhibition informs us that already there is a good demand for booths and that in due course of time, there will be an auction sale of choice of booths.

IN accordance with the notice of the post office department, the new thirteen cent Harrison stamp was placed on sale January 11, 1926, at Indianapolis and Washington; and we thank Mr. LeGrand Payne, Indianapolis, and Mr. Stanley W. Hayes, Richmond, Indiana, for copies that reached us on the morning of January 12th. Its green makes a fair stamp color and the likeness of Harrison is an excellent one. In Mr. Payne's first day cover, the following information is enclosed: "Date—January 11th, 1926, from Indianapolis. Design: same as current issue with likeness of Benjamin Harrison, 23d president of the United States. Born: North Bend, Ohio, August 20, 1833; died: Indianapolis, Ind., March 13th, 1901."

AN envelope is shown us bearing the three cent of 1851 and on the reverse in postmark form is the impression: "Barker's City Post, 10 Court Square." The envelope was sent from Boston at a time when there were many private carriers operating in Boston under the conditions mentioned, for instance, in the Boston Almanac of this period: A list of "sub post offices" includes a score of stores, such as, Church's, Henchman's, Atwood's, China tea store, etc., where letters could be left, with one cent paid on each, to be carried to the post office. Further: "Penny post stamps can be bought at all these offices, which placed upon letters will ensure their delivery free to all parts of the city, not beyond Dover Street." This was before the time the operations of unauthorized carriers were prohibited under the ruling of the department that the streets of Boston were post roads. In another old directory, 1859, we find, under "expresses," G. H. Barker at 34 Court Square while at 10 Court Square is W. K. Baker.

GUGLIELMO UMBERTO, New York City, rises with a puzzled expression and addresses the Mercury to ask what it's all about: "Perhaps it is the fault of my chromosomes or maybe it is due to my un-Christian upbringing—but I simply cannot see what enjoyment any intelligent man can get in collecting stamps or dead bugs or dried flowers or authographs or first editions. As for the stamp and dead bug and dried flower collectors—they are absolutely outside of my comprehension." Guglielmo Umberto should be indicted for cruelty to chromosomes as blaming them for his particular plight, but it may be that it is the devil in the man who is speaking and if so, we may only sorrow for Guglielmo and his satanic tenant. You tell him, folks, we're tongue-tied.

THE following letter sent by the postmaster at Portage City, Wisconsin, to a Milwaukee address will show the means used to impress upon the public that postage by stamps should be placed on mail matter. "Post Office, Portage City, March 18, 1857. Sir: A letter bearing your address is detained in this Post Office for non-payment of postage. By enclosing to me, immediately upon receipt of this, one three cent stamp and prepaying your note of reply, the letter will be duly forwarded according to its direction. Respectfully yours, Postmaster. Note—Postmasters will fill up, address and frank the above notice, without the use of an envelope, to all persons within the United States for whom unpaid letters shall have been deposited in their offices; and may dispense with the former practice of posting up notices in their offices that such letters have been deposited therein. James Campbell, Postmaster General."

THE Reverend Elias Rasmussen, Windom, Minnesota, was a caller at the Chicago office, having come to that city for the purpose of speaking at a banquet given by the church that he established in Chicago during their pastorate there. Mr. Rasmussen gives keen attention to the stamps of Norway, on which he is well informed. Referring to the copy of the picture by Wergelang on the 1914 commemorative Constitutional Assembly stamps, Mr. Rasmussen says that the original picture hangs over the chair of the president of the Strothing or Norwegian parliament at Oslo, the capital.

THE 38th edition of the catalogue published by Scott & Company, 146 Fulton St., New York, 1880, shows that forty-five years is a far cry in philately. The prices certainly are a seven-days' wonder and we find nothing higher than three dollars priced in the book, upon a cursory examination. The prices on U. S. are unbelievably low, although it is but fair to say that many of the scarcer varieties of our country, as well as foreign lands, are not priced at all.

INITIATION INTO PHILATELY

II—What to Collect.

As stated in a previous article, the beginner becomes a philatelist by a series of regular steps. The first, the desire to collect, was covered heretofore. Having that desire, the would-be collector must decide what to collect.

In the beginning of philately, general collecting was the vogue. It is doubtful if philately would have attained its present general popularity had the collectors of the early days confined themselves to the study of one or two stamps or countries, and neglected the others. Certainly many fine pieces would be lost to the world if such had been the case.

However, the collector in the fifties or sixties had no such problem to face as the collector of to-day. True, not all stamps were within the grasp of the average man, and history does not tell us of any man who ever succeeded in getting all the stamps. There were rare stamps in 1860 just as there are rare stamps to-day, and many of the same rarities existed then.

General collecting, however, is the backbone of philately. Practically every collector turns to a general collection when he commences the hobby, and later as his preferences and dislikes are formed, he decides to feature some particular line of activity. However, most true collectors retain a friendly, though often secret, feeling for the old general collection.

For the school boy, the general collection is advisable, for by collecting the stamps of the world, he becomes acquainted with geography, history, languages, economics, and other studies in an attractive manner, not to be gained by the study of one country or group alone.

Our own experience in philately began at the age of eight, with a twelve cent album, a hundred variety packet, some penny rarities from an approval sheet worth 20c, a porous plaster cut up for hinges, and a huge bump of curiosity to spur us on to the study of the weird designs on our stamps. Oh, the wallop we got out of deciphering the KPHTH on a Cretan due stamp!

Until one has started to collect, it is very difficult to know what to specialize in, therefore we urge the beginner to commence a general collection of all countries and all issues. He may never carry the collection beyond a limited point, but in making the acquaintance of the foreign stamps, he will gradually absorb knowledge of all phases of the hobby, and will find his particular delight soon enough.

It may be that the collector will decide to stick to the general collection. In so doing, he will find an endless amount of pleasure in getting in contact with all parts of the world through his stamps. He should realize that it is no particular disgrace in philately to have a blank space or even a blank page in an album. Few collectors are able to fill every page, and none have filled every space! So the task of a general collection, large as it seems, is within reach of every collector with perseverance. But certainly until he has accumulated several thousand varieties, the collector is hardly able to decide where his path of specialism lies.

We have made several general collections, and have specialized in various countries and groups. The breaking up of the original collection has always been a source of regret, and we realize that we would have done better to save everything, but to specialize in addition, in the lines we cared most about.

Therefore we believe that the most satisfactory way of stamp collecting is the continuance of a general collection, supplemented with a specialized collection if the collector sees fit. Stamps from all parts of the world fall into the hands of every collector for a little effort and often without cost. The wise collector keeps a general book at all times, and mounts his varied stamps as they come along. Eventually he finds he has made an interesting and valuable assortment without much expenditure.

The man who specializes in one country discards the stamps from others, passes on those that his friends give him or refuses them, and naturally does not profit from the general lot he might acquire. Also, when his fancy turns to a different line, he finds that he must pay dollars for many items he could have saved for nothing had he kept his general book.

If you are starting a collection, save everything. You may want it some day. As you grow in the hobby, you will find that your foreign stamps have much to interest you.

In starting a general collection, we advocate the purchase of a printed album such as the Scott Junior, or the three volume set if means permit. The Junior, however, is well suited for the beginner or until the collection reaches the ten thousand variety stage. In fact, a collection of all the stamps in the Junior is in itself about as nice a representative lot as the average man can hope to acquire.

Blank albums are essential to most specialized collections, and a blank album is useful for new issues and varieties not found in the printed books, but is not particularly suited to the making of a beginner's general collection.

The beginning general collector will do well to start his collection with as large a variety packet as his purse will permit. Today, there are so many thousand cheap stamps that can be had in variety packets that it is unwise to start buying stamps singly until a basis has been made with a packet. The larger the packet, the fewer duplicates will be had when other variety packets are added, for most packets contain the same stamps for the first two or three thousand. After the purchase of the variety packet, packets by countries may be acquired to supplement the collection, and later single stamps or sets can be purchased as needed.

The subject "What to Collect" is, after all, largely up to the individual. It is too big a subject to be treated in one short article, hence we will endeavor to offer suggestions for specialism in further articles of this series, to appear shortly.

Philatelic Vaudeville.

Great Britain, the first stamp issuing country, has never placed the name of the country on any of its postage stamps, though mention of the British Empire appears on the Exhibition commemoratives of 1924-25.

Imagine a stamp made without using ink! The first Natal stamps were made by embossing pieces of colored paper for the various values and no ink was used in their manufacture.

The first stamps of Brazil, the second country to issue stamps, bore only the numerals of value without other inscription.

Poland issued one stamp only from 1860 to 1918, but has made up for its neglect to philately by issuing 220 since 1918, not to mention sundry charities, dues and officials.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

F. W. ALLEN, Editor, 521 So. 4th St., Grand Forks, N. D.

Special Handling—A number of new varieties should be coming to light owing to the fact that during the past holiday season this stamp was extensively used, and I presume many offices precancelled it. Mr. Max Hirshman reports it from Bucyrus, Ohio, and Lynn, Mass. To Mr. Chas. Townsend I am indebted for specimens of Archbold, and Cincinnati, Ohio.

Special Delivery—The new three-line overprint of East Pittsburg, Pa., on the orange Special, makes a pretty show. As the Westinghouse Co. uses vast quantities of this denomination, it will not be scarce. Detroit is also out on the 15c, and will be fairly common. The 20c black from North Wales, Pa. (handstamped) is at hand from Mr. Ashley LeDuc, who states that this little town employs the stamps on floral parcels, which demand speedy delivery. Mr. R. E. Reed reports Buffalo inverted on the 20c.

Norse-American—More of these commemoratives are out in precancelled condition than was at first believed. I recently noted a list of over 150 var. Among the best to look for in this issue are: Brockton, Mass., Lynn, Mass., Duluth, Minn., Houston, Texas, Stratton, Neb., Ogden, Utah, New England, N. D., and Flushing, N. Y.

The Flushing office overprinted, with the electro-plate, 200 of the 5c and 300 of the 2c. These were all used for mailing out catalogs by the Home of the Postage Stamp. As the supply of these interesting precancels is exhausted, those who possess specimens of the above have a pair of rather valuable items.

Bureau Prints—Dr. W. I. Mitchell, who has been foremost in precancel circles for the past twenty years, has centered his attention on the precancel emissions of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. He has assembled what is perhaps the largest collection existing at the present time. Although the statement has been made that no Bureau printed precancel will be scarce, because of the rule that less than 200,000 will not be printed of any variety, the Doctor claims that three stamps have led him a merry chase thus far and, as he has made a serious attempt to obtain them he feels that they are worthy of mention. They are to be found on nearly all want lists of collectors specializing in these issues. They are the 1c coils of New Britain, Conn., Portland, Maine, and Wilkes-Barre, Pa. There is little probability of a further supply being printed as they were all employed for circular mailing, the rate of which has advanced from one cent to one and one-half cents.

Jeannette, Pa.—Is out in the U-10 style of overprint. This makes Type III for this city as two handstamps had previously been used. Mr. P. J. Hustings shows me my first specimen, a 30 cent Bison, with the precancellation reading down.

Berkeley, Calif.—The above remarks also apply to Berkeley. Mr. Jesse Olsen sends a 50c, 1917 series, bearing the U-10 cancellation and states that of the current issue he has seen the 2, 3, 7, 8, 10, 20 and 30 cent values. Also the 13 and 50 of the old set.

Old Orchard, Maine—W. H. McLin, Jr., forwards a copy of the ½c handstamped "Old Orchard, Maine" in two lines of small heavy caps between bars, and writes interestingly as follows: "I am enclosing a new comer to the precancel fold, herewith. Old Orchard received its handstamp over two years ago, but little use has been made of it. The town, as you know, is a famous resort and about August 25th of each year the 'rush' of visitors' homeward-bound packages commences and for the next two weeks there is a tremendous out-going mail. This is the time most of Old Orchards' precancels are employed. This year, however, due to the increase of the permanent population, precancels were used during the Christmas season. To my knowledge the following stamps were precancelled and used in the regular course of business: 10, 20, series of 1917; ½, 1½, 4, 5, 6, 25, series of 1923. All have the overprint reading horizontally normal."

Waterville, N. Y.—Is another city new to the precancel collector. It breaks into the game with an electro-plate, the popular U-10. Watertown, N. Y., likewise has a plate of the same style.

Wooster, Ohio—And also Sandusky, and Marietta, are among the latest cities to receive electro-plates of the U-10 design.

Cleveland, Tenn.—and Cleveland, Ohio, are now both precancelling with identically the same style of electro. The Tennessee city has just issued precancels bearing the U-10 style of overprint. Helena, Ark., and Helena, Montana, are both using plates of the U-1. Newark, N. J., and Newark, N. Y., precancels are almost alike, as both have U-2 plates. Springfield, Ohio, Springfield, Mass., Springfield, Ill., and Springfield, Mo., were all at one time precancelling with the U-3 electro. The first three are still doing so, but the Missouri city had the misfortune to lose its plate in a fire that consumed the post office, and it was replaced by one of the U-10 type. Portland, Oregon, and Portland, Maine, have long had U-1 plates in service. Kansas City, Kans., and Kansas City, Mo., just across the river, are both precancelling with the U-3. Also Washington, N. J., and Washington, Pa., use this plate.

Delavan, Wis.—Has a new electroplate so similar to the old that it cannot be discriminated from the old one, except by noting that Wisconsin appears abbreviated "WIS." instead of "WISC." I am indebted to Charles Metz for calling this to my attention.

Conclusion—The editor of this department welcomes inquiries and notes relating to this branch of the hobby. If you wish information do not hesitate to drop me a line.

Universal Style charts printed on card board in handy form, showing at a glance the method by which precancels are described, may be secured at cost (16c) from the editor of this department.

WILLIAM H. EMMERT

PRESIDENT OF THE PHILADELPHIA STAMP CLUB

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

Few collectors are found in that class of those who have been getting together postage stamps for upward of fifty years or more, but Philadelphia counts among her contingent such a philatelist, namely, Mr. William H. Emmert, the President of the Philadelphia Stamp Club. Mr. Emmert began his stamp activities in 1869 at the age of eight years and has consistently collected ever since with the result that today he owns one of the most interesting collections of its kind ever gotten together.

His activities are devoted to the single stamp only and he prefers the unused specimen where it is obtainable. The issues of the United States are his main interest and these not only include the adhesive postage stamps, but the cut square envelope, the revenue, the match and medicine and even state revenues of which he has a substantial assortment. With the exception of the great United States rarities, they are mostly here.

In addition, he collects the American Colonies, all of the countries of Europe, as well as the issues of certain Central and South American Republics.

He especially prides himself on his collection of Egypt, which is complete in single varieties and in the way of the official seals, which were formerly listed in the catalog, he has upward of seven hundred fifty different copies. One of these is almost unique, the only other copy being in the Tapling collection in the British Museum.

Mr. Emmert was postmaster at New Oxford, Pa., for sixteen years, and during this time visited many of the smaller post offices of the vicinity with excellent results. As late as the '90's, he found a block of ninety-eight, that is a pane less two stamps, of the 1870—15c orange grill, in fine mint condition. These had been resting in the McKnightstown, Pa., post office for upward of twenty-five years. The office being small and there being no parcel post at the time, there was no use for this higher denomination—hence, was simply carried on the account of the postmaster from year to year until Mr. Emmert came along and bought it at face value. Most of this sheet was broken into singles, for unfortunately, even blocks of four are now most difficult to obtain.

While rummaging around in nearby Gettysburg, he located the old correspondence of an attorney and found several hundred of the 1c 1851, including pairs and strips, as well as one used block of twenty-five. At the time these stamps were not being plated nor was much attention given even to the type varieties. As a result, most of these were passed on at the rate of 1c each. The 3c varieties were of so little interest that they were not even removed from the correspondence, but were consigned to the scrap heap. Among the same letters there was a Stringer & Morton local of the second type, which then was thought to be a counterfeit, but has since been rightly accepted as genuine.

WILLIAM H. EMMERT.

The largest known strip of the imperforated 60c orange, first issue revenue, is a horizontal strip of fifteen in superb condition, and this also was found by Mr. Emmert on a deed in New Oxford. The piece now reposes in one of our larger revenue collections.

Mr. Emmert is one of these genial souls who is liked by all coming in contact with him and as a result, he has been the President of his local stamp society for the last several years. He has been endeavoring to step down and permit others to assume the honor, but his freinds have been insisting that he continue in the position.

During his administration the club has gradually grown and today numbers among its membership in excess of one hundred philatelists from Philadelphia and vicinity. Meetings are held every Tuesday and Friday nights and there is a get together time on Saturday afternoons. Out of town collectors are always welcome and on the regular Tuesday night meetings, there is generally a program of interest. Some of the largest collections of the country have been exhibited and talks are given by those posted upon the subject discussed.

Mr. Emmert is doing a great amount of philatelic missionary work in and around Philadelphia by talking to the different high schools and women's clubs where he not only shows his stamps, but brings to their attention the pleasure to be derived from collecting, at the same time stressing the educational feature.

UNITED STAMP COMPANY, 1149 Marquette Bldg., Chicago

DICTIONARY OF BRITISH COLONIES

By Rev. C. E. Jackson.

Antigua.—This name is the Spanish antigua = "aged," from the Latin antiquus = "aged." It was given to the island in honour of a Seville church dedicated to Santa Maria la Antigua, by Columbus, who discovered it in 1493.

Ascension.—This island was discovered by Joao da Nova on Ascension Day, 1501, and named by him in honour of the day.

Australia.—The word is derived from the Latin auster = "the South wind;" it is related to the word aurora = "the dawn," and urere = to burn, from the Sanskrit root ush = "to burn." The word is a late Latin term for Terra Australis = "Southern Land." It is the only continent of which the whole lies in the Southern hemisphere. There was for long a tradition that there was such a land. In 1605 an expedition under De Torres left Spain to find it. An island was found, which, wrongly supposed to be the land sought for, was named "La Australia del Espiritu Santo."

Barbados.—Opinions differ regarding the meaning of this name. It may mean the "hanging branches of a vine," from the Spanish barbudo = "long-bearded," and "vine." Or it may be from the Portuguese barbadas, meaning "bearded," with reference to a particular fig tree found there. It appears in ancient maps as Bernados, Barbudoso. Barnados, St. Bernardo, showing there was then considerable doubt regarding the origin of the name.

Barbudo is evidently of the same origin as the above.

Bermuda is named after Juan Bermudez, who was shipwrecked there in the sixteenth century.

Cameroons (now French).—Discovered by the Portuguese Fernando Po, who named the large estuary of the country "Rio dos Camaroes," i.e., River of Prawns, from Portuguese camerao = "a prawn."

Cayman Islands.—Discovered by Columbus and named by him Tortugas, from the Spanish tortuga = "a turtle," because the waters there abounded with them. The present name is the Caribbean word caiman = "an alligator."

Ceylon was known to the Greeks and Romans as Taprobane, and then later as Serendib, which is said to be a corruption of the Sanscrit name Sinhala-dvipa, of which word dvi = "two," and ap = "water," i.e., "water on both sides," or "island;" and sinhala = sinha = "lion," and la an adjectival suffix, thus the Sanscrit name means "lion-island." I am told, "there is no historical evidence that there were lions there once, but there may well have been, just as in India, where they died out in the middle of the last century, except in one place where a few survive."

Columbia (British).—The south-west portion of this territory lies in the basin of the Columbia River, nearly one thousand miles in length, and named after his ship "Columbia," by Captain Robert Gray, supplanting the old name "Oregon." Columbia, Columbus, &c., are all derived from Latin columba = "a dove."

Dominica.—This word, meaning "belonging to the Lord," is an abbreviation of Dominica Dies = "the Lord's Day," and was applied to the island by Columbus, because he discovered it on Sunday, November 3rd, 1493.

Egypt.—The native name was Kemi = "black land," with reference to land darkness as the effect of the Nile floods. The desert lands were named Toshri = "red lands." Of this name the most likely derivation yet offered is Hakepath = "abode of the outward form or representation Ptah." Ptah was the god of the artizans. His temple was at Memphis, the capital of Egypt, through most of its early history.

Falkland Islands.—In 1598 a Dutchman named Sebald de Wert gave his name Sebald to these islands, but in 1690 Captain Strong sailed between them and called the passage "Falkland Sound," probably with reference to the town of Falkland in Fife. The name may mean Fulke's land. Fulke, Fulc, was a common name and appears in many forms, e.g., Fawkes, Fox, &c.

Gibraltar. — To ancient geographers this place was Calpe, Alybe. Tariq, an Arab, with a host of Arab and Berber followers, invaded and conquered the country in 711 A. D. The rock was then called Jebel Tariq = "Mount Tarig," after the conqueror Tarig-ben-Zaid, which name has corrupted into the present form.

Gilbert Islands.—These islands, sixteen in number, coral reefs or atolls, were discovered first by John Byron, in 1765. To one of them he gave his name. The group was later named after Captain Gilbert, who visited them in 1788.

Grenada was discovered in 1498 by Columbus and named by him Concepcion = Assumption. The present name, from Spanish granada = "a pomegranate," was probably given by the Spaniards with reference to the splendid Moorish city of Granada. which had shortly before been subjugated by their great captain Gonsalvo de Cordova.

Guiana (British).—The derivation of this word is obscure and debated. It may be (1) an Indian word signifying "wild coast," or (2) native waini-guainia = "river, fountain."

Hebrides, New.—So called by Captain Cook in 1774, doubtless with reference to the Hebrides off the West Coast of Scotland.

Hedjaz (Hijaz) means "separating." It is the name of the district from Medina in the North to Taif in the South, which separates the inland province of the Nejd from the coast district.

Heligoland. — According to Norse mythology, Forseti, son of Baldur, and god of justice, had his temple on the island; and the goddess Hertha also had a temple here, which was visited by our forefathers, the Angles, from the mainland, in consequence of all which the island was named Heiligeland = "Holy land." This is evidently a derivation invented to suit the name when the true meaning of it was lost. It most likely was from Halligland = "land of banks which cover and uncover," referring probably to the way the shore was wholly hidden by the flowing tide, and exposed by the ebbing.

Honduras (British). — This name is Spanish and means "depths," referring to difficulties in finding anchorage.

Hong Kong is the English form of Hiang-Kiang = "sweet lakes." A pretty name for one of a group of islands to which the Portuguese had given the unsavoury name of ladronts = "thieves," because of the predatory habits of the natives thereof.

India.—This is not a native name for the land. The origin of it is sindhu = a "river," a "protection," from the Sanscrit root sidh = "to ward off." The plural sindia losing the initial s on the journey reaches us as India. Travelling through Persia, where an initial s becomes h, the word becomes, and reaches us as, Hindu. The river referred to is, of course, the Indus.

Jamaica.—This name is the Indian word jaymacas = "isle of springs." It was discovered by Columbus on May 3rd, 1494, and called by him Santiago = "St. James," the war cry of the Spaniards. The 1st of May is the Festival of St. Philip and St. James.

Labuan is the Malay word labuh-an = "an anchorage." The island has a very fine harbour.

Lagos.—This place was so named by the Portuguese in the fifteenth century owing to the number of lagoons there, from Portuguese lago = "a lake," and lagoa = "a lagoon."

Levant means the East of the Mediterranean; Italian levante = "The East Wind," the country where the sun rises, from Latin se levare = "to rise."

AN EXCEPTIONAL GROUP OF OFFERINGS

From the Collection and Stock of Mr. C. W. G.

Mr. G. sold me the nicest accumulation I have seen in six years dealing. He used to be one of these regular sharks, buying up what looked unusual—up to the minute on stamp news, sensible enough to pay good prices for things he knew were bound to rise. He also had the pick of several of the best foreign mails entering New York. While his collection shows its greatest strength in Postally Used New Issues, it is also solid in countries whose universal popularity insures investment value.

Naturally many of the items listed here are single; though I am glad to submit on A1 references—will sell to first remitter. No credit slips, money returned if sold.

Many items are over the famous half-cat. deadline. There is a fine and full variety of the smaller stuff, not advertised, that will clear it if you must have it this way.

*o in singles means either way, in sets means some *, some o. State if you must have all same way.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, Mass.

$241,530.05 NET

This is the net value of the Wharton Sinkler collection of United States postage stamps which is now being broken up and is gradually being absorbed by the collecting fraternity. Whether you are looking for the mint specimen of the more common variety or the great rarity, it is no doubt here, unless it has already been placed.

Starting in with the 1847 issue, one will find mint singles, blocks and unusual covers through each series right down to the present. Out of town collectors are arriving almost daily to view the wonderful lot and select those pieces of interest. Everyone is expressing satisfaction with their purchases. The beauty of the collection is the fact that there are no "dregs"—every item represents a choice piece.

Mr. Sinkler had a special fondness for the mint single in shades and these may be found in profusion. Every stamp is priced at a reasonable figure when condition and rarity is considered. Serious collectors are invited to Philadelphia to inspect the collection and want lists are solicited from those who cannot conveniently come at this time.

U. S. Revenues, Civil War Period

I have decided to add revenues of the early period to my stock of the general issues of postage stamps, so solicit important holdings. Want either collections of fine singles, pairs, strips and blocks. Especially desire fine copies of the inverted centers. What have you to offer for cash? Please remember that at present I do not desire the revenues from 1898 to date.

I hold the finest stock of United States general issues in the hands of any professional. If it's a United States stamp that you desire—write Ward.

13c Green Harrison

The new 13c green with portrait of Benjamin Harrison, the twenty-third President of the United States, made its appearance in accordance with schedule on Monday, January 11th. It was placed on sale at the Washington and Indianapolis post offices, as well as at the Philatelic Agency. The denomination is for use in connection with parcel post combinations and will be distributed throughout the country in short order.

At the present time there is no intention of printing this variety from the rotary press, so that the present stamp, which is perforated 11 on unwatermarked paper—the product of the flat bed press will be the only variety available.

The plates so far made for the 13c stamp bear numbers 18106 to 18113 inclusive. Those that I have seen bear plate number 18108.

I wish to thank numerous correspondents for copies of the first day covers including an air mail cover from Indianapolis in which the writer failed to mention his name.

2c 1002

Mr. Walter L. Clark submits for inspection a used copy of the flag type issue of 1902 in which there is noticeable a number of lines in the upper margin, the result of surface cracks in the plate. This oddity has not been noted heretofore and it is impossible to tell from the single copy as to what plate the stamp is from.

Air Mail Notes

Under date of January 11th, the Post Office Department announces that they have awarded to Charles Dickinson of Chicago the contract for carrying the United States mail from Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis, via Milwaukee and La Crosse, Wisconsin. The contractor will begin operation just as soon as he has equipped his landing fields. He will receive as compensation 48% of the revenue derived in carrying the mails. The contractor has acquired three ships of the Laird type, which are ready to fly, each being capable of making ninety-six miles an hour.

Under the same date, the Department announces the result of several years of experimentation in radio direction finding with a view to furnish added safeguards to mail pilots and planes. The report is in considerable detail covering a number of pages and anyone interested may obtain a copy by referring to the Department.

Mr. Herman W. Boers kindly sends us a clipping from the Detroit News of January 9th in which front page announcement is made that air mail service between Detroit and Chicago, and Detroit and Cleveland, which in turn connects with the transcontinental service from coast to coast will be inaugurated on February 1st.

A conference between the postmaster at Detroit, the Superintendent of the Air Mail Service and a representative of the Ford Company has been held where final arrangements were made.

It is stated that while other contracts for carrying mail have been awarded to private concerns, this will be the first air mail service ever established under private contract, this service being operated by the Ford Motor Company. The aircrafts which will be used will be manufactured by the Ford Company and will be of the all metal monoplane type now used by the same company in its air express service.

No definite schedules have been arranged as yet.

Canal Zone

I have been shown the complete southeast pane from plate 15571 of the 5c Roosevelt stamp with Canal Zone overprint in which the eighteenth stamp shows the "Zone Zone" error.

I have also seen a similar pane from the same position, plate number 13846 of the 1c carmine postage due with a similar error located in the same position. There has been considerable discussion relative to these two varieties, but they have now been actually seen and I can definitely state that they exist.

I have received from the Zone a block of the 14c variety from the northeast pane, wherein the surcharges on the first two vertical rows are out of alignment in relation to the balance of the overprint. The same block shows two copies with broken "L", resulting in a "Canal" variety.

Provisional Envelopes

A. F. Gamber writes that there was located at the Fargo, N. D., post office eleven copies of the size 8—2c envelope overprinted 1½c. The die for overprinting was the one used formerly at Sioux Falls. Each envelope contains the return card of an Oklahoma City firm and the varieties were packed by the factory in a package of five hundred 1c envelopes to make the full count. Mr. Gamber does not state as to what die the envelope happens to be, but as most size 8's are die A, it is assumed that these varieties are of this die.

I have just acquired a small lot of some of the RARE

stamps, which I am offering as follows:—

No. 3492—15 cents black	Cat. $ 4.00	Net $ 2.50
No. 3493—25 cents rose red	35.00	15.00
No. 3494—40 cents green	4.00	3.00

I have a few complete leaflets of Nos. 3492 and 3493 of 5 stamps at $10.00 and $70.00, respectively.

Remember I only have a few and there are no more where these came from, so hurry up, as you will never again have such a good chance to fill up these blanks.

CANCELLATIONS

EDWIN B. HILL, Ysleta, Texas

For H. K. N

This is the Age of Specialism. Theory has developed into fact. In business and in pleasure the science is applied to the full. It has become almost specialism within specialism. Philately has succumbed to it. Yesterday we had the general collector. How few of the geni are left to us! Today we have the collector who devotes his time and talents to one line. This is perhaps good for philately. It is at least of vast benefit to his fellow collector. Study of stamps has grown beyond the dreams of the older enthusiasts. Great honor is due the specialist. He has made it possible for the tyro to appreciate. The benefit of specialism has been passed on, and we are the richer.

I am for the collector who loves his stamps, regardless of the theories of the purist. I would speak for the stamp lover who treasures and cherishes his little collection, although it scarcely would meet with the approbation of the conditionist or the extreme specialist.

Today, looking over a mass of stamps discarded by a friendly general collector, I chanced upon about two score copies of the three cents 1867. The condition of these stamps made them valueless to the owner. However, I am reluctant to destroy, and it was with none the least desire in that direction that I carefully looked over the little lot, some with a corner gone, some with tears, all quite inadequate to any one except the studiously inclined. And then the reason came to me as reward for the keeping. Cancellations!

We are all interested, more or less, in cancellations: but when we behold the prices such items as we desire fetch in the stamp market, many of us turn reluctantly away. But of this no longer. The cancellation is the thing, then. If we may not possess the cancellation we desire on a perfection copy, why not on a discarded one? Here was solution for the problem. So I set to work on this labor of love, and, going over several hundred wrecks and ruins, I gathered together perhaps three hundred cancellations, many of them more than worth while. Chiefest treasure of all is the thirty cents 1857, with its "paid" cancellation. True—and with pity—the east fifth has been sheared ruthlessly, but the residue of this stamp is perfect and beautiful.

The commoner issues are here in best array, with cancellations to give joy. Here is a pine tree, beautifully drawn with pen by some artistic soul who loved the woods,—perhaps some homesick one who remembered and yearned and found satisfaction in wafting on the sense of out-of-doors that strove for utterance. Then there is the proverbial "kicking mule" cancellation. Here is an anchor, exquisitely drawn,—emblem of hope. Then there are the circles of various types,—all interesting. Town cancellations abound. Some are beautifully distinct, with date and year. Others presage future changes in title. The rural routes have caused the abandonment of many post offices. What a collection could be made of these names on stamps,—post offices that no longer are in existence,—offices whose local cognomens are forgotten even by the proverbial "oldest settler."

There is my natal city,—Ann Arbor; the town where I lived for six years, later,—Pontiac; and then, Detroit,—all in Michigan. Then Lakeland, where I resumed collecting,—Mesa, Arizona, where I lived ten years,—and then, briefly, Arrey, New Mexico,—that frontier collection of adobe houses and warm hearts,—bless them! El Paso, Texas, with its variant cancellations,—and, lastly, Ysleta, which is pronounced ee-slay-tah, with accent on the middle syllable. This ancient town was founded by the Indians, a remnant of the tribe still living here. The Spanish invaders harassed and tortured these gentle natives, until peace came, with the padres. Now they dwell in unity,—whites and Indians and descendants of the mixed race. The early cancellations I have never seen. They exist, however, somewhere.

The old home town! Why not a series, if one will,—one of each series, on cover or on stamp? If one could only begin at the beginning! Detroit in 1701, to date!

The search is endless, the reward in the trying.

PATRONIZE A SHUT-IN

Miss Alma Newcomb of South Brewer, Me., is a shut-in, who has not been able to walk since a child. She has a lot of old U. S. and a bushel of mixed U. S. which she would like to sell. It is our custom not to allow mixed stamps to be advertised in the WEEKLY, but the circumstances in this case warrant us in permitting our reading space to be used to render this bit of service. We hope a large number of our subscribers will open up correspondence with Miss Newcomb. She is A. P. S. 4094.

BRITISH COLONIALS

These stamps probably are more desired than any other countries, except possibly United States.

The reason for this being their staple value. The fluctuations in these stamps are normal and prices tend to increase rather than decrease. One of our wholesale friends has arranged to supply a packet second to none.

We recommend these packets and assure you of satisfaction.

DICTIONARY BRITISH COLONIES

MALTA was known to the Greeks and Romans as Melita. The place was famed far and wide for its honey, Latin mel, mellis.

MARSHALL ISLANDS, named after Captain Marshall, who, with Captain Gilbert, explored them in 1788.

MAURITIUS.—The island was discovered by a Portuguese navigator in 1505, but it was taken possession of by the Dutch in 1598 and named by them after Count Maurice of Nassau. Previously the name given by the Portuguese was "Ilha da Cerne."

MESOPOTAMIA.—It is a Greek translation of a native Semetic dialect. Two thousand years B. C. the territory was called Naharim, or Naharin. The plural of masculine nouns in such a dialect is rendered either way. Seraphim, or Seraphin, &c., is used by us. In the Bible the country is spoken of as "Aram-Naharaim," from Nahar = "water," or "river."

MONTSERRAT was discovered by Columbus in 1493 and named by him from Mont Serrado, Spanish serrado and serrato = "toothed like a saw," a "saw-like mountain."

MOROCCO is the Arabic Mayrib-al-Aqca "Extreme West." It is really the name of the chief city, not of the country.

MOSUL = Al Mausil. This town stands on the site of a suburb of the ancient city of Nineveh. One of its patron saints is Jonah, vide St. Matthew xii. 41. In 636 A. D. there was a town here called Al-Mausil, of which the meaning is "The place of Connexion." Al is the Arabic definite article, found in such words as algebra, alchemy, &c., adopted from the Arabic.

NATAL.—Vasca da Gama had a view of the place from the sea on his voyage to India on Christmas Day, 1497, and called it "Terra Natalis," with reference to Dies Natalis = "the Birthday of Our Lord."

NIGER is the Latin niger = "black." Arabian geographers call the river the "Nile of the Negroes." This literally, to illustrate the absurdities of some words and terms, means "The Blue of the Blacks." Negro is the Spanish negro = "black," and Nile is the Persian nil = "blue."

NOVA SCOTIA.—In 1603 this country was called Acadia by the French. An expedition sent out under De Monts, by Henry the IV of France. came into conflict with the English settlers while carrying out their royal master's rather large pretensions. Doubtless, in consequence of this, James the First, with his usual Scotch canniness, made a grant of the whole peninsula, under the name of Nova Scotia = "New Scotland," to Sir William Alexander, another Scotsman. The name Scotia was originally applied to Ireland. A tribe from thence came and settled in a part of Scotland, then called Caledonia, giving to it the new name of Scotia in the eleventh century. From that beginning the name Scotland became established in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries.

ORANGE RIVER.—The Hottentots call this river Garib = "great water." This word was corrupted by the Dutch into Gariep. In 1777 Colonel Gordon, a Dutch officer of Scotch birth, named it "Orange" in honour of the Prince of Orange.

PALESTINE appears in the Bible four times as Palestina and Palestine. In each case the Hebrew word is Pelesheth, which, wherever else it is found, is translated Philistia, the reason for this being that when the Hebrew Scriptures were translated Palestine and Philistia were synonyms. Milton, e. g., in "Paradise Lost" uses Palestine when speaking of the country of the Philistines. The root of the above Hebrew word is Palash = "to migrate." To the Jews, therefore, the names Palaesthinim = Philistines would mean "strangers," and Palestine "The Land of the Strangers."

ST. CHRISTOPHER.—This name was bestowed by Columbus, who discovered the island in 1403. The name means "Christ Bearer," from the well known legend.

ST. HELENA, after whom this island was named by Joao da Nova, its discoverer, on May 21st, 1502, was the wife of Constantine the First, and the mother of Constantine the Great. When of great age she went a pilgrimage to Jerusalem and, as a legend tells, was associated with finding the Cross upon which Christ was crucified, in memory of which event the Festival the "Invention of the Cross" was founded. In Greek mythology Helen is Sarama = "The Dawn." In the myth, the bright cows, i.e., the rays of the sun, are stolen by the Panis, the powers of darkness, and Sarama, the early dawn, is sent to look for them. The verse, "Sarama is looking for the cows," meant "dawn is beginning to break."

ST. LUCIA is so named because discovered by Columbus on St. Lucia's Day. The name is the feminine of Lucius = "born at daylight," from Latin lux, lucis = "light."

ST. VINCENT, discovered by Columbus on St. Vincent's Day, therefore so named. The name comes from the Latin vincens = "conquering."

SALONICA was built in 315 B..C. on the site of the ancient city of Therma by Cassander. and named by him after his wife Thessalonica, half-sister of Alexander the Great.

SEYCHELLES, annexed by France in 1742 and named by them after Moreau de Séchelles, Chancellor of the Exchequer to Louis the XV.

SIERRA LEONE was discovered by the Portuguese navigator Pedro de Sintra, in 1462, and named by him "Serra Leone," from Portuguese serra = "a saw," a "mountain," and leone = "lion-like."

SOLOMON ISLANDS (British).—Discovered in 1567 by a Spaniard named Alvaro Mendana, who, being an optimist, named them "Islas de Salomon," with visions of riches to come.

SUDAN.—This name is an abbreviation of the Arabic term Bilad-as-Sudan = "the country of the blacks."

TASMANIA was discovered by a Dutch navigator, Tasman, in 1642 and by him named "Van Diemen's Land." in honour of his patron.

TOBAGO, discovered by Columbus in 1498, was by him named Asunçion = "Assumption," a Festival celebrated by the Roman Church on August 15th. Its present name is clearly the Spanish tabaco = "tobacco," a plant associated both with this island and also with Trinidad. The latter name was used in this country as a synonym for tobacco.

TRANSJORDAN.—The first part of this name is, of course, the Latin preposition trans = "over." The latter part is the Hebrew Yarden, and is always found with the definite article. It means the "descender" from the Hebrew word yarad = "to descend." It is called by the Arabs "al 'urdun," which is what is found on the overprinted Palestine stamps, together with the Arabic word sharq = "East."

TRINIDAD.—Columbus, we are told in history, vowed that the first land he discovered he would name after and dedicate to the Holy Trinity. When, on the evening of July 31st, 1499, he came into sight of this island and saw the triple mountain peaks, which are one of its features, it seemed a heaven-sent confirmation of his vow. The name is the Spanish Trinidad = "Trinity."

TURKS ISLAND is so named because the island abounds with a certain cactus, the melocactus communis, known as the "melon-thistle." "Turk's-cap," and "Turk's head," from the appearance of the head of the plant. The Turks came originally from Central Asia, and were known to the Chinese as Hiung-nu, and as Tu-Kiu, of which latter word the name Turk is said to be a corruption, and also to mean "brave, fierce." A probable derivation, because the Tu-Kiu, from a very small tribe, became a great empire.

VANCOUVER is named after George Vancouver, an English navigator, who explored the island in 1792.

ZANZIBAR.—In the eighth and following centuries small Arab States, called Zenq = "Arab," were set up along the sea-board by heretic Mohammedan Arabs. Among them were Mombasa, "the Magnificent," and Mukdishu, "the Immense." The sea-coast was called Zanquebar; the country inland was Bilad-es-Zenq = "Land of the Arabs."—Stamp Collecting.

THE PHILATELIC DICTIONARY

(We are forced to the conclusion that the average collector cares more for stamps than stamp literature. Our Philatelic Dictionary, a clothbound volume of 238 pages with hundreds of illustrations, is well worth the original price of $2. Recently we cut the price to $1.50 and we now make a further reduction to $1. There is no guarantee of refund if later we are compelled to again reduce the price. We propose to move our stock of this book, and the new price should do it. A sample section follows.)

Ubangi-Shari-Chad. — Part of the territory of French Middle Congo now administered as a separate colony and for which special stamps were first issued in 1916. The French spelling upon the stamps reads "Oubangui-Chari-Tchad."

Ubique. — A Latin word meaning "everywhere" and found on certain values of a set of stamps issued by Newfoundland in 1918 known as the "Trail of the Caribou" series. (See Trail of the Caribou.)

Udine.—The capital of the province of the same name in Venetia, Italy, which issued type-set stamps for local use in 1919.

Udjidji.—See data under Kigoma.

U. G. — These letters, intended to indicate "Uganda Government," form the only inscription on the 1895 typewritten stamps for the Uganda Protectorate.

Uganda. — A British protectorate in Central Africa. Postage stamps were first issued in 1895 and in 1903 these were superseded by the combined issue for the East Africa and Uganda protectorates.

Ukraine.—The region of the middle Dnieper Valley from the marshes of Pinsk to the cataracts below Ekaterinoslav. As a result of the great war Ukraine became an independent republic.

Ukrainska Narodna Republica. — An inscription shown on the stamps of Ukraine, meaning "Ukrainian Peoples Republic."

Uku Leta. — An inscription shown upon all of the numeral stamps of the Hawaiian Islands signifying "paid letters."

Ultramar.—Shown upon some of the stamps of Cuba, etc., meaning "beyond the sea."

Ulwur.—Same as Alwar. A British India native state. (See Alwar.)

Unappropriated Dies. — A somewhat lax term applied to certain British varieties which should perhaps be more correctly rendered as "Unappropriated plates." These are duty plates with blank labels upon which any required inscription may be afterwards printed so that they can be "appropriated" to any desired purpose.

Uniao dos Atiradores Civis.—An inscription shown upon the private stamps issued in Portugal for the use of the Civilian Rifle Clubs. It means "Union of Civilian Riflemen."

Unie van Zuid Afrika.—The Dutch equivalent for "Union of South Africa" shown upon all the stamps of that confederation.

Union of South Africa.—A confederation of the various British colonies in South Africa—Cape of Good Hope, Natal, Transvaal, and Orange River Colony—which since 1910 have been under one administration. During the three years following, the stamps of the various colonies were allowed to be used anywhere within the Union until they were replaced by a general set inscribed "Union of South Africa."

Unio Catalogne. — Certain small labels bearing this inscription and a nondescript device were issued in 1919 to raise funds for the cause of Catalonian self-government. They were not postage stamps, and the Spanish government quickly applied a quietus.

Uniontown, Ala.—Confederate postmaster provisionals issued during the Civil War in three denominations. They are very rare.

Union Postal Universal.—An inscription shown on certain stamps of Colombia, Nicaragua, etc., to show those countries are members of the Universal Postal Union.

Unissued. — These are stamps prepared for use and in some instances even distributed to post offices and then, for some reason or other, never placed in circulation.

United States of America.—Issued its first governmental postage stamps on August 5th, 1847, though the postmasters of some cities anticipated this important step by issuing stamps under their own authority one or two years previously.

United States of Brazil. — (See "Brazil".)

United States of Colombia. — (See "Colombia".)

United States of New Granada. — (See "Colombia".)

"United We Stand, Divided We Fall". — The motto shown upon the stamps issued by the postmaster of St. Louis in 1845.

Universal Postal Union.—A confederation or association of most of the countries of the civilized world having mutual arrangements governing the receipt and despatch of international mail matter. It was founded in Berne, Switzerland, in 1874, when delegates from twenty-two countries signed a treaty agreeing to certain fixed charges on certain classes of mail. Most countries are now members of the Union, which retains permanent headquarters at Berne, and meetings are held every five years so that international postal regulations may be revised and amended as required.

Unofficial.—These are varieties which never received official sanction, such as the "Susse" perforation on early French stamps, the roulettes on the triangular stamps of the Cape of Good Hope, etc.

Unpaid Letter Stamps.—These are special stamps affixed by the postal authorities in many countries to unpaid or insufficiently prepaid letters to denote the amount of postage or fine to be collected from the addressee.

Unperforated (not perforated). — A word frequently used in the early days of philately and now superseded by "imperforate".

Unsevered. — Undivided or "unsevered" pairs of stamps are usually more valuable than two single copies, particularly if the stamps are imperforate.

Unsurfaced Paper.—Paper without a glaze on its face—used only in cases where stamps exist on both surfaced and unsurfaced paper to distinguish one from the other.

Unused.—A stamp which has not been obliterated.

Unwatermarked.—Stamps printed on paper innocent of any sort of watermarked device.

U. P. U. (Universal Postal Union).—These letters appear on many of the stamps of certain Central and South American republics.

Upper Senegal and Niger.—The present name for the French colony on the west coast of Africa which was previously known as Senegambia and Niger. Postage stamps bearing the new designation were first issued in 1906.

Uruguay.—The smallest of the South American republics. Postage stamps were first issued on October 1st, 1856.

Urundi. — Same data as under Ruanda. The stamps for the two districts were interchangeable and both sets were officially authorized.

U. S. A. — Shown on some of the United States departmental stamps of 1873.

Happy New Year my friends, and may I introduce
The Alvonis Company

Merely a new name, but an old friend of yours who is always on the alert to be of service to you. In fact, that is why I decided upon The Alvonis Company. You will note this name is composed of two letters of my first name, "von" and two letters of my last name—hence Al-von-is really is an easier name to remember and that is just what I am hoping you will do whenever you are in the market for anything in my line.

Appreciating favors shown me previously and trusting you will be even more favorably inclined toward

Yours for a most Prosperous 1926.

SCARCE STAMPS

PHILLIPS' MONTHLY BULLETIN

Below we make you some offers in scarce stamps, many of which it is more a case of being able to find than the price. We have thousands of others of a similar grade and solicit inquiries from serious collectors. If you want the lower and medium priced stamps we have one of the largest and most complete stocks in the World. This stock is being continually added to from a steady stream of consignments from all over the World. We have also secured several collections in the past few months, including one listing over $30,000, which are being broken up. It is a favorable time to approach us for those "fillers" that are usually "out of stock." We specialize in "hard" and "under priced" stamps, the kind most dealers do not stock because they cannot be sold at big discounts. These are the best goods and the future bargains from an investment point of view.

Space here will not permit us to say or offer you much, but our "Monthly Bulletin" should interest you as it does thousands of other serious collectors. 24 or more pages EACH MONTH, at least 2000 items every issue, New Issues, Special Bargains, Recent Issues, Hard Stamps, etc., etc. Filled from cover to cover with the results of our purchasing power and search all over the world for material. Congo Free State

The obsolete issues of this country are jumping fast in value and wholesale prices on some items are double and triple Scott's cat. prices which mean nothing at all on many of these stamps. Our prices on these beautiful stamps are based on cost, and in some cases we are paying double what we got the same stamps for three months ago. As we have said in the past, you had better fill in your Congo spaces.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM:—

L. Jerome Odgen in a letter to the Postmaster General advocates a set of postage stamps depicting the natural wonders of the U. S. We quote a paragraph from his letter:—

"Why should we not portray America's natural wonders in an attractive set of pictorial issue of our postage stamps? Wonders unequaled in the world exist within our borders, some of which are little known. Why should we not depict the natural miracle of 'Old Faithful' geyser in the Yellowstone Park, the Yosemite Valley, Niagara, the Grand Canyon, and others equally beautiful but less known; and then for several years cancel our letters with the slogan "See beautiful America first."

We are indebted to Jason Samuel Parker, M.D., White Plains, N. Y., for remittance covering a two years' subscription to the WEEKLY for the Public Library of that city. We shall be very pleased to acknowledge further remittances of this nature.

We are willing to publish details of anything philatelic which happens in connection with air-mail routes, but we cannot take the space to publish schedules of service. We are indebted to Cecil J. Blogg for a clipping just at hand dealing with the Seattle-Los Angeles service to start April 1.

Harry H. Armstrong, 49 W. Third Apt. N, Spokane, Wash., would like the addresses of collectors residing in the vicinity of Spokane. If sufficient interest is manifested a stamp club will be formed.

We have received from E. A. Young of West Haven, Conn., two new year subscriptions, and at the same time enclosed a list of ten names for copies of the Missionary number. This is real co-operation.

R. Roberts, 430 Strand, London, England, is sending out a December pricelist that is very interesting. It consists of 24 pages and in addition to a fine list of British Colonial novelties there are numerous short articles dealing with various interesting items.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a quarter-page advertisement of the United Stamp Co. It will be noted that this company is making steady progress with new sections of the Marquette Sectional Album. The firm is now making up Austria and is contemplating getting ready before spring Danzig, Memel, etc.

aler's selection paying three dollars for even though the stamp was somewhat maged. Afterwards I found an exact plicate of it in a strip of three, with e other two stamps normal, which again consider a piece of great rarity, and is came from a lot that several colctors had picked over.

I turned up an original find of a couple ndred covers of the 1851-57 and '61 sues in a farmhouse. In it were half dozen three cent greens. One of them as a very badly damaged plate of the 73 issue, one that some engraver had ayed ball with or something, judging by e scratches and gashes that criss-cross all directions. A year later I turned a duplicate copy in another pickedr accumulation.

Pink cancellations are scarce and valule. Yet many collectors can't tell the fference between a pink and a magenta ncellation. As a result, I picked five nks out of one lot that had been well ne over by a dealer.

A real green, the most vivid I have er seen, came to me out of a gone-over t—somebody had passed it up for a mmon blue.

These are the things that will make the lue of bank notes go up and up in the ture—the fact that there are still many ds to be made for the collector who s the time and patience to study his mps until he knows all about them. ne only reason is that very little real owledge on the subject has ever been t in print.

Take papers alone. Here is a most scinating field for study. How many you know that the 1870-71 issue which e catalogue lists as being on hard paper so comes, but rarely, on a real soft per.

How many know that the olive green inting of the 1873 issue is in reality on ribbed paper. The catalogue does not l you that.

Do you know that the 1879 issue, which the catalogue says is on soft porus paper comes on a real hard, almost ribbed paper? Well it does and most dealers and collectors classify these 1879 hard papers along with the 1873 issue when to the specialist they are as obviously different as a black Jack is from a three cent rose. They are scarce, too, worth fully as much as the ribbed papers of the 1873 issue.

The catalogue informs us that the Continental Bank Note Company used a soft porus paper for a little time before the American Bank Note Company took over the contract in 1879. They can still be found without too much trouble, but once the collectors start picking them up they will become scarce as hen's teeth. I can tell them when I see them, at least in the three cent green, but the only proof is when you have copies dated 1878 or on covers dated that year.

Now as to cancellations. How many of you know that blue stars on 1870 issues are so rare that they vie with railroads and like cancellations in scarcity? Yet the same cancellation on the 1879 issue is not very scarce. The catalogue never will tell you a fact like this—you have to study it out for yourself.

Do you know that the 1882 issue is printed on a paper so soft that you won't find five perfect copies in perhaps 500? Well, that's true. Wherefore, fine perfect specimens of this issue are worth much more money than perfect copies of some of the earlier issues on harder paper which stood up better.

Magenta and purple cancellations are quite ordinary on some Bank Note issues. I think the catalogue lists them at 15 cents each on the three cent 1879. But try to get a perfect copy of the 1882 issue with a bright magenta cancellation! They are mighty scarce and far between for the fashion in colored inks was beginning to change by then and the magenta was going out, while the ordinary black was coming in stronger than ever. Postmasters were being instructed to standardize.

There are many fields for adventure in the Bank Notes. The one cent blue, the two cent brown and vermilion, the four cent green and carmine and other stamps have never been strongly specialized, but will have their day. Believe me, when the rush starts for the four cent green and carmine and the five cent Garfields, for instance, they are going to leap in price for they are comparatively scarce. And being printed on that later soft, spongy, abominable paper it is almost impossible today to find perfect copies.

The one cent blue of 1870-1873 and 1879 in my opinion is one of the comers of the future. Anything you invest in them now will multiply many times over in the future, provided of course that you buy nice stock. The reason I believe this to be true is because the one cent is perhaps the most beautiful and artistic United States stamp ever printed and because it abounds particularly in minor varieties that are easily decipherable. There are more shifted transfers than you can shake a stick at. In this stamp, covers are much scarcer than many others for the reasons that it carried mostly printed circulars which were thrown away while in the case of higher valued stamps the letters were filed away in the original envelopes and the latter preserved—that was in the days before filing cabinets. Oh, to run into one of those old pigeon-holed desks crammed with old letters!

Now I could go on all night talking on this subject, but probably you are all tired out by this time, so I'm going to quit.

I haven't tried to give much technical knowledge. It has rather been my purpose to treat this subject sketchily—just to awaken some of you to the wonderful possibilities existing in these cheaper stamps.

If I could afford it I too would buy and specialize in stamps that cost twenty-five, thirty-five and maybe a hundred dollars each. But I can't. So I am sticking, in my recently-adopted line, to things that can still be bought for a few cents each.

Of course, even when I am collecting low priced stamps I sometimes pay big prices for them. It isn't much of a stunt any more to pay five and ten dollars or more for a three cent green when it is of sufficient rarity. And let me tell you, to make a success of collecting even the cheapest of stamps you have got to be willing to spend dollars for a single copy at times. Otherwise you'll pass up things that will never come your way again. Then too if you haven't faith enough in your own hobby to pay a big price for a big thing once in a while how do you expect others to pay you a big price if you ever have to sell. Boost your own game, believe in it and don't try to always get them cheap. Let the nice ones you find even up for those you have to soak a little money into.

This talk of mine has been mostly preaching and I will finish with another preachment. It is this:

Don't try to collect all the stamps in the world when you know that it would take the fortune of a Ferrari, the ability of a Phillips, the ingenuity of a MacLaren, the acquisitiveness of a Hind and the knowledge of a Luff to enable you to even approach such an attainment.

Be a general collector if you will, but admit in the beginning that you are licked—that you have no particular goal unless you limit yourself in some direction. Decide what your limit will be and stick to that.

Then pick out one or two or more stamps that you particularly like and specialize in them. If you have never done it, you don't know what a thrill it is to get to a point where you can sincerely say: "Well, the old catalogue is not of much use to me any more." Get to the point where you can go to a stamp meeting and leave the catalogue behind so far as your specialty is concerned—where you can buy at the snap of a finger at the other fellow's price and know that you are getting a bargain.

Then, when you have mastered your own specialty tell the other fellow about it. Let him share your fun—otherwise there isn't much pleasure in the game.

Used.—A stamp that has been employed for the purpose for which it was made, and has received some mark to show that fact.

Used Abroad.—A term applied to the stamps of a country used in one of its colonies, protectorates or consular offices maintained in a foreign country. In many of the British colonies British stamps were on sale before the colonies issued their own distinctive stamps and these are generally termed "British used abroad". Similarly the United States stamps used at the consular office at Shanghai are "U. S. used abroad".

U. S. I. R. (United States Internal Revenue). — A watermark found in connection with many United States revenue stamps.

Uskub. — A city of Turkey. This word with Turkish hieroglyphics was surcharged on certain stamps of Turkey to commemorate a visit of the Sultan to Rumelia in 1910.

U. S. Mail.—Appears on the 2c carrier's stamp of New York issued in 1846.

U. S. Penny Post.—Is shown upon the first 2c carrier's stamp issued in Boston in 1849.

U. S. P. O. (United States Post Office). — These letters are shown upon all the Philadelphia carrier's stamps issued in 1849-52.

U. S. P. O. Despatch.—Appears on the 1c Eagle carrier's stamp issued in 1851.

U. S. Postage.—Shown on most of the postage stamps of the United States.

U. S. P. S. — These letters were watermarked in most of the United States postage stamps issued between 1895 and 1916. They stand for "United States Postal Service."

A STRIKING FEATURE

In the Stockton (Calif.) Record of Saturday, August 29th, appeared a half-page illustration featuring some of the unique things in the collection of W. R. Parker, of that city. It showed pictures of envelopes and postal cancellations dealing with the early days of California's history, when express companies carried practically all the mail. Some of the things shown were described as follows:

One of Wells Fargo's early cancellations. The frank stamp shows Coloma, where gold was discovered by Marshall, to have been spelled at one time, COLOMO.

The cancellations on this envelope show that Wells Fargo had absorbed the Pony Express as early as 1861. The Pony Express was organized in 1860.

A Wells Fargo frank in use just prior to the absorption of the Pony Express. The letter was mailed from Rattlesnake, wherever that was.

This frank is often mistaken for the Pony Express frank. It, however, is the frank of the Pacific Express which was organized by the employes of Adams & Co., shortly after the latter's failure in 1855.

Flag Envelope. — This envelope was used during the period of the Civil War. The Cherokee Express, cancellation of which appears on the envelope, was a short line company operating out of Oroville.

Know where Fiddletown is? But it isn't Fiddletown any longer. It's now known as Oleta.

Panel of cancellations illustrating a number of printed franks.

This envelope illustrates the efficient service rendered by the great interlaced system of express companies. Mr. Fox was not to be found in Stockton. For an additional five cents, the letter was carried by P.O. to Marysville. Again he was not found. For $1.00 more the Fargo's Feather River Express Company took the letter, which ultimately reached Fox at Simmons' store nearly a year later.

Forbestown is the birthplace of John W. Moore, San Joaquin county tax collector. Interesting enough, the Forbestown post office was closed last May, after nearly 70 years of service.

PASSING OF "HALF-CATALOGUE"

There is every indication that the "Half-Catalogue" fetish is rapidly going by the board. No thinking philatelist will regret its passing, for at one time it threatened to undermine the very foundations of philatelic values. Happily a broader outlook prevails today and the pernicious doctrine of "Half-Catalogue" no longer influences the far sighted collector. Its one time victims, too, are casting off the evil spell and awakening to bitter realisation that what once cost "Half-Catalogue" has so far depreciated as to be worth (in some cases) next to nothing.

The almost universal appreciation in philatelic value has had a corollary in an even more drastic raising of the standard of condition. Whilst the demand for fine copies is constantly growing, so the demand for second and third-rate specimens is as steadily diminishing.

Every year catalogue quotations approximate more and more to market prices current, leaving an ever narrowing margin for buying and selling all the time. More particularly is such the case with modern stamps. It must be obvious therefore that such stamps cannot be retailed profitably at any considerable discount off "catalogue." Moreover, since catalogue quotations are based upon average copies — neither brilliant mint nor superb used—it is equally apparent that exceptional copies must be worth not merely "full catalogue," but over; a fact that is borne out by recent auction sales.

Of course there will always be a fair proportion of common and medium stamps that can be sold quite legitimately well below catalogue such as those priced from 1d to 1sh, upon which the catalogue publishers themselves offer a liberal discount to large purchasers.

Second choice copies of higher grade stamps may also be picked up at "bargain prices" by collectors who are short-sighted enough to give them album room. Fortunately their number is growing "smaller by degrees and beautifully less."

The astute philatelist of today, with an eye to the investment aspect of his hobby, is fully alive to the fact that an inferior specimen of even a relatively scarce stamp is practically unsalable He sees to it therefore that each and every stamp added to his collection is as near perfection as he can reasonably hope to obtain it, no matter whether it be common, medium or rare. Wisely he refrains from disfiguring his album with dog's eared or off-colour remnants of bygone collections that are so temptingly offered at "knock-out" figures, as a trap for the unwary.

LEO REGGIANI, DESIGNER

To Leopold Reggiani went the honor of winning the first prize in our Cover Design Contest for our issue of January 25, and doubtless none of the contestants will question the justness of our award. We are inserting this week a half-tone picture of Mr. Reggiani, believing that our subscribers will be interested in knowing him a little more intimately.

When Mr. Reggiani planned the design he frankly tells us that he tried to think out something that would be distinctive and worthy of our paper, putting his heart and soul into the design to further advance the interest in stamp collecting. As a collector for many years he bears witness to what philately has done for him. He commenced collecting fourteen years ago, when he was barely twelve years old, and has been adding continuously to his collection until he now has a fairly general collection.

Mr. Reggiani takes great pleasure not only in studying stamps from the collector's standpoint, but also from the standpoint of the artist, and many pleasant hours have been passed with his stamps. At present he is designing the pages and arranging the specialized collection of Dr. Avazon's France. He is taking great pleasure in the study of these rare and unique stamps and hopes to have the work completed for the 1926 Exhibition in New York.

Our friend is engaged at present in the art department of a large New York advertising agency, where a thorough knowledge of things in general is essential, and here in many instances philately has come to the fore with helpful material on some subject. Philately is fast taking its proper place in the world's activities.

We congratulate Mr. Reggiani upon the ability which he is displaying in his chosen field of work and prophesy that a large measure of success will be his.

TID-BITS:—

A great many sample copies of the issue of Jan. 25 were sent out in response to lists of names sent in. We did not print up a surplus supply of the number for future use. Belated requests for the issue of Jan. 25 will be filled by sending a subsequent number.

"Stamp Topics," a monthly magazine published by the Owl Publishing Co.,'423 W. 42 St., N. Y. City, is at hand for January. The subscription price of this 28-page magazine is only 35c per year in the U. S. and Canada and it is well worth the price. We recommend that our subscribers send for a sample copy and give this enterprising publication the best consideration possible. The editor is Otto W. Lampe and he is doing good work.

A recent news item in the WEEKLY was a bit misleading. What Clinton L. Chalfant really desires from some philatelic authority is to know what has become of certain plebiscite areas. What became of Allenstein and Marienwerder, etc.? Perhaps some of our readers have these situations in mind and can give us the desired information.

The Beaver Stamp Society of Portland, Oregon, has become affiliated with the A. P. S. Officers were elected Jan. 11 and a busy season lies just ahead.

Bright & Son calls our attention to a scarce error in the 10 piastre Trans-Jordan overprinted on Palestine recently issued. One stamp in the sheet has the letters EFF instead of EEF in the lower panel.

Herman W. Boers of Detroit sends us a clipping from the Detroit "Abendpost" of Jan. 17 which contains references to philately. While we do not reprint the same we appreciate Mr. Boers' courtesy in submitting them for our consideration.

A change has taken place in the business operations of the Yonkers Exchange. The name of the new firm is the Stamp Studio and Mr. Lustig in calling our attention to the fact wishes us to say that Bronx collectors will be welcome at his residence, 2184 Davidson Ave. This firm is making a specialty of what is termed an "intensive approval service."

The big advertisement of the Rotnem Stamp Co. in this week's paper is bound to attract attention, not only from the standpoint of space used, but because it is devoted to precancelled stamps. It is a strong indication of the interest that is being taken in what was once a sideline of philately, but to many has become the "real thing."

Bela Sekula of Lucerne feels that an injustice has been done him in the speculative characterization that has been given the Nyassa postage due stamps. He sends us a photo of a letter from Stanley Gibbon, Ltd., London, in which the firm says:—"The note in our catalog may justifiably be removed in the next edition."

One Man Beat Us All!!

As the new 13c stamp was placed on sale at Indianapolis on January 11th one would naturally suppose that that city was Harrison's birthplace. However, reference to a biography will show that such was not the case. Harrison was born at North Bend, Ohio, and died at Indianapolis. ONLY ONE COLLECTOR OBTAINED FIRST DAY COVERS FROM HARRISON'S BIRTHPLACE. He made a special trip to Indianapolis and thence to North Bend just for this purpose.

If you have a First Day cover from Indianapolis, the "deathplace," you should get one from North Bend, the birthplace. If you have neither and would like to add two historical covers to your collection, let me send you both of them. The North Bend cover is not obtainable elsewhere, as the entire supply has been offered to me.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

Mr. Wm. F. Palmer gives a bit of interesting history in connection with a Railroad ticket office cancellation. Above is a rough tracing of it.

I quote: "This (Conn. Valley R. R.) is a branch of the N. Y., N. H. & Hartford R. R., connecting Saybrook Junc. with Hartford, Conn. At that time Goodspeed's was a steamboat station on the opposite side of the Conn. River from the R. R. station. The R. R. station is now called East Haddam and Moodus."

Mr. L. Bryan Dabuey reports some Mississippi River Packet cancellations on 3c green covers.

1. Regular Thursday Packet "Katie." J. M. White, Master, New Orleans, Vicksburg and Greenville. The stamp is cancelled Vick. & N. O., Dec. 13, Agt.

2. Regular Vicksburg and Bends Packet Pargoud, J. M. White, Master. The stamp on this one is cancelled Vick. & N. O.——, Agt.

One cannot help but wonder if the J. M. White was the same man.

3. Vick & N. O. R. R. Undoubtedly Vicksburg and New Orleans River Route. Mr. Dabuey says, "There was no railroad between Vicksburg and New Orleans in the 70's, the first railroad being completed in 1885. This cover bears in manuscript the words 'Per Lee,' which was a famous packet boat of the early days, and was the same boat which defeated the 'Natchez' in the memorable race from New Orleans to St. Louis, in 1870."

4. N. O. & V. M. L. R. R., which translated is New Orleans and Vicksburg Mail Line River Route.

Now listen to this:—"I have a fine pair of 3c 1851 with Route 7309 in green on a legal size envelope." That's the kind of an item the auction cataloguers feature in large heavy blackest type and end their remarks with VERY RARE or Possibly Unique. And they're right. And until someone can come forward with a duplicate it's fairly safe to leave out the "possibly." I know mighty well it's not in the 1870 to 1900 period, but, I'm human, and the temptation to mention an item of this character is simply irresistible and the impulse to jump on a train and take a kit of burglars' tools along, and go after it is almost that, too. Route 7309 in Green! I'll save you the trouble. I looked myself. It's not in the list.

While we are talking of Packet Boat cancellations here is another from the Alabama River. Stamped envelope with two cents brown of 1884. The packet stamp is in dull purple and reads:—

STEAMER "NETTIE QUILL"
Regular Tuesday Night Line
— FOR —
SELMAO MONTGOMERY
John Quill, Master. E. C. Reid, Clerk.

No attempt has been made to reproduce the various kinds of type used. There are seven varieties.

Stamped envelopes and purple ink seem to have been popular with the Alabama folks at this period, the purple ink apparently was epidemic.

Here is a puzzle. An envelope originating in New Orleans addressed to Macon, Ga. The stamp is a three cents green 1871 issue tied on by the N. O. & V. M. L. R. R. postmark. How did it travel? Evidently it left New Orleans on a packet boat. Where was it transferred to a railroad? Wasn't there a Railroad out of New Orleans to Georgia at that time? Some one please tell us.

Mr. R. L. Hustis sends several covers used at Nashotah, Wis. Some have 3c green stamps and the others a 1c blue and 2c brown. Part of the 3c stamps are cancelled 1872 in a circle, the others and the one and two cents combination are cancelled 1873 in a circle. Mr. Hustis states that the correspondence ran from 1870 to 1875, but that in no other year was this type of cancellation used. Cuts 2 and 3 are tracings of two of them.

A curious fact is disclosed in regard to all these covers, viz.: under the stamp is written a name. In explanation of this Mr. Hustis says, "Nashotah is a small village where an Episcopal school for ministers was founded in the 50's, and still goes on today. The letters must have been mailed through the school office, stamped by them and charged to the writer." Something like the old way of charging postage in the Post Offices, but of course in this instance purely a matter between the school and the students.

A similar cancellation dated 1871, in a circle, is illustrated also, cut I. In view of what Mr. Hustis tells us this must have been used somewhere else. Who can tell where? Cancellations of similar types will be welcomed.

A short time ago mention was made of a stamp cancelled by a large U in a circle with month date in figures inside the U and year date below it. Mr. S. C. Rogers reports besides the U the letters B, C, D, O, and S similarly dated, all on registered covers sent to or through New York City and with dates ranging from 1890 to 1900, and Mr. Henry Perlish submits a cover bearing fourteen one cent re-engraved stamps, pen-cancelled seven on each side of the cover, front and back, with no postmark, but having on the back U with the date 4-2-85. One correspondent says, "This cancellation appears to be the receiving stamp used by Prof. A. W. Allen, famous tapeworm

REDRAWN FLAG JAMAICA NO. 92

By MAXWELL KRAUSE.

The statement appears in Gibbons Catalogue and has been noted in the philatelic press that the flag in the left border of the 2½d Jamaica Pictorial Issue with old Mult. CA watermark, Scott's No. 79, is reversed, and that this error was corrected in the next printing on Script CA paper, Scott's No. 92.

An English collector, I presume, would find this error and correction without much difficulty, but hundreds of American collectors have hunted for it, have carefully compared their copies of Nos. 79 and 92, and have failed to notice any difference in the designs. It has puzzled so many collectors and I have had so many inquiries on the subject that I believe an explanation will be of interest to your readers.

The truth is that this error of detail was a small one and would escape any person not well acquainted with the Union Jack. And to properly understand it, it might be well to give a little history of the flag itself.

The original Union Jack dates from the accession of James VII of Scotland to the English throne as James I, finally and definitely uniting these two countries which had so much in common. A flag combining the national emblems of both was desired and it was created by taking the red cross of St. George of England with a white fimbriation or bordering to denote its original white field, and superimposing it upon the white saltire of St. Andrew of Scotland with its blue field.

On the legislative union with Ireland in 1801, it was decided to add the red saltire of St. Patrick, which had a white field. To do so presented a problem, for to place the saltire of St. Patrick over that of St. Andrew would obliterate the latter, while to place it so that the saltire of St. Andrew still showed would omit the necessary white fimbriation which denoted the original white field of the saltire of St. Patrick.

This problem was finally solved by making the white bordering wider on one side of the red saltire than on the other. The wider part represents the white saltire of St. Andrew and the narrow part represents the white field of the red saltire of St. Patrick.

In the official Union Jack, the inner part of the hoist, that is, the half of the flag nearest the staff, shows this white border wide above the red saltire and narrow below, while the outer half of the flag shows the white border wide below and narrow above. In contrast, an examination of the flag shows that the white fimbriation of the cross of St. George is equally wide on all sides.

Note the wide top white bar and the narrow lower white bar.

If you will take up a copy of Jamaica No. 79, and examine the flag in the left border, you will notice that the white bordering of the saltire nearest the staff is wider below than above and is therefore reversed. If you will then look at Jamaica No. 92, you will find that this error has been corrected and that the white bordering of the saltire is wider above than below. This is the only difference between the two stamps.

This is a small detail perhaps, but it has puzzled many a collector who has studied the stamps in question for many hours in search of the "reversed flag". And it is just such small matters, sought for, found and understood, that make stamp collecting interesting and instructive.

I am enclosing a little sketch of the flag as it appears in Jamaica No. 92 with the error corrected. I am a poor artist but if you consider this matter sufficiently interesting to put before your readers, you no doubt have someone handy who can make you a better sketch.

Mr. John W. Creegan, Washington, D. ., sends a strip taken from the Washing-n Times which illustrates the progress f the postal system. The gamut is run om the stage coach days of the 1700's to ie air routes. It once required six weeks make the distance between Philadel-hia to Boston, a trip now made in a day.

At the Senn High School, recently, Mr. Max Golding, president of the Chicago hilatelic Society, addressed the stamp ub, much to the interest of its members. number of the instructors at the school ssured Mr. Golding that his remarks ere a revelation and that they were eased to have the subject presented in ie manner that it was.

"Did you see the article, 'Lunatics, by ne of Them, Showing How Collectors lay Have Much Method Beneath Their adness,' by William C. Richards, in the earborn Independent for August 8, 925?" asks Mr. Maurice B. Levy. This adable account, well illustrated, was in-ed a feature and it is our recollection at due mention was made of it soon ter its appearance.

Mr. J. M. Bartels, New York, has been ided to the personnel of the Ways and eans Committee of the International xhibition organization. Mr. Bartels has en re-elected president of the American tamp Dealers' Association and fits in ell on the committee in question.

Mr. A. W. Filstrup, Benton Harbor, lichigan, was a visitor recently to Chi-go, where he communed with local ollectors.

A new venture, the Windy City Pre-mcel News, is due from Chicago, its ublisher, Mr. Adolf Gunesch, being well formed in his particular field.

JOCK & WILDNER

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

In this, the closing article of this series on the adhesive private die match stamps, we have for consideration an alleged stamp of which two specimens have been in existence for many years. At various times during this long period this adhesive has been the subject of considerable comment — mostly unfavorable — but all the efforts made to discover its complete history have yielded results so barren that even now the sum total of all the information regarding it is very slightly if at all more complete than the information available in the early 1880s—which is to say, just about nothing at all. In the present writer's opinion the best thing that can be said in favor of the legitimacy of this stamp is that E. B. Sterling had some faith in it.

In November, 1923, Mr. Sterling sent the writer a number of letters and other notes and data bearing on the history of the two specimens and as these documents probably contain the most complete history of these "stamps" which is now in existence, it is thought advisable to use them as the basis of the present article. In this way as much as possible of the facts and conjecture regarding the Jock & Wildner adhesive may become available in one place to the student or to the interested reader.

The earliest dated document is a letter sheet dated May 27, 1882, and bearing a much later endorsement in Sterling's handwriting, reading "Notes for W. C. VanDerlip, Boston, Mass.," which mentions a number of "additions and notes" and states "I shall list Jock & Wildner 1c red, as Post and I have become convinced that it is all right. The stamp is there whether good or bad so that it can be safely listed and will lead to inquiry which may unearth others. Same size as Macklin."

The second earliest dated document is entitled "A List of all stamps mentioned in E. B. Sterling's catalog, as revised, Oct. 1882 — not in the collection of J. K. T. Oct. 25 1882." This is evidently John K. Tiffany's want list and the 8th item on the list is noted as follows: "108. 1c brown Jock & Wildner unper. o." The denomination and color appear to have been first written "1c red" and then written over to read "1c brown."

There are several letters from Alfred A. Post. The first, dated Bridgeport, Conn., May 15, 1884, mentions the Caterson Brotz & Co. Playing Card stamp. The third letter from Mr. Post is dated Jan. 30, 1885, and refers to negotiations for the sale of his collection of revenue stamps. He says, "I keep the Alex. blue matches—Jock & Wildner—and Caterson Brotz & Co. card stamps" because my prices on these are $40., $30., and $100. net." The sixth letter from Mr. Post, dated Feb. 30 (!) 1885, states "enclosed is the Jock & Wildner. VanDerlip has the only Jock & Wildner beside this that I know the ownership of. I understood that a Mr. Adee had the other until two years ago, when he is reported to have sold it to a collector in Europe."

In confirmation of the Post letters Mr. Sterling wrote to a friend in New Jersey, November 26, 1923, "I paid $30. for my copy from Afred A. Post and which sold for $26.00 at the auction sale held in New York, E. B. S. third sale, 1888."

On pages 35 and 36 of the American Journal of Philately, Volume 7, No. 1 (Jan., 1894) under the heading "The Jock & Wildner Match Stamp" is the following, which was reprinted in the Philatelic Journal of America of February, 1894, page 93:

"A few days ago we were shown a number of counterfeit local stamps of the United States, all collated on original letters. Some were splendidly executed, whereas others would deceive only a tyro. The stamps were the product of a dealer in postage stamps and coins who did quite an extensive business fifteen or twenty years ago.

The party who brought them to us informed us at the same time that the counterfeiter in question had produced the 'Jock & Wildner' match stamp, and that no such stamp had ever existed. It seemed almost impossible that such a fraud could have been foisted upon the stamp market, and particularly as our Government has records of every Proprietary, Match and Medicine stamp manufactured by it.

We immediately addressed an inquiry to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who informs us that the Government never issued a match stamp to such a firm as that in question. We present a copy of the letter herewith:—

Treasury Department,
Office of the Commissioners of Internal Revenue,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 3rd, 1894.
Scott Stamp & Coin Co., Ltd.,
18 E. 23rd St., New York, N. Y.
Gentlemen:—

Your letter of the 23rd ult., has been received in which you make inquiry as to whether the firm of Jock & Wildner had ever had prepared a match stamp by the Government. In response thereto you are informed that the records of this Department fail to show that any such stamp was ever issued or authorized by the Government.

Respectfully yours,
G. W. WILSON,
Acting Commissioner.

In all our experience we can remember having handled only one specimen of this stamp and that was in the Sterling collection. It was evidently the policy of the counterfeiters to produce only rare specimens, and of these to take only a few at a time. The engraver of the dies, we are informed, was a Mr. Becker, the same expert who engraved the counterfeits of the Baden, 1kr black, mentioned in our catalog for Advanced Collectors and various other stamps, mention of which we shall make at some future date."

A postal card from W. P. Brown, dated New York, March 24, 1898, addressed to Mr. Sterling, reads, "Much obliged for information about the Jock & Wildner, but you did not express your own opinion. Certainly it was not got up to humbug collectors with, or more of them would have been thrown on the market. Do you suppose it was got up to cheat the Govt with, and do the records show the Macklin which was similar? Guess I will write to Deats about it."

On May 29, 1899, Mr. A. G. Bishop wrote to Mr. Sterling enclosing a copy of the Jock & Wildner and asking Sterling's opinion about it. On July 9, 1899, Mr. Bishop again wrote to Mr. Sterling enclosing the Jock & Wildner and letters from Mr. Deats and stating, "I certainly hope you can find out something about the Jock & Wildner and can prove that the stamp is O. K."

On April 7th, 1900, F. D. Sherman wrote to Mr. Sterling inquiring why the Jock & Wildner had not been listed in the late catalogs, and on April 16, 1900, Mr. Sherman again wrote Sterling stating: "Mr. Eagle showed his copy to me: it certainly looks like a poor copy of the Macklin done in brown. However, counterfeit or not, the stamp is interesting."

On April 23, 1900, Dr. Stephen A. Welch of Providence wrote Mr. Sterling, stating: "I know of no one in Providence who has a Jock & Wildner. The N. E. Stamp Co. has one but refuse to sell it because it is a fraud. Have you a copy?"

On April 14, 1900, C. H. Eagle of New York wrote Mr. Sterling, stating: "I also read your letter about Jock & W. to Mr. Sherman. I am sorry I can throw no light on the 'mystery' * * * * I only have personal knowledge of two copies, the one Mr. Bishop has and the one which Mr. Deats had, but now in my collection. It is evident that Mr. Deats doubted it, or it would have been noted in the Boston book. At the same time he was loath to part with it, and did not intend to put it in the Sale of his other revenues. I think he felt there was yet more to learn about it, but to round off my M. & M. collection he very nicely let me have it, realizing that I was the next best man to possess it. I do not know whether E. S. Phelps or Farnsworth have copies. I know the latter in answer to my inquiry for it wrote 'What do you want that "fake" for'?"

On May 7th Eagle again wrote to Mr. Sterling, stating: "I think Mr. Bishop bot his Jock & W. from the N. Engl. Stamp Co. so I only know of his and mine of my own personal knowledge." The postscript on another letter from Eagle to Sterling, dated May 12, 1900, states: "My Jock & W. came originally from the Nash coll. Mr. Vanderlip did not sell his with his coll. but probably Brown got it afterward from Vanderlip & sold to Mr. Bishop. New Engl'd S. Co. thinks Vanderlip has his, as they did not get it."

In a letter dated Bath, 8/7/1900, Mr. J. W. Adee wrote to Mr. Sterling, stating: "The Jock & Wildner stamp you make mention of I have forgotten & having no catalogue can't bring it to my memory. If you have one send it to me to look at and I will return."

The following extracts are taken from letters written to Mr. Sterling by Mr. H. E. Deats, of Flemington, N. J.: "Aug. 10, 1899, I have had a photograph of the two Jock & Wildner stamps made and have sent both stamps to Mr. Bishop and will also send him a copy of the photograph when ready." On June 15, 1899, Mr. Deats wrote: "The Jock & Wildner is a fake in my opinion and all remarks in my previous letters referred only to the Macklin stamp. * * * I can get my Jock & Wildner stamp, of which I have only one copy, next week if you want to see it." On June 24, 1899, Mr. Deats wrote: "I always considered the Jock & Wildner stamp an imitation of the Macklin. No one in Peoria, Ill., ever heard of the Jock & Wildner." On June 29, 1899, Mr. Deats wrote: "I enclose the Jock & Wildner stamp for your inspection. Please return promptly when through with it. I trust you will be able to learn something more about it." On April 7th, 1900, Mr. Deats wrote: "In reply to your letter of March 19th in regard to the Jock & Wildner, I sent it to Mr. Toppan who replied that he had a mass of correspondence and records collected by Mr. Vanderlip and others and that was the reason he had voted to leave it out of our list." On April 16, 1900, Mr. Deats wrote: "I have [had] but one copy of the Jock and Wildner and I sold that to Mr. Eagle. * * * I could not put it in the sale. I have always regarded it and never hesitated to say that I do not consider it good." On May 18, 1900, Mr. Deats wrote: "The Jock & Wildner stamp I sold to Eagle was the copy that came from the New England Stamp Co. I do not know whom it belonged to, perhaps they will tell you. * * * I paid $5.00 for the Jock & Wildner and sold it for $25.00. I bought it at the time of the last A. P. A. Convention in Boston." On May 26, 1900, Mr. Deats wrote: "I will see what I can do in the way of getting information for you about the Jock & Wildner stamps."

In a letter dated Trenton, November 26th, 1923, to the present writer, Mr. Sterling wrote: "I herewith enclose you 38 items relating to the very rare Jock & Wildner match stamp. Fictitious or genuine it is still a mystery as to its origin. I had faith in the stamp at the time of the publication of my fifth edition U. S. Revenue stamp catalog, 1888. You, of course, will see that the stamp did not eminate from me. * * * When Mr. Deats took over my stamp affairs in the '90s he destroyed some 75 copy books I had * * *. I have no time at my disposal now to hunt up any more letters on the subject."

Among the papers sent to the writer by Mr. Sterling was a photograph of a proof of the Macklin stamp showing the signature of Commissioner Lewis with "Approved May 8, 1865" in manuscript, and a double photograph showing the two specimens of the Jock & Wildner. Mr. Sterling's data indicates that these photographs were made in August, 1899. There were also a few copies of the replies sent by Mr. Sterling to the letters from Mr. Deats, in which Mr. Sterling gave his reasons for his belief in the Jock & Wildner stamps. His whole argument hinged on one point, that various copies of the Macklin stamp were different from each other in slight details, while the two copies of the Jock & Wildner were exactly alike. From this he argued that both copies of the Jock & Wildner were genuine, while of three Macklins, all differing from each other, only the one agreeing with the design approved by Commissioner Lewis was genuine—the other two were imitations.

Mr. Deats' opinion, however, was that he Macklin plate contained 32 subjects, ll of which differed slightly from each ther. From which premise it should be educed that no two copies of the Mack-in would exactly agree with each other, nless they happened to come from the ame position on the plate. As the num-er of Macklin stamps now known to be n existence is reckoned at about ten or welve, and the Macklin plate may have een considerably larger than Mr. Deats' stimate, it is much more likely that any wo copies of the Macklin now in exist-nce would not agree with each other than hat they would agree. With the greatest espect for Mr. Sterling's memory and he great value of his work to philately he present writer inclines strongly to Mr. Deats' viewpoint.

Considerable space has been given to he extracts from letters written to Mr. Sterling, because for many years Amer-can philately has not known how much redence to place in a persistent rumor hat Mr. Sterling's faith in the genuine-ess of the Jock & Wildner emissions as based upon evidence which Mr. Sterling possessed, but regarding which hilately at large could only conjecture. he present writer, therefore, feels it his uty to give to philately all the evidence hich he has, or which he believes Mr. Sterling had.

It seems extremely doubtful that Mr. terling possessed any evidence more onvincing than is given here and al-hough Mr. Sterling did refer to the ass of correspondence in Mr. Toppan's ossession it is apparent there was little r nothing in this correspondence to con-ince Toppan the Jock & Wildner were enuine. Quite the contrary. Whatever dditional information, if any, Mr. Top-an possessed, only induced him to vote gainst including the Jock & Wildner in ie Boston Revenue Book.

The present writer finds great difficulty saying anything in favor of the Jock & Vildner stamps. In the late summer of 919 Mr. P. F. Robertson of Peoria made xtensive inquiry and search in that Illi-ois city and failed to find any trace of ie firm, or of either of the partners, or any people bearing either of those ames, residing in Peoria for fifteen years revious to 1870. Mr. S. J. B. Macklin f Covington, Kentucky, the son of John Macklin, informed the writer that he ad never heard of Jock & Wildner, or ny match factory in Peoria, or that cinity. No record of the approval of ie Jock & Wildner die has been found. his in itself is strong evidence that the amp was not issued with the consent or pproval of the Bureau of Internal Rev-nue. Moreover, the consistent practice f the Bureau was to confine a design to e use of one manufacturer and only ne, and for a specific purpose,—the sue of the Franklin head match stamp three proprietors simultaneously — is is rule known to have been violated. does not seem possible that Macklin ould have sold his die to Jock & Wildner ithout some evidence of such sale or ecord of the transfer and the approval the altered die being on record.

Those who have condemned the Jock & Vildner have always regarded it as a audulent imitation of the large black acklin adhesive printed by the Amer-an Phototype Co. and it seems not to ave occurred to them that the Macklin ight have been a genuine and legal mitation of the Jock & Wildner. The tter supposition opens up interesting ossibilities, but the present writer does ot take either it or them seriously. The atch tax went into effect September 1, 64, and the Macklin die was officially proved May 8, 1865, Macklin had sed the term "Shanghai matches" in nnection with his business for several ars before his stamp was issued. The ssibility that a match factory large ough to have desired private die stamps as in existence and yet had such a short e that no trace of it, except two sup-sed stamps, remains, is too remote to tain credence.

The stamp itself closely imitates the acklin design. A rooster stands facing ft with a lighted match in its beak. bove the rooster is a colored circular al composed of a small central disk and two concentric bands. In the central disk is a colorless numeral "1". Color-less letters in the band surrounding the central disk read ONE CENT above and below. Colorless letters in the outer band read U. S. INTERNAL REV-ENUE above and PROPRIETARY with a star at each end below. Type set in color at the left of the rooster is SHANGHAI and at the right MATCHES, the letters of each word being placed under each other. Below the rooster in small capitals is MANU-FACTURED BY, in large block capitals is JOCK & WILDNER, and at the bot-tom in capitals and lower case old Eng-lish is PEORIA, ILL. The whole is surrounded by a rectangular double lined frame of which the outer line is much heavier—exactly as on the Macklin stamp. One copy is described as being printed in bright red and the other in dull red, the latter may possibly be the brown copy mentioned on Tiffany's want list. One copy has very good margins on all four sides, especially at top and bot-tom. The other copy has somewhat wider margins at the sides but is cut close to the outer frame line at the bottom. Both stamps are printed on thin yellow-ish tissue paper.

In the present writer's opinion the Jock & Wildners were printed from a counterfeit die, but not to defraud the Government. The die was made before 1882 at a time when comparatively little exact knowledge of the private die issues was available for many collectors and with the purpose of defrauding collectors only. In his opinion the key to the mys-tery lies in the note at the end of the quotation from the American Journal of Philately. Few were printed because only by maintaining their rarity could their value to collectors, and their selling price, be maintained.

He is a philatelic hustler of great ability and a great believer in all that pertains to our hobby.*

The firm of H. E. Harris & Co., 535 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass., is sending out Special Bulletin No. 3 for the winter season of 1926. A very fine line of packets, running all the way from 1,000 to 30,000 varieties, is offered. As a news item we may properly mention that the last named packet is offered for $1,675.00. There is also a department de-voted to packets by countries, which will be found profitable for dealers' use.

We have received from K. Kaplanek, Praha-Vinohrady, Bohemia, a price-list of Czecho Slovakia postage stamps. This list will be sent to anyone free of charge.

EDITORIAL.

WE are pleased that an increasing number of readers are making it a practice to write us to give their opinions on topics that bear more or less directly on philately. From freely expressed statements we are enabled to sense the current of thought that changes with the months and while no remarkable degree of unanimity of ideas is to be found, yet the trend of latter-day philately is to be detected through them. One of the most heartening signs that is shown is that which proves that philately no longer is a thing apart in the daily routine, but has a place in the order of the hour. From a state of isolation it has been merged with the affairs of the larger world. No longer does any nation control the policies of philately, nor does any individual or group mold the destinies of the pursuit. Collecting has emerged from solitude and now sits in the sunlight as an attractive occupation that commands the attention of a countless number of reasonable people who collect as a matter of course.

A PROFESSOR in one of the universities writes us to say that he thinks stamp collectors ought to avoid an attitude of semi-apology for the fact that they are interested in stamps. While some collectors may be backward in proclaiming their philatelic connections, on the contrary, we know that many others are not troubled with any inferiority complex. They avow on any and all occasions their stamp fondness in loud and loving terms. It is no longer fashionable to shrink from publicity as a stamp collector.

A READER in Reno deplores the fact that he has no philatelic associates in his town and that stamp "visitors to Reno are few and far between." Here is a tribute to the marital fidelity of philatelists who have no reason to go to Reno and while sometimes we hear that wives berate their husbands for undue devotion to stamps, yet this allegiance to stickers does not unhinge domestic relations seriously.

AUCTION DEPARTMENT [30

(New Address) 1 West 47th St. NEW YORK, N. Y.

MR. P. R. NOLAN, Boston, Mass., says that it is a mistake to think that we have progressed to any great extent in familiarizing the public with stamp collecting. "My work as a crew manager takes me around the remoter sections of the state and I find that few minds can grasp the rational impulses served by collecting. Almost without exception, the natives wonder at the strange idea; they can understand how one might collect coins, but stamps! The fact of the matter is that I no longer tell folks about my hobby, even though I used to do so, in the wish to be interesting and in the hope of making finds." Mr. Nolan has more to say and we should be somewhat depressed by his recital, if we did not know that conditions have improved on the average, although there probably are hinterlands where philatelic ignorance hangs like a pall over the country. We hope that Mr. Nolan will resume his wonted cheerfulness and again try his luck in prospecting for finds.

MR. THOMAS N. JOHNSON, Atlanta, Ga., says that from his experience, it is easier to buy Confederate stamps than to hunt for them: "For some years I have been following clues, but I have not been able to uncover over five dollars' worth of Confederates in all that time. My expenses in money, not to say anything of time, have been many times this amount." This is an old story. Confederates have been the object of intensive search both by native and transplanted collectors. Some remarkable finds have been made, but they are becoming the exception as time goes on. Now and then something will be turned up as it would be absurd to write finality in regard to finds of Confederates or old U. S. Yet, if the collector were told of the campaigns that have been instituted by hunters for Confederates that yielded results poor to plentiful, for many years past, he would understand that there could not much be left for him. However, treasure troves are sometimes found by accident as much as by design and most of us are filled with the hope that springs eternal in the philatelic breast.

THE five dollar current issue is one of those stamps that is fated to be elusive in fine condition, as its colors are particularly susceptible to the disfigurement of canceling ink. An obliteration of equal surface would cause the blue and red stamp to suffer more than almost any other stamp in the set. A user of $5 stamps says that when he gets them back from correspondents, they are badly mauled in contrast to their former spick-and-span condition but that, even so, they have not been treated worse than other high denominations; they show the effects of wear and tear more. Occasionally a collector who is in a position to use high denominations and receive them back asks that post office people cancel the stamps lightly and he has been known to draw suspicion to himself by his request. The conscientious clerk wants to cancel high values effectively and wishing to err on the right side, if at all, he gives the stamps an extra punch or two. At the same time, the punishment that some of the stamps are subjected to is cruel and unusual and collectors merely feel that in some instances their stamps are assaulted without provocation and that it is just as fair for the department to advise against the habit of almost coloring a stamp black with canceling ink as to instruct that stamps be unmistakably "used."

JUST as the foregoing paragraph was being written, the following notice was received from Washington, under date of January 18, 1926:

"Almost daily the department receives many reports of articles dispatched in the mails bearing one or more uncanceled stamps notwithstanding the necessity for proper cancellation has been repeatedly brought to the attention of postmasters and employees. If stamps of high denominations used on parcel-post packages are allowed to escape cancellation and are used again the losses may reach serious proportions. Every stamp used again represents a total loss equal to its face value. This needless waste can not be viewed other than as a reflection on the efficiency of the entire service.

Postal employees are urged to see that all stamps on mail, both incoming and outgoing, are sufficiently canceled. Special care should be taken with parcels bearing several stamps, as it has been found that clerks frequently miss one or two stamps in applying the canceling stamp."

THE post office department regrets with collectors that the reprehensible practice indulged in by an employee here and there of removing canceled stamps of high denomination or of foreign issue, presumably because they are interested in philately, has not been wholly discontinued. Collectors have been complaining since the beginning of philatelic time against the thefts committed by postal folks and the authorities have issued warnings periodically calling attention to the gravity of the offense. While the nuisance has not been stamped out, it is being curbed and the department hopes to make the pilferings an irreducible minimum by its warnings, which are supposed to admonish the culprit who says that he "didn't know that the taking of the stamps made any difference" that such excuses will not be tolerated.

FOR some time past the authorities seem to have been aware that abuses may have crept in in the handling of precanceled stamps, due to the philatelic angle that they present and we have been asked to publish the order sent out from Washington by the third assistant postmaster general, Jan. 14, 1926, headed: "Improper Sale of Precanceled Stamps," with the feeling that collectors will c operate with the department in restric ing the stamps to their proper function

"It appears that a number of stam collectors throughout the country a making requests upon postmasters f precanceled stamps and that some pos masters comply with such requests, n withstanding the conditions governing t use of precanceled stamps specifically pr vide that such stamps may be sold to an used only by persons and concerns t whom they have been furnished by postmaster after special authority in eac instance has been obtained from th office.

These conditions, moreover, contemplat that precanceled stamps will be furnishe only to such persons and concerns as d sire to use them for the payment of pos age on matter mailed at the office whe precanceled. Precanceled stamps may n be furnished to persons and concerns d siring to use them otherwise than for th payment of postage.

Postmasters are therefore enjoine from selling or otherwise furnishing pr canceled stamps to persons or concern not authorized to use such stamps.

Postmasters are also requested to invit the attention of their patrons authorize to use precanceled stamps to paragraph of the conditions governing their us which provides that persons and concern authorized to use precanceled stamps ar prohibited from selling them."

Every Member Get A Member

That is the 1926 "Slogan" of the A.P.S. sounded by Secretary Davis. Did you get yours? I have seven so far to my credit and am after more, but am not competing for any prize, but working only for my own account, personal, so go to it for the prizes offered. Mr. Phillips, the present live wire of Philately, offers you a free trip to the 1926 Stamp show if "YOU" get the most A.P.S. members. Can you beat it? Get busy right now and don't let any grass grow under your feet. Hats off to Mr. Phillips.

MISSIONARY SCHOOL WORK

By PERCY C. SMITH.

You may be interested to know of my experience at the Northern Junior High School on the afternoon of Jan. 7th last, when I spoke to some forty boys on the subject of stamp collecting. It is a rare privilege to talk to the rising generation on any subject, and to receive such careful and quiet attention was rather a surprise to me. After talking to them for twenty minutes on the general theme and pointing out the advantages that could be gained from the study of postage stamps the meeting was thrown open for questions and for fifteen minutes they came thick and fast and convinced me that the class was alive to the advantages and helpfulness that could be gathered from careful study.

I have received a letter from the teacher and quote a little of what she thought: "The boys certainly appreciated your talk to them a week ago. Several of them have been to me since then with questions about their stamps that show an awakened interest. Increased interest was also shown in the compositions, and a fine lot were handed in last Thursday." I offered three prizes in stamps for the three best compositions and Miss Balch advises that the following three have been taken as the three best: (1) about three stamps from Georgian Republic, by Mischa Saroff; (2) about the U. S. Parcel Post set, by Frederick Geisler, and (3) about the Columbian set, by Clifford Stamper. Copies of all of these have been given to the teacher in charge of editing the school paper and it is expected they will appear in print in about two weeks' time.

TURKS & CAICOS ISDS., CROWN TYPE, 1922

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Peculiarly, the Imperial Crown is missing from the design of the 1904-05 series (King Edward VII) of the Falkland Islands, after which that of the Turks & Caicos Islands, 1909 series was patterned; but in the 1912 series (King George V) of the former, the Crown is positioned over the central oval, and similarly placed in the St. Vincent 1913 series. Again in the 1912 series (King George) of the Turks & Caicos Islands, the Crown is absent, which leads to the belief that this was done purposely, as its inclusion would have meant a division of the Dependency's name, or the use of smaller and less prominent letters, and this latter was one objection (locally) to the King Edward 1909 design.

Following the Peace Celebrations of July, 1919, a proposal to overprint the contemporary postage stamps (¼d to 3s) with the device of a Crown and the word "Peace" at each side, was vetoed by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, but at the annual meeting of the Legislative Board of the Dependency, on December 20, 1921, the Commissioner (G. Whitfield Smith) reported that—

"A new issue of postage stamps has been sanctioned by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, which will probably augment the Post Office receipts to the extent of over £2000."

On January 1, 1922, the letter rate from the U. S. A. to Jamaica was reduced from 5c to 2c, and this was made applicable to the Turks & Caicos Islands from May 3rd. In accordance with a Post Office Notice of March 24th, the rates on letters and post cards from the Dependency were changed. These were identical with those notified by the Postmaster of Jamaica under date of March 16, 1922, as in force in Jamaica as from April 1st, but the latter increases were disallowed by the Jamaican Legislative Council, before they ever became effective.

"POST OFFICE NOTICE.

Post Office, GRAND TURK,
24th March, 1922.

Notice is hereby given that from and after the 1st April, 1922, the postage on letters from the Turks & Caicos Islands, will be as follows:—

To the British Empire.—2d for the first ounce, and 1½d for each additional ounce.

United States of America.—2½d for the first ounce, and 1½d for each additional ounce.

Other Countries.—3d for the first ounce, and 1½d for each additional ounce.

Post Cards.—1½d to all countries.

Signed, H. A. BASCOM.
Postmaster."

Ordinarily, the change in the foreign post card and letter rates would have occasioned some color changes in any new printings from the old plates, but these were held over and embodied in the new issue. A design had been suggested, patterned after the 2c Peace stamp of British Honduras, (issued April 28, 1921), using the Seal die of the 1900 design, and the "Cayman Islands type" King George head (1921-23 series), but in the Crown Agents Bulletin for July-September, 1922, the new design was described as being a modification of that then in use.

"Modifications of the existing design for Turks Islands stamps have been made by the introduction of the Crown and the substitution of the head of H. M. the King "Cayman Islands type", for the present head. Supplies of the ½d, 1d, 2d and 3d values have been dispatched; the remaining duties on order are 2½d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 1s, 2s and 3s. The following changes of color necessitated by the adoption of the new international postal rates have been made: 1d brown, 2½d purple on yellow, 3d blue. The colors of the remaining values will be the same as those of the current series. The 2½d duty will appear on yellow script, and the 2s on emerald paper, old watermark."

These stamps were received at Grand Turk by the Clyde-Santo Domingo line steamer, "Huron", via New York, on the evening of November 16, 1922, and issued November 20th, but it is doubtful if any orders from the outside were filled before the first week of December. The ½d, 1d, 2d and 3d were released by the Crown Agents to English stamp dealers early in December, and the other values, during January. These were the first Turks & Caicos Islands stamps (other than remainders) sold by the Crown Agents to new issue merchants.

In the new design the head of King George is larger, and from the die made up for the Cayman Islands line engraved series of 1921-23, which in turn was fashioned after the New Zealand, 1915, design. Instead of confining the head to a small central oval, it is in an arched frame (inscribed "Turks & Caicos Islands"), at the bases of which are Turk's head cacti (melocacti communis), responsible for the naming of the Turks Islands, and embodied in all stamp designs of the Dependency since 1900. In each of the upper corners is a crown, placed horizontally. Squares in the lower corners contain the figures of value, between which, in two lines, is "Postage" with a six-pointed star at either side, and the value in words. All lettering is colorless except the figures of value.

The use of two crowns in the design has occasioned comment, and according to one philatelic writer, "two crowns on a stamp is not correct symbolism un-

Danish West Indies

Less than 70 straight varieties ever issued from these small islands and even these are obsolete right now. Since the purchase of the islands by the United States, the demand for these stamps has been tremendous and the increase of 10% in catalogue value over 1925 prices is just a starter for the real boom which is bound to come. The offerings below are all in good condition and money cheerfully refunded, if not satisfactory.

W. Somerville, Mass.

This is the net value of the Wharton Sinkler collection of United States postage stamps which is now being broken up and is gradually being absorbed by the collecting fraternity. Whether you are looking for the mint specimen of the more common variety or the great rarity, it is no doubt here, unless it has already been placed.

Starting in with the 1847 issue, one will find mint singles, blocks and unusual covers through each series right down to the present. Out of town collectors are arriving almost daily to view the wonderful lot and select those pieces of interest. Everyone is expressing satisfaction with their purchases. The beauty of the collection is the fact that there are no "dregs"—every item represents a choice piece.

Mr. Sinkler had a special fondness for the mint single in shades and these may be found in profusion. Every stamp is priced at a reasonable figure when condition and rarity is considered. Serious collectors are invited to Philadelphia to inspect the collection and want lists are solicited from those who cannot conveniently come at this time.

U. S. Revenues, Civil War Period

I have decided to add revenues of the early period to my stock of the general issues of postage stamps, so solicit important holdings. Want either collections of fine singles, pairs, strips and blocks. Especially desire fine copies of the inverted centers. What have you to offer for cash? Please remember that at present I do not desire the revenues from 1898 to date.

I hold the finest stock of United States general issues in the hands of any professional. If it's a United States stamp that you desire—write Ward.

Imperforated Coil Varieties

Com. W. A. Corley has asked for information as to how the imperforated coils as listed on pages 96 and 97 of the Scott's specialized catalog might be distinguished from stamps cut from the imperforated sheet. He states that he has discussed the matter with a number and that it is not generally known as to whether they may be distinguished or not.

The imperforated coils were made at a time when the coil stamps were printed in the same manner as the sheet stamps, and these sheets were later cut into strips and pieced together by hand, making the so-called joint or paste-up. In the case of the flat plate product and all imperforated coils with one exception made in this manner, it is impossible to distinguish the stamp from the flat plate variety should anyone attempt to make the imperforated sheet variety into the imperforated coil. The demand, however, for the imperforated coil is not greater than the supply—hence, I do not recall of ever hearing of any attempt to make these imperforated coil varieties. The only way a collector should purchase them, however, is to buy them from one who will put his guarantee on the back and has taken them actually from the coil. Most of the varieties listed and priced are fairly plentiful at the present time.

The only imperforated coil which cannot be made from the imperforated sheet is the 2c rotary coil, Scott's No. 459. This stamp never appeared in sheet form but only in coil form—hence, cannot be faked. We have never known the imperforate rotary in any other shape even in the later issues other than this one little lot of coils and, of course, being issued in coil form only, it is not available in blocks.

1893, 2c Columbian

In our issue of December 21st there appeared an article on the 2c Columbian issue of 1893 from the pen of Mr. E. L. Randall.

Mr. R. A. Wagner writes to call attention to the fact that Mr. Randall overlooked the varieties with break in the bottom of the right frame line. As Mr. Wagner mentions, this defect in the transfer roll was noticed many years back and has been recorded heretofore. Along with the variety showing the dent in Columbus' hat, they no doubt rank as the most interesting of the minor oddities of this stamp.

17c Wilson

While in Washington on the date of issue of the Wilson stamp, I inquired relative to the contemplated selling of this variety at Columbia, S. C., on December 28th and was informed that they had at first intended sending a supply to this city for the first day but that the order was later countermanded and the four first day cities of Washington, New York, Princeton and Staunton were decided upon.

In the meantime, however, the postmaster at Columbia received numerous communications asking for first day covers, resulting in his requesting a supply from the Department.

I was informed officially that stamps were not sent to this office along with those to the other four cities, but that a supply was sent forward on the morning of December 28th. Whether it arrived that day or whether covers were issued with an illegal postmark dated backwards, I cannot say, but I do know that copies exist, for I have been sent the variety by Mr. J. V. Nielsen and others. It is quite possible that the supply reached the office on the same day, but I have made inquiries and will be able to definitely inform our readers in short order.

I wish to thank Mr. J. F. Muller for the first day Wilson cover from one of the small places outside of Princeton the stamp, however, having been purchased in Princeton.

1924, 2c Star Plates

I have described in this column on several occasions the new plates known as star plates, which have a small star in the margin and which differ from the normal plates in that the stamps are spaced slightly further apart resulting in less likelihood of waste through poor perforating.

As previously mentioned, the star to date has only been seen near the top or right plate number. As yet the variety has not been noted near either the left or bottom plate number.

Through the courtesy of Mr. A. E. Owen, I am able to inform our readers that five plate number blocks differing one from the other are obtainable for the specialist, three of these having the star at top and two at the right.

The small five pointed star, such as found on the rotary plates, appeared on one flat plate only, No. 16758, and the small star is found in the near vicinity to the plate number. The large five point star may be found on several plates near the top plate number, but the one called to my attention was No. 17121. A similar star is found near the right plate number on plate No. 17315. A large six point star may be found near the top plate of No. 16741, while a similar star can be found near the right plate No. 17196. In addition, a double star can be found on the right plate. This was described several weeks back. If any of our readers locate any other varieties, I would like to have it brought to my attention.

Confederate States

One of our readers writes that he has recently located a mint block of twenty-five of the famous "Ten Cents" Confederate block being in irregular shape. There are two extra stamps on the top and three extra on the right, which if cut off would make a regular block 4 x 5. The owner writes that the block is perfect in color, has original gum and is very fine in every way.

Printed in unbroken ets of 240 (12x20) alternately Engh and Afrikander. Surface printed. o 4p grey, imperforate line engraved, nted in sheets of 120, separate plates, all English and one all Afrikander cription. Mr. Roberts sends the folving:—

The first three denominations of the w series of stamps for the Union of Africa have just made their appearce, i.e., the ½d, 1d and 4d postage mps.

They are inscribed in English and Afrider alternately on the sheet in the e of the ½d and 1d, while the 4d sents a most striking representation the triangular design of the Cape of od Hope stamps, generally known as "Three corner Cape".

These are printed in imperforate sheets 120 (10 rows of 12 stamps, each row taining six pairs tete-beche). The ing up is similar to the old triangular es, though the selvedge margin beven each is considerably larger, so that re will be no difficulty in getting these mps with wide margins.

The colour is a poor sort of grey blue hout much distinction and does not justice to the beautiful design. They printed on the ordinary paper watermked Springbok in multiple formation or what is otherwise known as the "all over" watermark.

Two separate plates have been made, one with English inscriptions and one with Afrikander; as owing to the triangular shape of the stamps it would have been inconvenient to print alternate English and Dutch inscriptions and also inconvenient to cut if thus printed.

One can imagine the jagged appearance of a sheet of triangular stamps printed alternately English and Dutch similar to the ½d and 1d, after the efforts of the postal clerk to supply as demanded the mixed population of a large town like Johannesburg, with a single 4d Dutch or a single 4d English inscription according to the taste or nationality of the purchaser.

This triangular stamp, is an event of great moment in modern issues as there has not been a British Colonial triangular stamp issued since 1864 when the beautiful De la Rue engraved issue of the triangular Cape stamps were replaced by the surface printed rectangles, and what is more remarkable, is that this 4d stamp of the Union of S. Africa has been issued unperforated and has perforce to be cut up with knives and lancets, shears or housewives' scissors, as in the glorious days of old, when triangular Capes could be bought for 4d each.

The ½d and 1d denominations are printed in unbroken sheets of 240 (12x20) the centre marginal gutters having been dispensed with in the same way as our English stamps, the printing of stamps in this way effecting a considerable economy in the quantity of paper. They are perforated 14½x14 and both are bicoloured, the ½d being of the emblematical Springbok design in black in the centre, the frame and duty plate in green; the 1d depicts an ancient war vessel entering Table Bay.

remedy professor, whose correspondence was distributed by the auction route a few years ago. I have seen this cancellation on many envelopes, all of which were addressed to Prof. Allen."

Mr. J. W. Sampson has a cover mailed from Charleston, N. C., to Germany, in 1888, going through New York, and another from Portland, Oregon, to Austria, in 1890, also going through New York, both with markings of this type, and these two letters would tend to the belief that the markings may have originated in the Registry Division of the Post Office. But their significance is still a mystery. If any one else can give us any further information in regard to them, we shall be very glad to have it.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS

less both sovereigns are depicted, in which case the crowns would have to be of the correct type. The designer in trying to balance his stamp has forgotten that the Crown is a symbol, and that two crowns mean less than nothing." In this the Turks & Caicos Islands have not established precedent, as there are two crowns shown in both the King Edward and the King George designs of Canada—one being placed diagonally in each of the upper corners.

The stamps were printed from line engraved plates in sheets of 120 (12 horizontal by 10 vertical), undivided, and surrounded by a double marginal line, 10mm from the outer stamps. The 2s on green and the 3s on red are watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA, and the other values script CA. The perforation is 14, comb for the pence values, and single line for the shilling.

The 2½d and 4d were the first British West Indian stamps printed on script yellow paper, although this was first used for the 5c of Federated Malay States issued March 1, 1922. White script paper was first used for the 1d and 2½d of Bermuda's first Legislative Tercentenary series, issued Nov. 11, 1920.

During 1923, stamps of the Crown series (although furnished on application) were retired more or less from sale at the G. P. O., and King George, 1913 type, Roman CA and script CA watermarked stamps sold almost exclusively. This was evidently due to the desire of the Colonial Postmaster, Capt. G. H. Frith (who succeeded Mr. H. A. Bascom on the latter's departure in December, 1922, to take up his appointment as Colonial Treasurer of Dominica), to work down the stock of the old type.

A second printing of the 2½d (used almost exclusively on letters to the U. S. A.) on lemon paper instead of the original pale yellow, was issued June 26, 1924.

On December 30, 1924, a reprinting of the ½d, a bit lighter than the original printing, and verging on the yellow green, was placed on sale.

Nov. 20, 1922.—King George (Cayman Islands type). Line engraved and printed by De La Rue & Co., Ltd., London. Watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA (2s. and 3s.) and script CA (other values). MALTA 2½ ON 3d VARIETIES

Courtesy Bright & Son.

We have just had an opportunity of examining a sheet of the recent Malta Provisional 2½ on 3d, and we find that there are some varieties in the setting of the overprint which we beg to describe as follows:—

(A) Normal, the word "halfpenny" being central under the word "twopence"; the "Y" of halfpenny coming under the "ce" of "pence".

(B) The word "halfpenny" is more to the right, the "Y" coming exactly under the "e" of pence.

(C) The word "halfpenny" is more to the left, the "H" coming exactly under "T" of "two".

(D) The word "halfpenny" is still more to the left, the "H" being to the left of the "T" of "two" and "Y" coming exactly under "C" of "pence".

We may add that the sheet is made up of 2 panes of 80 stamps each, thus—

BAAACBAAAC	BAAACBAACC
BAAACBAAAC	BAAACBAAAC
BAAACBAAAC	BAAACBAAAC
BAAACBBAAC	BAAACBAAAC
BAAACBAAAC	BAAACBAAAC
BAACCBAACC	BAAACBAAAC
BAACCBAAAC	BAAACBAAAC
BAAACBBAAC	CCCDDBAAAC

It is thus seen that out of a complete sheet of 160 stamps there are 67 copies of Type A, 33 copies of Type B, and 36 copies of Type C, and two only of Type D.

We do not know of course whether there is more than one setting and whether every sheet is exactly the same, but possibly other readers will be able to point this out if there should be more than one setting.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

THE LITHOGRAPHED PICTORIAL STAMPS OF TASMANIA

By P. MALONE (Hobart).

These most interesting stamps, some values of which are very scarce, have been occupying the attention of collectors for some time, particularly in Australia and New Zealand, and keen disappointment was generally expressed when it was found that they were not listed in Stanley Gibbons new 1925 catalogue. In my previous article on the Pictorial Stamps of Tasmania, published in the Monthly Journal of July, 1924, reference was made to these stamps, and they were all included in the check list, but only the 4d value appeared in the new catalogue, with a footnote that other values of ½d, 1d and 2d existed, but were difficult to identify. This footnote had the effect of causing wide interest throughout the world to be taken in these uncatalogued stamps, and continued inquiries are being made regarding them, and specimens sought for. They certainly may be difficult to identify for anyone unacquainted with them, but to an expert or a collector who has any knowledge of them, or who has actually seen specimens, it is quite an easy matter to pick them out. It has been definitely proved that printings of the ½d, 1d, 2d and 4d values were done by the lithographic process, but unfortunately all records regarding them were destroyed before the Commonwealth Stamp Printing Department was taken over by Mr. J. S. Harrison, the present Government stamp printer, Melbourne, Victoria, where all the Tasmanian postage stamps were printed after the federation of the Australian States into the Commonwealth of Australia, and the post office taken over by the Federal Government.

The workmen engaged in the stamp department who actually prepared the lithographic stones for the printing of the stamps were able to vouch that the values mentioned above were produced in this manner, but of course could not give any details of the dates, or the number of stamps that were printed, and it is to be regretted on this account that all the records regarding them should have been destroyed by the late Government stamp printer. It must be a matter of conjecture as to the number of each value lithographed, but we are indebted to Mr. J. A. Rosenblum of Melbourne, who discovered in an old book that escaped destruction a record of the number of sheets of the 4d value that were printed by this process. There were in September, 1910, 322 sheets, representing 38,640 stamps (120 in a sheet), and in February, 1912, 2,000 sheets, representing 240,000 stamps. The former stamps although printed in September, 1910, were not actually put into circulation in Tasmania, until about the middle of the following year (1911), and after a thorough investigation and further study I have been able to place these stamps. They can be easily identified by the fact that the watermark Crown over A is always sideways, they are perforated 11 only, and are a distinct colour (brown-ochre). They are in reality the stamp now catalogued by Gibbons as typographed from the London plates (No. 333). In my previous article I mentioned this stamp as a worn plate, but, as already stated, with further study and inquiries, there is now no doubt whatever that it is a lithographic transfer, and represents the 322 sheets referred to above. The second printing of the 2,000 sheets of the 4d value in February, 1912, also shows a more or less worn appearance, and represents the stamps of this value at present listed in Stanley Gibbons Catalogue (Nos. 328 to 332), lithographed, but the date should be 1912, not 1909-10, and they should be placed after the 4d with watermark sideways, which was issued first in 1911.

The 4d lithographed stamps can always be identified by the more or less incomplete details in the design, particularly the waterfall and trees, which usually gives the impression of a much worn appearance. The perforations are 12½ large and small holes, and 11 large and small holes, and compound of both. The watermark Crown over A is found upright or reversed.

There is also in existence another lithographic transfer of the 4d value, which is of the greatest rarity. It apparently was an experimental printing when the stone was first prepared, and evidently only a few sheets were run off. Although the watermark is in the same position as the 1912 printings (upright or reversed) the colour is totally different from stamps of that issue. It is exactly the same shade as the original plate stamps of this value issued in 1905-06 on Crown and A paper. The details of the central portion of the design are not so clear as in the original stamps, the trees show a somewhat mottled appearance, and the horizontal lines of shading at the back of the trees are missing.

The 1d stamp, being the value in greatest use after penny postage came into operation, appears to be the one that was lithographed most, but comparatively speaking they are not very plentiful. Most copies are found dated about the latter end of 1909, and during 1910. They appeared also at other times, and as early as 1903-04 on V and Crown paper. This first printing shows superior workmanship, and altogether the stamps are much better productions than the later printings of 1909-10. They can be easily identified by their distinct colour, being a deep crimson or blood-red shade. They are mostly perforated 12½ large or medium holes, but appear also perforated 11, and compound of both, the latter two perfs. being scarce, particularly the compound. They were first issued towards the latter end of 1903, but the majority were used during 1904.

The 1909-10 lithographs of the 1d value show considerable variation in production, and depths in shades of colour. The work is of a very inferior nature from a printer's point of view, but for a stamp collector they are rather conspicuous, and some certainly stand out very prominently as examples of lithographic work. They were issued concurrently with the plate stamps of this value, and evidently both processes of printing were in operation at the same time, no doubt in order to meet the necessary demands for supplies.

The variations are so great that it is not an easy matter to describe these lithographs for identification, but generally speaking they show a somewhat flat and blurred appearance; the pillars at the sides are very often (but not always) solid in colour, and sometimes on one side only; and the letters of the words "MOUNT WELLINGTON" at the bottom of the stamp are usually thick and badly formed, being more or less joined together. The best and most important guide is the formation of the lines of shading in the centre above Mount Wellington. They are often more or less blotchy and uneven, and vary considerably, being partly solid in some cases, while in others they are particularly light, but not uniform in formation. The shading on the outline of the top of the mountain is usually heavy, and also around the border of the inner frame line below the word "TASMANIA."

They are perforated 12½ and 11 as in the 4d value, showing large and small holes of both, and compound. The 12½ large holes are very scarce, the majority being perforated with small holes. The watermark is Crown over A, which is normally upright or reversed, but there are varieties with the watermark sideways. They are also known imperf. on one side.

The ½d stamp not being required so much as the 1d value, was not lithographed to the same extent, and consequently is very much scarcer. They were printed under the same conditions as the 1d value about 1909-10, but as the demand for this value for postage purposes was very small, the supplies together with the ½d plate stamps lasted several years, so that copies may be found used as late as 1912 or 1913. The same characteristics as in the 1d value generally apply to these stamps, but in many cases they also show a very rough and coarse appearance. The eight wedge-shaped ornaments in the corners are often solid in colour, and they always show a more or less blurred appearance, the lines of shading having totally disappeared. The lines in the tablets containing the figures of value are very irregular and merged into one another. They are perforated 12½, 11, and compound, as in the other values, and the watermark Crown and A is normally sideways. They differ in shades of colour from very pale to deep green.

The 2d stamp, lithographed, is the great rarity, and is attracting considerable attention at present amongst collectors. Although not yet catalogued, specimens command high prices. The first appearance of this stamp in January, 1910, was a very crude production, and possibly this is the reason why it has received so much attention. It is particularly scarce and its existence was only known some years after they were issued. A search through some thousands of 2d Pictorial stamps revealed an average of one copy only in about every two thousand (2,000) stamps, which gives a good idea of its relative rarity. According to the postmarks on the used copies known, which are mostly dated January or February, 1910, it would appear that the stamps were well circulated throughout Tasmania by the Post Office authorities, and the majority were apparently used in country centres, which no doubt accounts for their great scarcity, as being all used in the ordinary way, the greater quantity of them were eventually lost or destroyed. Very few copies are known unused, and consequently they are extremely rare in this condition. The stamps as in the ½d and 1d values vary considerably in production, but some copies show an absolutely solid flat appearance in the central design, all details having completely vanished, and just the outlines of the mountains showing against the sky, which is generally of a whitish nature, the clouds having little or indistinct details in their formation. In some cases the lines of shading in the sky are joined together and show a very blotchy appearance over a white background. Others partly show the central details of the design, but not clearly, and the lines of shading of the water in the foreground very often resemble a massive quantity of seaweed floating around. These stamps from a philatelic point of view are very important and prominent varieties, but from a printer's aspect they show very inferior workmanship, and when specimens were shown to the Gov-

W.D. PIERSON.

A CHART OF UNITED STATES ISSUES 1908-21, NOS. 331 TO 550

By W. D. PIERSON, Waterbury, Conn.

I have found this chart very useful as a quick means of differentiating these issues of 1908 to 1921 as to perforations, watermarks, printings, etc. My friends have also considered it a help, which leads me to believe your readers would care to use it. I do not claim any great originality for the arrangement, as some years ago Mr. E. B. Power had a somewhat similar scheme on a portion of the list, but such did not give catalog numbers. It offers a suggestion as to other issues, such as the Bank Note series 1870-82, where the same design occurs in the different printings. In using the above chart it is wise to first segregate by perforations, then by watermarks. This is the reverse of catalog listing, but I have found it preferable.

ernment printer he actually repudiated such work being turned out from the Government Stamp Printing Office; but the fact remains that they were turned out and put into circulation. Probably it was only a preparatory printing, and only a small quantity done in this manner, as later supplies undoubtedly show a considerable improvement, and some are produced so well that only an expert could separate them from the original plate stamps. These later printings are somewhat more plentiful, and are usually found dated about March or April, 1910. Although they show improved workmanship, they also vary more or less in production and colour. The first printings are of a deep dull purple shade and usually pronounced, but the later printings vary somewhat from a dull to a brighter shade of purple.

About July or August, 1910, another attempt was made to lithograph supplies of the 2d value, but apparently it was not a success and was discontinued, as specimens of this printing are particularly scarce and are seldom met with. They are rather crude productions, but slightly better than the first lithographs of January-February, 1910. In this case the colour is totally different, being a very bright purple, which stands out distinctively, and proves their identity. The lithographic process not being a success, recourse was made to a new zinc plate, which came into use about this time, from which further supplies were printed.

These stamps can be identified by their distinctive colour, a bright violet, and there is always a very marked whiteness of the clouds. Being of a soft metal this plate did not last very long, and a second one was prepared and put into use early in 1911, which apparently was also zinc, but the stamps were slightly larger in this case. The stamps soon showed signs of wear, and consequently minor varieties appeared; the greater quantity of them were afterwards surcharged "ONE PENNY," and no more of the 2d value were printed for Tasmania, the Australian Commonwealth stamps being used after that date. The perforations found on the 2d stamp are similar to the other values, but might mention that the 11 perforation is to be found on all these lithographed stamps with particularly large holes, which stands out in contrast to the ordinary perforation of 11 medium or small holes.

No reason can be assigned as to why it was necessary that any of these stamps should have been produced by the lithographic process, and it can only be surmised that, the Commonwealth Stamp Printing Office having to produce the whole of the stamps for Victoria, South Australia, West Australia, and Tasmania, and the demand being great for the values mostly required, the office was overtaxed, and provision was not made to meet the large demand made upon it, with the result that recourse had to be made to another process of printing. This is borne out by the fact that the stamps mostly in use about that time were the only values lithographed, and it is known that certain stamps of South Australia and Western Australia were also produced in this manner.

[Note by Catalogue Editor.—Mr Malone has shown us a number of specimens of the various stamps described above, and there is no doubt that at any rate a large proportion of the lithographed printings are clearly identifiable as such. We are therefore listing these stamps in our forthcoming Catalogue and making various other revisions in the Pictorial list, on lines suggested by Mr. Malone. It is evident, however, that there is still a good deal to be learned about these fascinating issues, and we recommend them to the attention of specialists in England.]—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

LOOKING ROUND.

By MARQUETTE

Mr. G. H. Dannatt's article in the M.J. seems to have crystallised the growing interest in "New Europes." Certainly the stamps of Czecho-Slovakia, Danzig, Esthonia, Fiume, Jugo-Slavia, Lettland, Lithuania, Memel, Russia, Poland and the Trans-Caucasian Republics, have as good reason for their existence as those of France, Germany, and even Great Britain, and they present philatelic problems which are the more fascinating in that the ground has not already been worked over by dozens or hundreds of pioneers, so that the chances of "finds," whether of facts or of stamps, are much greater than is the case in more fashionable directions.

I have been looking at a number of Continental catalogues and dealers' lists during the past week or two, and a careful study of the prices quoted has convinced me that there must be a rise in many "New Europe" items in the near future. Already wholesale quotations for many varieties are higher than selling prices in England, and when the home dealers come to fill up their stocks, as the growing demand must soon cause them to do, they will find it necessary to make some sharp rises.

The causes of the present low prices in England are obvious. Heavy stocks of the earlier New Europes were accumulated before the fall in European exchanges set in, and when the debacle came large quantities were thrown on the market, not only in England, but from abroad, and prices came down with a run. Dealers and collectors were "fed up" temporarily. The demand among collectors has since increased, and has largely absorbed the original stocks. Meanwhile the Continental demand assumed formidable proportions and prices rose there, but dealers in England were content to let what they had regarded as "dead stock" sell at any price, however low. Soon they will be wanting new stocks and will have to pay Continental prices, and then the fun will begin.

There are really interesting philatelic points to be worked out in all the countries mentioned above. Stanley Gibbons Monthly Circular pioneered the cause of these issues in the early days of New Europes, but our knowledge of the points of interest has increased greatly since then, though it is still by no means final. Both from the investment and the philatelic interest point of view, these issues can be recommended with every confidence.

From South America I get three useful suggestions, those anent Paraguay being confirmed from two independent sources. Argentine No. 497 (General Urquiza type on Large Sun paper) is a real rarity, practically unobtainable in Buenos Aires. Buy it at sight. The Paraguay advices are unanimous in recommending the peso values (Palace type) of 1905-10 as a good investment, with emphasis on the 20 pesos values. These are short both in Paraguay and in Buenos Aires, as also are the first issue Officials (S.G. 401 to 407). These must, of course, be imperf., the perforated stamps being bogus.

But collectors of British Empire stamps will be impatient at so much "foreign stuff." To them I will say that I had the opportunity of talking the other day with a leading specialist from Australia, who has made a close study of the modern issues of the various States. His Commonwealth collection was a revelation to me, though I have always been a believer in the interest afforded by the issues of this country. Even the new Gibbons' list gives little indication of the scope which these stamps offer for study.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

DOTS AND DASHES—

The first copy of the Windy City Precancel News has arrived. It is published by Adolf Gunesch, 3520 Lowe Ave., Chicago, Ill. The subscription price is 50c per year, but a sample copy will doubtless be furnished upon request.

The Rotnem Stamp Co. would like the address of A. A. Crain or Craier. The postmark on the order received was indistinct.

We are informed by A. H. Wilhelm, president of the American Philatelic Society, that a free trip to the International Philatelic Exhibition is to be awarded the member who is able to recruit the largest number of new members during the period from Jan. 1 to Sept. 15. Officers of the Society cannot compete. Details of the prize award will be given to the philatelic press later.

The local paper at Mason City, Iowa, recently published a long account of the stamp collecting activities of "John Caspers, Groceryman." The write-up is an interesting one and we regret that we do not have the room to quote it in full.

A large number of mid-Europe collectors will doubtless come to the United States to attend the International Exhibition. The Hamburg-American Line is advertising a special trip to New York and through the United States. The first class steamers of the line will be used for the round trip.

H. P. Huson informs us that Mr. R. V. Rich is properly located at 820 W. 27th St., Norfolk, Va. There was a delay in reply to correspondence that recently caused the insertion of a news item in our publication.

The officers of the new Philatelic Plate Number Association are —President, H. M. Southgate; Vice-President, A. E. Owen; Secretary and Treasurer, R. W. Becker, Easton, Pa. The Association has fifty members to start with and is bound to grow. Mr. Becker writes that the slogan of the society is "Know your country's stamps."

STAMPS IN SCHOOL CURRICULUM

Czech Government Introduces Philately with Good Results.

(The following article was taken from the Miami "Tribune." We are indebted to Louis B. Garcia for the clipping.—W. O. W.)

Philately, or the study of stamps, has been introduced as a subject in the schools of the Czechoslovakian republic, with excellent results. As a supplementary subject with history and geography its advantages cannot but be obvious, and the example of modern Bohemia might be allowed with advantage by other nations.

Much money is spent on education in different countries, but the results do not always justify this lavish expenditure. The Czechs were ever famous for their encouragement of the arts, and the ancient university of Prague has a story without equal.

The stamps of Czechoslovakia are an historical study in themselves, their appearance heralding the independence of one of the oldest European nations, and it is to be feared that many English-speaking peoples have a very hazy idea as to the origin of this state of the Czechs and Slovaks which has its own stamps and a place among the great powers of the world. To allude to it as Bohemia does not help matters, for to many this recalls only memories of a once-popular light opera, and a people who were, through the foolish blunder of a fifteenth century writer, confused with the gypsy tribes who had invaded France.

When the new republic issued its first stamps in 1918 the Czechoslovak national council in Paris and in Prague had been recognized as the provisional government of a country which was once the Austrian provinces of Bohemia, Moravia and Silesia, with the upper part of Hungary (Slovakia) and Carpathian Ruthenia.

PRESIDENT MASARYK A COLLECTOR.

The study of stamps in the schools has a warm supporter in the president, Thomas Masaryk, himself a lifelong collector, and one to whom the state owes much. His portrait has figured on three issues of stamps, and he is the president-elect for life. In his early days he was a smith, tried to become a teacher and finally was graduated at Vienna university, where he became a teacher of philosophy. Entering the Austrian parliament in 1891, he led the so-called "realist" movement, which aimed at a regenerated democratic national policy, but two years of political strife convinced him of the futility of his efforts against Germanism and he resigned to devote his energies to research. Elected a deputy again in 1907, he gained a world-wide reputation two years later by his courageous defense of the Jugoslav leaders accused of high treason at Zagreb. When war came he fled to Italy and Switzerland and finally to England, where he lectured at King's college in London and organized the great movement for Czechoslovakian independence.

AN OPEN LETTER

44 Risca Rd., NEWPORT, MON., Jan. 1, 1926

Dear Mr. Collector:

We write to enquire whether PORTUGAL and COLONIES is the weak spot in your collection, and secondly, to inform you that if it is it will pay you to get into touch with us. We carry a very large and extensive stock of these issues accumulated during several years residence in Portugal, from where we chiefly did a wholesale trade, but we are now desirous of extending our approval business by selling to collectors at ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

During the last year we have added a great number of new clients for approvals to our list, and we are continually receiving testimonials as to our prices and condition of stamps, so get busy and drop us a line, asking for our lists and approvals. Good references must be sent, or a cash deposit for approvals.

The latter method saves the time lost in investigating references and you may make the amount any sum you can afford, and according to the size of selection required.

We have just rearranged our approvals and can send you about 2000 VARIETIES on these at PRICES WHICH CANNOT BE BEATEN. If they can, let us know.

We ask the more ADVANCED COLLECTOR to send his want list of those elusive varieties he requires, as we make a speciality of filling want lists. Surely it will be to your advantage, seeing that we fill want lists for several well known dealers. We are large buyers and the rarer items are continually passing through our hands, although many of these are much rarer than the catalogue value seems to show, as you no doubt already know.

We look forward to receiving your enquiries and assure you of the best attention. Yours truly,

H. & G. H. JOPLING.

One of the most notable features of modern Bohemia, especially from a collector's point of view, is the different names which appear on the postmarks, and these are in themselves an interesting and really historical study. We have already alluded to the Germanizing of the land and this was apparent in the names of such places as Karlsbad, Marienbad and Franzenbad in the northwest. These have become Karlovyvary, Marianske Lazne and Frantishkovy Lazne.

The little vignette which was designed by Professor Mucha for the first issue of stamps shows the Hradchany, which towers over the Old World city of Prague, much in the same way as the Acropolis looks down upon the Grecian capital. The Hradchany is covered with magnificent buildings and among these is the seat of the Government.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

C. W. Schmidt, Philadelphia, Pa.
Luther Ely Smith, St. Louis, Mo.
Charles K. B. Nevin, Boston, Mass.
Leopold Reggiani, N. Y. City.
H. Coburn Jones, Spokane, Wash.

Our first application for membership in the Honor Club this week comes from Charles W. Schmidt, 3227 Benner St., Wissinoming, Philadelphia, Pa. We enter his name as a member of our club with pleasure.

Luther Ely Smith sending in his membership fee in the Honor Club writes:—"I desire to congratulate you upon the exceedingly interesting and readable paper that you publish." We are willing to believe that Mr. Smith's tribute is sincere, as many others have expressed the same sentiment. Mr. Smith is senior member of the law firm of Smith & Pearcy, with offices in the Pierce Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

Our readers are quite familiar with the name of Charles K. B. Nevin, 6 Beacon St., Boston, Mass., through his many years of interest in philately. He has served the Boston Philatelic Society honorably and well and is a past president of that body. He accompanies his application for membership in the Honor Club with the necessary $5 remittance, and adds another dollar for the Newton Center Branch of the Newton Public Library.

It was some ten or twelve years ago that Leopold Reggiani, 19 Bedford St., N. Y. City, first subscribed for the WEEKLY. He writes us:—"It was some job to get 25c for a six months' subscription, but on and off I managed to get it until in later years I have found I could not do without the paper. To further show my faith and appreciation of MEKEEL'S I enclose $5 so that my subscription may be renewed for five years and that I may become a member of your Five-Year Honor Club." Mr. Reggiani was the designer of the sketch used on the cover of our special number.

Our final application for membership for the week comes from H. Coburn Jones, W-1417 York Ave., Spokane, Wash. In advising us that his subscription is about to expire he assures us of the fact that this "would be awful," and check for $5 was enclosed to "prolong its life for a little while longer." Many thanks, Mr. Jones.

THE SURCHARGED STAMPS OF SIAM

DR. CLIFFORD W. WELLS, Member A.P.S.

One of the attractive features of stamp collecting, especially from the point of view of the specialist, is the unlimited opportunities for study of minor varieties and errors, which occur so frequently on the stamps of those countries where circumstances have brought about the use of surcharges. In this regard the stamps of Siam offer a peculiar attraction.

Contrary to the situation in respect to the stamps of many countries it can be said that the surcharges on the stamps of Siam are of a legitimate nature, due in large measure to changes in terminology of the currency; changes in rates of exchange, and a desire to utilize large stocks of unused stamps of preceding issues, partly for economy and partly of necessity owing to delays in delivery of stamps printed abroad.

Many collectors have more or less intentionally avoided collecting the stamps of Siam because of the impression that the surcharges are not legitimate and also difficult to understand and classify. There is no ground for the former, while the latter difficulty may be minimized by a little study of the interesting surcharges found on the stamps of this country. It is true that the number of surcharged stamps are many and that in nearly every major variety are to be found a number of variations and often errors, but these only add to the interest of the study, which with a little appreciation of the reasons clarifies to a great degree the situation and renders comparatively easy the classification and collecting of these stamps.

The first stamps of Siam were issued on August 4, 1883. They were line engraved and printed in London. Being intended for domestic use only the inscription and currency were expressed in the Siamese language alone. Five different stamps are found in this issue; of each 500,000 being printed. (Scott Nos. 1-6.) On July 1, 1885, Siam joined the Universal Postal Union, and during the interval caused by delay in delivery of the stamps for foreign postage it was necessary to surcharge certain stamps of the first issue. Two were thus treated, Scott's No. 1 and No. 3, and are listed in the same catalogue under Nos. 7 to 11 inclusive for the former, and No. 19 for the latter.

In this treatment of the surcharges on the stamps of Siam it is desirable to avoid in so far as may be possible the confusion naturally apt to arise where similarity of surcharges occur. I have therefore attempted to classify the various groups under headings, "First Provisional Issue", "Second Provisional Issue", etc., giving the date of each group when known. Under each group the major varieties are listed as, "Type I, Type II, etc.", and in addition, because of the occasion for cross reference, all of the major varieties have been numbered consecutively ( ).

First Provisional Issue

Appeared in July, 1885.

Owing to the change in currency and the requirements of the Postal Union the "I Solot" of the 1887 issue (Scott's No. 1) was surcharged "I Tical" in English only. The surcharge was performed locally by means of metal type in a hand stamp, the printing being in various shades of red ink. This group of surcharges presents many difficulties, most authorities still being disagreed as to those which are genuine. Four types are generally recognized as having been officially issued, with a fifth type, which is an official reprint, type set and printed. Twelve additional types are known of this surcharge, but these are all considered to be forgeries.

Type I, (1), (Scott's No. 7)

1 Tical on 1 Solot, surcharged pale vermilion; length of surcharge 14mm. Top of serif of figure pointed downward, Tical printed in full size capital letters. One minor variety is recognized, consisting of the Type I surcharge in red superimposed on the Type II surcharge in black.

Type II, (2), (Scott's No. 8)

1 Tical on 1 Solot, surcharged bright cherry red. Length of surcharge 13½mm. Figure 1 compares in height with letters "i," "c," and "a" of Tical, in which only the letter "T" is capital. The upper serif

U. S. AIRMAIL 10c BLUE

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

I am informed officially that a new 10c air mail stamp for use in paying the air mail fee on contract air mail will be available to the public on February 14th next. The stamp will be nearly two inches long by ¾ inches high so that it will attract the immediate attention of the postal clerk enabling him to sort the air mail from the regular mail with dispatch. The stamp is printed in the blue of the 14c current issue and shows a map of the United States with two aeroplanes, one departing for the east and one for the west. The die proof was approved by the Postmaster General on January 26, 1926.

The stamp will be available on the first day at the Philatelic Agency in addition to the post offices located at Washington, Detroit, Dearborn, Chicago and Cleveland.

Particulars of my New Issue Service of the Stamps of the British Empire and many European countries, will be sent free on request.

(1) Surcharge in black.
(2) Surcharge in black superimposed on Type 1 in red.
(3) Surcharge double, both in red.
(4) Surcharge double, one red and one black.
(5) Surcharge inverted at top of stamp.

Letter "T" is very thick, also letter "i", the former only is capitalized. Base line of word "Tical" is curved convexly downward.

Type IV, (4), (Scott's No. 10)

1 Tical on 1 Solot, surcharged bright cherry red. Length of surcharge 15½mm. Letters of surcharge are more slender and delicate than in Types II and III.

Type I, (7), (Scott's No. 20)

1 att on 2 atts, shows six minor varieties:

(1) Entire surcharge double.
(2) English numeral double.
(3) Siamese word "att" double.
(4) English numeral missing.
(5) Siamese numeral missing.
(6) Siamese word "att" missing.

Type II, (8), (Scott's No. 20)

Minor varieties absent.

Type III, (9), (Scott's No. 22)

Minor varieties absent.

Type IV, (10), (Scott's No. 24)

Minor varieties absent.

Type V, (11), (Scott's No. 25)

Presents one minor variety consisting in the absence of the Siamese word "att".

The following constitute the chief points of differentiation between the preceding five types:

Type I.—Head of comma over Siamese characters "att" placed well over the middle of the first character; tail of comma narrow proximal to head and thickened distally. Upward projecting line of second character of "att" is sharp and clean cut, descending portion of second character slants slightly to right of vertical. English figure "1" large and thick, with short descending top serif.

Type II.—Comma more convex and regular in shape, head placed farther to right than in Type 1, Upper serif of English figure "1" twice as long as in Type 1, and slightly curved. Second character in Siamese word "att" more upright than in Type 1.

Type V, (5), Scott's No. (10)

1 Tical on 1 Solot, surcharged bright cherry red. This surcharge is an official reprint, type set. Three minor varieties are found in this type:

(1) Surcharge in black.
(2) Surcharge double.
(3) Numeral without serif at top.

Type I,	1000
Type II,	5000
Types III and IV,	360
Type V,	1000(?)

Second Provisional Issue

Appeared in August, 1889

and consisted of one stamp, the 1 Sio of the first regular issue (Scott's No. 3) surcharged with "1 Att" in Siamese by means of a handstamp. Since several handstamps were employed a number of differences in detail are noted; a tail to the bottom loop of the second character; various spacings between the two characters; variations in the width of the base of second character.

Type I (6), (Scott's No. 19)

1 Att on 1 Sio, surcharged in black. Two minor varieties are recognized:

(1) Error, surcharge omitted in pair with surcharge.
(2) Surcharge double.

A total of approximately 90,000 stamps received this surcharge.

Third Provisional Issue

Appeared in December, 1889

and consisted of a black surcharge on the 2 atts stamp of the 1887 regular issue. The surcharge is in one line and consists of the numeral "1" in Siamese and English with the Siamese character for "att" between. 121,280 stamps received this surcharge, among which five definite major types are recognized. The surcharge was applied by means of handstamps in one, two and even three operations in different instances, which in part explains some of the minor varieties. English figure "1" is smaller and more delicate and has longer upper serif, and is often out of plumb, sloping downward to the right.

FIRST DAY COVERS

Oh, boy!! "Ain't" it a grand and glorious feeling to receive a brand new U. S. stamp on cover with the cancellation of the day that the stamp was issued? Don't it give you a thrill to be the first in your neighborhood to have copies of the new stamp and to boast to your friend, John Smith, that they came direct to you from Uncle Sam's Capital on the day that the stamp was issued?

Members of my First Day Cover Club will tell you so. They are getting such thrills right along, and they don't have to bother about when a new stamp is to be issued or sending cash in advance for it. At very reasonable charges, considering service rendered, I take care of all those details.

The collecting of First Day covers is more popular today than ever before. Join the increasing throng and enjoy this most interesting way of collecting United States stamps. Send for my free F. D. C. circular.

AN EXTRA FINE LOT OF ROMAN STATES COVERS

This latest lot of Roman States correspondence received from Italy is the finest we have had from the standpoint of the historical. The covers are 90 fresh and bright, the combinations to make various rates are often unusual, and the postmarks cover the history of the recession of the temporal power of the Church in Italy.

When the use of adhesive stamps began in the Roman States in 1852 they were recognized from Lombardy-Venice on the North to Naples in the South; and from the Adriatic on the East to the Duchy of Modena, the Grand Duchy of Tuscany, and the Tirrene sea on the west. Within its domains were the Marches of Umbria, Emilia and Lazio, the Republic of San Marino; also the territories of Benevento and Pontecorvo in the Kingdom of Naples.

In all those places the stamps of the Roman States, or properly the Pontifical State, were in use, but the revolutions of 1859 and 1860 resulted in the annexation of much of the territory by the Kingdom of Italy so that the stamps of the Church were recognized only in Rome, Civitavecchia, Frosinone, Velletri and Viterbo. Sometimes, if the postmaster was friendly, they passed muster in Lazio. Most of the scarce postage due stamps of the Italian issue of 1863 are found on letters franked with Roman States stamps from some of the disputed territory. The revolution of 1870 and Garibaldi resulted in the annexation of all Italy to the Crown and confining the temporal power of the Church to the Vatican.

Quite a lot of history for one advertisement, but you can tell it all with a small series of these original covers, carrying one of the most interesting series of stamps ever issued and dated postmarks proving the territories where used.

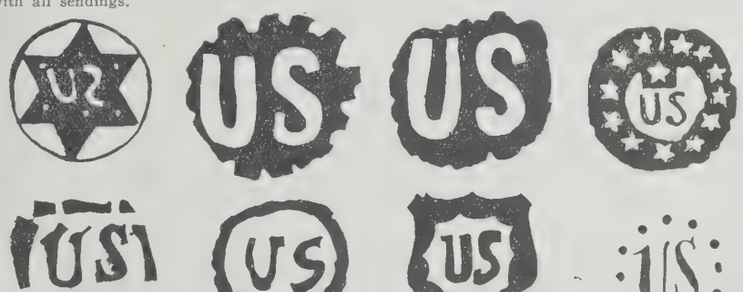
By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.



VARIETIES OF "U S" FRAMED.

Here is another lot of Patriotic Cancellations, with U and S the motif, framed. These here happen to be on 3c 1861's, tho other issues have them as well. No. 1 shows an interesting little error on part of the P. M., the letters appearing "tete-beche", so to speak.

Take 2 and 3, they look alike. You may perhaps fancy the 3 is same as 2 with the edges worn; but not in this case, as the letters are larger in 3. Many cancels were re-cut, however, and you will see a fine example later on, where the metal die—a shield with the number 7 inside—has the edge filed all round, giving a saw toothed effect, prettier than in its original state.

Broom handles would of course stand wear better than cork, for the veins of the cork often split off, and you'll sometimes see a "Quartering" with one quarter entirely missing. It is quite a knack to hit a hand canceller perfectly on a letter, somewhat like trying to drive in a little shiny headed nail. Take that Waterbury Heart with the Arrow piercing it, used for a few days round St Valentine's Day. This was probably hit with due care, yet we seldom find a perfectly struck copy. To find one on a well centered 3c '69 is next to impossible.

Our No. 4 is from Albany, the home of many pretty cancels on 3c '61's. Forum has but few from this town, and I have seen many, and would appreciate your sending on a nice lot of them. Some Forum readers ask why not put in the name of the towns that used these cancels. If you see a question mark under the heading — Town, it means that the name of town using the cancel shown is not available, and if you will jot down that No. 8, say, comes from Twightwee, and send it in, this will be listed in next available Forum, so that you may enter it on your illustrations, making the showing more complete. Please keep an eye on these,

THE "ONE BIG CLUB" IDEA

By FRANK L. COES.

I wish before writing further to thank you for your courteous consideration and favor in the "One Big Club" matter, and state that the publicity thus given to it and the co-related committee on Public Relations seems to indicate that one and sometimes both are in the minds of many collectors.

Sorting from the mass of letters, the brightest and most attractive of the ideas for accomplishing the closing of the gap between the many clubs, I want to spread that idea before the clan as worthy of its author and the work he does. To give it a fair chance from all sides, the name and city of the author I will hold back, with the single statement that both are Metropolitan.

To foster contact, and increase confidence, the suggestion is that all the Sales insurance of all organizations be by agreement placed in a central depository, that each club thus checking and insuring, establish what is equivalent to a self-imposed audit, fund regulation and certification. That this system, which is similar to the A. B. C. audit and its accompanying bill of health for publications, be adapted to the system of sales, etc., with the funds wholly in the trustees' hands, and the figures and other data in such form that there shall be no club supervision outside of reporting sales and depositing insurance funds.

This would remove doubt from the minds of outsiders, relieve sales managers of considerable trouble, give a broader and more remunerative field for an insurance company, and distinctly reduce the risk to sellers because it would make all users of the combined services interested in gaining maximum protection for sales material.

With such a system installed, and the several societies combining to protect each other, we would remove one unpleasant thing, which is the attitude of members of one society in a city where trouble occurs to another society refusing to assist the authorities in apprehending the culprits. We all have distinct remembrances concerning this unfortunate state, and this seems to present a logical cure.

But while it would combine all club members for mutual protection against theft, mail losses, etc., it might not make the participants feel any better toward the "One Big Club."

It is of course wise to make haste slowly, but the obvious improvement of insurance conditions, which would be caused by adding the combined sales values of three or more societies, cannot be easily attained by any single group. Granted that the combined fund would be attractive enough in bulk to tempt some basically sound insurance company, it is obvious that a third of that bulked amount would be considered chicken-feed. Again, it is unlikely that any single society can (could) amass triple its present book values in the sales department at once, or in several years.

Insurance that does not insure is intermittedly a waste of time, money, and altogether useless gesture. With amassed values and the increased interest by many more collectors, all work to protect one system, there would be root of unity that would stand a lot politix and self glorification from self seeking "lime-lighter."

Taken at its lowest value it bears ear marks of constructive thought, deliberate sifting of the most perplex problem of club sales:—that is, gett insurance that really insures.

Another correspondent warns me tha must "expect little or no enthusia from officialdom, and less from the r and file, because while these last are terested they usually remain dumb convention time, and then radical moti may be expected only on rainy days w golf, sightseeing and food are not h up to tempt them away from execut session." Is not that a cold bloo estimate of conventions?

But perhaps he says truth is s measure. Granted the presence of ardent opposition debater well up in p liamentary rules, and without any g enthusiasm from friends, it is usu easy to down even the most obviou beneficial movement.

One gentleman in N. Y. C. said fla "It can't be done" (so why bother with it?), but he got off on the wr foot, because he admits there is need a Federated movement to aid the Cl to advertise, aid legislation, and do ot needful things.

Now it was a gentleman from his o city who christened the committee w the long name I have been using, an originally said that the name was worst enemy. Now let's be nice and that we will be willing to call it "Committee of Federated Clubs," "Federated Stamp Societies," or whatever else he likes, only let him st up and say, "I'm for it" and name yourself.

We want that committee and we w it worse every day, as the Exhibit time approaches, and the commit would be a great and valuable aid to

Knowledge Is Power = Dollars

Do you realize how often you "give up" or "pass by" a real rare variety thru lack of knowledge?

Let me explain: Denmark No. 2, 4rbs brown is known with over 150 different numeral cancellations. No. 1 is worth $0.20 but dozens of them are worth $5.00 to $10.00 each and a few are rarities.

All these and nearly all Danish varieties are priced in my new Detailed Priced Catalogue of Danish Stamps of 1851-1899. I quote prices of shades, pairs, strips of three, four, six, blocks, sheets, stamps on cover, cancellations, recuts and scores of Inverted Frames, never before priced.

THE COLLECTORS CLUB NEW HOME

By TOASTY.

The Annual Meeting of the Collectors Club, held at their Club Rooms, 120 West 49th Street, New York, Jan. 20th, was a great gala affair in more ways than one.

The entertainment of the evening was furnished by Dr. Victor M. Berthold, foreign statistician for the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and leading American authority on stamped envelopes. Dr. Berthold, who has been particularly endowed by old Mother Nature for intense and minute study, presented the Western Frank collection of Mr. Alfred F. Lichtenstein as his exhibit. He gave a lecture, illustrated with a large map, showing graphically the rise and growth of the Western Express lines and the Pony Express.

About fifty people had gathered for the meeting, both to see the exhibit and to vote on several matters of importance. Among those present was our very dear friend and member, the Hon. E. R Ackerman, a pioneer in collecting Western Franks, who dropped in especially to see the franks, leaving at Midnight for the Capitol. The Old Guard was well represented by such men as Messrs. Luff, our retiring President, one of America's most foremost and best loved men, Morgenthau, Lichtenstein, Steinway, Rich and Lewy and others. The Hot Stove League was there to a man, except Messrs. Clark and Costales, who were busily shifting safes and doing other light work prior to moving the Scott Stamp and Coin Co. to new quarters. The admirers of the Hot Stove League made up the balance of the most representative meeting of the year.

Then came the big surprise of the evening. In stamp circles, as well as in other ways, the American people have become really Babbitized. We feel that nothing is being done unless there is beating of tom-toms, and sounds of great mental and physical effort. Because the Exhibition has not been touted to high heavens the past two months, people have thought that the committee was sleeping, when the fact is they have been so doggonned busy, they didn't have a chance to lift their nose up out of the welter of work.

For years it has been the dream of the Collectors Club to have a permanent home. Quietly, without fuss and feathers, the three trustees have been searching for the permanent home site. The Trustees, through Mr. Alfred F. Lichtenstein, made their report, which had not only the backing of the two other Trustees, Messrs. Steinway and Morgenthau, but also of the best business men in the Club.

They have secured a 47-year leasehold on 51 West 48th Street, New York, on one of the nicest streets between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. This will be completely altered to suit requirements and we now have before us the possibility of the long-dreamed-of home. The street is now built up with the most modern type of office buildings and shops, and the property is increasing in value every day, which means that the lease hold will get better and better.

The ground floor will be turned into a shop and rented to some concern to the best possible advantage. We are lucky in having in our Club some real estate experts, who will see to it that we get none the worst of the deal. The upper floors will be made to suit the convenience of the main club rooms, secretary's office, and for the housing of the wonderful philatelic library. Some idea of the magnitude of the library can be gained when one knows that Doctor J. Brace Chittenden, our Librarian and Minister Plenipotentiary, has over 20,000 card index references to it.

The building is 100 feet deep, and one or more floors will be turned into offices for several stamp dealers who have already agreed to take space. Every necessary repair and alteration will be made, and before the Exhibition crowds pour into New York next year, the Club will be finished and ready to welcome the Philatelists of the World in true style.

The financing of the building will be done by selling to the Club members $60,000 worth of stock. The stock will pay 5% interest, which is secured by the leasehold and improvements. A balanced budget figured on high outgo and low income has balanced to insure both regular interest payments and amortization. Thus the Club is assured of funds to carry on the work not out of sheer charity alone, but on a combination of sentiment and cold business.

A vote empowering the Trustees to go ahead was carried with real enthusiasm.

The healthiest sign that the Club shows was the verbal debates on other subjects. Questions were argued from both sides, those that won were immediately backed by the losing side with the sole idea of the Club's welfare. We are very proud of the Collectors Club. Our members are first, last and always for the best interests of the Club. The majority rules, and no one ever leaves the meetings feeling hurt.

The Board of Governors in their Executive Session elected Mr. Theodore E. Steinway President. A more popular choice could not have been made. Mr. Steinway's greatest claim to honor is of course his membership in the Hot Stove League, and of which he is the Treasurer. Mr. Steinway is of the well known firm of Steinway and Sons, an old aristocratic family of New York. His name is an open sesame in society, a man of means and of culture. But everyone who knows Theodore E. Steinway loves him for his nature and democracy. He has that rare gift of being at home anywhere. Mr. Steinway speaks several languages, is well known in Europe and we shall have as our representative during the Exhibition a gentleman who can meet on equal terms any representative of any nation.

This year will be a banner year for Philately.

The Exhibition will be the best ever!

The A. P. S. should enjoy a very healthy increase in membership.

The Collectors Club will have reached its goal—the Permanent Home.

Every Collector in the country can confidentially look forward to the Renaissance in Philately.

work of the officers of the Exhibition committee.

Why hold back approval? Yes, I live in New England, and I am "outside", but nothing I have urged benefits me a grain more than every other club member.

The committee is a New York thought, so is the clearing house. Now it is up to New Yorkers to do some boosting, talking and working if they don't want some other section to steal their thunder.

EDITORIAL.

The Hon. H. C. Brooks, the philatelic mayor of Marshall, Michigan, shows us a diagonally bi-sected two cent black Jackson, on a cover bearing the Springfield, Vermont, postmark. The two cent black Jackson is grilled and is of the 1867 issue and moreover is on a patriotic envelope, whose use so long after the close of the war is somewhat unusual. Mr. Brooks would be interested to learn if the Springfield, Vermont, split two cent Jackson, 1867, is of record.

A collector delegates to us the pleas- ant task of lambasting a contemporary because it allowed an erroneous story of the origination of stamp perforations to appear in its columns. It happens that credit for the perforations as shown on stamp sheets has been given to a good many different persons and the newspapers every now and then come forth with new aspirants for the honor. We have a recollection of having assigned the laurel to a Yankee in our columns on one occasion with the result that protests were received from the home of Archer. Until our own slate is clean, we are chary about gloating over the mistakes of other editors.

Mr. Herman Toaspern has sent in several readable accounts of different phases of the activity of those who have the great Philatelic Exhibition in hand; and it is easily seen that the soil has been well prepared for the planting of the seed, which will grow to glorious fruition. The manifold details necessary to provide a foundation for the gigantic enterprise are well in hand and all consideration is extended to those who are planning so well. The work required for the proper setting of the Exhibition is almost beyond conception and is of such volume and variety as to tax the capacity even of experienced men. In this connection, it is comforting to feel that those at the helm are seasoned workers who have no illusions that fitting results may be accomplished without earnest work.

We have had several letters from collectors who have felt that the scheme of exhibits could be revised to advantage but we have felt incompetent to advise in the particulars that have been dwelled upon, particularly in view of the statement of the committee that due regard will be given to suggestions of the kind. We remember our part in the exhibition held at the Art Institute in 1911, at the time the convention of the American Philatelic Society was held in Chicago. It was our duty to devise the plan for exhibits and the recollection of the adjustments necessary before presenting the scheme is a vivid one. The experience of those who formulated the program must have stood them in good stead and any changes that may be adopted will be the result of careful thought and deliberation. We suppose that any pretentious plan of the kind will not be perfection because of the determination to combine so many angles into a finished figure, but the idea is to approximate a result that defies criticism.

Now that the Exhibition powers have shown so fairly that they want every collector to take a personal interest in the great show, it is the duty of philatelists throughout our country in particular to co-operate in every way possible with the workers at the site of the Exhibition. As astute managers, they are regardful of the moral effect of a unified backing and we bespeak for them the loyalty of all of our readers in the undertaking. In due course, solicitation will be made for funds and we believe that we are safe in saying that those who will ask for financial aid in behalf of the Exhibition would shrink from the task if they were not convinced that the cause is so worthy and momentous that personal convenience or inclination must be cast aside. Surely, every collector will wish to feel that he is in the heart of things by giving cheerfully some amount in furtherance of the biggest event in the annals of our pursuit.

The Collectors Club of New York is to be congratulated in having compassed a coup that will make us all rejoice. A goal of a real club-house in New York is an ambition whose consummation taxes the resources and finesse of any body of men. The announcement of the success of the preliminary details when the eyes of all collectors are beginning to be focused on the Exhibition city and the successive steps by which the ownership of the property will be completed will be attended to with keen interest everywhere. The thought that there will be a real philatelic headquarters in this country is one in which pride has a great part.

Mr. O. H. Hilding, Chicago, has shown us a number of novelties from New Zealand. Of the Dunedin exhibition set, there are the ½d green; 1d pink and 4d purple, each on tinted paper, showing a court of the exhibition. The stamps are on Cowan paper and are on sale at Dunedin only. During the shortage of paper with the proper watermark, paper with colored lithographed watermarks has been used, and on the 1d red of the regular issue, the watermark impression is in black. The map stamp is on Cowan paper unsurfaced and comes 120 stamps to the sheet, instead of 240 as formerly.

A reader informs us that he has the two cent stamped envelope bearing the "1½" surcharge used in revaluing the one cent stamped envelopes.

The department has called the atten- tion of postmasters to the fact that under certain stipulations, precanceled stamps may be used on first-class matter. Citations are made from the regulations in support of the order. When matter that is suspected of being improperly mailed under this knowledge, the report of the case should be sent to the third assistant postmaster general.

There is an occasional call for phil- atelic matter suitable for reading before the radio or before non-philatelic organizations and heretofore, we have been able to supply material of the kind to those who are willing to make use of it. The receipt of a request from a reader for something of the kind, who asks if there is not some distributing point for articles causes us to deplore the condition that does not take advantage of this means to obtain the much-sought publicity that so often is spoken of. An effort should be made to have proper material at the beck of the collectors who are willing to do their part, if the tools are provided.

The committee having in charge the banquet of the Chicago Philatelic Society to be held February 18th at the Morrison Hotel announces that Mr. Charles J. Phillips, of New York, will be present on that occasion. The presence of Mr. Phillips will prove to be an attraction that will have its influence and we are pleased to give publicity to the news.

A reader asks if there is any record of an impression, "Burnside Express" that appears on an old envelope, that emanated from Boston? The name is not a familiar one in this connection and a cursory examination of some o almanacs of that city does not reveal We suggest that the envelope be plac to one side carefully in the hope th information may be forthcoming.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

Adolph Kahrmann, Plainfield, N. J.
R. D. Brown, Jr., Mt. Airy, Pa.
J. D. Bartlett, El Paso, Texas.

On January 18th two applications for membership in the Honor Club were received in the same mail. One was from Adolph Kahrmann, 314 Garfield Ave., Plainfield, N. J., and the other from Reynolds D. Brown, Jr., 548 Ellet St., Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, Pa. We thank both of these subscribers for their remittances for membership in our Five Year Club. Mr. Kahrmann enclosed with his letter remittance for a new yearly subscription.

We are very pleased to add to the membership of our Honor Club our old friend J. Delano Bartlett, a long time ago from Springfield, Mass., but now a resident of El Paso, Texas. Mr. Bartlett is A. P. S., 341. His letter gives us a bit of news, which may be news to others, in that he recently acquired the stock of stamps of the late W. F. Greany, which in U. S. tax paids, state revenues, foreign revenues and all side lines. This stock was acquired simply for the purpose of enlarging Mr. Bartlett's collection and all duplicate stock will be used for exchange purposes.

THE EXHIBITION PROSPECTUS

HERMAN TOASPERN, F.H.S.L.

By now every reader of MEKEEL'S should have a prospectus of the International Philatelic Exhibition, which is to be held October 16th to 23rd. This is the first edition, and is subject to changes and modifications. If there is any reader of the WEEKLY, who desires a copy, he may obtain one by writing me, 778 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, New York, and I will be pleased to forward a copy, post free.

This large size, 12-page prospectus, covers every phase of the exhibition, and is intended as a guide to exhibitors. Nevertheless, it holds a great deal of interest to those who are already planning, to visit this, the biggest and most complete philatelic exhibition ever held.

Of the sixteen members of the committee, over half served on the committee of 1913. Their experience has proved invaluable in allotting the various classes, so that countries of equal rank will be competing. This will give the little fellow an equal chance with the big fellow, philatelically.

For example let us pick two classes at random from Class VI, British Dominions, Colonies, Protectorates and Foreign Offices. Section 9, in this class, calls for competition between New South Wales, New Zealand and Victoria.

The first condition of the judging is Philatelic Knowledge. All of these countries need a liberal application of this qualification to get them in shape. New South Wales and Victoria will bring plating to the fore, while perforations and roulettes will tax the New Zealand collector.

Next in order of judging comes Completeness. It is a toss-up, which would be the most difficult to complete. After that, Rarity. Who would venture to give an off-hand opinion as to the comparative rarity of these countries? Dollar values, one will note, are fairly subjugated to more philatelic things, Philatelic Knowledge and Completeness.

Then in order come Condition, Arrangement and Neatness. Those are general, for every class, but let me impress it here, that the committee most stresses the philatelic standpoint against mere dollar value.

Now let us look at an easier class, say Section 13.

Cyprus, number of stamps by Scott without varieties, 108. Highest catalogue value $150 unused and $12 used. Highest priced rarity by Scott, the 1882, 30pa on 1 pi rose, double surcharge one inverted.

Gibraltar, 87 stamps, highest catalogue $60 unused, used the same. Rarity 1889, 50c violet, bisected, unpriced.

Gold Coast, 102 stamps, highest catalogue $125 unused, value same used. Rarity the 1889, 20s green and red priced above.

Heligoland, 25 stamps, highest catalogue unused $20, used $30. Owing to incompleteness and neglect of this country in Scott the highest priced rarity is $60.

Lagos, 59 stamps, highest catalogue $150, used the same. Rarity, the same.

Malta, 114 stamps, rarest stamp $30 both ways. Several rarities, the 1885, 4p brown while listing $25 in Scott, is worth $125 in a pair.

St. Helena, 96 stamps, the highest catalogue unused $35, used $22.50. Three or four juicy rarities, the 4d carmine of 1863 without surcharge cataloguing $300.

Sierra Leone, 136 stamps, highest catalogue for regular number $200, used $35. Several great rarities, the highest priced one the 1893, error PFNNY invert of the ½d on 1½d violet, CA.

Tonga, 110 stamps, highest priced unused $20. Highest priced sub-number is the 1897, 7½d green and black invert.

Now for comparisons. Without careful study I would say offhand, for Philatelic Knowledge, Heligoland with the fewest stamps takes the palm. This country must be presented used and unused, covers and the numerous reprints must be shown. What is gained by having few stamps for Completeness must be made up by Philatelic Knowledge. Rarity is present in the early covers.

St. Helena and Sierra Leone are followed closely by Malta for Philatelic Knowledge. Tonga and Lagos have some heart-breakers in the way of varieties. Cyprus and Gibraltar have been highly specialized, and are worthy foes.

This rough summing up of two sections of the Committee has been written by me rather hastily, but I am sure that it will show the average collector what painstaking care has been taken by the Committee to classify the countries so that the competitions will be as near on an even basis as possible.

The original basis was what other exhibitions have done. Then was carefully weighed the possibility of improvement, and the checking of past errors.

I do not claim that the Prospectus is perfect. But it is as near perfect as the committee can make it. If after getting

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, Mass.

U. S. 2c 1917, DIE II

SCOTT'S NO. 499

Several years back the Bureau thought that considerable money in laying down plates could be saved by making a multiple die whereby several subjects were transferred at one time instead of a single subject as heretofore. In order to produce this new result a multiple die was made from the original die, which varies in its details in numerous ways. For instance, in die II, the multiple die, the little button on Washington's neck is entirely surrounded by the outline which is lacking in die I.

Only two plates were made, namely, #10208 and 10209, for it was found that the steel varied and the work could not be satisfactorily done. As a result, the experiment was discontinued,, although stamps from these plates reached the public. The variety is somewhat scarce—is quite desirable and a single or block should be in every collection of United States stamps. Scott lists the stamp in their specialized catalog at $1.00 for a single and $5.00 for a block.

Can furnish this variety in mint condition at the following figures:

Single copy ..... $ .75
Block of four 3.50
Plate block of six 6.00

If the request is made, I will be pleased to furnish the die I along with the die II without extra charge.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps from 1900 to date. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 75 Electric Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States.

1917-19, 8c Vertical Pair Imperf. Between

I have just obtained from Mr. Charles S. Brenneman a mint vertical pair of the 8c issue of 1917-19, Scott's No. 508, in the light olive shade, imperforated between. This falls in the same category of the 50c of the same series which is perf. 11 all around, but without perforations between the two stamps. Mr. Brenneman located this variety sometime back when the stamp was still current and has had it in his collection since. So far as we know, it, like the 50c, is unique, for a second pair has never been seen.

7c, 8c and 9c Rotary Prints

The Philatelic Agency is receiving inquiries for the 7c, 8c and 9c rotary prints, which we recently advised would not be available until next Summer. The recent appearance of an advertisement offering these varieties on first day covers has led many to believe that the stamps are available, which is not the case. Our readers will be informed in ample time through this chronicle of the appearance of these varieties and at the present time no definite date is set. As a matter of fact the Post Office Department has not even ordered the varieties from the Bureau. The three stamps will possibly appear on the same day when they are finally placed on sale.

1922-25, 10c Imperforated Horizontally

We chronicled some months back the finding of the 10c orange Monroe issue of 1922-25 imperforated horizontally with vertical 11 perforations. At the time the finding of this issue was fully described but the owner, Mr. Klein, has only recently informed me as to the city in which the variety was located. As a matter of philatelic history, I am pleased to inform our readers that this sheet was found in the Philadelphia post office.

1926, 17c Wilson

In my notes of last week, mention was made of the fact that copies of the 17c Wilson had been noted canceled "Columbia, S. C." on the first day, namely December 28th.

I quote from a communication just received from Mr. R. S. Regar, Third Assistant Postmaster General, dated January 23rd as follows:

"Your letter of January 19th, addressed to the Superintendent, Division of Stamps, has been received and you are advised that Columbia, S. C., was not designated as one of the cities to first offer for sale the new 17c Wilson stamps on December 28th.

The records of this office indicate that a supply of these stamps was sent to that office on December 28th and, therefore could not have been available for sale until the 29th or 30th.

If the postmaster at that town has canceled first day covers as of the date of December 28th, such action has been done entirely without the authority and sanction of the Department."

From this it will be noted that the 17c stamps had not reached Columbia on the first day—hence, the postmaster was without authority or sanction in dating his stamp backwards so that while these stamps may have the postmark of the first day, they were not actually issued until one or two days later.

1½c on 2c Provisional Envelopes

I have received from one of the smaller southern offices twenty copies of the 1½c double line overprint surcharged on the current 2c red, envelope die A, size 13 on white. The error has been noted heretofore with the single line overprint, but this little lot is the first that has come to my attention showing the double line surcharge. The finder writes that they were located in the stock of the regular varieties.

Canal Zone

Through the courtesy of Mr. Gerald D. Bliss, I have received an unusual air mail cover which reached Philadelphia from Cristobal by way of San Jose, Costa Rica, the letter having been carried from the Zone to San Jose via air mail and traveling by boat from that point. The cover bears a 1½c stamp of the Canal Zone upon the 1c surcharged envelope and both are canceled in green within a circle an inch and one-half in diameter "Cristobal C. Z.—Canal Zone-Costa Rica—Air Mail 7 A. M. December 29 1925—A. S. Plane No. 41. In addition there is a smaller circular postmark enclosed within two concentric circles in purple reading "San Jose—Recibido—Servicio Aero Dic 29 1925." On the back we have a smaller postmark reading "San Jose Servicio Aero Transito." In addition, I find the cover stamped 15 evidently the mail piece number.

AZORES.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us the Camilo Centenary set of Portugal with the usual surcharge for use in this colony: 2c orange, 3c green, 4c ultramarine, 5c vermilion, 10c pale blue, 1 orange and 25c carmine.

BRITISH GUIANA.—Mr. R. Roberts calls our attention to a recent shipment of the 6c that he has received. The color is pale blue shade quite different from the ultramarine previously issued.

FRANCE.—Whitfield King & Co. send for chronicle the 1fr blue, in the Pasteur design.

FRENCH OCEANICA.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the 60c, type of the current 50c, in green and black.

ICELAND.—Mr. W. T. Wilson writes under date of Jan. 2nd last: "I have received this morning a new Iceland Provisional, 10Kr on embossed 50 aur, claret.

JAPAN.—Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of a 13s, in the design of the A35, in brown.

MAURITIUS.—Mr. G. V. Stewart informs us that on account of the new postal rates the current 4c green (Arms) has been surcharged "3 Cents" in two lines, the original value having been cancelled by a bar. Also, the 5c is completely exhausted.

MONACO.—Mr. W. T. Wilson sends a copy of a 80c, type of the 40c, in the

Francis M. Botelho has under consideration the publication of his serial, "The Philatelic Instructor" in book form, and is circularizing dealers with a very novel and worth-while proposition. He offers quarter page advertisements and multiple of quarter pages at $25, with fifty copies of the proposed book free of charge. This means that a full page costing $100 would carry with it two hundred copies of the book.

An initial 5,000 copies will be underwritten, and this will require twenty-five pages of advertising. Patrons of the book will thus secure not only the benefit of the 5,000 circulation, but also extra copies of the book as above indicated.

This serial by Dr. Botelho will soon be concluded and dealers interested are invited to write him at Wayne, Pa. Full particulars of the proposed publication will be forthcoming. The book will have a stiff cover with a type face of 3½x6 inches with printing and stock both high grade. While Dr. Botelho will publish the book at 85c, dealers will be privileged to make such price as suits their pleasure.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

WHAT YOUR EXHIBITION COMMITTEE IS DOING

HERMAN TOASPERN, F.H.S.L.

Outside of New York, a whole bunch of regular fellows haven't forgotten that next October they are going to be in the Big City on a philatelic spree. As they say in Merrie Old England, "wot boots it" if the Missus is planning a bit of a shopping toot. Thirteen years is a long time between American International Exhibitions, and after all, one can always mortgage off the old Homestead afterwards.

While little has appeared in the Philatelic press lately regarding the Exhibition, that doesn't mean that the Committee has gone to sleep. Not by a jug full.

And in the meantime, rumors and counter-rumors have been going about, fed by idle talk, that this would happen, and this wouldn't happen. A prospectus, in the rough state has been printed. It is open for suggestions. If you will address me at 778 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., I will send you one, if you haven't already gotten a copy. Since its printing improvements have been made.

But let me tell you the big news.

Much has been said, with little approach to the truth that there would be no rarities shown. The subject of rarities has been the subject of constant attention of the committee. One thing stood in the way, the problem of Insurance. That is now disposed of and those who like to look at a stamp merely because it is worth a whole lot of money, can sit on the floor of Grand Central Palace next October and grab a large eyeful of the world's greatest rarities.

If that is your idea of a philatelic drunk, fine. Your exhibition will see that you get a joyous jag, by bringing the cream of the Philatelic World to you in New York.

And if you are a postmark imbiber—that will be headquarters. If you like a little plating or great quantities, your exhibition is going to see that you get it.

There are sixteen men on the Committee and they have been working like beavers. Personal and business jealousies have been buried under the avalanche of work, with its ramifications from major to minor details. We want every collector in the United States and every other point in the world to know that it is their exhibition. Everything humanly possible has been done to give every serious collector a chance to exhibit—and to exhibit successfully. The strong have been matched with the strong, and the weak with the weak.

Nothing that is in the ken of our hobby has been overlooked.

Are you going to do your share?

Your principal share is to boost the Exhibition! Help Philately. We want to duplicate the success of 1913—and then some. Sixteen men on the committee can't make an Exhibition.

We need American Philately 100% strong.

ITEMS OF NEWS FROM MR. FOCKE

Herman Focke of Orange, N. J., has submitted for our inspection a pair of provisional registration labels of Colombia. They are printed in blue and do not show any value but are sold to the public for 10c each, the same as the regular registration stamp sold in that Republic ever since 1881. The stamps are so similar in design to Scott's R9 and R11 that the omission of figures of value would appear to be an oversight.

There appears to be a dearth of regular postage stamps in Colombia, as the registration label has been pressed into service. Mr. Focke recently received some merchandise by mail which bore five of this provisional in addition to only 2c regular postage. This would not be sufficient to pay the postage rate on the packet which came by registered mail.

Some provisional 4c stamps are also shown. Fiscals of this value have been surcharged "Correos" in a curved line at top and "Provisional" in a straight line at bottom. The 4c fiscal printed by the American Banknote Co. has the surcharge in green, while the one printed by Waterlow & Sons, London, has the overprint in red. The 1c fiscal stamp is similarly surcharged.

From Nicaragua comes a new official stamp, the 10c yellow postage stamp of 1914 (Scott's No. 356) surcharged "Oficial" in red.

Are Precancels U. S. Cancellations?

Odd cancellations of color and design interest the collector because he realizes that these concellations make the particular stamps on which they appear different from other stamps of that same design.

The most standardized usage of cancellations in the U. S. today is on the "Precancel" stamp. A precancel is a stamp which is cancelled prior to use to save cancelling the stamp after it is placed on the package or envelope.

The variety of type, position, color and design gives interesting range for specialized collecting. Precancels make a pretty collection and are not expensive.

If you are interested, we will send you

FREE (1) 15 all different precancels mounted on a Precancel Album sheet.

(2) A 3 months' subscription to the "Precancel Gazette", which is a monthly publication in its 5th year.

(3) A booklet describing the hobby in detail with special chapters on "What is a Precancel?", "How to Start Collecting Precancels", "Why a Precancel is Worth More than an Ordinary Stamp".

And we will send you a trial approval selection of pretty precancels.

Your name on a postal card will do.

and anyone knowing a town of origin will confer a favor on the reader by sending it in.

The commoner cancels, such as Stars, Paid 3s, Crosses, do not show a list of all towns found using them, for it would take too much space at present. You'd probably rather see a "new" cancel than to read that three towns on Long Island used the same type of Star—what?

Mr. Eugene Klein has sent in three real snappy covers: the oldest shows a 3c '51 cancelled in bluish "WASHINGTON & PHILADELPHIA R. R." across the stamp, which is at left of cover. At top right is the handstamp in red as Scott type "C32", tho this has serifs to the letters. It was used into 1857, maybe later. The "C32" type is with block capitals. They are rare.

Two other covers with same cancel on 3c 1867's are unknown to me—"N. C. RAILWAY" at top in small letters, then the date, month and day, and below "MONKTON". The type is small, and the pmk. a single line circle, both hit in blue ink. Who knows about this N. C. Railway? Monkton is now listed in both Vt. and Md., this probably being in the latter state. His third cover has a pair and single of 3c '69 issue, each hit by a generous sized "10" in bluish green. An interesting collection might be made of various denominations hit with incorrect figures of value.

Mr. H. W. K. Hale has sent in sketch of a "PAID 3" in circle falling on a 5c red-brown of 1862. This is quite uncommon, and would make a good start for a collection of one denomination cancelled with an incorrect figure of value. You may have seen the 24c 1862 hit with big red "48", or "24" cancellations, they are nice. "19" was used quite a bit, and you are indeed fortunate if you find one where it falls on the stamp. I have a 3c '57 cancelled with "PAID 12" in a circle. To show how eager folks are to get such items, I bought a whole collection to get that one little item.

Mr. W. H. Lyon has sent in a tracing of a very fine cut cork obliteration on 3c '61, "WHJ-PM", the letters being colorless and neatly cut. This is very uncommon, it probably was in use a very short time, as the spaces between the letters is small, and would easily break apart, ruining the P. M.'s handiwork.

Mr. R. S. Nelson has sent in interesting facts re Alabama & Tennessee River Rail Road, to wit, a folded cover bearing 3c '51, the text being relative to a remission of Duties upon Imported Railway Bars. Next is a stamped envelope, No. 2319, hit thrice with "ALA. & TEN. RIV. R. R. APR 6". To complete the file he sends a large bond of that road, showing six of the twenty coupons remaining uncut. The pale green seal affixed is interesting with its huge bell shaped smoke stack a la 3c '69. This document

44 Risca Rd., NEWPORT, MON., Jan. 1, 1926.

Dear Mr. Collector:

We write to enquire whether PORTUGAL and COLONIES is the weak spot in your collection, and secondly, to inform you that if it is it will pay you to get into touch with us. We carry a very large and extensive stock of these issues accumulated during several years residence in Portugal, from where we chiefly did a wholesale trade, but we are now desirous of extending our approval business by selling to collectors at ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

During the last year we have added a great number of new clients for approvals to our list, and we are continually receiving testimonials as to our prices and condition of stamps, so get busy and drop us a line, asking for our lists and approvals. Good references must be sent, or a cash deposit for approvals.

The latter method saves the time lost in investigating references and you may make the amount any sum you can afford, and according to the size of selection required.

We have just rearranged our approvals and can send you about 2000 VARIETIES on these at PRICES WHICH CANNOT BE BEATEN. If they can, let us know.

We ask the more ADVANCED COLLECTOR to send his want list of those elusive varieties he requires, as we make a speciality of filling want lists. Surely it will be to your advantage, seeing that we fill want lists for several well known dealers. We are large buyers and the rarer items are continually passing through our hands, although many of these are much rarer than the catalogue value seems to show, as you no doubt already know.

We look forward to receiving your enquiries and assure you of the best attention.

Yours truly,

H. & G. H. JOPLING.

deserves more study, tho lack of space prevents further notes here.

Mr. B. J. Barnett sends a cover from Lockport, N. Y., to Austria, carried by a 15c '62 cancelled with a large block type "L", and in addition, among other pmks., we have "PAID", and 15 in a circle, each in red. On reverse is an uncancelled 1c, probably not used as a Carrier, tho, more like a Christmas seal to hold down the flap of the envelope.

The No. 8 on this page from Putnam, Ct., is quite a pretty cancel. Note the dots are in black on this cancel. When we see dots like this, they are almost always colorless, which means the P. M. just dug into the cancel, while here he went to some trouble to make these raised points on his cancel. Will have in another lot soon. There is a great variety in U. S. cancellations.

CHAPTER XII.

Stamp Auctioning.

Recently a friend, connected with one of Philadelphia's A-1 banks, received an "auction list" from a well-known stamp-auctioning house and although he was much interested in several of the items offered he was filled with doubts.

His first question was: "What recourse will I have should the stamps, on delivery, be found torn, doctored or otherwise imperfect?"

The answer I gave him was as follows:—

"When you bid at any auction, you bid for merchandise 'as is,' and the bargain is closed when the auctioneer's hammer goes down. For this reason, you would attend auctions conducted only by responsible firms that value their own reputation. Usually, a person goes to an auction to acquire bargains, and, as a rule, he gets them. The exceptions are when he allows himself to become interested in the fake auctions of jewelry, such as those held on the Boardwalk in Atlantic City. With stamps the same principle will apply. A responsible stamp auctioneering concern will not offer imperfect specimens without a notation or warning to the effect that the item is not wholly perfect."

"But," he objected, "if I bid by mail, how do I know I will get a square deal?"

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"How can I know the auctioneer will not, on behalf of some friend, overbid me?"

The question was reasonable, but it also was extremely naive. After a pause, I counter-queried:

"If you were bidding for a desk or a rug how would you know the auctioneer was not bidding against you?"

"Because I can see him," my friend shot back.

That also was very naive. It was evident he had never attended any kind of auction sale.

The next few minutes were taken up in a more or less warm debate about the honesty of auctioneers in general and stamp-auctioneers in particular. Fortunately, at the end it was mutually agreed that as the auctioneer must have satisfied customers and as his profit is in the commissions on sales made, it is to be expected that he is not likely to cut his own throat by interfering with legitimate bids.

"What would you advise me to do?" my banking friend wanted to know.

"What do you want to accomplish?" I demanded.

"Get these items, if possible," he said, pointing out several numbers he had checked off on the auction list.

A glance showed me that the stamps he desired were not the usual approval sheet material. They were such as would enhance greatly the value of any collection.

"You should first find out the latest catalogue prices of each number," I spoke pompously, "and see what value each may have in its particular place in your album. Then decide on the highest figure to which you would go. Next, write out your bid and forward by first mail to the auction firm."

"Why first mail?"

"Because your bid isn't going to be higher by your delaying, but it may not be despatched by you until too late."

The conversation reproduced above is intended to reflect the mental attitude of a serious philatelist justifiably cautious in money matters. It also is meant to indicate that unless an auctioneer is honest in his dealings he cannot live long in the business.

Sometimes, as at the important Collectors Club of New York City, auctions are held in the same manner as at any general merchandise auction sale. Bids are made verbally after the stamps have been "on view" and inspected. An experienced hammerman can jack up bids materially when he can play up the enthusiasm of his bidders. Even at these "everybody present" sales, the auctioneer will have "instructed bids" (i.e., instructions from some prospective buyer or buyers to bid up to a named limit on an item or several items). Again, sometimes, the owner himself will have reserved a limit, below which his item is not to be sold.

When an item is not sold on account of the reserved limit being too high for the occasion, the auctioneer charges his commission, which the owner must pay (unless otherwise agreed), because the auctioneer had, strange to say, both sold and bought the item in question for the owner.

When the auctioneer has "instructed bids," his duty is to outbid, for the party instructing, against the others, but always, of course, not warranted in raising the bidding more than necessary.

In those stamp auctions where most, if not all, of the bids are entered by mail, the auctioneer's task is confined to picking out the highest bid. This highest bid may be the owner's reserved limit, an open bid, or an instructed bid. What is the latter? It is a bid worded to the following effect:

> "I bid $..... for No....., and if there is competition you are authorized to bid for me with raises of $..... per bid up to and not above the maximum of $....., at which my bidding ends."

The advantage of making an instructed bid lies in obviating starting at higher than your nearest competitor, while en-

Chapter XIII.

Specializing.

In Chapter III, Starting a Stamp Collection, the advice was for the beginner to commence with a general collection. By following the methods outlined in the subsequent chapters, he will by this time have come to the conclusion that there can be little hope of his securing all of the stamps of all the countries issuing these interesting postage labels.

Yet, to drop general collecting may be likened to chopping down all the trees in a garden so as to allow sunlight to fall upon all of the flower-beds. Good landscape gardening is not realized that way. Likewise, good stamp-collecting does not require giving up general collecting to confine oneself to strict specializing. Doing that would be to rob from stamp collecting a large part of its general educational and romantic aspects.

Nevertheless, every advanced philatelist should be a specialist in some branch or country. Some branch, because he may devote his main efforts to Pre-cancels, Postmarks, Entires, Commemoratives, Surcharges, Imperforates, Mints, etc. Some country, because he may find his general collection has developed exceptional representation of one particular political division on the world's map.

All of which demonstrates that however half-heartedly a collector may begin, he will, unless he lacks average intelligence, soon find himself transformed into a keen philatelist, versed in an unusual degree in one or more phases of the fascinating hobby.

When you have arrived at the stage where you become seriously interested in specializing, you must decide on these points:

(a) The country.
(b) The emissions.
(c) Used or unused, or both separately or intermingled.
(d) Singles only, or also pairs, blocks, plates, etc.
(e) Complete series or up to certain values only.
(f) Regulars only, or including errors, misprints, curiosities, etc.
(g) Including or excluding Provisionals, Surcharges, and Locals.
(h) With or without Commemoratives, used or unused (or both).
(i) Without or with post cards, envelopes, revenues, postage dues.

Right here, it is well to turn back to Chapter VII, Building Up a Collection Well, and refresh your memory on the pointers given therein.

As the specialist is usually an advanced hobbyist, it does not seem necessary to go into details as to how he should proceed for attaining the objective chosen. Still, it would not be superfluous to proffer a few suggestions, namely:

(i) Set yourself a definite preconceived goal.
(ii) Aim at thoroughness.
(iii) Make careful studies.
(iv) Carry out researches.
(v) Seek publication for your findings.
(vi) Cultivate correspondence with fellow-specialists.
(vii) Discuss your work in the selected field.
(viii) Maintain tidiness.
(ix) Follow up all clues.
(x) Stick to your main purpose.
(xi) Invest liberally but prudently.
(xii) Display privately or through exhibitions.

To the foregoing a thirteenth (not necessarily unlucky) suggestion should be tagged. It is this: Don't drop general collecting, even if you have to subordinate it to pursue specializing.

JUST A WORD:—

IN addition to the list of names published in our special number as having made entries in our cover design contest we have two more to add. One is R. L. Hustis, Milwaukee, Wis., and the other John W. Creegan, Washington, D. C. We regret that these names were not included in the earlier published list.

THE first Wilson precancel is noted by N. R. Hoover, New Rochelle, N. Y. It is the N. Y. City on the new 17c stamp.

ARNS & SCHROTT of Dusseldorf, Germany, are making a specialty of what they call "Silver Lining Packets". A sample of the packet has been submitted. It consists of an open-faced envelope with stamps very neatly arranged and presented in an attractive form.

EDGAR C. CANTRELL, San Antonio, Texas, has taken out a three-in-one advertising contract and his advertisement will be found regularly in our columns during the coming months.

THE Detroit News of Sunday, Jan. 31, contained a very fine stamp feature. It covered nearly a page and was written by A. M. Smith in a very attractive manner. Two fine large pictures of Gen. C. A. Coolidge and John Kay were supplemented by two half-tones of the Detroit Philatelic Society. One showed the Club grouped for a photograph while the other pictured a stamp auction in progress. We heartily congratulate the member or members of this society who were able to put over this splendid publicity feature. Our thanks are given E. Walter Koenig for the clipping in question.

HARRISON TOWNSEND, 28 S. Ridley Ave., Aldan, Pa., is a boy fifteen years of age, who has been crippled for five years and deaf for the past three years. He began to collect stamps about two years ago and his collection now numbers 150 varieties of U. S. and 1,850 foreign. He writes:—"If any of your readers have any cast off stamps that would help me out in trading they would surely be appreciated. If anyone has a lot of U. S. mixed stamps that could be sold cheaply please advise the sending of address and price of same to me." We trust this notice will bear fruit.

Have You a Surplus of These?

We always want to buy for ready cash and at the top of the market anything fine in early U. S. stamps or covers. If you have a specialized collection of any stamp or series; a find of old correspondence; an accumulation of 3c '51s, '57s or '61s on or off cover; patriotic covers of the Civil War, either Confederate or Union, or of the Spanish American war; a few thousand Bank Note issues, even the common 2c and 3c stamps if there are enough to bother with.

Send them to us with your best cash price. Particularly if you have items you think are worth more than anyone else will pay, for that is just the kind we want. Our check or the stamps will come to you by return mail if you ask it.

Just now we are anxious to spend some real money for fine items, but don't want the culls at any price.

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

Dr. Wm. Evans, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

Not long ago in speaking of the Continental Stamps on silk fibre paper, skepticism was expressed as to the existence of the 2c brown on this paper. That has been changed since Mr. F. R. Schmalzreidt has submitted copies of this stamp which indisputably had the fibres present. And it also had vertical ribs present. Some combination—ribbed fibre paper! But there it was.

It was also stated at that time that the higher values had not been found on this paper. The fact that Mr. Klemann had reported finding the 24c on it some time ago, had entirely escaped my memory. Mr. Schmalzreidt has gone still further. He sends copies of the 7, 12 and 30c that are on this same paper. This means that all the values except the 90c were issued on this paper, and the 90c may have been. The fact that it has not as yet been found, or reported, does not mean that it does not exist.

So far as known this paper was used only by the Continental Bank Note Company, and until other printings are found on it, we may feel fairly safe in saying that stamps showing these fibres are the products of that Company.

When did they use it? The existence of the 2c brown on it disjoints the supposition that it was in 1877, for it is hardly likely that this stamp was printed two years after the change of color. The only dated copies I have seen of any value were used in 1877, and it is not likely that a stock of various values would be held for two years before it was issued. Perhaps some one can explain this apparent discrepancy satisfactorily. And are these fibres silk? Who can tell us that? I have no doubt that some scientific person can find out.

Some stamps have in the paper one or two little colored fibres, all I have seen are red or blue and no stamp that has come my way has been decorated with more than two of them. These are not the kind of fibres written about above. Those are frequently found in large numbers all over the stamp, and are black or dark, and also smaller than the colored fibres.

So much for fibres until some one shows us a 90c or some other fact that has not been recorded.

Mr. Horace C. Adams sends a copy of the 1c green 1898, which suggests that a sheet of these stamps may have been issued imperforate horizontally. The margins at top and bottom are so wide that it does not seem to have been trimmed. It is precanceled Boston, Mass., 10 01 with three bars, which extend across the whole stamp, giving the impression that they crossed the ten stamps of the row continuously. Has anyone a duplicate? Or a pair, vertical of course? Won't our pre-cancellation friends help us out in regard to this? A vertical pair imperf. between would be a mighty nice thing to report. Or a few pre-canceled copies on the covers might shed some light on the subject, though it would perhaps be going too far to claim that it was issued in this condition without the evidence of a pair.

In connection with the "Carrier" postmarks spoken of a short time ago in these notes Mr. R. L. Hustis submits the following:—

"Regarding the 'CARRIER' postmarks as found on covers of the '70's and '80's, perhaps a little history and speculation would help to answer some of our questions and clear up a number of the peculiar uses as either postmarks or cancellations as sometimes found.

In the 70's and even into the later '80's, by far the greater number of towns and even cities had either no carriers or a limited carrier delivery. The old-time 'post office' was in many instances located in non-government-owned buildings, and the old 'private mail-delivery box' showed its 5x6 glass face in long rows as many tiers high as could be conveniently reached. Box rental was still the postmaster's perquisite and box-delivery touted as being handier,—'get your mail without delay whenever you want it.' But towns grew in size and so did distances to the 'post office', and carriers finally were employed to deliver a proportion of the mail, which proportion gradually increased as the 'letter-box' or 'P. O. box' lost favor. So much for the 'background', as writers say.

It appears from looking over a couple of hundred covers and especially about fifty sent to Kalamazoo, Michigan, that in that city letters were back-stamped either 'Kalamazoo' or 'Carrier'. The latter were no doubt carrier-delivered to the street address and the others (addressed to a business-house) stamped 'Kalamazoo' being put in a 'P. O. Box' were called for by the addressee. In fact the 'P. O. Box number' appears on many of these latter. This would lead us to believe that after being sorted, for 'carrier' or 'box' delivery, the mail was postmarked as to its class of delivery. As to locals, the few I found were all canceled 'Kalamazoo' and only two back-stamped 'Carrier', the rest having no back-stamp and being supposedly 'box-delivered'. If this theory of back-stamping is correct it answers many things.

But why are even some stamps them-

HODGE PODGE:—

SAMUEL E. BECK sends us a clipping from the Asheville, N. C., Times dealing with the agitation for a stamp commemorating the Mechlenburg Declaration of Independence. Senator Overman took the matter up with the P. O. Department and was advised that it would not be possible to provide the stamp in question.

THE Panama American of January 18 has a readable article about Adolphe Menjou and Jean Hersholt, both of whom are greatly interested in philately. The paper states that when Hersholt and Menjou are not acting they are arguing over "an innocent little piece of engraved paper, though possibly a little the worse for wear". The words used in their conversation "watermark", "uncancelled", "imperforate", etc., are Greek to the friends who chance to be listening in.

IT is an interesting co-incidence that our Second Assistant Postmaster General, Hon. W. I. Glover, has a running mate in postal service in the person of Hon. W. J. Glover, who is Second Assistant in the Canadian Post Office Department.

ALBERT E. GORHAM informs us that an airmail service is being considered from Chicago, Ill., to Atlanta, Ga., by way of Indianapolis, Louisville, Nashville and Birmingham.

JOHN L. STEELE, Sec.-Treas. of the St. Johnsbury, Vt., Stamp Club, has sent in a yearly subscription for the Athenaeum of that city. Many thanks.

HARRY IOOR has now taken rooms 802, 804 and 812 in the State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. He reports business as very good and states that he will be better fitted during 1926 to handle his stamp business than ever before.

WE thank various correspondents for clippings and information relative to the new 10c airmail stamp. We appreciate all courtesies of this kind.

WE have received copies of the program of the Washington (D. C.) Stamp Exhibition from William A. Johnson, president of the Washington Philatelic Society, and Maurice S. Petty, secretary of the Exhibition Committee. Pres. Johnson writes that the members are most enthusiastic concerning the Exhibition to be held Feb. 1-14 at the Public Library. A goodly number of new society members is anticipated.

U. S. POSTAGE STAMPS 1922-25.

Reviewed by PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

There has just been received from the English press a very attractive one hundred page booklet entitled, "United States Postage Stamps 1922-25" from the pen of our most English prolific writer, Mr. Fred. J. Melville. Those who are acquainted with Mr. Melville's writings will realize that they are the result of much study and investigation and are well worthy of a place in any library.

This little booklet covers only our current issue, but each stamp is taken up individually, described most carefully and full details given as to dates and issues, varieties, plate numbers and the like. The book is for sale at a price of 2s6d and should be in the hands of every student interested in our issues for it places between two covers information which is only available by a search through our philatelic papers. The later commemorative stamps, namely the Huguenot-Walloons, Lexington-Concord and Norse-American, in addition to our new Special Deliveries are covered.

Mr. Melville writes me a most flattering letter under date of December 10th, which my egotism forces me to reproduce:—

"By today's mail I send you first copy of my little book on the current U. S. stamps and trust it will reach you in good order. The issue has interested me very much from the start and provides a good example of the pleasure that can be gotten out of some modern issues. I send you the first copy as in the collecting of this data your weekly notes in MEKEEL'S have been of the greatest value. There will be nothing new to you in it, but none the less, I expect you will be interested to have it."

Knowledge Is Power = Dollars

Do you realize how often you "give up" or "pass by" a real rare variety thru lack of knowledge?

Let me explain: Denmark No. 2, 4rbs brown is known with over 150 different numeral cancellations. No. 1 is worth $0.20 but dozens of them are worth $5.00 to $10.00 each and a few are rarities.

All these and nearly all Danish varieties are priced in my new Detailed Priced Catalogue of Danish Stamps of 1851-1899. I quote prices of shades, pairs, strips of three, four, six, blocks, sheets, stamps on cover, cancellations, recuts and scores of Inverted Frames, never before priced.

Illustrated Catalogue, 52 pages, printed on one side only, price $1.00 postfree.

Books of used Danish Stamps can be sent on approval. [tf

B. & B. STAMP CO,

1056 Clay St., San Francisco,

I wish to announce that a treatise on subject of

will be ready soon for distribution.

It goes into the subject exhaustively. is essentially a compilation of very im tant general rules which have been evol from statistics compiled from the old alogues. It tells exactly how many th the stamps of each major stamp issu country (and many colonies) have increa in value during the three primarily im tant periods of time from which we h determined the following:

1. Which countries' stamps have b the best investment in the past. (You tell at a glance whether any country may have in mind has been a better "b and how much better than any other co try.)
2. Which stamps are the best investm now and will be so long as certain co tions exist. U. S.? Foreign? 19th? 20 Which countries? Why?
3. Whether common stamps have b and still are a better investment than rarer items and if better, how much bet
4. Whether 19th century stamps h been a better investment than 20th.
5. Whether stamps issued prior to 1 are a better investment than those of period 1880-1901 or the period 1901-1915. gives in figures the past performances enough countries to arrive at a general c clusion.
6. Whether British Colonials are a g "buy" and which ones, 19th or 20th c tury, are best.
7. What of New Europe stamps? Gi past performances and outlines future pr abilities based on law of supply and mand.
8. A general rule for the guidance of man who likes to make his money br to its utmost possibility while he is foll ing his hobby, a rule that is based u the law of supply and demand as it app specifically to philately.
9. Whether stamps are a good inv ment as compared with other pract means of investment and if so how good

It states plainly what countries are best to collect from an investment sta point, with plenty of evidence to prove point.

This treatise enables you to defend yo self against the jibes of your non-collec friends, to defend yourself against the cr cisms of your collector friends who say are near-crazy because you collect cert countries, or if you are not investing y stamp money most wisely it will enable to correct your errors with absolute kno edge of what you are doing. It makes statement that is not backed up with ures and it is not influenced by anyo business interests. It is the kind of trea that you will like your non-collector fri to read, knowing that he will have gre respect for you after he has read it that he will probably turn collector him after he has read it. As a collector, do know how good your judgment is? W not find out?

If you are a dealer you cannot inves little money to better advantage than getting several copies of "Stamps As Investment" and selling them. It is expected that this little book will b money maker for the publisher. If it bre even that is the best that can be hoped The statistical work has cost money; we of adding and of computing percenta cannot be accomplished without exper It is being published in paper covers $1.50, which is a low price considering small number being printed. REVENUE NOTES

By FRANK L. APPLEGATE, Medford, Ore.

Shifts

My attention has been called to certain shifts or double transfers in some of the revenue stamps, including: 25c Certificate, perforated double lines in letters at bottom; 5/8c Prop. 1900 hyphen-hole, double outer line at lower left; N. Y. Stock Transfer 1906 $2.00, doubles all over stamp.

Documentary State Revenues

Eleven states have issued adhesive documentary revenue stamps. Of these California was the first and by far the most prolific. Her stamps for Bills of Exchange, Insurance policies and License of Attorneys were issued July 1, 1857, hence antedating any similar issues by any state or any nation this side of the Atlantic. Upward of 1200 varieties of California revenues have been catalogued and others probably issued are not now known to exist. Denominations run from 3¾c to $400.00.

A brief schedule of documentary states follows:

	First Used.	Tax Repeal.	Denominations

Georgia Cigar and Cigarette Tax

In my last notes I mentioned certain values as coming in new colors. Since then I have found the facts to be as follows: This set was issued Jan. 1, 1924. Oblong format. 35x21 mm., lithographed and roulette. Arms in circle with tobacco plant on either side. "Cigar and Cigarette Tax" around Circle. "State of Georgia" at top, values:

1c red. 25c orange.
2c green.

Soon after issue a large part of the supply of 1c and 1½c were stolen and those remaining were surcharged vertically with a line about one mm. thick continuous through the sheet in black on the 1c and in red on the 1½c. When this supply was used up these values were issued in new colors, the 1c in violet and the 1½c in green.

At first the high values, those used on cigars, were easily salvaged by collectors, but later the law was changed so that they are now so placed as to be destroyed when the box is opened.

New York Liquor

I have seen two values. Large upright rectangle 92x125 mm. Arms in center in circle surrounded by "State of New York Liquor Tax" value top and bottom.

100c red, perf. 12.

The 50c stamp is cancelled by rubber stamp in purple "Gibson-Snow Co.—312 W Willow St." Stamped also with date "Syracuse, N. Y.—July 31, 1920."

I would be glad to hear from anyone having information either of additional values or data in regard to their use.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR STAMPS?

Would you like to test your knowledge of your stamps? You can do this by trying to answer these questions as found in the Philatelic Magazine. They represent a test sheet submitted to the members of the Dundee, Scotland, Philatelic Society in December:

1. Give a list of countries which have printed stamps tête-bêche as a normal procedure and not as isolated errors.
2. State the British possessions having a definite air-mail issue.
3. Give the British Colonies in which King Edward and King George appeared simultaneously in the same set.
4. Which Colonial design was longest in use?
5. Give the British Colonies having a map incorporated in the design.
6. Which Colony adopted a pair of scales as a symbol to denote "Postage Due"?
7. On which other Colonies does a pair of scales appear in the design?
8. Which Colonies have had their stamps printed by a foreign power?
9. Give a list of Colonies having utilised Brittania in the design.
10. On the stamps of what countries does St. George and the Dragon appear?
11. Which is the largest stamp illustrated in Gibbons catalogues?
12. Which countries have issued mourning stamps?
13. Which country uses the money unit "Metallik"?
14. Which foreign country has a good representation of a British policeman?
15. Give a list of foreign countries having the figure of Justice together with a pair of scales worked into the design.
16. Give a list of foreign countries having a pair of scales in the design without the figure of Justice.
17. On what country does a centaur appear?
18. On which country does Mount Ararat appear?
19. Which country has the representation of a Carthaginian Galley?
20. Which country features the skull and Cross-bones in the design?

EDITORIAL.

Under the date of January 27, 1926, the post office department furnished the newspapers with an interesting account of some impending new issues, which are described with a real philatelic swing. When the authorities at Washington give out a philatelic news-letter such as follows, even the most jaundiced among us must admit that the philatelic sun moves:

Postmaster General New announced today that, on February 13, a new 10-cent Air Mail Stamp will be issued and placed on sale by the Post Office Department.

The stamp is a horizontal rectangle 75/100 by 1 84/100 inches in size and is printed in blue ink. The central design represents a map of the United States, showing some of the rivers and mountain ranges. On each side is an airplane in flight, one traveling east and the other west. Across the top of the stamp in white Roman letters are the words "United States Postage," with the words "Air Mail" directly beneath. At the bottom of the stamp in shaded letters is the word "Cents" and in both lower corners are the white numerals "10". Ornamental plastic brackets appear at each side of the stamp.

The new air mail stamp will first be placed on sale at the post offices at Detroit and Dearborn, Mich., Chicago, Ill., Cleveland, Ohio, and Washington, D. C. It will also be on sale at the Philatelic Agency, Division of Stamps, Post Office Department, for the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers.

The Postmaster General also announced that the Department is prepared to issue a 3-cent foreign single and 3-cent foreign reply postal card of new design, in compliance with the action of the Universal Postal Congress of Stockholm in having adopted the three cent rate of postage for postal cards mailed in the United States for delivery in foreign countries, effective October 1, 1925.

The single card is 3¼ by 5½ inches and is printed in red ink on cream colored paper. The stamp is a rectangle on end and bears a portrait of William McKinley. Above the portrait, in a curved panel, are the words "U. S. Postal Card" and below, on a ribbon scroll, is the name "McKinley" with the years of birth and death "1843-1901." At the bottom of the stamp are the words "Three Cents" with the numeral "3" in both lower corners. Triangular ornaments appear in both upper corners. In the upper left corner of the card appears the following inscription in English and French: "Universal Postal Union, Union Postal Universelle, United States of America, Etats-Unis D'Amerique" and below this are the words "This side of card is for address only." The entire card is enclosed within a double line border, the upper portion of which forms a panel containing the words "Postal Card—Carte Postale."

The reply card, when folded, is 3½ by 5½ inches and is printed in red ink on cream colored paper. The stamp on the message part is a rectangle on end and bears the portrait of William McKinley, Above the portrait, in a curved panel, are the words "Message Card" and below, on a ribbon scroll, is the name "McKinley" with the years of birth and death "1843-1901." At the bottom of the stamp are the words "Three Cents" with the numeral "3" in both lower corners. Triangular ornaments appear in both upper corners. In the upper left corner of the card appears the inscription "Universal Postal Union, Union Postale Universelle, United States of America, Etats-Unis D'Amerique" in both English and French and below this are the words, "This side of card is for address only." The card is inclosed within a single line border, the upper portion of which forms a panel containing the words "Postal Card With Paid Reply—Carte Postale Avec Response Payee."

The 2-cent foreign single and 2-cent foreign reply cards will continue in use to meet the new rates applicable to postal cards addressed for delivery in Canada, Spain, and the colonies, and the Pan-American countries.

While on the subject of the co-operation of influential factors in bringing stamp news to the fore, the New York Times should be written in letters of purple and gold. This great newspaper receives our words of praise periodically for high devotion to philately in a news sense. Some years ago, it began to recognize stamps as a vehicle in which a good many folks took pleasure in riding, and down to the present day, the Times has not wearied of well-doing. With this newspaper in hand, the philatelic editor has more time in which to ponder his misdeeds, as with his trusty shears he may transfer a share of the contents of the New York Times to his own pages, much to the advantage of his brain child. For instance, we learn from its columns that Mr. T. E. Steinway has been elected president of the Collectors Club, which intends to move to its new home in 48th street in May; and now we read that three youths have been arrested in Paris as wholesale counterfeiters. It is said that "numerous ten gulden stamps of unusual date, selling for 250 francs each were sold by the trio" and it is thought that number marketed far exceeds 200,000 francs. Detection of the forgery was made by a French police inspector who bought one of the stamps only to be told by one more experienced than he that his specimen was a bad one. An investigation disclosed the activities of the forgers in Paris who sold their stuff not alone in that city, but in Brussels and other cities as well. The stamps under discussion are the ten gulden, Netherlands, 1905, No. 93, and the ten gulden, Netherlands, 1913, No. 108, as well as the ten gulden, Nos. 118 and 119, respectively, surcharged 2½ gulden, 1920. Numbers 93 and 108 have been counterfeited outright and the black surcharge has been removed from numbers 118 and 119 and cancellation applied—hence the "unusual dates." The stamps from which the surcharge is removed are thus converted into specimens valued about five times as much as the surcharges. The Dutch stamp papers have reported the existence of these forgeries, which we are informed by Dr. C. W. Hennan are well executed. The traces left by the removal of the surcharge are covered up to some extent by the faked postmarks. The news that the forgers have come to grief is welcome and collectors will say that it is well worth paying cable tolls for, as the Times has done.

The following preliminary announcement coming from a member of the committee shows that President Wilhelm's appointees on the Convention Committee of the American Philatelic Society realize that time is fleeting and that it is just as well to get off to a flying start. According to word just received from New York, Dr. J. Brace Chittenden, who is secretary and librarian of the Collectors Club of New York, and who teaches calculus and sometimes finds it possible to look in at his law office has stopped all these endeavors in order to concentrate on plans for the convention of the American Philatelic Society. This efficient chairman, who, as is known, as an authority on the stamps of Austria and Mexico, anticipates an attendance of around one thousand members at the coming convention, to be held during the week of the stamp Exhibition—on the first three days to be exact. Dr. Chittenden's estimate of attendance is well within bounds in our opinion and as time goes on, it may be found to be too modest. The schedule of entertainment is being evolved and although the expense of ing for the pleasure and comfort thousand members or so is no small ter of business, it is not expected the stamp folks of the convention se will neglect the out-of-town bret Dr. Chittenden's associates on the mittee are: Messrs. R. N. Hoover M. Konwiser, H. L. Lindquist and Lewy.

The editor of the "Mailbag" Cl land, Ohio, is a shrewd observer an the February number of his paper trills the following lay: "On Jan 11, the post office department put on the new 13-cent stamp. Not long ag 17-cent was brought out. If an wonders why we needed a 13 or a 17 stamp, I will provide the answer. T are several million stamp collectors in world and if only one million of t buy and put into their collections each of the two new stamps, the office has a profit of practically $300. And if a slight error or variation sh accidentally occur in one stamp in sheet of 100, the profit would be dou or tripled." While the remark is s what catty, it is not unclever, alth we cannot subscribe to any inference the department would profit through "error".

PHILATELY AND WHAT IT TEACHES

By W. GARDNER.

Philately is, broadly speaking, the collection of, and knowledge pertaining to, postage, telegraph, and revenue stamps issued by Government authority, or by the enterprise of bona-fide letter-carrying or telegraph companies or concerns.

Philately may be said to have originated about ten years after the introduction of postage stamps in 1840. For some time it was regarded merely as a passing craze, indulged in only by young people. But gradually the value of the pursuit began to assert itself, and the influence of Philately increased to a wonderful extent throughout the world.

Its fascination and educational value have acquired recognition from all classes, and to-day Philately is regarded not as a mere hobby, but as a science with its own sociology and literature, and ranking among its adherents kings, queens, princes, presidents, great financiers, and many prominent men of affairs. In every civilised part of the world you will undoubtedly find stamp collecting in evidence; indeed, its internationality is one of its most pronounced features.

Philately is primarily an intellectual pursuit. It develops a taste for art and science, and stimulates research in nearly every branch of learning.

Of no other hobby can it be said that all classes collect. Of stamps it is a notable characteristic; from the boy who goes in for penny packets to the millionaire who takes choice copies of the rarest varieties, all collect, each according to his means, and each taking his fill of pleasure from the same fascinating pursuit.

King George once said it was one of the greatest pleasures of his life.

For the young it teaches order and neatness, two very necessary adjuncts to one's qualifications. It gives them a study of colour, so very necessary later on when deciding shades, and it also provides them with a very pleasant occupation.

Philately is adaptable to all pockets. Few can afford to collect precious gems, paintings, coins, old china, or antique furniture, but anyone may collect stamps according to his means, for there are thousands of stamps that can be purchased for a penny or less, as well as rarities that run into hundreds of pounds.

Beginners are not advised to commence stamp collecting solely as an investment, but a well-organized stamp collection may not only be made "a thing of beauty and a joy forever," but may constitute a home savings bank into which can be placed spare coins which might otherwise find their way into other channels.

The stamp collector of to-day also reaps the advantage of unwearying toil on the part of the pioneers of earlier days.

One of the attractions of stamp collecting is the chance of obtaining stamps for practically nothing. Youths in commercial offices, those who have soldier and sailor relatives and friends — these have first-class chances of obtaining stamps for nothing. Our exchange club is another excellent medium for obtaining specimens at less than dealer's prices.

The general collector must not expect to realize full catalogue value for his stamps if he is compelled to part with them. It would be better for him if he were to hold them, for therein would he be laying up an important and valuable asset. In doing so he will enjoy to the full the pleasure of an abiding devotion to a charming hobby, and as years go by and age begins to tell its tale of scarcity in one issue after another, he is able to congratulate himself upon the fact that, to the pleasure of collecting, there is being added the gratification of wise investment.

Don't despise the common stamps. Many of the specimens now judged to be of great value were once regarded as common. It is never possible to foretell exactly which stamps are likely to be valuable. It is only possible to guess that this stamp will have a short life and that one will not be much used. It need not matter to the young collector whether his stamps are likely to yield a big return by way of investment. Rather is it better for him to get the fullest pleasure out of present possession, by learning all he can about them, by arranging them nicely, and by always striving after more stamps and more knowledge. Knowledge of stamp designs begins with the common varieties. It is easier far to get a useful acquaintance with the rarer stamps by thoroughly studying the common ones in our collection. The eye-practice that is necessary for the appreciation of shades and colour varieties comes from the study of common stamps, and it is only by much familiarity with such stamps that colours become memorized. Such stamps are equally good material for training the eye to observe differences of detail. All who would extract the best fun and interest from stamps will lay the foundations of their collections with the commoner stamps.

The fine arts with which Philately is concerned more or less intimately are painting, sculpture, and architecture. Of these the highest is painting. Although the space available is very limited, the designs on postage stamps are by no means beyond the reach of art. Distinguished artists have been employed in the production of stamp pictures, and a large number of famous paintings have been produced on postal labels. From the very first Sir Rowland Hill secured the highest talent available for the production of his stamps.

William Wyon's head of Queen Victoria on the early stamps of Great Britain was an admirable piece of artistic portraiture. Herr Emil Fuchs, the Austrian sculptor, was responsible for the head of King Edward, and the portrait of King George on the current stamps was the work of Mr. Bertram McKennal, an Australian sculptor. Herr Von Angelo, the Hungarian artist, whose death was recently announced in the press, executed the Jubilee painting of Queen Victoria from which some of the Indian stamps were copied.

MAXWELL KRAUSE, Lebanon, Pa.

Many of the United States picture stamps are from famous paintings, and the Russian Romanoff stamps and the Austrian Jubilee issue are all reproductions of oil paintings in the national galleries or palaces of those countries.

The sculptor's art is well represented on stamps. Nearly all the portraits of the earlier United States stamps are representations of busts by some of the most skilful American sculptors. Greece shows us some of her famous sculptures, and even less favoured countries like Costa Rica, Guatemala, Peru, and Uruguay show us fine pieces of statuary.

Architecture is well represented, and Germany, Belgium, Turkey, Hungary, Denmark, and dozens of other countries have placed before us reproductions of their notable buildings, and they are certainly very beautiful stamps.

Photography has much to do with the minute details seen in so many recent issues, while the French pictorial colonials are mostly taken from photographs specially brought together for propaganda purposes. The Mafeking siege stamps were actual photographs.

Philately teaches history in a silent way. The entire history of many states and countries may be built up from a study of their postage stamps. The stamps of the Transvaal and France afford a complete history of the many changes of government that have taken place in these countries since the advent of the postage stamp. The prevailing idea now with many countries is to commemorate the great events in their history by a special issue of stamps, and we find Italy, Chili, Argentine, Canada, the United States, and many other countries opening out pages of their country's history for our enlightenment.

FLATIRON BUILDING, FORT WORTH, TEXAS

Even the Great War has permanently left its mark behind in the numerous War Tax, Red Cross, and Charity stamps that were issued by our Colonies and a great number of foreign countries engaged in the war. New pages have had to be opened in our albums for the inclusion of newly-created states like Jugo-Slavia, Latvia, Esthonia, etc., while a few, like Serbia and Montenegro, have put "finished" to their issues.

Numismatics and stamps go well together, and on the stamps of Liberia, Greece and Crete we find specimens of current and ancient coins. Russia has also used a kind of postal money, the stamps being printed on stout paper, with an inscription on the back telling the people their value in silver.

Geography can be learned in the very pleasantest manner, for there are thousands of examples in existence from which some ideas of the geography of a country may be gained.

First, quite a host of map stamps may be found, giving us the shapes of the countries. Then we may find the different races of mankind, white, red, brown, and yellow, intelligently depicted. These races must work and produce various things in order that they may live, and we can find farmers, blacksmiths, miners, fishermen, etc., all hard at work on hundreds of different postage stamps. The articles produced, wheat, fruit, ivory, cotton, sugar, and coal, have to be transported from place to place, and the different methods of transport, mule, motor, bullock, camel, ships, and rail are excellently illustrated by many countries. It is quite easy to fill several album sheets with a miniature fleet and the various types of locomotives found on postage stamps.

Flowers, fruits, beasts, fishes and even insects are to be found, and these, together with the wonderful scenery depicted on many stamps, make a truly delightful show.

All these, together with a knowledge of the various countries' coinages and a smattering of their language (even if the pronunciation is not all that it might be) make geography a very delightful and pleasant study.

Besides all this, we get an idea of the many kinds of printing—steel or copper plate printing, typography or surface printing, lithography and embossing. We also become interested in the making of paper, the production of watermarks, the different methods of separating stamps, and many more points of interest, and everyone who is a philatelist will surely be able to show the outsider that there is something, after all, in the collecting of stamps.—Postage Stamp.

selves cancelled with a 'Carrier'? I have a beautifully centered 'can' on a 2c, '83, reading, in 27mm circle, 'CHICAGO, ILL.' above, 'CARRIER' below, parallel to circumference, and 'JUL 22 2PM' in three lines between. How did this happen? I judge that an honest and over-zealous 'Carrier'-cancelling clerk noticed this stamp had slipped through as far as the desk without being canceled, so he canceled it himself, with the handiest tool, the 'Carrier' right in his hand! The many 'duds' or 'uncanceled-tho-used' stamps of those days prove that this was possible. I have and have seen a few other 'Carrier' cans. on stamps which I judge were canceled in a like manner.

This 'Carrier' back-stamp was apparently to record the date (and time) when the piece of mail entered the carrier-delivery system, a visible check on it for the addressee, it seems, and a deterrent from the carrier's carrying it home at night and delivering it the following day. Even in New York City, in November, 1883, the carriers were not too much trusted in delivering letters as appears from a 1⅜x1 inch yellow label pasted on the face of a 'Returned to Writer' cover, which I have, which reads, 'Letter returned to the office by Carrier. If the address on this letter is correct, or there is any other reason why the carrier should have delivered it, please send the envelope, with a statement of the facts, to the Postmaster that he may inquire why it was not properly delivered.'

This particular cover was a New York local or 'City' addressed, canceled 'Nov 16 630 PM' on face. On the back is a 24mm circle containing a 6mm nearly round 'expanded-Roman' C, with '11-17-83', '1-A' and 'N. Y.' in three lines below. This is evidently a 'Carrier'. Then again turning to the face we find a large purplish-ed hand containing 'Returned to Writer. Cannot be found by N. Y. C.', the 'C' here being 'carrier' without doubt. Also another circle, double lined 16mm diam., in blue containing a large 'B. L.' What does this signify? And on the back again a circle similar to the 'carrier', but with an 'A', '11-20-83', '4 P', 'N. Y.', and a third circle like the other two reading 'P. O.', '11-20-83', 'N. Y.'. All this together with the yellow label on face mentioned above. A much post-marked cover. What does the 'B. L.' signify?

I also have a cover addressed to Boston, Mass., which is back-stamped with a fairly heavy 26mm diam. circle in black containing 'NOV 9 85' above and '8 PM' below a 7mm high heavy expanded Doric 'C'. Evidently another 'Carrier'. Of course we both know this theory and these later-day 'Carrier' cancellations and post-marks have nothing to do with the earlier 'Carrier's' of the '60's and even the earliest '70's, as that was a 'special' service with different postal rates as 'local mail' from the general 'outside' mail."

Only one or two have sent specimens of these markings from other cities than those first mentioned, which indicates either that not many cities used them, or that no one has thought enough of them to collect them, or to report them.

After the above was written Mr. Hustis obtained and submitted a cover carrying a 1¢ blue and 2c vermilion American postmarked at a Vermont town, Nov. 29, 1879. On the face is a receiving mark [illegible] anything except plain enough to "get" Boston. This cover is back-stamped in blue, B[illegible]26 '20 and upholds the theory advanced above by Mr. Hustis. If anyone else intends to send in lists of R. R., R. P. O., or Agt. postmarks in connection with the Bank Note issues so that we'll be glad to have them promptly corrected or published as soon as possible.

STAMP EXHIBIT AT MINNEAPOLIS

An exhibit of postage stamps was opened at the Minneapolis Institute of Arts on January 23rd, and will continue one month. According to Russell A. Plimpton, director of the Art Institute, the purpose of the exhibit is to show the relation of postage stamps to the fine arts and to bring the importance of stamp collecting before the general public. January

The exhibit is installed in four large panels, one devoted to each of the following: United States, British Empire, Foreign, Educational. In addition to the panels there are seven large floor cases. As this exhibit will be viewed mainly by non-collectors, it is general in its scope and does not attempt to show specialization. The officials of the Institute are greatly pleased by the interest shown in this exhibit.

The stamps are loaned by members of the Twin City Philatelic Society, and the exhibit has been arranged by their committee, consisting of Messrs. Sours, Stebbins, Brack and Oleson.

Written for MEKEEL'S.

WORTH 10,000 TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD

By E. P. W. KEARSLEY, Springfield, Massachusetts.

Reading C. E. R.'s article in the Dec. 7th issue of the WEEKLY, will no doubt have aroused in the minds of many a sense of curiosity regarding the relative value of the British Guiana stamp recently secured by Mr. Hind.

It would certainly be interesting to know the actual weight of this stamp, which is undoubtedly the most valuable philatelic entity in the world.

If for the purpose of gaining an approximate idea, it is assumed that its weight is about the same as a present issue United States 2c in mint condition, an equal quantity of gold would be worth approximately $3.00. The value Mr. Hind places on this stamp is $32,500.00, making this insignificant piece of paper worth 10,000 times its weight in gold.

However, a great many of us are anxiously awaiting the International Exhibition in New York, when we hope to be able to feast our eyes on this Philatelic Wonder.

Again, a smaller number of the WEEKLY readers may have been further interested in C. E. R's suggestions, regarding the use of the assay balance as a means of examination of stamps for paper, watermarks, overprints, etc.

Being also a chemist, and also of the inquiring mind, which I must confess oftentimes borders on the critical, I proceeded to determine if possible to what extent, and just how reliable, the information so obtained would be.

The mode of attack adopted was to take 10 copies of the present U. S. 2c, selected at random from a sheet, and weigh them with a view to discovering just what variation they might show.

Secondly, each of these 10 stamps was washed to remove the gum, desiccated, and then weighed again.

Finally, 10 used stamps were selected, each having the conventional Springfield postmark present in as even distribution as possible, and these were weighed.

The following is the results obtained:

No.	Weight o.g. in milligrams.	Weight without gum in milligrams.
2	53.32	33.04
3	52.80	32.61
4	52.02	32.66
5	53.66	33.09
6	52.90	31.82
7	53.01	32.11
8	52.20	32.20
9	53.33	32.28
10	53.07	31.99

It will be observed that the greatest variation in weight found in the mint condition was between stamp No. 4 and No. 5 being 1.64 milligrams.

The greatest variation in the unused condition, but without gum, was in Stamp No. 1 and No. 5, or 1.58 milligrams.

In the case of postally used stamps the widest variations found was 4.86 milligrams.

To recapitulate and interpret in terms of the weights of the stamps, it might be said that the following variations were observed:

In mint, O. G. condition,	3.1% variation.
Mint, without gum,	5.0% variation.
Postally used,	9.1% variation.

In view of such startling variance in perfectly conditioned stamps, it would appear that even small tears or thin spots, not to mention watermarks and postmarks, can hardly be expected to so materially affect the weights of stamps as to make their detection possible by means of the assay balance, even if the price of the latter were within the reach of the average philatelist.

It would, therefore, seem that any imperfection of such dimensions as to warrant detection by this means, would at the same time be of such proportions as to not escape the eye of the veriest tyro.

The result of my meager investigation would seem to indicate that the method may have limited application to stamps in mint, O.G., condition. In stamps without gum any information derived by this means would seem extremely doubtful, while in the case of postally used copies any value accumulated by this means would be entirely valueless.

I would like to offer my thanks to C. E. R. for his suggestion of the possibilities, and hope that some other readers of the WEEKLY will at some time in the near future be able to offer further light on the subject.

MOUNTING A COLLECTION OF COVERS WITHOUT STAMPS

When I first started stamp hunting, five years ago, I became interested in these very attractive old covers.

I began putting aside the finest example of each distinctive variety, and as I have been fortunate in having a large number, something like ten thousand, to select from, I acquired many very interesting and scarce varieties.

This last Fall I decided to mount these, and as I had never seen a collection of them, had no criterion to go by. I chose the Lincoln loose-leaf album, and now have two albums mounted, which have so far been exhibited in Cleveland, Buffalo, and Providence.

They have been greatly admired, and as I have been complimented on my classification and mounting, I will describe same, not necessarily as a guide, but as a help to others who are confronted with the same problem.

I chose the Lincoln album on account of its size, being slightly larger than the average loose-leaf album. In mounting, I found three ordinary size, or smaller covers could be easily mounted on a page, or two larger, or bulky ones.

First of all, I went over the entire lot, refolding and creasing those that required it, and cleaning those that were at all soiled, with art gum.

The next thing to do was to classify them, previous to sorting.

After a careful study of those I had, I decided on the following classifications:

(A)—Very old covers.

In this class I included all covers prior to 1845 that had no distinctive features entitling them to a place in some other class.

This included even some of the larger cities, where a century ago it was customary to abbreviate the name in the postmark.

Many of the postmarks of that period were fancy, usually elliptical, and the color most often red. The earliest year dated I have is Tallahassee, Florida, 1842.

(B)—Franked and Free. This includes Government Departments, Postmaster's, Senator's. Members of Congress, also Soldiers and Sailors.

(C)—Locals, Steamboat, Railroad, Express, and similar carriers.

(D)—Forwarded and missent. These are especially attractive, since they have two or more postmarks, often in different colors, besides other interesting marks, and show odd rates for forwarding charges.

(E)—Odd rates. As I collect only stamped rates, in this class, the variety is not great. These I arranged in numerical order, starting with 1c and ending with 40c, the highest I have.

(F)—Foreign addressed to the United States. These are probably the most showy of all, as in addition to the foreign postmarks, various paid and ship marks, they have often American stamped marks. Often the ship is designated in writing by the sender, and may be a famous one. I have for example, the "Great Eastern."

(G)—Confederate States. These are hard to find, but were used by many Southern postmasters during the period after secession and prior to the issue of either postmaster's provisionals or the regular Confederate adhesives.

Many resurrected their old stamps of pre-stamp days, while others had new ones made.

(H)—Ten-cent rate.

(I)—Five-cent rate.

(J)—Three-cent rate.

These latter three classes I subdivided as follows:

(1)—Two colors. Example—red postmark with black or blue "Paid."

(2)—Odd colors. Purple, brown, green, etc.

(3)—Blue—Red—Black—each color by itself, subdivided as follows:

(G)—Plain figures.

In mounting, I placed two hinges at top, and one at bottom, hinging as tightly as possible.

I have also mounted only one or two covers to a page now and then, to leave room for new acquisitions.

In the February American Philatelist, those of you who are members of the A. P. S. will find my offer to loan my collection to all A. P. S. Branches for exhibition purposes.—MacLaren's Stamp Hunter.

STRAGGLING ITEMS:—

THERE has been announced a 3c foreign single and a 3c foreign reply postal card of new design in compliance with the action of the Universal Postal Congress at Stockholm. This 3c rate of postage for foreign countries became effective October 1, 1925. The old 2c rate will continue in force on postcards to Canada, Spain and Colonies, and the Pan-American countries. C. E. Nickles sends us a first day 3c single dated Washington, February 1. Thanks.

THE Ford airmail flights were postponed from Feb. 1 to Feb. 15, for the reason that the proposed 10c airmail stamp could not be made ready in time for the original date.

IT may interest your readers to know that plans are nearing completion for an attempted non-stop flight across the North Atlantic by the Irish Free State Air Force. The take-off will be from Clifton on the west Irish coast at the point where Captain Alcock alighted in 1919, after the first eastward transatlantic flight. If the Irish attempt succeeds, it will be the first non-stop westward flight.—G. V. STEWART.

A DOZEN stamp collectors in St. Johnsbury, Vt., composed of adult collectors of both sexes and a group of enthusiastic boys have formed the St. Johnsbury Stamp Club with the following officers: Pres., Arthur F. Stone; vice-pres., Paul R. Washburne; secy.-treas., John L. Steele. Their first item of business was to subscribe for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY for the reading room of the Athenaeum where is also on file the American Philatelist, donated by one of the members. The club will meet twice a month through the winter season and expects to add materially to its membership. Several of the members have collections that are especially rich in early United States and North American issues while in the collection at the Fairbanks Museum are two specimens of the first issue of Natal.

WASHINGTON --- FIRST ON OUR STAMPS

By C. A. HOWES.

"To the memory of the man, first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen!" Thus spoke Gen. Henry Lee in his eulogy on George Washington delivered in Congress on December 26, 1799. And the philatelists of a century later might add: "first and foremost on the postal issues of his country."

As is well known, the United States was somewhat slow in adopting the English system of prepayment of postage by means of stamps, which also accompanied a sweeping reduction in postal charges, and which took effect on May 1, 1840. Several other countries recognized the advantages of the new scheme before this country took any action in the matter, even the South American Empire of Brazil being four years ahead of us. But at last popular clamor caused Congress to move in the matter, and by the act of March 3, 1845, the previous heavy letter charges, regulated by the distance traversed, were abolished and the single rate made uniform at five cents for all distances under three thousand miles. In the same act was a provision for the adoption of the English system of prepayment by means of adhesive stamps, but this was stricken out at the last minute.

But if Congress was so conservative in making innovations, the various postmasters throughout the country were at least awake to the advantages which the postage stamp system offered. Hence the various "Postmasters' Provisionals," which might never have appeared if the clause spoken of had not been stricken from the law of 1845. This law also accounts for their being all of five or ten cent denomination—the first for single letters, as already noted; the second for double letters or those going beyond the limit of three thousand miles.

Among these provisionals, the best known and most common is perhaps that of the Postmaster of New York, Robert H. Morris. It is fortunate for the purpose of this article that this stamp was of private make since it can therefore be illustrated without hindrance from the Post Office Inspectors. Many foreign countries are vastly more liberal than our own in this regard, allowing reproductions of their stamps for legitimate, illustrative or educational purposes; but our own is so strict that the outlawed and demonetized issues of 1847 and 1851-57 cannot even be reproduced.

This handsome stamp made its appearance in July, 1845, and was the first stamp on Government mail to bear a portrait. Naturally, perhaps, the subject selected was America's first citizen, the greatest man the Republic had produced up to that time—the immortal George Washington. It was not till a year later that its only companion Postmaster's stamp to bear a portrait—that of Millbury, Mass.—made its appearance, the idea as well as the portrait being acknowledged to have been suggested by the receipt of mail from New York bearing the stamps of that office.

When at last Congress found that the postage stamp was a thing that could not be evaded, it finally passed an act on March 3, 1847, authorizing the preparation and use of the Government stamps, and prohibiting the further use of any issued by postmasters on and after July 1 of that year. The Government stamps were not ready until August 5, however, when they appeared in the two values we should expect from the postal rates—five and ten cents. In this issue and that of 1869, as will be seen. Washington's features did not appear upon the value in most common use for letter mail, as they have in all other cases, barring the commemorative series. Other values, however, were honored with his portrait in the early issues, most all being the same as that upon the New York stamp. This portrait is known as "Stuart's portrait," or more accurately, perhaps, as the "Athenæum portrait."

If the collector will glance through his collection of United States stamps, he will find this picture of Washington appearing upon the following varieties:

Issue of 1847, 10c.
Issue of 1851-7, 10c, 12c, 24c.
Issue of 1861-8, 10c, 12c, 24c.
Issue of 1869, 6c.
Issue of 1902, 2c.
Issue of 1903, 2c.

The story of this portrait, the best known likeness of the "Father of His Country," should be familiar to all. The artist was Gilbert Charles Stuart, an American painter, who was in England until after the Revolution. He then became desirous of painting his most illustrious countryman, and returned for the express purpose. While Congress was in session at Philadelphia in 1794, Stuart went thither with letters of introduction to Washington from John Jay. He first met his famous subject on a reception evening, and was greeted by him with dignified cordiality. Familiar as was the artist with eminent men, he afterwards declared that no human being ever awakened in him the sentiment of reverence to such a degree. For a moment he lost his self-possession—with him an experience quite unprecedented—and it was not until several interviews that he felt himself enough at home with his sitter to give the requisite concentration of mind to his work.

The portrait itself was finished in due course, but the background was never filled in, and in that condition it still remains. At the same time he also painted a portrait of Martha Washington, which remains in like condition. Concerning these portraits Miss Stuart says: "When General and Mrs. Washington took their last sittings, my father told Washington it would be of great importance to him to retain the originals, to which Washington replied: 'Certainly, Mr. Stuart, if they are of any consequence to you; I shall be perfectly satisfied with copies from your hand, as it will be impossible for me to sit again at present.' The copies made from the originals were for Mount Vernon. A short time after these last pictures were finished, the President called on my father to express the perfect satisfaction of Mrs. Washington and himself at his success."

The above extract apparently refutes the common story to the effect that Stuart's first trial did not suit him and was erased; that the next attempt was the one under discussion, which was so successful that the artist did not want to part with it, keeping it "unfinished" as an excuse, while he made copies of it.

After the death of Stuart these two portraits were offered by his widow to the State of Massachusetts (the artist's home was in Boston) for the sum of one thousand dollars, which offer was declined. Subsequently an English gentleman offered ten thousand dollars for the pair; but while Mrs. Stuart was hesitating, thinking they ought to remain in America, he became impatient and departed. Some time after that, an offer of fifteen hundred dollars was accepted from the Washington Association and other gentlemen who, in 1831, presented them to the Boston Athenæum, whence the name usually applied to them. Here they remained for fifty years, when they were transferred to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, where they now are.

We give a cut of the Millbury stamp to show how much it does not look like Washington, although supposed to have been copied from the New York stamp. We also include a cut of one of the New York Carriers' stamps, for practically the same reason. The latter belonged first to a private delivery company, which so cut into the Post Office business that the Government practically bought them out by employing them, adding the name "United States" to the former title of "City Despatch Post." These were really the first stamps in this country and the first following the example of Great Britain. The Confederate States likewise chose to represent Washington on one of their issues, as will be seen by the 20c green of the 1863 issue (Scott's A9), and adopted the Athenæum portrait, which was very well reproduced.

It might be added, in passing, that the head of Martha Washington on the current 8 cent stamp is from the companion portrait of the Athenæum Washington, which was spoken of above.

But one other portrait of Washington has been employed upon the United States stamps. The ninety cent values of both the 1857 and 1861-8 issues present features of quite a different aspect from the venerable face of Stuart's. The original was a full length figure of Washington painted by John Trumbull, another American artist. He knew the General at the outbreak of the Revolution, when he was about forty-five and in the prime of life, and was with him again toward the close of the war in 1782-3. No other artist saw more of Washington under circumstances so favorable to a study of his person and character, and none was honored by him with more sittings.

Trumbull, in his autobiography, says; "In 1792 I was again in Philadelphia, and there painted the portrait of General Washington which is now placed in the gallery at New Haven, the best, in my estimation, which exists, in his heroic military character. The city of Charleston, South Carolina, intrusted William R. Smith, one of the Representatives of South Carolina, to employ me to paint for them a portrait of the great man, and I undertook it con amore (as the commission was unlimited), meaning to give his military character, in the most sublime moment of its exertion—the evening previous to the battle of Princeton; when viewing the vast superiority of his approaching enemy, and the impossibility of again crossing the Delaware, or retreating down the river, he conceives the plan of returning by a night march into the country from which he had just been driven, thus cutting off the enemy's communications, and destroying his depot of stores and provisions at Brunswick. I told the President my object; he entered into it warmly, and as the work advanced, we talked of the scene, its dangers, its almost desperation. He looked the scene again and I happily transferred to the canvas the lofty expression of his animated countenance, the high resolve to conquer or to perish. The result was, in my opinion, eminently successful, and the General was satisfied. But it did not meet the views of Mr. Smith. He admired, he was personally pleased, but he thought the city would be better satisfied with a more matter-of-fact likeness, such as they had recently seen him—calm, tranquil, peaceful. . . . Another was painted for Charleston, agreeable to their taste—a view of the city in the background, a house with scenery and plants of the climate; and when the State Society of the Cincinnati of Connecticut dissolved themselves, the first picture, at the expense of some of the members, was presented to Yale College.

Trumbull claimed that his portrait represented Washington as he knew him and as he was known to his associates the members of his military family. He said his aim was "to preserve the military character of the great original," and that "in the countenance of the hero the likeness, the mere map of his face, was

Superb United States With Fine Cancellations

At present we have in stock the finest lot of superb stamps with interesting cancellations we ever have held. One collection of twenty volumes contains only U. S. stamps issued from 1847 to 1888. There are no Postmasters' provisionals, no re-issues, no essays, no freaks, but just page after page of picked copies of regularly issued stamps. It offers a fine opportunity to replace some of those poor copies with more attractive ones. Plenty of colored cancellations, PAIDS, stars, shields, etc., and at lower prices than for several years because of the big stock we have built up "on the breaks".

If you collect cancellations on only one stamp or group of stamps our approval selections should be of use to you. Let us know what you are collecting and, if not known to us, please give trade references in first letter.

AS AN EXPERIMENT, WHY NOT SEND US A LIST OF COMMON U. S. BEFORE 1900 FOR WHICH YOU ARE WILLING TO PAY 80% OF CATALOG FOR FINE, CLASSIFIED COPIES.

NEW YORK STAMP EXHIBITION

Since the last release the Exhibition Committee has used every effort to perfect the program, and the preliminary prospectus was issued early in November with a request for suggestions. Due to the great interest shown and the many suggestions offered the Committee has revised the program and approved the following alterations:

CLASS I-A. — General Collection of United States. This class was added because of the strong demand for a class covering United States issues as a whole. According to the old arrangement a collector exhibiting a collection of United States stamps would be compelled to break it up and exhibit it in parts under the various sections; now, if he so desires, he can exhibit it as a whole in the new section.

THE RARITIES CLASS.—This class has been put back into the program and will be limited to fifty items—a block, sheet or reconstructed plate to count as one item. Stamps shown in the Rarities Class cannot be considered and will have no weight in any other class.

CLASS XV.—Historical and Educational Collections. This class will be increased in the number of sections, the exact number to be decided on later.

CLASS XVI. — The Air Mail sections are to be redivided and enlarged.

With the beginning of the new year the Ways and Means Committee has been reorganized with the following members: Theodore E. Steinway, Chairman, J. P. Benkard, A. H. Caspary, E. H. R. Green, T. C. Henry, S. P. Hessel, C. K. B. Nevin, C. E. Severn, A. H. Wilhelm.

JUDGES. — Additional to the list published in the program, the following acceptances to serve on the Jury have been received: P. T. Berry, Australia; Robert Walser, France; F. Reinhard, Switzerland; Alfred H. Caspary, Dr. Carroll Chase, Judge Robert S. Emerson, Major T. Charlton Henry and John N. Luff, United States.

BOOTHS OR STALLS.—Rules and regulations governing the allotment and use of booths or stalls approved by the Committee are given here in full:

Arrangement: Space for forty-seven booths has been provided as shown on the diagram of the exhibition floor, printed on page 2 of the program. The minimum space to be rented is 100 sq. ft. Any exhibitor may take space not exceeding 400 sq. ft. Space shall not be sub-let without consent of the Exhibition Committee.

Character of Exhibits: All exhibits shown in booths shall be appropriate to a philatelic exhibition and shall be subject to the approval of the Exhibition Committee.

Booth Equipment: The equipment for each booth furnished by the management includes floor covering, railings, back wall and sign. The back wall consists of fiber board and will be 8 feet high to the bottom of the sign giving 8 feet of clear wall space. The back walls will be gray panels divided with dark gray wood strips; all hand rails will be dark gray.

Exhibitors planning decorations, shelves, cases and counters in addition to the equipment furnished by the management can arrange for them through The Manhattan Exposition Construction Corp., Grand Central Palace, New York, which is prepared to handle any extra work at minimum cost.

The sign designated at the back of the booth is furnished by the management; lettering will be done in dark green and in block letters on an ecru (cream) ground. All signs will be at back of booths. Exhibitors may bring their own furniture and rugs to place in the booth if they desire.

Allotment of Booths: Choice of locations for booths will be disposed of to the highest bidder at auction in May, 1926. The successful bidder of each choice is entitled to designate the booth or booths desired and subsequent choices will be disposed of by auction in the same manner until all the alloted booth space has been sold. The amount paid for choice of booth is in addition to the rental.

Foreign and Out of Town Bidders: Foreign and out of town exhibitors unable to attend this auction should designate a New York representative to handle their bids.

Booth Rental: The rental for booths and stalls will be at the rate of $2.00 per square foot for the duration of the Exhibition; one half payable on application, balance by September 1st. Premium payment 10 days after the sale.

INSURANCE. — The Committee has received information that insurance can be obtained to any amount necessary to cover the exhibits amply. Further details will be published in due course and full information regarding specific cases can be obtained from the Secretary, Mr. Charles M. Ams.

A JAMAICAN PRIZE ESSAY

In a laudable effort to popularise the study and collection of the stamps of Jamaica, the Jamaica Philatelic Society is planning a series of prize essay competitions, of the first of which we give full particulars below.

The stamps which are to form the subject for the essay are the first series of Jamaican stamps, issued between 1860-1863, and comprising Nos. 1-13 in Messrs. Stanley Gibbons' current catalogue.

The rules and regulations which have been drafted by the Jamaican Society are as follows:—

Method of Submission.—The papers to be submitted to Mr. Fred. J. Melville, 14 Sudbourne Road, Brixton, London, S.W. 2, by August 2, 1926.

Copyright.—The copyright of the winning papers shall belong to the Jamaica Philatelic Society. The winning papers may be published, without the consent of the authors, by the Jamaica Philatelic Society, first in Jamaica, and afterwards in one or more journals in Great Britain and (or) elsewhere.

Awards.—First Prize $10.00; Second Prize $5.00. The Jamaica Philatelic Society reserves the right not to make any award if the judge considers that no such award should be made. The second prize shall not be awarded if fewer than three essays are received.

Decision.—The decision of the Judge on any question concerning the competition shall be final.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB

John Phillips, Jr., Kansas City, Mo.
Frank L. Coes, Worcester, Mass.
H. W. Mischler, Springfield, Ill.
Gretchen Steinlein, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our first application for membership in the Honor Club this week comes from John Phillips, Jr., of the Federal Reserve Bank, Kansas City, Mo. In remitting his check for $5 Mr. Phillips expresses appreciation of the WEEKLY, and wishes to provide against any interruption of his subscription for at least five years.

Mr. Coes' remittance of $10 represents a ten-years' renewal of his subscription and due reference is made to the fact elsewhere in this issue. We thank Mr. Coes for his expression of his loyal interest in and support of the WEEKLY.

Henry W. Mischler, of Springfield, Ill., accompanies his remittance of $5 with a few kind words that are appreciated. He writes that we are "the best philatelic periodical on the market", and we accept the compliment with our usual modesty. Mr. Mischler is salesman with the Frank Alvey Co. Inc., of Springfield, Mass.

It is with sincere pleasure that we add the name of Gretchen Steinlein, 1389 Putnam Av., Booklyn, N. Y. Not many ladies are members of our Club and this is the reason for the satisfaction with which we make her a member of the Honor Club.

THE S. P. A. AT CINCINNATI

By R. K. THOMSON.

One of the features of the convention of the Philatelic Americans in Cincinnati, August 9, 10 and 11, will be the award of a gold medal to the designer of the most artistic and attractive postage stamp, issued during the period July 1, 1925, to July 1, 1926. A member of the Cincinnati Collectors Club was proffered the medal in the belief that the collectors who derive so much pleasure from accumulating specimens of the engravers' and designers' art should show their appreciation of talent and skill.

The Cincinnati Club will be host of the convention, and the award will be announced at one of the sessions.

In order that every lover of stamps shall have an opportunity of expressing his opinion on the artistic merits of the stamps, collectors are invited to nominate their individual choice. The idea is to gain a consensus of popular opinion and the stamps having the most "votes" will be surveyed by a committee of artists from the Cincinnati Art Academy and engravers who will make the final choice.

If you desire to express your artistic views, write them briefly on a post card, nominate the stamp, by Scott's number and mail to E. J. Rudolph, secretary of the Cincinnati Collectors Club, care Business Men's Club, Cincinnati, Ohio. There are no conditions attached, members of all societies, clubs, and all collectors, whether allied with societies are included in this invitation to help find the most artistic stamp so the artist may receive a token of stamp collectors' appreciation.

The Cincinnati Club is planning to entertain the conventioners with a hospitality that will be a lifelong memory. It is no part of the entertainment committee to reveal too much in advance and some of the features will be deep secrets until the last moment. There will be excursions on the beautiful Ohio River, to places of historic and artistic interest and if you are inclined to express your opinions on the speed of horses, the races will be going on at Coney Island Track.

Preparation of the public mind is going on apace, the Collectors Club members have turned window dressers and frames of beautiful postage stamps form part of the attractive displays in many show windows. The libraries, high schools, universities and men's clubs down town are posting similar exhibits, so that the folks in Cincinnati are rapidly getting an idea of the importance and delights of stamp collecting.

The following committees have assumed their duties and all are in active operation. Arrangements: Dr. F. M. Coppock, W. L. Doepke, C. L. Millar; Entertainment: R. K. Thomson, L. G. Tedesche, M. D., Miss Helen Hussey; Credentials: C. D. Millar, G. C. Graves, M. D., M. H. Weber, E. J. Rudolph; Constitution: R. K. Thomson, R. M. Byland, C. E. Wing; Information and Publicity: R. K. Thomson, L. G. Tedesche, M. D., and N. J. Imfeld.

Knowledge Is Power = Dollars
Do you realize how often you "give up" or "pass by" a real rare variety thru lack of knowledge?
Let me explain: Denmark No. 2, 4rbs brown is known with over 150 different numeral cancellations. No. 1 is worth $0.20 but dozens of them are worth $5.00 to $10.00 each and a few are rarities.
All these and nearly all Danish varieties are priced in my new Detailed Priced Catalogue of Danish Stamps of 1851-1899. I quote prices of shades, pairs, strips of three, four, six, blocks, sheets, stamps on cover, cancellations, recuts and scores of Inverted Frames, never before priced.
Illustrated Catalogue, 52 pages, printed on one side only, price $1.00 postfree.
Books of used Danish Stamps can be sent on approval. [tf

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

W. R. Parker sends a fine lot of items, the first of which is a piece of a cover postmarked Chicago, Ill., upon which is a 3c green 1879, cancelled with a large man's head, in profile. No. 1. Then there are several covers from various towns in California with the name of the County in the postmark, Big Bend, Butte Co., Cal., on a 2c 1884 stamped envelope, the stamp being cancelled by a star in a circle. The postmark is 32mm in circumference, with the name of the town and county at the top, the abbreviated name of the state at the bottom, and the date in the center, in three lines.

Brush Creek, Butte Co., Cal., is the next one. This has a double circle, the outer one heavy, 29mm in diameter, the inner one very light. The name of the town is at the top, and those of the county and state, at the bottom. The date is in the center in three lines. Two 5c stamps of 1890 are on the cover, each canceled, with a large mss. N.

The first three letters of the next one are indistinct, but it appears to be Bigg's Station, Butte Co., Cal. This also has a heavy outer circle with a lighter one just inside it, the outer one being 32mm across. The name of the town is at the top, and of the county and state at the bottom. The date runs across the center in a single line, and above and below it are curved ornaments. This one is in blue, while the stamp, 2c 1883, is canceled by six heavy horizontal bars in black.

Three covers bear the postmark of Cherokee, Butte Co., Cal., one in black, one in blue, and the third in magenta, each has a single circle 32mm in diameter with the town name at the top and the county and state at the bottom. The date is in a single line across the center with two curved lines above and below it. The stamps are all 3c green. Two of them are cancelled by targets, the same color as the postmark, but the one with the blue postmark is penstroked. The dates are, purple 1878, black 1881, blue 1882.

Durham, Butte Co., Cal., is the same as the last, except for the name of the town. The stamps are 1c, 2c and 10c 1879, each canceled by a target. This seems to have been a very popular type of postmark for Butte County. Any other towns use it?

Then there is Elk Grove, Sac. Co., Cal., single circle 28mm across. The town is at the top, the county and state at the bottom, and the date in three lines. The 2c 1887 stamp has a target cancellation.

Again a double circle, the outer one heavy and 32mm. At the top Wheatland, at the bottom Yuba Co., Cal., and in one line across the center the date. The stamps are 6c embossed No. 2369, 3c and 10c, both re-engraved. All three are canceled with black smears.

Three covers each postmarked Eldorado, Cal., W. F. Tracy, P.M., and canceled with a solid black five pointed star are the next exhibit.

A 2c 1887 and a 2c 1890 are canceled by a tiny five pointed star with a larger star outside it. The outer one is made of lines only. The postmark at the top reads Bijou P.O., at the bottom, California, and the date in a single line crosses the center.

A 2c 1890 is tied to the cover by a double lined 34mm circle from Georgetown, Cal. At the bottom is C. F. Shepherd, P.M. The date is in a single line across the center with CAL above it and a scrolled ornament below.

A 2c 1883 has a large single circle with C. Winkelman, P.M., at the top, Greenwood, Cal., at the bottom, and the date in one line in the center, and a 2c 1887 has the same postmark on the stamp in purple.

Two covers show an oval 42 by 26mm, with Boston, Ga., at the top and J. Nevins Carson, P.M., at the bottom. The date is in one line above the center. Just above it is a short curved line, and just above the name of the Postmaster is a shorter wavy line. One has a 2c 1879 and the other a 2c 1883. Each stamp is canceled with a target.

A 3c green 1875 canceled "76" has a Peru, Mass., postmark. No. 2.

A 2c 1887 has an octagonal postmark, Georgetown, Cal., and the word WEST in large letters across the stamp, tying it to the cover. No. 3.

A large cover has a pair of 10c 1875 canceled with a quartered cork. The only postmark is San Francisco, Cal., St. Shp. Above the stamps the words United States Cons. (The rest of this word is torn away.) Evidently it is Consulate. Under this, Valparaiso, Chile. On the back is a large wax seal in which is impressed a design, not distinctly enough to be made out, but at the bottom the word Valparaiso can be plainly seen. Without doubt an example of U. S. stamps used in a foreign land.

A 6c and 12c Interior on one cover is the next item. Nice.

Then comes a block of four 6c 1875 with a 1c of the same issue on a large piece of a large cover postmarked, Port Hudson, La. In the center of the block is a target and at each corner is another target tying each stamp to the cover. Supply your own adjective.

Then we behold a 4c green, 30c 1879, and 2c red brown, on a large piece, each canceled by a large figure 5 in the style so much in vogue in the '40s but larger than most of them. No. 4.

And here is a 3c green canceled by an eight pointed star with an open center, and postmarked Strawberry Valley, Cal., in a big wavy circle. Never saw one like it.

Next is a cover showing a 1c and 2c 1875, each canceled by a large heavy type S in a rough circle. Postmark N..... San Juan, Cal.

Stars on 3c green in blue from Los Angeles, Cal., and Saint Charles, Minn.,

Danish West Indies

Less than 70 straight varieties ever issued from these small islands and even these are obsolete right now. Since the purchase of the islands by the United States, the demand for these stamps has been tremendous and the increase of 10% in catalogue value over 1925 prices is just a starter for the real boom which is bound to come. The offerings below are all in good condition and money cheerfully refunded, if not satisfactory.

EDITORIAL.

A valued correspondent at Washington says that he has reason to believe that a bill will be introduced in Congress providing for the issue of a commemorative stamp or stamps, and that while he "is not allowed to give particulars, collectors will be inclined to think that the tribute intended is one that is deserved." We shall wait further information eagerly enough, although a commemorative stamp or two nowadays does not create the hubbub that it did once upon a time.

Further, the authorities at Washington are of the opinion that the special stamp is a fitting vehicle for the expression of respect or gratitude to the person or subject that it exploits. Left to its own devices, it is somewhat doubtful whether the post office department would espouse the cause of additional issues, but it would base any omission on the fact that the usual business of the department is of such volume as to keep things lively and not on sentiment. Judging from the welcome that the commemorative issues receive from collectors, the department thinks that these stamps are acceptable to them and when political approval is given a proposed issue, the department cooperates as a matter of course.

The following letter has been received from Mr. J. J. Klemann, Jr., New York: "Further, in reference to the matter of eliminating the duty on canceled United States stamps it is proposed to obtain a department ruling eliminating the tax. Mr. Ackerman, with the co-operation of as many congressmen as he can get, will take up the matter with the Treasury Department with that end in view. If you get the opportunity, will you kindly write your congressman calling his attention to the state of affairs and ask him to confer wtih Congressman Ackerman in reference to this matter.". We shall adopt Mr. Klemann's suggestion, of course, and for the benefit of providing a concise form of petition, we cite this letter as written to his congressman by Mr. Klemann: "By reason of a ruling of the Treasury Department a tax of 25% is being collected on canceled United States postage stamps, which are brought into the United States from foreign countries. This I believe to be a regulation and not a law and I would appreciate it, if you would use your good offices to have this restriction removed, especially in view of the fact that there will be an International Philatelic Exhibition in New York in October of this year, and the restriction tends to work a hardship on American collectors. I would suggest that you confer with Congressman Ackerman in reference to this matter." We think that our legislators at Washington will be impressed by the interest that is being shown in support of the removal of the objectional clause. We are all interested in the success of the Exhibition and are eager to do what we can to remove any hampering restrictions.

Readers have noticed how Mr. Frank L. Coes, of Worcester, Mass., has been championing the cause of an organization that would combine all the divisions in our pursuit. He is engaged himself heart and soul in the work, and while he has the support of not a few adherents to the cause, he realizes that the scattered interest of a good many philatelic welfare workers must be concentrated if real progress is to be made. Mr. Coes approves the following call for action that has been offered by Mr. Tom V. Binmore, and it is likely that some definite course of procedure will be adopted at the meeting mentioned: "There is projected a meeting of accredited representatives of local, national and international stamp organizations to discuss ways and means for uniting all philately for the purpose of strengthening our ranks, dignifying our pursuit in public estimation and securing better co-operation between our different organizations and individuals. While those who have been working for the last year or two have considered carefully an agenda most likely to succeed, no one or group need feel sure that there is a tailor-made program, which will slight the needs of any section of the pursuit. The idea has met with universal commendation. The leaders have been asked to meet together and get things moving. Among those appointed by a large number of clubs are: Charles J. Phillips, Hugh M. Clark, Arthur O. Litt, R. C. Bach and Tom V. Binmore." This proposed organization is not antagonistic to any now in existence, but is to be based on the broadest of lines. It is intended to be a mobile force that will represent all classes who owe allegiance to philately and when once it becomes operative, the results will justify its existence. The meeting at New York should be productive of working ideas that could be operated to advantage. The Exhibition will mark a new era in philately and in order to keep pace with it, the advisability of preparing for greater things is not to be argued against.

Mr. S. Newbury, Chicago, whose early Colombian Republic are in the epic class and whose United States are very restful to the philatelic eye enjoyed his recent philatelic pilgrimage to Europe and Africa and now contemplates another trip in the opposite direction. On March 4th, Mr. Newbury will leave Chicago for Vancouver, where he will embark for New Zealand and Australia. He will remain among the South Sea Islands until August 1st. It is his expectation to return to Chicago about August 30th, in time to adjust business affairs in order to attend the Exhibition in New York. Incidentally, correspondents of Mr. Newbury may be guided by this information. Mr. Newbury is one of the best philatelic influences imaginable as he takes a collection or two with him on his travels and is keen to detect philatelic signs en route.

Transvaal is scheduled to have a "Union" new issue on sale January 1, 1926, which will attract attention, inasmuch as the set is to be a pictorial one and will present a departure of a marked character. Quoting from Mr. Valentine's stamp department of the Rand Daily Mail, Johannesburg, we read: "The stamps which are being manufactured overseas, will be pictorial designs and will be printed on the sheets alternately with English and Dutch inscriptions, so that two stamps of each value will be required by collectors. What the new denominations are to be I am unable to say, and I do not know if the new series will include a set of postage dues." It is understood that after the overseas printing of the new stamps becomes exhausted the later stamps will be printed at the Government Printing Department, Pretoria, and the surface indications would be that the printing abroad would be desirable, if only a normal supply was made. We are in receipt of two denominations of the new set, the ½d and the 1d, green and red, respectively, typographed and each with central design in black, that of the ½d being the head of a "beeste" and that of the 1d, an old-time vessel. The two stamps of the ½d, for instance, differ in their inscriptions, the Dutch equivalent of "South Africa" and "Postage-Revenue" being Sud Africa and Posseel-Inkomste, respectively. Should this innovation become popular, the polyglot nations may yield to the political persuasions of the hyphenated parts and give all the clans an inning.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP
JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK
J. Avery Wells Telephone Havemeyer 3350 J. VanKirk Wells

HEAR YE:—

Captain Thomas I. Porter, the head of the United States secreta service in Chicago gave up his post recently, at the age of nearly eighty years. Captain Porter is known to many philatelists, he having conducted many investigations in which their interests were involved. His work on behalf of the government has been valuable and his retirement marks the passing of a faithful officer and a man who won the regard of all, but those who deservedly were prosecuted by him.

Charles Lathrop Pack has donated 320 acres of timber for demonstration purposes of the science of forestry and this field laboratory, which is located at La Grande, Washington, has become the property of the University of Washington college of forestry.

Here is a sample of college humor from the Columbia Jester that misses a philatelic mark: "Please, could you change this here stamp? 'Tain't no manner o' use to no one. Father's licked it, mother's licked it, aunt's licked it, we've all licked it and 't won't stay on nohow."

A copy of a first day postal card issued February 1, 1926, the 3c red McKinley Postal Union card has been received from Mr. C. E. Nickles of Washington.

Our attention has been called to the illustration of a cartoon showing three high values of the present issue in their entirety. The correspondent says: "Who said that we cannot have photos of U. S. stamps?" We didn't do it, mister.

Mr. A. F. Henkels, Philadelphia, has sent us an envelope showing picture of the Citizens Volunteer Hospital, Philadelphia, Civil War period, that makes an interesting addition to Sanitary Fair pages.

The following readable account of the activities of stamp hunters appeared in the Indianapolis News, and we thank Mr. LeGrand Payne for the clipping:

"Though checkmated at the beginning of his search to obtain a creditable collection of postage stamps and cancellation marks on early letters in this country for the State Museum, Verne Patty, curator, with Jules Held, a local collector, obtained permission from county authorities to search the records in the Marion County Courthouse and was rewarded with fruitful results. Before that he searched the old files in the Statehouse, and found they had been rifled by collectors.

So successful was the search at the Courthouse, however, that one collector was sent to Harry S. New, postmaster-general, who in reply advised Mr. Patty that his 'very interesting and remarkable collection,' after an inventory had been made and filed with the philatelic bureau of the postal department, would be deposited for permanent preservation in the postal exhibits of the National Museum. A similar collection has been placed on exhibit in the Statehouse.

Perhaps the exhibit of first importance in the collection is a series of unstamped letters dated from 1835 to 1851. In those early times of our postal service a zoning system such as is employed now in the parcel post service was used, but the distance between points was not so much of major importance as the transportation facilities, according to Mr. Patty. If the mail was carried from one point to another in saddlebags by a lonely rider, the price of postage was apparently much greater than if carried by boat or steam railroad, though the latter be from a greater distance.

Postage stamps were first printed by the government in 1847, but did not come into common use until 1851. Prior to that time the local postmaster, when a letter was brought to him for mailing, weighed the volume, denoted the route it must travel and figured the cost. This amount he wrote in large figures in the corner of the envelope where the stamp is placed now, and, after receiving the total, stamped the face of the envelope with a rubber stamp leaving an imprint of the town and the day on which mailed.

Envelopes did not come into general use in this country until shortly before the Civil War period. The letter was folded and sealed with wax to form its own protection to the message within. The general appearance, however, was not dissimilar to the present average letter. Peculiarities in the spelling and abbreviations of towns and states are to be found on the letters in the collection at the Statehouse. I, In., Ia., and Ind., are all used as abbreviations for Indiana. City of Washington and Washington City were both commonly used on stamps on letters from Washington, D. C.

One of the letters mailed from Washington, December 22, 1835, shows that the sender paid 50 cents to have it delivered. 'It must be remembered that 50 cents was a heap of money in those days,' said the curator, in commenting on the cost of postage in the early nineteenth century. By the early fifties, however, the records show that some parts of Indiana could communicate with one another for only 5 cents.

Mr. Held has also sent a collection of the unstamped letters to the Field Museum of Chicago."

Washington News

I have recently learned that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has made 3c, 6c and 8c plates for use on the flat bed press with the star spacing—hence, these three denominations will appear in due course with the star imprint near the plate number. Heretofore, only the 2c denomination was obtainable in this condition. All of the ½c and 1½c plates have the wider spacing, but do not show the star in the upper right pane. This is not necessary for there is only the one type of plate—hence, they do not have to be distinguished from the normal variety.

In addition to the five varieties of the 2c, which I mentioned in my chronicle of February 8th, it is also possible to obtain the larger five point star above the plate number. Heretofore all of the side stars have been below. This new variety is found on plate 17189, 17207 and 17222.

I further learn that two additional plates have been made showing a five pointed star wth long thin points resembling a star fish. These have been etched in by hand instead of being stamped in by a punch as has been usual in the past. I have not learned definitely as to what plates these are found upon, but if anv of our readers locate them, I would like to see blocks showing the variety.

Another oddity which has not been mentioned heretofore is what is known by the Bureau as an "O" plate. The letter "O" about one-eighth inch high appears in the upper right hand corner of the margin of printed sheet. I have not seen an actual impression from such a plate, but they will no doubt appear in short order. The "O" plate is identical with the other with the exception of the fact that the plate was hardened in oil instead of cyanide, which is the usual method. Plates hardened in oil evidently have some peculiarity that tends to lengthen the life of the plate.

"Specimen" Departments

Mr. Wilh. E. Haack submits two copies of the 1c green State Department with "Specimen" overprints and calls my attention to the fact that one of the copies has the normal overprint and that he believes the second copy to be the "Sepcimen" error corrected. After comparing the variety with dozens of normal copies, as well as with copies of the actual error, I have reached the same conclusion. The stamp with the error corrected shows the "SPEC" somewhat higher than the "MEN" and the first four letters look to be slightly larger. I have not had an opportunity as yet of checking up a sheet of the "Specimen" stamps with the error corrected. The two copies submitted are on the soft paper, which is a late printing and which by the way is not known with the "Sepcimen" error surcharge.

Air Mail News

By the time these notes appear the first contract air mail service will have been inaugurated, the routes running from Detroit and Dearborn to both Cleveland and Chicago. This service was inaugurated on Monday, February 15th, the special 10c stamp to be used for the service, having been placed on sale in these four cities as well as in Washington on the Saturday previous, namely Feb. 13th. I have not as yet seen the stamp although I am informed it is very attractive, and because of its size may be readily noted by the postal clerks in assorting mail. With the rates for contract mail service differing from the Government service, there is likely to be a considerable amount of confusion especially where a letter goes part one way and part the other. It is expected that the further routes for which contracts have been awarded will be ready to open shortly, so that by Spring several will be in operation.

BULGARIA.—Messrs. Bright & Son show us the 1 leva "Sunday charity" label mentioned in these notes a fortnight ago, together with two others, viz., 2 leva green and 5 leva blue, these being in a uniform design, depicting an imposing mansion or palace in a transverse oval frame, flanked by iron telegraph cable posts of the type one sees on the Continent. The subject of the 1l label is also an imposing building, but in this case the view is a distant one. The inscriptions are in native characters—in two lines at top and one line at foot of the 1l, and in two lines at foot only of the other two denominations. We understand supplies of the 1l are already exhausted.—Stamp Collecting.

FRANCE.—The Economist Stamp Co., Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts advise that the 15c, Sower type, has been issued in brown. Copies have been received from the above mentioned correspondents.

GIBRALTAR.—We have received official information that the stock of the 4sh stamps is exhausted at the Post Office and as this value is no longer required no further stock will be ordered. We have received the 2sh script watermark in quite a new shade, mauve and blue on blue, whilst the old shade is deep purple or grey-purple and blue on blue. No more of the old shade are obtainable at the Post Office—Whitfield King's Monthly Bulletin.

KUWAIT. — The Philatelic Journal of India states on official authority that no stamps overprinted "KOWEIT" were either printed or issued. The numerous rumors regarding the existence of such stamps must therefore be set aside as false. We understand that the future of the Kuwait Post Office is still under discussion. The overprinted stamps may therefore have a longer life than was prophesied.—Stamp Collecting.

MONACO.—Whitfield King & Co. report that they have received from this country the following new postage due stamps: 20c brown on buff, 60c grey and 1fr lake on cream.

MOZAMBIQUE.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us a 50c Charity stamp of black and gold colors. It has the inscription at the top "Sociedade Humanitaria" in white letters and below in gold "Cruz do Oriente." In the centre is a wheel like figure with a shield and on the shield a gold cross with the letters "S H C O." At the base is the name of the province with "Porte Franco" below. Upon this stamp is the two line surcharge "50 Centavos" in black.

SYRACUSE STAMP EXHIBIT

We have received from A. A. Leve of yracuse, N. Y., a clipping from a local aper that we are very pleased to re-rint. It gives the particulars of the nnual exhibit of the Syracuse Stamp lub, which is running through the month f February. It is being held in the ibrary building and is receiving much ttention. The clipping follows:—

Much interest is manifest in the Syra-use Stamp Club's annual exhibition at e public library, and the cases on the cond floor of the library building were rrounded by library visitors yesterday. H. C. Skinner has one case filled with ew European issues, including many re Rumanian and Hungarian occupation amps, nearly all unused. Dr. L. P. eming, president of the club, has a case Bavarian stamps, including the very re "No. 1". Every issue of Bavaria represented, and in some issues the sets e complete.

A. A. Leve is displaying accessories ed by stamp collectors. He also has a se of air-mail covers and another of irst day" covers, or covers bearing all e later issues, canceled on the first day issue. He is showing two North Pole rds, carried by Amundsen last year to ithin 150 miles of the pole.

There is also a metal toy soldier that me in the only freight shipment that er crossed the Atlantic by air. These y soldiers were distributed to persons ho aided the Christmas fund in Phila-lphia. They were consigned to John anamaker, and the first one was sent President Coolidge.

Changes will be made next Monday. uring the last week of the exhibition, hich runs through February, each mem-er of the stamp club will show a card his best stamp gems.

and on 2c green from Fyffe, California, and in purple from Eldorado, Cal., on a 2c green stamped envelope and a 2c 1890.

A perfect double lined Maltese Cross on a 3c re-engraved postmarked Auburn, Ala., in a double lined circle, the outer line being one of the fancy designs used at that period.

You probably all know the monogram P.O.D. in a circle. Here is the first one that has come my way on a cover. The stamp is a 2c 1883 and the postmark Cowlesville, N. Y. What other towns used this monogram?

Attica, N. Y., is present with a 3c green, grilled, canceled by a large A.

And here are three covers postmarked Clarksville, Cal., in magenta. The postmark is shaped like the ticket office stamps used in the '70s. The stamps are a 2c stamped envelope of 1884, another of 1887, and a 2c adhesive of 1890.

Cool, Cal., is represented on a 2c stamped envelope of 1884 with the U. S. mail monogram on the stamp, and Bishop Creek, California, presents a large oval postmark and a Maltese cross in purple.

And last, but far from being least, is a whole herd of mules, 24 of 'em, all kicking. And not one from Port Townsend.

Two are from Susanville, Cal. Mr. Parker found these and one other. The stamps are 3c green. One of them has a team of mules on it. The other only one, mostly off the stamp.

Six covers are from Forbestown, Cal. My memory may be playing tricks, but it seems that a few covers from this place were unearthed a few years ago by friend Jones? Two of these covers have on each two 1c stamps 1881, two have a single, and one, two copies of the 2c 1883, and one a 3c 1879. Off cover and on pieces of covers are one 2c 1883, six 2c 1887, seven 2c 1890, in black, two 1c 1887 and one 2c 1890 in purple. This town used the cancellation for at least nine years, as evidenced by the dates, and perhaps more will come to light as time goes on.

Our thanks are surely due to Mr. Parker for a real treat.

ODD BITS:—

THE February number of the Aero-Newsletter is at hand from the editor, Geo. W. Angers, Box 412, Springfield, Mass. It is a very interesting number, not the least of its attractions being no fewer than nine propositions for membership. Various maps showing the routes of air service are accompanied by informative articles. Sample copy of the March issue and possibly February may be obtained by sending remittance to cover postage.

WE have received from the Alabama State Department of Archives and History its "Monthly Bulletin" for February and March. It is a very interesting mimeograph production and contains considerable matter of interest to the stamp collector. There is an article on "Alabama County Seats and their Early Postal Affairs" continuing the series begun in May, 1925, by Mr. Peter Brannon. The article is freely illustrated and we note some facsimiles of covers from offices where the postmaster had no handstamp.

AGAIN Jupiter nods. In our issue of January 4, we reprinted an article from the London Times headed "Splendid Stamp Prices" and gave credit to Fred J. Melville. Our old friend Douglas B. Armstrong very courteously and yet very justly calls our attention to the fact that he is the one entitled to the credit for writing the article in question. We humbly and publicly beg his pardon. For the past fifteen years Mr. Armstrong has been the philatelic correspondent of the Thunderer and during that time has contributed a tremendous amount of matter on philatelic topics.

THE Martauco Stamp Co., 45 W. 45 St., N. Y. City, has issued under date of March, a booklet of wholesale offerings. It will be sent to any address upon request.

"THE Forestry Primer" is the name of a very handsome booklet sent out by the American Tree Association, 1214 16th St., N. W., Washington, D. C. It is published to mark the semi-centennial of the first step in forestry by the United States government, and "to help the coming generation of Americans to profit by the lessons of the past." The mention of the word "forestry" carries with it immediately by association the name of Charles Lathrop Pack, who is the president of the Association, and Mr. Pack is the author of the Primer. There are fourteen lessons, all of which are illustrated, and the subject matter is presented in a very attractive manner. Evidently the book is circulated free of cost, as no price is mentioned. Our subscribers will do well to write for a specimen copy, enclosing postage for reply.

TOM V. BINMORE, 575 Fifth Ave., Long Island City, N. Y., would like the address of one Joseph Aaron who failed to include it in an order for stamps.

A. H. PIKE, of Binghamton, N. Y., would like to know what is being done by local philatelic societies in the building up of libraries. It is a well-known fact that the Collectors Club of New York City has a very fine library, but what are other clubs doing in this direction? Mr. Pike feels that a larger interest should be taken in philatelic literature, and our columns are open for such matter as will be helpful in stimulating any interest in the literature of our hobby.

A NICE advertising feature is being employed by the Fellowship Stamp Agency. The current number of the "Stamp Hinge" published by this firm (which by the way is a very interesting house organ published monthly at 18c per year), is mailed from Kerman, Cal., under a 1½c precancelled stamp. This enterprise will be greatly appreciated by everyone who receives the list, and the firm should be able to build up a strong mailing list.

POT-POURRI:—

ELSEWHERE in this issue will be found the advertising of David O. Plotz, Albany, N. Y. Mr. Plotz has advertised in our paper in the past. He has recently purchased the stock of William Southworth, Cooperstown, N. Y., which with a recent find of old covers and his own stock places him in a position to handle want-lists.

THE new triangular stamps issued by the Union of South Africa are greatly deplored by the Philatelic Magazine. They call the issue of these stamps "a sorry exhibition" and "a debauchery of the postal service". The editor believes that the promotors of these stamps are capitalizing them upon the fame of the original Cape triangulars, and that the stamps are issued "for the sole purpose of wheedling money out of collectors". This seems strong language, but it is probably warranted.

THE Pacific Stamp Co. recently sent us twelve new subscriptions in a single mail. This is a splendid piece of work and it shows what an interest in the WEEKLY will accomplish. This company is one of the number which feels that it does not hurt their business to help in increasing our subscription list.

AN International Exhibition will be held at Frankfort, Germany, from March 28, to April 5. We have as yet heard of no U. S. collectors who propose to attend.

AMOS A. ETTINGER, Easton, Pa., sold thru our columns a few years ago his collection and this week he uses a half page to sell a second one.

FEB. 8 the United Stamp Co., advertised Section 3 of the U. S. Album (Revenues) as a section of 60 pages at $1.00. This is wrong. It is a section of 100 pages at $1.50 and we hope this paragraph will offset any trouble the firm is put to answering letters. Anyway, it gives us a chance to commend the Marquette Sectional Album as a splendid Album production.

THE Suburban Stamp & Curio Club, of Boston, Mass., is to be congratulated on having recently held its 300th fortnightly meeting. Organized in March, 1912, this progressive club has met regularly on the 1st and 3rd Thursdays of every month since then, during which time it has grown from a mere handful (8—to be exact) of enthusiasts who met in each others' houses to one of the largest clubs of its kind in this part of the country. Its membership list is now approaching the 150 mark, and the meetings are held in a big room at the Quincy House, Boston, where, through the efforts of an energetic and effective Entertainment Committee, the members are always assured of an interesting meeting. The 300th meeting of any organization is well worth celebrating, and the "Suburban Club" will hold a 300th Meeting Celebration Dinner at the Hotel Bellevue, Boston, on February 24 to mark the event. Particulars later.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

WASHINGTON—FIRST ON OUR STAMPS.

not all that was attempted." It is a good portrait, and many artists affirm that, from internal evidence, it is doubtless the truest likeness of the man.

We now come to the third representation of Washington, the profile bust. The Act of Congress approved March 3, 1851, reduced the single rate for letters to three cents, and the new issue required in consequence shows the features of the first President in this form upon the stamp for ordinary correspondence. A list of the stamps bearing this profile bust is as follows:

Issue of 1851-7, 3 cents.
" 1861-8, 3 cents.
" 1870, 3 cents.
Departments, 1873, 3 cents.
Issue of 1883-8, 2 cents.
" 1890-4, 2 cents.
" 1908-9, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 8c, 10c, 13c, 15c, 50c, $1.00.
" 1910, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 8c, 10c, and 15c.
" 1912, 1, 2, 7 cents.
" 1914-5, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7c.
" 1916-7, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7c.
" 1917-8, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7c.
" 1922-23, 2 cents.
Newspaper, 1865, 5 cents.

This likeness is taken from the marble statue of Washington in the State Capitol at Richmond, Virginia. The story of the statue is as follows: The General Assembly of Virginia, soon after the declaration of peace that closed the Revolution, decreed a statue to General Washington, to be placed in the Capitol in Richmond, and "to be the finest marble and best workmanship." Jefferson and Franklin, being then in Paris, were authorised to select the artist, and they choose Jean Antoin Houdon. Concerning him Jefferson wrote: "He is the finest statuary of his age," and again: "He is without rivalship in it, being employed in all parts of Europe in whatever is capital."

It was necessary for Houdon to see Washington to take his figure, and the latter wrote him: "It will give me pleasure, Sir, to welcome you to this seat of my retirement, and whatever I have or can procure that is necessary to your purposes or convenient or agreeable to your wishes, you must freely command, as inclination to oblige you will be among the last things in which I shall be found deficient."

Houdon reached Mount Vernon on October 3, 1785, and remained a fortnight, during which time he took a cast of the face, head and upper part of the body, and minute measurements of his person, and studies of the costume of the period which Washington daily wore.

The artist was to receive as compensation for the statue and pedestal, 25,000 livres, or $5,000, and his expenses for the trip to Virginia reimbursed to him. In addition, his life was to be insured during the time of his absence from France. The contract allowed him three years for the completion of the statue, and it was done within the time. The State Capitol, however, was not finished, so that the statue was not shipped until its site was ready for it. It was finally erected in the quadrangle of the Capitol on May 14, 1796.

The statue is a remarkably fine piece of chiseling, the treatment of the face being so delicate that it needs but the flush of natural color to make it absolutely lifelike. It presents the figure erect, the head uncovered, the sword on the left, the cane in the right hand, and the fasces and plow at his side. It is exact life size—six feet two inches in height. Those acquainted with Washington have pronounced this statue the best representation of his person which exists. Lafayette, on his visit to America in later years, pronounced it a "facsimile of Washington's person." It therefore well deserves the place which has been given it upon the stamps of our country.

Besides the adhesive stamps, the Houdon bust has been placed upon all the envelope stamps bearing Washington's head. All the Civil War revenues, also, had Stuart's portrait as an invariable centerpiece down to 1875. On the proprietary issue from 1875 to 1881, however, Houdon's profile bust appears. The Stuart portrait will likewise be found upon the $100 revenue stamp of 1917, a beer stamp of 1878, a tabacco stamp of 1868, a snuff stamp of 1872, and a few stamps for imported cigars.

SEEN AND HEARD:—

ERNEST A. SMITH of Topeka, Kans., has resigned from his position in the Post Office and will be the leader in a new philatelic activity in that city. He has opened an office for "Ye Pilgrim Stamp Shoppe". Mr. Smith, who has been a collector for more than thirty years will now market part of his extensive holdings. With more than two hundred collectors in the city Mr. Smith believes that Topeka should have a large place on the philatelic map. H. T. Anderson of El Paso will be Mr. Smith's assistant in this new activity.

A GOOD many stamp collectors are real students of their stamps, but are somewhat indifferent to postal rates. Otherwise they would know that the rate to Spain and its colonies is only 2c per ounce. They would also know that 2c must be added to the zone rate in sending a parcel, in accord with recent legislation.

HAROLD B. MAYNHAM, American Consular Agent at Medellin, Colombia, advises the Stamp Trade Protective Association of Kalamazoo, Mich., that Henry James who has been trading in stamps at Medellin is unreliable and a warning is issued cautioning persons not to have dealings with him.

A POSTAGE stamp known as the "Martin City Post Stamp," issued in the city of Charleston between the years 1858-60, by a postmaster of the name of Marion, has been sold by Fritz Kracke of Charleston, S. C., for $500. This specimen was disposed of to the Nassau Stamp Company of New York The stamp is of a two-cent denomination. —Press clipping from Emil J. Rall.

THE annual banquet of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors Society was held February 16, at the Marquette Hotel.

VOLUME 1, Number 1 of the "Alvonis Bulletin" under date of Feb. 1, 1926, but "issued at intervals" is at hand. It lists a goodly number of bargains and a sample copy will be sent on request.

THE Marks Stamp Co. has renewed its advertising contract of 5,000 lines for the year 1926. This firm has been a large user of space for many years.

THE Schoolboys' Exhibition recently held in the Royal Horticultural Hall, London, was a marked success. The postage stamp section was under the direction of Fred J. Melville, who states that the hall was crowded all the time and the right class of boys and girls was introduced to the pleasures of stamp collecting. The dealers did a very prosperous business throughout the week and it will probably become an annual affair.

HARRY L. TAITE, of the firm of Hansen & Taite, Delaware, Ohio, is quite ill with erysipelas at a local hospital. It will be some weeks before he is able to attend to the details of business.

In preparing these it was our endeavor to give the most value possible.

W. DORNING BECKTON

Noted British Philatelist Who Will Take a Keen Interest in the New York Exhibition

By WILLARD O. WYLIE

"I have seen many of the great exhibitions in Europe, beginning with the one instituted by the Philatelic Society of London, in the Portman Rooms, London, in 1890, which was the first I attended, and yet the more I see the more it makes me feel how much there is yet to learn".—W. Dorning Beckton.

A great many philatelists have a natural repugnance towards publicity of any kind, and the publishers of a newspaper recognize the fact that there are many who dislike to be interviewed. The great Exhibition to be held in New York in October will have in attendance a large number of celebrated philatelists. Our readers will be interested in knowing about them and their philatelic possessions. The Board of Judges comprises a large number of noted philatelists and one of these is W. Dorning Beckton of Manchester, England.

Mr. Beckton very frankly meets our request for some facts about his career with the statement that he does not like self-advertising. Several so-called interviews have appeared during the last twenty-five years in the English journals, but all of these have been written without his being asked for any information. Mr. Beckton realizes that the forth-coming International Exhibition is one in which all serious collectors should be interested and very generously furnished us with the information upon which this article is based.

The stamp collection of Mr. Beckton was started in 1879, and he has never ceased collecting and during all this time has never sold a stamp. As a general collector he has taken all countries up to 1890. In that year he decided that to continue keeping up with the new issues of the world would be an impossible task and this decision he has never had any cause to regret. He specializes in many colonies and countries, with a penchant for the stamps of Europe, particularly the Italian States, Greece, Roumania, Spain, Norway, Denmark, Servia, Afghanistan, Indian Native States, Straits Settlements and the Protected States, and British Africa.

Mr. Beckton first exhibited at the International Exhibition in London in 1897. This Exhibition was promoted by the Royal Philatelic Society, then the Philatelic Society of London. He was awarded two gold and two silver medals with four exhibits. At Paris in 1900 he won gold, silver and bronze medals with three exhibits, and at Berlin in 1904, gold and silver medals with two exhibits. Premier awards with single exhibits have also been obtained at Calcutta in 1898 and other places. This is a notable record, and moreover it can be said in connection with these awards that Mr. Beckton never exhibited the same country twice.

At the International Exhibition under the auspices of the Royal Philatelic Society London, in 1906, having accepted the position of Judge, Mr. Beckton decided not to exhibit again. One may well imagine that our friend might be content with the successes he had attained. He has served as judge at various exhibitions, including the one at The Hague, and was president of the Jury at the last big exhibition in London in 1923, promoted by the Junior Philatelic Society.

Besides being a student of stamps and active from the collecting standpoint, he has also written numerous articles, which are to be found in the Philatelic Record, the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, the Monthly Journal and the London Philatelist. His first article of importance was upon the stamps of Greece, first type of head, this article appearing in the Philatelic Record in 1896. His most recent contributions to the philatelic press are those upon Corrientes, the local surcharges of British Honduras, and "Retouches of the Sher Ali Issues of Afghanistan". The last two articles appeared during last year.

That Mr. Beckton thinks well of philatelic societies is demonstrated by the fact that he is president of the Manchester Philatelic Society, and has held that office for thirty-one years. This seems like a record surely, and if there be one who has served officially for a longer time as the chief executive we should like to know it. He is vice-president of the Royal Philatelic Society of London and member of the Expert Committee of the same society.

It will be a great pleasure for the philatelists of the U. S. to meet one who has given so much energy, time and interest to philately as has Mr. Beckton.

ACTIVITIES OF MR. BECKTON

By CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

I have known Mr. Beckton for some thirty years or more and have visited at his home in Manchester and have met him on a great many occasions.

He is one of the few collectors that has never parted with a stamp and is a thorough student of every country that he takes up. He began collecting in 1879 and his collection is particularly noted for the very large number of blocks, panes and sheets that it contains. In the quite early days he recognized the importance in the study of philately of accumulating sheets and blocks and he bought very largely from the old stock of J. B. Moens.

One can see in this collection sheets and blocks of stamps showing varieties that I do not think could be met with elsewhere. For instance, in Griqualand, the interesting studies that have been made of this country could not have been compiled without the Beckton collection, as he has a large number of very valuable and interesting blocks and sheets showing various settings and arrangements of the large "G's".

Mr. Beckton was one of the founders of the Manchester Philatelic Society. He has been President for many years and he is a member of the Council of the Royal Philatelic Society. He is also a member of the Expert Committee and he is widely known as a writer and as a philatelist of the first rank. Some of his most important work has been done upon the Stamps of Greece upon which he wrote a monograph which is invaluable to the student.

In conjunction with the late Mr. Duerst, he wrote a very important article upon the early issues of Roumania. In addition to the above the following are a few of the more important contributions that he has made to philatelic study.

"Retouches of the Early Issues of Afghanistan" in the London Philatelist of last year.

"Bangkok" in the Monthly Journal, Volume XII.

"Bolivia" published in the Philatelic Journal of Gt. Britain, Volume XXVIII.

"The Local Surcharges of British Honduras" in the London Philatelist, Volume XXXIV.

An important series of illustrated articles on the very interesting "Local Production of Corrientes," London Philatelist, Volume XXVI.

"Early Issues of Fiji" in the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly, Volume XVIII.

"Johore" in Gibbons Monthly Journal, Volume XI.

"Liberia Issues of 1880", the Philatelic Journal of Gt. Britain, Volume XXXV.

"Mexico", Philatelic Record, Volume IX.

"Rarities of the 1d on 3d Orange Free States", Gibbons Monthly Journal, Volume XI.

"Re-entries", London Philatelist, Volume XXVII.

"Servia" an important series of articles on the early issues, London Philatelist, Volume XXV.

"The Sierra Leone Provisional", Philatelic Record, Volume XXVII.

"The Surcharged Native States of the Straits Settlements", Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal, Volumes XI and XII. An important series of articles.

In addition to this Mr. Beckton acted as the Editor of the Philatelic Record for a considerable period and has published a very large number of short articles of high philatelic interest.

His last and one of his most important works has been to act as Chairman of the Philatelic Index Committee, which Committee only a few months ago published their invaluable work listing the chief articles in the British Magazines.

NEW 10c AIRMAIL STAMP

We are indebted to Albert E. Gorham for a set of five first day covers showing the new 10c airmail stamp doing service between Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago. The stamp itself is oblong rectangular in shape, 1¾x¾ inches. Besides being curious in size the stamp is also curious in design. It consists of a map of the entire United States with two airplanes at the right and left.

There are various interesting markings on this set of envelopes and the set constitutes one of the most unique lots of first day covers we have ever seen. For instance, one of the covers has a large circular marking upon the face in which is the inscription:—"First Flight Inaugurating Contract Airmail Service in the U. S." With the airmail stamp in blue and markings in black and violet, plus the winged circular design and the parallel bars of red and blue, the color specialist will have a feast.

As has been previously shown in the WEEKLY the Service undertaken by this contract is between the cities of Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland.

We also have to thank Raymond V. Bahr of Springfield, Ill., for a first day cover leaving Springfield Feb. 13 and bearing a Chicago, Ill., airmail marking.

A little confusion has existed in regard to the date of appearance of the new 10c airmail stamp. A correspondent, Thomas A. Kraus, calls our attention to the mix-up and suggests that our advertisers should exercise a little more care in their announcements. We may say in justice to them that the Department made a postponement of the flight, which doubtless complicated the situation.

Why Not Straighten Out The "Bank Note Issues"

Here is a new series of U. S. "Educators". Short sets at a few cents each that will enable you to put the right stamps in their proper places. We see so many collections of U. S. worth anywhere up to $1,000.00 with the Bank Note issues of 1870, 1873, 1879 and 1882 all jumbled up, or represented by unattractive copies, that we know most collectors need some help to get them straightened out. The 1c, 2c, 3c stamps seem to offer the most difficulty, and after these the 6c, 10c and 12c.

So here they are, all arranged and classified for you: the low values in short sets, the higher values priced singly. All of these are fine fresh copies, which will improve the appearance of your pages even though you already have learned to classify them correctly.

THE SETS

1870, Nat'l print, 1c, 2c, 3c, for ..... $ .16

The labor involved in sorting the cheaper sets is worth as much as we ask for them. We do it to help get in touch with those collectors who do not know that we have probably the largest stock of specialized United States stamps in the world, and can supply almost anything at modest prices. A trial may convince you; if it doesn't you can always get your money back for the asking. Approval selections against references.

THE FORUM—UNITED STATES ISSUES 1847-70

By H. P. ATHERTON, 318 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Design.	Stamp.	Town.	Color of Canc.	Reported By

2. Black Cat	Env. #2350	?	"	H. P. A.
3. Dog	3c 1869	Lansing, Mich.	"	K. Koslowski
4. Horse	6c Cont'l	?	"	K. Koslowski
5. Kicking Mule.	Comes on many stamps, and is now known by all collectors.
6. Pig	3c Nat'l	?	Black	W. E. Whitnall

Just below is the data which should have accompanied last Forum.

Varieties of U. S. Framed.

1.	3c 1861	?	Black	L. R. Sours
2.	"	Saratoga Springs, N. Y.	"	H. P. A.
3.	"	?	"	L. V. Swallow
4.	"	Albany, N. Y.	"	L. G. Pelton
5.	"	Putnam, Ct.	"	Dr. R. W. Payne
6.	"	?	"	H. V. Swallow
7.	"	?	"	H. V. Swallow
8.	"	Putnam, Ct.	"	Dr. R. W. Payne

Sorry I unintentionally omitted this in last number; but you can cut it out and stick it onto last Forum if you are saving all these cancellations.

In this group we have the well known Kicking Mule, which had a long life, being seen on the Trans-Mississippi issue, in purple. It comes frequently on the War Department stamps, 3c greens, etc., etc. You have read a great deal about it presumably, so no more here.

The other five are quite unusual. Mr. Koslowski contributes Nos. 1, 3 and 4, calling No. 1 a sheep; but my drawing shows something more like a Shetland Pony, tho it was rather faintly seen thro tracing paper, and it may be a sheep. The Newfoundland dog is perfectly clear, and he calls No. 4, "Spark Plug," which is as good a name as any.

Am told that No. 2 has a tail making graceful turn over the cat's back; but my copy was de-tailed so to speak. No. 6 is a fine cleanly struck animal, the owner finding three of them in several thousands of our Bank Note issues.

This makes twenty cancels with the question mark under them—meaning the town that used them is unknown, and if you can tell the town please do so. To date not one has been sent in. You'll have plenty of cancels to look at during the summer; but right now the space allotted to the Forum is necessarily curtailed. Have a mass of unusual items to be listed also, and this will be covered in due course.

Mr. H. C. Brooks sends in some of the covers, which have come to him in reply to his voluminous ads the past year. They are a beautiful lot, and I append but a portion of them.

Patriotics.—Big head of Lincoln, covers entire height of cover, pmkd. Lansing, Mich., 3c '57. Another, Lincoln head above, flat boat below, rail fence border on left side and across top of cover with 3c '57, pmkd. Kalamazoo, Mich., in blue. Another, "The Eloquent Persuader" showing a rifle with big chased butt, printed in lavender, and pmkd. Washington, D. C. Another shows a plant which has grown two U. S. flags, labeled "Sweet Flag of Our Country" 3c '61 on

At the meeting on February 3rd the Collectors Club, New York City, was honored by the visit of Dr. W. L. Babcock, who specially made the long journey from Detroit to give a display at the Club. Unfortunately, the blizzard of that evening kept away many of the regular members and only about 30 braved the elements, but they were amply rewarded by the interesting talk Dr. Babcock gave on "Supplementary Mail Cancellations" and an exhibit of these and of early United States on cover.

Dr. Babcock referred collectors to his article on the Supplementary Mails in the American Philatelist. In the course of these remarks he said:—

Illustration Type A comes in red only from about 1857. Scott's list a 3c 1857 in both Types I and II, but this is not the New York Supplementary Mail but that used in Chicago.

In the 1861-66 issue he showed the 1c to 30c, including the 5c mustard and 24c steel blue. In the 1862 the Type B was used, and he showed the 5c with the "A" and "B" types. Of the 1867 grilled he showed the 15c and 30c only.

In 1869 the 10c and 30c, the latter rare, with Type "A" cancellation.

In 1871 Types "B" and "X" were used. The Type "B" ran through the 1870's and is used with Type B on the left and Type B D on the right. The latter form is used with the numerals "1" or "2" being used on Foreign mail only.

The Supplementary Mail Bag from 1857 to the middle of the 80's was made up at the junction of Morton, Washington and West Streets. New York. The Supplementary Rate was double first class rate, but not always double postage.

Cancellations "C" is the only one now in use and the numbers at the bottom run from 1 to 28 and are the numbers of the piers in New York. The Supplementary Mails are now sent direct to the steamship piers from seven main Post Office branches. This Type "C" is used as a postmark and the stamp is defaced with a smudge.

In Chicago the Supplementary Mail cancellation consisted of the letters "C. A." with a single line round all in blue, and C. B. with a double line, also blue. This was used for late mail to Eastern Points, but no extra rate was charged. These are much scarcer than the New Yorks.

Of Type XX Dr. Babcock only knew one copy, which is the 1873 15c in the B. K. Miller collection in the New York Public Library.

In early U. S. stamps on covers Dr. Babcock showed a wonderful lot, among which I noted:—

1847, 5c, several pairs used abroad.
" 10c, Philadelphia Railway.
" 10c, Raleigh & Wilmington Railway.
" 10c, two fine singles on one cover
1851—A superb lot, many pairs strips almost all used abroad and ma rare combinations. I noticed strip three 1c fine green cancellation. T varieties of the 3c cracked plate on c ers. Four 5c imperf. used abroad. in strips with and without recuts. one cover a bi-sected 12c used with a and 3c equals 10c rate.

1857—3c strip of three with the Can "Lyre." Many strips of the 5c and a p cancelled "PAID 3" in green. Cov were shown of letters carried on Brit Mail Steamers with a large "19" in on the cover. The rates were 24c a the "19" showed Great Britain t 19c out of the 24c, and poor Uncle S had to be content with 5c. A sca cover was one franked with 12c and 3

In 1861 issue there were several Brit Columbia, three 3c blue and U. S. and many other rare and interesti pieces in the 1869 to 1888 issues.

Mr. T. E. Steinway proposed a ve hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Babcock his interesting talk and fine displ which was carried unanimously.

Knowledge Is Power = Dollars
Do you realize how often you "give up" or "pass by" a real rare variety thru lack of knowledge?
Let me explain: Denmark No. 2, 4rbs brown is known with over 150 different numeral cancellations. No. 1 is worth $0.20 but dozens of them are worth $5.00 to $10.00 each and a few are rarities.
All these and nearly all Danish varieties are priced in my new Detailed Priced Catalogue of Danish Stamps of 1851-1899. I quote prices of shades, pairs, strips of three, four, six, blocks, sheets, stamps on cover, cancellations, recuts and scores of Inverted Frames, never before priced.
Illustrated Catalogue, 52 pages, printed on one side only, price $1.00 postfree.
Books of used Danish Stamps can be sent on approval. [tf

13c STAMP BACK AGAIN

(The following clipping is sent us by G. Doyle, Bridgeport, Conn., and is evidently taken from a local daily paper. It will be of sufficient interest to philatelists for us to pass it on to our readers.—W. O. W.)

Abandoned some five years ago, f lowing the discontinuance of war-ti postage, the much discussed 13-cent po age stamp has once more been revived meet the demands for its use on parc post packages under the new posta rates.

Not a few people in Bridgeport, it declared, are viewing the reinstateme of this "hoo-doo" stamp with no lit concern and foretell dire happenings, o ing to its sinister associations.

The first issue was placed on sale ear in January at Indianapolis, Ind., t home-city of Ex-President Harriso whose portrait is the subject of t stamp.

According to the Post Office autho ties, the number of times the 13-ce stamp, first issued in 1902, has be withdrawn, has been a matter of e pediency rather than of superstition as

STAMPS AS AN INVESTMENT
In 1891 there were exactly 87 U. S. stam which were listed at $1.00 or less. Th total list value was $14.91. Now these 87 stamps list a total of $313.93, an increa of $299.02, which is twenty times their value. The rarities are not included these 87, but their increase in value quite satisfactory although not so grea percentage as the 87 common stamps. stamps are of course a good "buy" but the only good "buy." I send U. S., Europe, recent issues, sets, South Amer and British colonials on approval. Let know something about yourself and y collection.

ill-omen attached to the number 13.
The 13-cent denomination of the 1902 ies was withdrawn a few years after ue on account of changes in postage es and was again revived in 1917, en the first-class rates were increased 3 cents.
With the abandonment of war-time stage, the 13-cent stamp again went out use, only to come into demand with latest change. It is estimated that proximately 50,000,000 of these stamps ll be issued this year.
With the discontinuance of the 13-cent mp in 1921, a unique petition was reved by the Post Office Department m the students of Shepherd College ate Normal at Shepherdstown, W. Va., ring the following 13 reasons why the mp should be retained:—
1. America was discovered on the eve the 13th of the month.
2. The original republic consisted of colonies.
3. The first official flag had 13 stripes d 13 stars.
4. Our national emblem, the American gle, required 13 letters to spell it; also r motto, "E Pluribus Unum."
5. The first word to pass over the Atic cable was sent in the 13th day of month.
6. Our silver quarter is written all er with 13. The eagle has 13 leaves one claw and 13 thunderbolts in the ier. On his breast is a shield bearing bars and from his beak is a ribbon aring the motto with 13 letters. Each ng has 13 feathers and it takes 13 letrs to spell "quarter dollar."
7. There are 13 letters in John Paul nes' name.
8. There were 13 ships in the first nerican Navy.
9. Perry's victory on Lake Erie was n on the 13th day of the month.
10. The stars and stripes were raised er Fort Sumter on the 13th day of the nth.
11. Gen. Pershing reached France on ne the 13th, 1917.
12. The 13th amendment of our Constution freed the country of slavery.
13. It would not cost any more to ke a 13-cent stamp than any other one.

A NEW EXHIBITION COMPETITION

HERMAN TOASPERN, F.H.S.L.

The last meeting of the Exhibition Committee was a long one. The meeting took about three hours and a half from start to finish, and a great deal of time was taken up by suggestions from various collectors regarding new classes, and the broadening of the scope of others.

They ran from the sublime to the ridiculous; and each received the attention it merited. Some gentlemen were anxious to have a special class created for their own collections. These were immediately scrapped. A half dozen suggestions were adopted, and the work of putting over the greatest exhibition yet went merrily along.

The most interesting addition to the competitions was an addition to Class XVIII, Philatelic Publications. A new section has been added called Section X.

"Monographs or special handbooks published since October 1st, 1925."

The purpose of this particular competition is to encourage the producing of new philatelic work in the literary field. It offers to every collector a chance to write an article or handbook on his favorite stamp subject. The Judges will be men well versed in the literary side of philately and there should be a wealth of fine new material appearing in the philatelic press.

To prepare such monographs or handbooks requires no great literary training. What the Committee is seeking is to get at the great unexplored and half covered fields of philatelic journalism and foster our American papers. While it seems a bit harsh to say, it is nevertheless in my opinion true, that we do not stack up so well as other countries in the production of Philatelic Literature.

This is perhaps primarily due to the terrific costs of printing production. The cheapness of Continental work is evidenced by the magnificent Auction Catalogues gotten out in Europe, with page after page of illustrations.

But we can't equal in text the Sociedad Filatelica Argentina's "Revista," Gibbons Monthly Journal, the Journal of the Royal Philatelic Society or the Rivista Filatelica d'Italia, or any one of a half dozen others for real research.

I hate the flag waver, the fellow that after he has done his act that spreads out the flags and has the orchestra play the national anthem, but I firmly believe that if any one of a dozen men I know will go to work, the first prize will be garnered by an American.

Here's a real test.

One doesn't need money to buy rarities, or to fill up a great collection. All one needs is a pen and a stack of paper to write the article. Any one of our American publications will be glad to receive a real philatelic article to print.

We Yankees would have something to crow about if we could meet the rest of the World in this competition and come in first. Who's going to try?

What B. W. I. Colonies do you want?
GREAT BRITAIN: Fine 19th Century stamps, Penny Blacks, early issues, etc.

HEAR YE:—

Who can help Mr. George Dodds, Box 405, Homestead, Pennsylvania, in his worthy object: "I desire to start a junior boys' stamp club in our city and wish to have some pointers and advice. Will you give me data that you may have and advise me of any publication that treats of the subject?" We have given out all the by-laws of stamp societies that we had.

The Forum, a meritorious publication of the Senn High School, Chicago, included in the January number a readable article, "Philately at Senn," illustrated by cuts loaned by the United Stamp Company and A. Hippchen, Chicago. Senn has an active stamp club whose faculty adviser is Miss Starbird, "who is a collector of many years' standing." We have reason to know that the Senn stamp club is composed of not a few enthusiastic collectors whose interest in stamps is not a perfunctory one.

Several readers have written to express their regret that there is no place to obtain, at short notice, philatelic articles appropriate for publication in different outside papers and magazines or for reading at radio stations. We have been able to be of assistance in a few instances, but it takes time to shape material for use in the manner prescribed and we wish to refer inquirers to a source where satisfaction may be had. It is likely that the present void will be filled at some time in the future, but in the meantime the opportunities are lost. If there is an individual here and there who wishes to volunteer in this service, we should be glad to give his name.

A Dutch wholesaler advertises to pay full catalogue for Curacao, Nos. 12, 151-160 (all types) and 161b; and for Suriname, 14, 42, 60, 65, 67, 202-205, 207, 215 and 216, all types.

EDITORIAL.

We got our money's worth in the new ten cent air mail stamp, which was received in time for use on letters carried on the new Detroit service. The map of the U. S. is spread before the eye and it would take a bolder topographer than we to criticize it. The stamp has a strong "personality" and it will create an atmosphere of its own in the stamp album. In this connection it is to be said that the Detroit celebration of its aerial ascendancy was an event in local history, in which Second Assistant Postmaster-General Glover, Henry Ford and other worthies participated. Detroit usually does not do things by halves and the special postmark that it used on first-trip mail is "high, wide and handsome."

A Washington correspondent, in commenting upon impending philatelic legislation in Congress says that "in all probability, there will be three bills introduced asking that special stamps be issued for celebration purposes but you will have to take this prediction for what it is worth for I am not allowed to go into particulars. All in good time." Reading between the lines of the letter further, the surmise is made that one reason for the refusal to consider the claims of the Mecklenburg Declaration proponents for stamp recognition was that although the event was historically important, the act of the early declarants of independence is not familiar history to many of our people. As he says: "We are not drawing any comparisons, invidious, odious or otherwise."

It is hoped that the good judgment of those having legislative and postal affairs in charge will prevail and that quantity will be side-tracked for quality. The impression prevails among non-philatelists that collectors are eagerly expectant of new issues and to some extent this idea is used in support of special issues by those who have the task of "putting over" the proposal. Our referendum on the question commemoratives showed almost a draw, so far as any decision was to be made. When dollar values were omitted and short sets became the rule, the protests registered at Washington when a special issue was announced were not vigorous or in considerable number. They reached their high-water mark at the time of the Trans-Mississippi set, somewhat to the puzzled surprise of the department, who thought that it was making contented philatelists by its act.

We have been shown by Mr. E. R. Jacobs, Chicago, a cover bearing the ninety-cent blue of 1857-60 and so the select little coterie of three known envelopes with this stamp must simulate a welcome to this important addition to the group. It may be remembered that Mr. Jacobs was the first collector to discover this stamp on cover some years ago in the east, and now a fourth copy becomes his property, reaching his hands directly from those of the finder. The stamp shows the dark blue line cancellation and the postmark, Jan. 6, of Cincinnati, in the same color, making the typical cancellation used in the Ohio metropolis at the time. The envelope is addressed to a neighboring state and enclosed documents that required the postage rate shown by the stamp, as it was used singly and not in combination with any other stamps. By an endorsement on the envelope the year of use is ascertained to be 1861, when the rate of postage was three cents a half ounce; and it is assumed that the weight of the envelope was from fourteen to fifteen ounces. This cover was found among a number of envelopes that had on them stamps rating postage from thirty cents to over a dollar and the find, while not very extensive, was a very profitable day's work!

Particulars of the case involving the counterfeiting of the ten gulden orange, Netherlands, are received from Mr. C. Bangs, who is still in Europe. He sends an article from the Matin of January 31st, which presents the story in detail and pictures the three men, charged with forging this and other stamps, Alexis de Zagorski, Constantin Makaroff and Jean Cividini. From the translation we learn that Cividini is a Parisian and that when his quarters were searched, many evidences of his activities were found. It is alleged that he swindled a Belgian philatelist out of a considerable sum by exchanging a lot of counterfeit Belgian for genuine stamps. His accomplices were clever abetters of the schemes and it is likely that they will receive a punishment, with their principal, that will fit the crime.

"School Life" is a magazine published monthly by the Bureau of Education of the Department of the Interior, Washington, at fifty cents a year. A copy of the September, 1925, issue has been sent us by the courtesy of the Scott Stamp & Coin Company and the leading article is by Harry S. New, postmaster general: "Postage Stamps Promote Popular Education and Stimulate Patriotism. Historic Scenes and Features of Great Men Become Familiar Even to Persons of Little Education. First Knowledge of Important Past Events Often Gained Through Stamps. Thirteen Commemorative Series in 33 Years Have Contributed to Public Enlightenment. Postal Service Ancient but Adhesive Stamps a Recent Invention." The story is well illustrated and in every way is a significant tribute to the postage stamp. M New realizes that our little postal me sengers are an integral part of every-d life and by the intimacy of their conta with the people are the means of i troducing an element of romance in the lives, in a mild way. Here are the wor of the head of the postal service, glorif ing the mission of the postage stamps a national sense and none will read the without gaining an added respect for t issues. As it is shown that the labels a entitled to serious consideration as o jects of interest, the inference is pla that philately is a pursuit that is wel founded, inasmuch as it concerns itse with the study of all stamps in an order and systematized manner. We co gratulate Mr. New upon his achieveme in cataloguing the suggestions of o postage stamps and he may know that h interest in our issues is regarded a provingly by the host of philatelists.

Mr. H. M. Konwiser, New York, h been engaged for some time in an inte sive study of the Specimen departme stamps and just now he is in quest information that will locate the exa position on the plate of the stamp wi the small "i" in the word Specimen. H has reason to think that the variety o curs on the seventh stamp of the t row, judging from a strip of the Exe utives owned by Mr. Charles J. Phillip plate No. 1, altered to 82, with the err on the stamp under the plate numbe Blocks and strips owned by Mr. Ko wiser do not prove the position of t error, however. Incidentally, it may said, the "SEPCIMEN" error is on t first stamp in the third row, No. 21, in t plate. These specimen stamps of the d partments are working their way into t regard of collectors here and there and is possible that the information that sought will be forthcoming.

Dr. C. W. Hennan's work on Cu acao has been published as the first of t series of hand-books of the Chica Philatelic Society and it is a well-printe catalogue of the stamps in question, wi many incidental notes that will appeal the one interested in the issues. The i lustrations are good and the orderly ma ner in which the stamps are listed w give the collector an easier understandi of them.

PHILATELY A POPULAR STUDY

Address by R. S. REGAR, 3d Asst. P.M.G.

(Through the courtesy of Albert E. Gorham, we are able to present the text of the address given by R. S. Regar, Third Assistant Postmaster General, at the opening of the Second Annual Exhibition of the Washington Philatelic Society held last month. Mr. Regar's keen interest in philately is appreciated by those who come in contact with him.—W. O. W.)

It gives me great pleasure to attend this meeting of your Society and to extend a few words of greeting on behalf of the Third Assistant Postmaster General's Bureau of the Post Office Department that has direct control over the manufacture and sale of postage stamps and other postal issues, as well as supervision over the operation of the Philatelic Agency which ministers directly to the wants of stamp collectors.

As Chief Clerk of the Post Office Department, when the Philatelic Agency was established, I became somewhat acquainted with stamp collecting in general. However, it was not until I assumed my present official duties and have had better opportunity to learn more about the magnitude of the stamp collecting business that I realized that collecting stamps is no longer termed a "pastime of children" or "old man's hobby."

Philately has become a popular study among the people of Washington and is spreading rapidly throughout the United States and other countries of the world. It is a subject, hobby or science, as the collector chooses, that appeals to king and commoner alike and makes all men equal.

Knowledge of history is more easily and permanently acquired from postage stamps than from text books. Questions on the life of Columbus, of Benjamin Franklin, of the Presidents of the United States, and on the Landing of the Pilgrims, the Huguenots and the Walloons are readily answered by the stamp collector.

The study of Geography has no terrors for even the youngest amateur philatelist. He will accurately locate Latvia, Georgia, Mauritius, or New Guinea without reference to a map.

The general collector is a world traveler in his own home, a student of international affairs, and an authority on the state of government of every country of the world.

There is no business nor profession wherein the Golden Rule, the Square Deal, is more strictly followed than in the Philatelic Club or Society.

Philately has not only dignity but zest, not only the magnetic interest of a hobby, but the enduring benefits of scholarship.

I believe the publicity which the Department has been able to give to these matters through the Philatelic Agency has done much already and will continue in the future to help create a wider interest in stamp collecting.

I want to assure you, members of the Washington Philatelic Society and Philatelists in the entire country, that it will be my aim as Third Assistant Postmaster General to continue the policy of my predecessor, Mr. Glover, in doing everything possible to meet the requirements of collectors without fear or favor. Every effort will be made to conduct the Agency from the standpoint of equal opportunity for all and with special favors to none. The small order will receive the same careful attention that is given the order that may amount to hundreds of dollars. With a clear record in the past and with my assurance of a continuation of these purposes for the future, may I not ask you members of the Washington Philatelic Society for words of encouragement, and continued co-operation with the Philatelic Agency in your local philatelic relationship and particularly as you come in contact with stamp collectors outside of Washington, who do not have the same opportunity as you do here to know the quality of service the Agency is endeavoring to render to collectors.

The Washington Philatelic Society exhibits the collections of its members and the displays of the Post Office Department Smithsonian Institute, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The object of the Exhibition is to impress the collector and non-collector with the importance of the postage stamp as a factor of education.

It is my pleasure to formally open and dedicate the Second Annual Exhibition of the Washington Philatelic Society to the people of Washington, their neighbors, and their friends from abroad.

I want to thank you for the privilege of being here at this meeting and I desire to extend my very best wishes for your success in advancing the cause of stamp collecting and for the efforts, which I am sure you are making to hold to high ideals in all of your philatelic affairs.

WE HAVE JUST ISSUED A MAMMOTH LIST OF POPULAR PRICED SETS OF STAMPS FROM THE WORLD OVER AND REIMERS BILT PACKETS. HUNDREDS AND HUNDREDS OF OFFERINGS OF INTEREST TO EVERY STAMP COLLECTOR--YOUR COPY AWAITS YOUR ASKING. A POST CARD REQUEST WILL BRING IT TO YOU IN A HURRY.

1926, 10c Air Mail Stamp

The new 10c air mail stamp which pays for postage in the first zone made its appearance on Saturday, February 13th, in accordance with schedule, the stamp having been placed on sale on that day in Washington, Chicago, Detroit, Dearborn and Cleveland.

Personally, I think the stamp one of the most striking that we have issued and its size immediately attracts the attention of the postal clerk. The large figures indicate its value and I believe that with this new stamp available that the air mail service is likely to be more satisfactory.

I note in the first day covers from Cleveland that although they are dated February 13th, the postmark also reads "First Air Mail Flight, Feb. 15, 1926, Cleveland to Detroit."

These stamps are printed in sheets of 200, which in turn are cut into post office panes of fifty. So far, five plates have been made although I cannot state the reason for making the fifth plate unless something has happened to one of them. These plates bear numbers 18246 to 18250 inclusive.

While the 10c stamp only pays the postage in the first zone for the contract service and as it is necessary to use ordinary stamps to pay the additional 5c for the second zone, it was thought that there was a possibility of a 15c and 20c air mail stamp following in short order.

The Third Assistant Postmaster, Hon. R. S. Regar, however, informs me under date of February 12th that the Department is not as yet considering such an issue, but that the matter may be taken up at a later date so that special stamps will be provided for contract air mail going into the second and third zones.

While February 13th is the date of issue of this special stamp, February 15th will be the first day of the new contract air mail service and Mr. Herman W. Boers kindly sends several clippings from Detroit papers, wherein this new service is given much publicity. The article in each case is on the first page and the local postmaster seems to be very active in calling the attention of the patrons of his office to the possibilities of this new service.

The same postmaster also distributed under date of Feb. 1st and 6th circular letters calling attention to special air mail envelopes, which it is suggested should be used for they help to identify the air mail envelope. The second communication calls the attention of the Detroit business man to the air mail service between Detroit and Cleveland and Detroit and Chicago, incidently mentioning that the firm holding the contract with the Department is the Ford Motor Company. The postmaster states that he would like to see a substantial quantity of air mail on the first flights and suggests that the business firms arrange to send their correspondence on February 15th in this manner. He also extends the general public an invitation to be present at the Ford airport field at Dearborn on the first day.

At the time of writing this chronicle, I have not as yet received the air mail covers.

Air Mail Notes

Under date of February 11th, Postmaster General New awarded the contract for operating air mail service from Atlanta, Ga., to Miami, Fla., via Jacksonville and Tampa, to the Florida Airways Corporation, with offices at East 42nd Street, New York and Tampa. Reed W. Chambers is President of the Corporation. During the World War he was decorated four times with the D. S. C., with the French Legion of Honor and three times with the Croix du Guerre. John Harding, Jr., who made the round the world flight, will be in charge of maintenance of the company.

The bid of the corporation was for 80 per cent of the revenues carried.

Under the terms of the contract, the service will begin operating from Jacksonville to Miami April 1, 1926, and it will be extended to Atlanta, Ga., not later than June 1. The distance covered will be 664 miles each way.

Fourteen planes will be used by the corporation in transporting the mails over this route, ten of which will be employed at once and four held in reserve. They are all of the metal Stout type, equipped with Liberty motors and capable of maintaining 120 miles an hour.

The tentative schedule provides that a plane shall leave Atlanta at 7 A. M. and arrive at Miami at 3 P. M. Returning the plane will leave Miami at 7 A. M. reaching Atlanta at 3 P. M. the same day.

It is supposed that this route will later on continue from Atlanta to New York. Right at present Philadelphia, which will be on such a route has no airpost station although it has a wonderful landing field and is the third largest city in the country. Our representatives in Congress are no doubt asleep, but I guess most of us in this city are pretty much in the same category.

Plate Number List

Through the courtesy of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Mr. A. W. Hall, we are in a position to bring our list of plates up to and including those issued to Feb. 12th. In this list we will find the first of the 10c air mail plates in addition to a further set of four plates for the new 17 Wilson. The second lot of 7c, 8c and 9c plates to be used on the rotary press are found in this list, but the Department still maintains that it will be some little time before these odd denominations in the perf. 10 series are available.

ALBANIA. — The new postage stamps earing a portrait of the President have ow been issued and comprise the following values:—1, 2, 5, 10, 15, 25, 50 qintor, 2, 3, 5 gold francs. There are also ew postage dues, values 10, 20, 30, 50 intor.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

GREECE.—A new stamp is to be issued commemoration of the hundredth anniersary of the breaking of the blockade f Missolonghi. — Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA. — Our Edinburgh riend, Mr. James A. R. Dryden, kindly ends for our edification four handomely engraved labels, in blue, green, rown, and red respectively, of a uniform esign and "denomination," inscribed VIII SLET VSESOKOLSKY V PRAZE 1926" at op and "TYRSUV DUM" at foot. These re intended to commemorate the Sokols National Athletic Meeting), to be held May and June. They have a fine view f the new headquarters of the Sokols, n old palace with extensive grounds now eing restored at great expense for training purposes. In the lower corners of ach label are the monogram of the Sokol ommittee and the numerals "10" respectively.

We speak of these attractive souvenirs s labels rather than as stamps, for we elieve they are devoid of postal frankng validity.—Stamp Collecting.

HUNGARY. — The new currency (1 engo=100 garas=12,500 kronen) will aturally call for a new series of stamps. ts appearance will definitely close the eriod of the fall in the European exhanges, as all currencies are now more r less stabilised. — Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

ITALY.—Il Bolletino Filatelico states hat a stamp will be issued to commemorate the Virgil centenary. The design vill be taken from a rare old mosaic, epresenting the poet with two muses. We wonder whether this stamp will make his works any more popular with the young idea!—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

MALTA.—It is stated that when the new stamps, which are now in preparation, are issued, those now in circulation will be withdrawn and overprinted "Gozo" and that they will be on sale only in that small island. This is a totally unnecessary and speculative issue as Gozo is under the administration of Malta and is part of that Colony, and there is no valid reason why Gozo should have a separate issue. It is as unreasonable as if British stamps were overprinted for the Isle of Wight. We hope that the Government of Malta will be dissuaded from making this issue, and instead to emulate the example of Gibraltar and either destroy the stock of old issues, or continue their use until sold out.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

PERSIA.—A set of six stamps has been issued in commemoration of the elevation of Riza Khan Pahlavi, late Prime Minister of Persia, to Prince Regent. This issue has been made by overprinting in gold on fiscal stamps, 1, 2, 3, 5, 10 chahi, 1 kran, the following inscription in Persian:—"Posteh Nokoumateh Movaghati Pahlavi, 9 Aljanmah 1304," which means "Post of the Pahlavi Provisional Government, 31st of October, 1925." We have up to the time of going to press received only a few of these stamps used on entire envelopes, and it is said that these stamps were available for foreign correspondence for three days only and that the remaining stock was used in the interior until completely exhausted.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

TRANSJORDANIA. — Messrs. Bright & Son write:—

"Probably it will interest your readers to know that there is a scarce error in the 10 piastre value of Transjordania overprinted on Palestine, recently issued. One stamp in the sheet has the letters "EFF" instead of "EEF" in the lower panel. This variety has only just been noticed, and in fact a few lucky members of our New Issue Service will have received this error as a normal stamp at the usual percentage over face value."

It would be of interest to know whether this same error exists on the current 10 piastre Palestine, and we should be glad to hear from any reader who may possess or have heard of it.—Stamp Collecting.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

The most pretentious book dealing with airmail routes is one published by Francis J. Field, Ltd., Sutton, Coldfield, England, entitled "A Commercial and Historical Atlas of the World's Highways." The price of the book is 60c and all collectors who are interested in airmail progress will find it worth while to secure a copy of this book. It has chapters entitled "Aircraft," "Insurance Against Air Risks," "Forwarding Goods by Air," "How to Use the Air Mails," "Countries Issuing Special Stamps," "Air Post Terms," etc. These chapter headings give a fair idea of the scope of the book. There are a large number of maps illustrating the routes described. All in all, the book is a valuable contribution to philatelic literature.

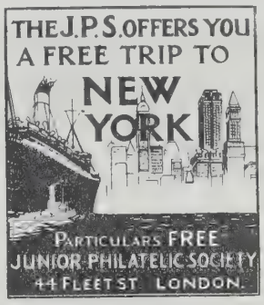
COUNTERFEIT BELGIAN CHARITY

The Miller Co., Chatham, N. Y., informs us that a Bavaria dealer is sending out Belgian Charity stamps that are photographic counterfeits. We publish this warning upon the strength of the letter received from the Miller Co.



A NEW ADVERTISING LABEL

This poster label tells its own story, and it demonstrates the enterprise of the Junior Philatelic Society, which is always on the alert for something original. The label is printed in black and makes a very striking appearance. We have twenty-five copies for those who wish to send a stamped envelope for specimens.

ODDS AND ENDS:—

"SHORT STORIES" of Feb. 10 contained a story by H. Bedford-Jones entitled "George Tete-Beche." The story is interesting to the stamp collector. It dignifies a counterfeit tete-beche French stamp, and H. P. Atherton, who sends in the clipping, suggests that such a counterfeit as described is no stranger to American dealers.

JACK ARTHUR informs us that Hair-cnik, an Armenian daily published in Boston, recently contained an article giving an outline history of postage stamps, etc. Dr. Avazan opened in the same newspaper a contest offering $80 to the one writing the best article on the stamps of Armenia. The contest will end June 30. 1926.

ALMA NEWCOMB of South Brewer, Maine, desires to thank the kind friends who have corresponded with her in response to the recent reading notice published in the WEEKLY. She writes:—"Already I have made many friendships which I hope and think may last all my life."

WE have received the January number of The Air Post Bulletin, published by Alan Turton, 59 Bishopsgate, London, E. C. 2. A sample copy can no doubt be furnished by Arthur Barger of Framingham, Mass., who is Mr. Turton's representative in America and Canada. The Bulletin is a pretty magazine of 16 pages and is handsomely illustrated.

THROUGH E. O. Barnes we have a clipping from the New Orleans Times-Picayune giving the particulars of a collection in the possession of S. J. Peters, a druggist at 741 State St. The article states that the collection is worth between $10,000 and $15,000.

WE are also under obligations to Fred Slack for a batch of four new subscriptions, two for one year and two for three months. One of the yearly subscriptions is for the East St. Louis Public Library of East St. Louis, Ill. Mr. Slack indicates that he intends to continue his missionary work by asking for a supply of our subscription forms.

WM. H. SEWARD has sent in a subscription for "Your Home Library," Johnson City, N. Y. We appreciate this act upon Mr. Seward's part and believe it to be good missionary work.

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS

Gibraltar.—After Malta, Cyprus; after Cyprus, Gibraltar; thus each of the three Mediterranean Colonies have in turn given us a sensation with their modern stamps. Most readers will know that as suggested in the "P.M." columns a month or so ago, the 8sh Gibraltar Script wmk is the latest recruit to the ranks of the Modern B. Colonial rarities. What this stamp is going to be worth it is hard to say, but £15 is mentioned in certain quarters, and it will not be surprising if it rises to this figure before a year has elapsed. The 10sh Malta script has now reached this, and it probably exists in greater numbers than the Gibraltar 8sh. There is sure to be a brisk Continental demand for this stamp once its rarity is generally realized, and it is unlikely that any large stock exists, as it was withdrawn without any notice, and the remainders burnt.

The two lower script values 2sh and 4sh are also in demand, as it was expected when the 8sh was withdrawn these would follow suit. There was consequently a rush for them at the Post Office, and about a month later the 4sh ran out. A fair number were bought up during the period, so it is not likely to increase proportionately to the 8sh, although it is already showing a distinct advance.

The 8sh K. George in old watermarked paper is quite a good stamp, although of course nothing like as rare as its script counterpart, nevertheless it is worth picking up at present prices, and it exists in two distinct shades, not yet catalogued, pale lilac and a deeper purple.

Stamps of "The Rock" are always popular, and a good collection of the 20th Century issues is a very sound investment, and it must always be remembered that the more high or rare values a collection contains, the more readily salable it becomes.

Another Colony where the Georgians seem likely to appreciate shortly is British Honduras. The 25c on the old type is interesting on the three different papers, but the stamp of distinction will probably be the $2 K. George, old type. It is scarcer than catalogue suggests and an appreciable rise seems likely.

Barbuda.—The stamps of Barbuda have been in some demand and widely offered, especially the 6d and 1sh values. These two were on sale until quite recently in this tiny island, and one cannot predict any great rise for them. The five low values were sold out previous and will show the largest proportional increase; some of them may easily go to ten times face during the next few years. The high values may also turn out quite good; none as yet appear likely to become rarities, but all are rising in value. All these stamps are very scarce used, and most of those seen appear to have been canceled by favour on entires, often in sets. As the demand for used is not so great, they rightly do not fetch appreciably higher prices.

Palestine.—Although Palestine is not quite so popular as many of the Crown Colonies with collectors, the stamps have been in some little demand recently with the again revived rumour of a pictorial set, this time of German origin. This has been denied. It is to be hoped that if we have a new pictorial set, the stamps will be engraved and printed in London.

The figures given below and from official sources are interesting and perhaps explain certain price movements mentioned below:

	Approximate Totals
EEF, 1st type, 1pi deep blue,	235,000
1st type 1pi ultram.,	338,000
5 mils. on 1pi (3 printings)	150,000

On these figures the price of the deep blue stamp can only be explained on the assumption that the majority were used, and destroyed during the stress of war.

The early issues, however, have not shown much profit to the ordinary collector, as the 1pi ultramarine was distributed by New Issue Services at 9d ("cost") and the 5mil on 5pi at 4sh. As it was already catalogued at 15sh this appeared reasonable, but recently mint sheets have come on the market, and it is doubtful now if mint copies are much scarcer than used, and the price has fallen. Some of the local trilingual overprints are, on the other hand, rising in value. Many collectors view with greatest pleasure the stamps that they consider have been the greatest bargains and have turned out best, and a rare stamp bought at top price is thought much less of. The man who bought his 1sh Turks old script at 1s3d will turn it up with more pride than the man who only got his recently and perhaps had to pay £1.

Useful information as to the future trend of the stamp market is obtainable by what has happened in the past. One of the best means of doing this is by the study of bound volumes of stamp journals issued during the last ten years or so. These show the fluctuations that have taken place in modern stamps better than can be seen by a study of a set of catalogues.

Glancing through some of these, one can see the rise and fall of many favourites. During the period following the armistice many stamp dealers flashed across the firmament with their wares printed in large type. Many are seen no more, presumably they made their pile by selling hundreds of 1sh Falkland Wars at 7s6d and "N.F." ½d and 1d at 5sh the pair!

A year or two previously great interest was being taken in the War Tax stamps. It is interesting to note that the St. Vincent first War local sold for 4sh when the St. Lucia was freely offered at 1s The latter was turned out much be being now cat. 15sh whereas the St. V cent is still only cat. 4sh. No st created more excitement than the C mans War locals. The first type on is was offered at a few pence, but with few weeks it was quoted at 5sh and and dealers were offering to buy back 4sh, and although it was only then at 2s6d the price soared to $5 in the S. A. At the present time it is obtain for under a dollar. This price se about right, as 10,000 are stated to h been issued—about the same number the St. Kitts 2½d blue script or T centenary, which are obviously be buys at their present prices, of less t half the above, and much more likely rise in value, as the demand for this t of stamp is incessant, and of which hoarded stocks are very small compa with those of most War stamps.—P atelic Magazine.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

PRACTISING FOR NEW YORK

[Mr. H. Toaspern, Brooklyn, N. Y., sends us his latest auction catalogue, too late to review in advance of the sale, but in good time to provide English visitors to the New York Exhibition with "All the tourist wants to know or say in New York."—ED.]

Say, bo, going to New York?

Guess so, for this Exposition will be some humdinger.

What's that?

Well, a lallapaloosa.

I suppose you're right, but your terms don't come into my philatelic vocabulary.

I'll betcha coupla thousand smackers 'twill beat anything seen in Yurrup.

Will you stay long?

Reckon I'll stick around long enough to see all's going on. Wanta see my ol' friend Pack, an' his stampic amassment of Victorias, Uruguays, Brazils and cetera.

Will he talk stamps with you?

More likely he'll dilate on the Tango and wanta know how the baby forest trees are growing up in France, with or without th' aid o' Plantora.

He's great on half-lengths, isn't he?

Yep, sir, but for October he'll go the whole length—all the way, the whole pack. Don't I know him?

Expect to see anyone else?

Sure, the Hot Stove League, bully fellows all, real guys and go-getters.

Will you see Toasty?

Indeed that's a big part of what I'm going for, to take lessons in American from Toasty. He taught Galvez, who's some credita his tooter.

And Dr. Chittenden?

If he'll lemme into the Collectors Club. More likely he'll take me shimmying at Bustanobi's or the Blanktash Roof Garden to get me off my studious perch. Besides, he may be anxious lest I pocket the Club's library to bring home with me.

And will you see your old friend Undooley?

Need ye ask? Why if Undooley don't hike to N'York to see me, I'll rock the Fall River boat one night all the way to Bawston, an' see him an' Finnerty an' all, if they haven't e-vaporated under prohibition. Tea parties don't hit it in Bawston, 'cept with Wylie and Colson.

Does the food agree wi' folk in New York?

Why shouldn't it? It's mostly lobster an li'l neck lams, an' oysters big as the thatch on yer dome. Them an' pumpkin pie, an' the whole menu besides, a menu bigger than the encyclopædia or the Post Office Directory.

Lobster sounds all right, but can ye afford it?

Why, it's cheaper to eat lobster in N'York than fried fish and the like potatoes. If the lobster consoomed in N'York in one night were placed claw to claw they'd circle the Equator with two rounds of Central Park to spare. The guide books tell you that.

There'll be a big crowd at the Exhibition, won't there?

Guess a few thousand frenzied fans will be holdin' the doors up long before they open.

How will you get in?

I'll tell ye, boy. I'm wise to that. You see, everythin's big in N'York, an' a li'l fella like me wouldn't stand much chance with the big crowd.

An' how will you get through?

Like everything else there, keyholes are big. I'll find a way.

I suppose you'll take your dog?

Nope, sir. I shall go incogniter, as an American, eye-hoops an' all. I'll leave the dawg to keep the stick-up men from swiping my specialised Neuropes from the ole home patch.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly (Eng.).

A TRIBUTE FROM FRANK L. COES

We have a right to take a measure of pride in our Honor Club organized last year. It requires but little space to chronicle its happenings week by week, and the words of cheer which accompany the applications for membership are very gratifying to those who are laboring for the success of the WEEKLY.

It has been a marvel to us that week after week and month after month we have been able to list so many of our subscribers, who have been willing without premium or allowance of any kind to make applications for membership in our Honor Club by paying $5 for five years' renewal of their subscriptions.

Frank L. Coes of Worcester, Mass., has just sent $10 for a ten years' renewal, while a previous five years' subscription is as yet unexpired. Mr. Coes likes the WEEKLY, and does not hesitate to say so. Moreover, he demonstrates his interest in a tangible manner. He makes one suggestion in regard to changing the size of our pages, but adds:—"As it is kept thus, for some good reason, it is not a fault." This is indeed charitable and our best reason is the fact that the WEEKLY is a newspaper and does not pretend to be a magazine. He writes:—"The fault is negligible."

Mr. Coes is proprietor of the Coes Wrench Co., of Worcester, Mass. He is a virile writer and if any of our readers ever have the opportunity of perusing a letter from him they will find that he has a refreshing way of expressing himself.

METROPOLITAN TAKES 5,000 LINES

STRAY NEWS ITEMS:—

WE have been favored with a specimen copy of the new ½d Irish postage due. It comes to us from J. D. Martin of Bradford, England, who uses adlet space frequently.

THE Rhode Island Philatelic Society celebrated its 41st anniversary on Tuesday evening, February 16. The Managing Editor regrets that he was unable to accept an invitation to be present. He was with the society sixteen years ago when the 25th anniversary was observed.

J. MARSHALL of N. Y. City informs us that the 25, 68 and 85c French surcharges were withdrawn from sale February 13.

EMIL J. RALL is leaving Ancon, Canal Zone, for a period of about three months, and during this time he will be located at Arica, Chile. His connection with the Panama Canal Zone will not be severed. He will be on a leave of absence while serving with the Plebiscitary Commission.

RECENTLY four hundred 3c stamps of the Canal Zone with surcharge reading "ZONE" instead of the regulation "CANAL ZONE" were discovered at Panama and destroyed by a committee representing the Director of Ports, the Auditor and the Collector. As may be expected, some of the errors got into circulation, but no definite information is obtainable as to the exact number.

IT seems that the Tacna Arica Plebiscitary surcharges have only been used on Peruvian stamps for the despatch of mail posted aboard the Peruvian warship stationed at Arica, Chile. We are indebted to Emil J. Rall for this information.

THE stamp exhibition under the auspices of the Washington (D. C.) Philatelic Society at the local public library last month was well attended and much interest was manifested. The medal winners were announed as follows: A. E. Gorham, air mail stamps; J. F. Duhamel, stamps of Argentine, Brazil and Japan; B. H. Howard, consular stamps of Madagascar; V. Weirgang, Norway and Sweden; N. H. Sanborn, British colonies; E. Kelly, Belgium and air mail; C. H. Vaughan, Canada and early Great Britain; W. N. Sahm, British colonies; F. S. Gichner, United States envelopes and Austria; W. M. McKelvey, stamps and map illustrating the voyages of Columbus. Thanks to Mr. Gorham for the clipping sent.

NASSAU STAMP CO.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE WORLD WORTH $1000.00 EACH AND UPWARDS

By CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

Having been requested on behalf of Mr. Arthur Hind, to prepare a list of the one hundred rarest stamps in the world, I started by noting down all those I consider worth $1000.00 each and more, and then arranged these stamps in the order of commercial value.

When we speak of making a list of the rarest stamps in the world we must define what we mean by the word "rarest."

There are many stamps of which only one, two or three copies are known and which, although they must come in a class of the rarest stamps, still they have not the recognized value of $1000.00 each.

Such are Jammu-Kashmir, 1877 oil colors ½a. and 1a. various colors, some exceedingly rare but none of them would bring anything like $1000.00.

In the following list I have therefore used the word "rarest" to mean rarest in the commercial sense of what the stamp is worth in today's market.

In most cases I have taken the prices quoted in Scott's catalogue when I think this approximately represents the real market value of today. When I do not agree with their quotations I have put my own idea of value.

Another point I want to mention is the question of dealing with the same stamp in unused as well as used condition.

Very often an unused stamp is worth very much more than the same stamp used. Also I have to consider that there are many collectors in America who collect unused only and they may wish to have my opinion as to the place in this list that their rarities should hold. For these reasons I am including both unused and used separately, but I do not include a stamp unless I have reason to believe that it exists in an unused condition. For example, India 4a. head inverted. I do not know this unused and what is the advantage of including in such a list an unknown variety.

Personally I am not at all well acquainted with the present value of the stamps of the twentieth century and I may have omitted some varieties that are worth $1000.00 or more, but I have had the opinion of Messrs. E. Stern and W. C. Phillips on these issues so trust I am not far out, as both of these are good judges of the value of modern issues.

I have not included in this list any revenue, Fiscal or Envelope stamps, except the "Postmaster" envelopes of the United States which have a special interest for American Collectors.

Unused stamps marked with a star, all others are used.

Here are over two hundred stamps that I consider have a value today of $1000.00 each or more. A careful examination of the Ferrary sale catalogues, and the price catalogues of Stanley Gibbons and Yvert & Tellier, might add a few items to this list.

I know I may be criticised for the position I have given certain stamps and I shall welcome, and be ready, to answer any correspondence on this interesting subject.—American Philatelist.

SEVENTY YEARS OF PHILATELY

The Jubilee of Stanley Gibbons Ltd., Recalls the Firm's Activities.

Stanley Phillips has written a very interesting story dealing with the activities of the London firm of Stanley Gibbons Ltd. from 1856 to 1926. It is printed in the form of a supplement to Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal, for February, and relates in a very interesting manner the achievements of this well-known firm.

First Flight Covers

Present indications are that several new contract airmail routes will be inaugurated about April 1st. To those who would like first flight covers of all new routes as started I will supply same at a charge of 25c per cover above face value of stamps thereon. A reasonable deposit is required and after that subscribers to this service will have no further bother of remitting in advance or finding out when routes are to be started. For particulars write for circular FTC.

Every collector of covers should have the set of four of the historic Ford first flights, inaugurating contract airmail service in the U. S. SOME U. S. AUCTION PRICES

By J. O. MOORE, JR.

Percy G. Doane's 183d sale, held at the Collectors Club, New York, February 12th and 13th, proved one of those which furnish a key to current prices and its results are worth recording in the good old note book. The collection dispersed was that of Mr. Charles R. Gehrman, who chose his stamps with care and got together a very fine lot of U. S. regular issues, departments, essays and proofs, and some very nice Confederates. There were none of the 4-figures postmasters' provisionals, no very fancy pieces, but a sound lot of stamps in particularly good condition. New high prices were realized for many stamps that catalog under $5.00 in ordinarily fine condition, but which leave catalog figures in the distance when truly superb.

A very nice copy of the 5c New York (No. 17) canceled with the familiar red PAID sold $71, while a similar copy pen-canceled brought an even $40. Fairly representative figures I thought. Fine copies of the 5c and 10c '47's proved to be very much in demand and at prices well above the levels of a year ago. Only the disconcerting last-minute announcement that the first one offered, a sheet margin copy apparently unused, dark brown shade, proved to have been cleaned knocked the price down to $13.25! Cleaned or not, two dealers afterwards told me they would have given nearly double if they had had time to think it over. A nice copy canceled with straight-lined PAID in black, the stamp with a slight smudge or stain sold $28.50; another with the far from rare framed Phila. PAID struck twice fetched $22.50; while a very pretty one with a blue town cancellation (off cover, too, mind you) realized the attractive price of $23.00. Another with Philadelphia town in blue, while still a third blue town cancellation on a nice stamp brought $13.75. A blue grid, off cover, sold for $15.50. The pairs did not particularly impress me and I thought they did fairly well to bring $40, $50, and $51.50 respectively. Singles on cover did well considering only one was remarkably fine. That was tied on with red PAID, grid and town cancellations and sold for $31. If 25% is added to these prices, at least, to cover overhead expenses and profit it is not hard to figure what a dealer who has no printing press and who is forced to buy his stock in the open market must charge for them if he is to continue in business.

The 10c, '47's in fine, though seldom superlative, condition were almost as strong, the prices ranging from $41 to $53 each for ordinary printings, to $66 for the variety "Line through F" and $142 for a fine copy of the big "POST OFFICE" shift on cover.

The 1c '51's were a nice lot and the prices realized made the catalog seem useless. There were four unused stamps of which three were in the deep blue shade generally attributed to Plate III. The first brought $32.50, the second $63 (this had a trace of imprint at right), while the third had a pinhole, but sold so far beyond my limit I was helpless with astonishment and failed to record the figure. Someone to my mind had a bargain in a vertical strip of Nos. 8, 18 and 28 R, Pl. I, early, for the No. 8 was a corking copy with strong scrolls, even though the lower stamps were below par. It sold at $145, but I think some of us were dozing at the time. Two fine singles, Type II used, black town cancellations, fine but not sheet margins, sold $12.50 each, while nice strips of three, not wonderful, brought $47 and $56 respectively. A type II with red City Dispatch "I" carrier off cover sold $11, while another No. 31 with black Phila., carrier was run up to $32, though the stamp otherwise fine was close at bottom.

3c, '51's evidently are still on the boom. The catalog says 15c off cover, and 25c on, but the first nice used single, with splendid margins and a black grid cancellation (certainly not a rarity) sold $2.75, while another single with part of imprint went for $8.50. A fine horizontal pair but with small margins, black town cancellation, $9.50; horizontal strip, very fine, $14.50. Another horizontal strip of 4 one stamps slightly defective, $22.00. "Line through THREE CENTS", ordinary, $11.50; the cracked plate through 84 and 94 in a pair, $103. Good copies with PAID or PAID 3 in circle sold at prices ranging from $2.90 to $4.10. "Steam" on cover $6.00 "Route 7309" $7.; Albany & Buffalo R. R. rather faint, $11.75; Phila. & Pottsville, $16.60; P. H. & Fishkill R. R., $20. Three fine copies, blue cancellations, $5.75!

All the 5c '51's brought good prices, the two really fine singles selling at $67 and $57 respectively, while the two covers brought $101 each.

Last year I thought the 10c '51's were in the doldrums, but the prices realized by these stamps at the Gehrman sale show they are off to a fresh start. The first offered, a superb copy of Type I, full shells, with sheet margin on neat cover was run up to $46.50, while the next brought $19.00. Fine singles Type II sold as follows: Type II, black town, canc., $6.50, $7.25, $13., $7.25, the highest price being for copy with shift in upper label. A nice pair sold $32, and a strip of three with sheet margin at top and left fetched $77.00. The Type III singles with black cancellations sold higher, bringing $12.75, $8.50, $6.75, $7.00, $9.00; a fine pair, $62. The Type IV, recut top or bottom sold $41.00 and $36.00; a pair, one recut, $39.00.

The 12c '51 is another fine stamp that has been selling below its fair level for a year or more. At this sale they did better, fine copies selling at $11.00 for one with a crease, but otherwise attractive; $20.50 for fine copy with red town; $22.00 for a fine uncanceled copy.

There were hardly enough of the rarer types of the 1c '57's to establish any prices standards, but a nice lot of the Type V with carrier cancellations. I think all of these sold for more than "Specialized" catalog prices, the black Phila. carrier bringing $4.25; black "U. S. Mail 2," $8.00 and off center at that; fine New York City Del. in red $6.25; blue Balto. $5.75; with the framed "1 ct" St. Louis topping them all with $10.50.

A block of Type II of the 3c '57's furnished one of the sensations of the sale. This was described merely as superb block of four "Pekin, Ills." town canc.

TAKING TIME BY THE FORELOCK

NEW YORK ORGANIZES FOR CONVENTION

By H. M. KONWISER.

Tentative plans have been made to entertain the members of the American Philatelic Society, at the New York convention next October, and these plans are being made upon the belief that about one thousand members of the society will attend the annual gathering.

Past attendance records were smashed at the last Detroit convention when three hundred or so registered, but all the conservative folks in New York agree that the attendance records for A. P. S. conventions will reach a total of great proportions at New York.

"Anyway," said Dr. J. B. Chittenden, "the convention is scheduled for New York; I am pleased to be able to head the Committee of Arrangement and those of us in this section must take a hand and show the folks that the New York stamp folks are social animals, with a very friendly disposition. It means work that is worth while."

Dr. Chittenden addressed the first public meeting of the Convention Committee at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, on the evening of the 18th. A general call for co-operation had been sent out, asking for support and the report was that 200 had signified their intention of wanting to support the Convention Committee in any suitable manner, and thirty-four attended the first open meeting.

Announcement was made of committees, as follows:—

Finance: Col. J. Benkhard, A. F. Lichtenstein, Theodore E. Steinway, Admiral Harris, Charles J. Phillips, H. M. Clark, A. Hatfield, Charles Lathrop Pack, John Aspinwall and C. M. Ams.

Ladies' Entertainment Committee: Mrs. H. L. Lindquist, Ch.; Mrs. H. M. Clark, Mrs. J. B. Chittenden, Mrs. C. M. Ams, Mrs. George B. Sloane, Mrs. T. E. Steinway, Mrs. A. F. Lichtenstein, Mrs. Edgar McCrillis.

Sunday Reception: Major Camp, Ch.; Capt. Knauer, Harry Lindquist, M. Mouhib, Edgar McCrillis.

Transportation: Charles Curie, Ch.; W. Reichalt. (Additions to be added later.)

Hotel: Joseph Hoffman, N. R. Hoover, Arthur Deas, George H. Scott, Dr. Chittenden, and Augustus Nulle, the Directing Manager of the Waldorf-Astoria, a Life Member of the A. P. S.

Registration: H. M. Konwiser, Wm. Fournier. (Others to be appointed.)

Crescent Club Entertainment: Charles Curi and Dr. Chittenden, members of the Crescent.

Harry L. Lindquist will look after the Official Program and the badges and such souvenirs as may be deemed necessary; Dr. Chittenden will take care of the heavy work on the annual banquet, and if the expected one thousand attend this affair—wow, as the exclaimists have it.

Eliott Perry is expected to attend to the production of the annual convention photograph; A. E. Pade will look after the music required for the Sunday reception, as well as at the dinners scheduled: Lieut. Johnson, U. S. A., will be in charge of the boat ride that is scheduled, and Harry M. Konwiser will look after the publicity, having appointed on that committee, the following: Charles E. Severn, A. V. Dvorak, R. Bach, A. Lampe, Tom Binmore, N. R. Hoover and Crane of the New York Times.

It is not proper to divulge the entire entertainment at this time, as part of it will be left as a surprise. Nothing will be done to displease anyone, that everything will be done to please everyone. That seems a stunt beyond the ordinary, but as Harry Lindquist said, as he left Chicago — "Why, anyone can conquer New York."

Members of the A. P. S. in the New York vicinity are cordially invited to assist in the work of the convention. The committee appointed by the President has no desire to "boss things" in any way. This group of men, all well-known philatelists want plenty of active support. "And right now, by the way," says Dr. Chittenden, to Miss Mitzi Neumann, Secretary to the Committee, "put in a strong word regarding finances. Tell the friends I have made in philately that it costs good money and big money to entertain their stamp pals—therefore send in donations, from Five Dollars to One Hundred; your conscience must guide you. Send checks or money order to Harry Lewy, attorney for the A. P. S., at 2 Rector Street, New York."

THE MANAGING EDITOR

Knowledge Is Power = Dollars
Do you realize how often you "give up" or "pass by" a real rare variety thru lack of knowledge?
Let me explain: Denmark No. 2, 4rbs brown is known with over 150 different numeral cancellations. No. 1 is worth $0.20 but dozens of them are worth $5.00 to $10.00 each and a few are rarities.
All these and nearly all Danish varieties are priced in my new Detailed Priced Catalogue of Danish Stamps of 1851-1899. I quote prices of shades, pairs, strips of three, four, six, blocks, sheets, stamps on cover, cancellations, recuts and scores of Inverted Frames, never before priced.
Illustrated Catalogue, 52 pages, printed on one side only, price $1.00 postfree.
Books of used Danish Stamps can be sent on approval. [tf

STAMPS AS AN INVESTMENT
In 1891 there were exactly 87 U. S. stamps which were listed at $1.00 or less. The total list value was $14.91. Now these same 87 stamps list a total of $313.93, an increase of $299.02, which is twenty times their 1891 value. The rarities are not included in these 87, but their increase in value was quite satisfactory although not so great a percentage as the 87 common stamps. U. S. stamps are of course a good "buy" but not the only good "buy." I send U. S., Europe, recent issues, sets, South American and British colonials on approval. Let me know something about yourself and your collection.

FAR AND NEAR:—

WE have received from the W. A. Lieson Co., 73 Taylor St., Springfield, Mass., an illustrated list showing some scarce and attractive 19th century sets at very reasonable prices. The list is finely printed and its contents will make interesting reading for the average collector. The circular is franked with three ½c precancels.

A STAMP club has been formed at Rahway, N. J. It consists of fourteen boys, and J. O. Marsh, one of our subscribers, is very much interested in the organization. He is so much interested as to subscribe for the WEEKLY for one year to be sent to the new organization.

THERE are two magazines published in Great Britain, one the Stamp Collector and the other Stamp Collecting. This accounts for the mistake which occurred in our issue of Jan. 25, when we reprinted an article on "Passing of Half Catalog," which originally appeared in the Stamp Collector and which we credited to the other magazine. We regret the mistake.

THE Bronx Philatelic Society meets at 784 East 156th St., the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. Auction sales at every meeting. Collectors are invited to attend.

THE Harding Museum at Marion, O., was officially opened on February 22 and W. G. Windhurst of Marion with his usual enterprise took cognizance of the event by sending out an envelope suitably inscribed and bearing a Harding stamp with Feb. 22 postmark.

WALTER ENDRES sends us a clipping from the LaCrosse, Wis., Tribune, in which there is an account of an address on stamp collecting by Rev. Ferdinand Cech at the local Normal School.

THE Surburban Stamp & Curio Club and the Boston Philatelic Society held a joint dinner at the Hotel Bellevue, Boston, on Feb. 24. An account will doubtless appear in our next issue. Both the Managing Editor and Mr. Jewett acknowledged with thanks invitations to attend, and regretted their inability to accept.

CHARLES A. WEILLER, noticing our reading notice concerning Harrison Townsend, 28 S. Ridley Av., Aldan, Pa., who is crippled, sends us a dollar and asks us to purchase and send Mr. Townsend some stamps for his collection. We have passed this remittance on to H. E. Harris & Co., and asked the firm to fill the order. The WEEKLY is pleased to recognize this act upon Mr. Weiller's part and is glad of the opportunity of being the medium through which the collection of Mr. Townsend can be enlarged.

THE superb collection of Henry Schinzel has been acquired by Charles J. Phillips and due announcement has been made elsewhere in this issue. It is confined to 19th Century and has a catalog value of some $200,000, four great collections having been drawn upon for material. Mr. Phillips was a recent visitor to Chicago where he was the guest of the Chicago Philatelic Society on the occasion of its anniversary.

LOOKING ROUND

By "MARQUETTE."

A correspondent writes that he finds it impossible to cover Georgian Colonials on the small amount of cash he has available, and laments the monotony of these issues from the point of view of design.

I have always considered the De La Rue keyplate designs to be the bane of a British Empire collection, and think the time has come when the stamps of the Empire might be used to advertise the Empire's resources, in conjunction with the movement to extend trade within the Empire. The philatelist would no longer have to bemoan the monotony of British Colonial stamps.

There is at the present time a distinct reaction against modern Colonials, due mainly to the dullness of the present period, when most of the Script watermarks have been issued, and only a comparatively few changes are taking place. This reaction will probably continue until the adoption of a fresh watermark, or some similar cause, produces a further big batch of new Colonial stamps.

Meanwhile New Europes are benefiting by the dullness of modern Colonials. I do not anticipate any startling set-back in the prices of the latter, however, as the Continental and American demand is steadily increasing.

A group of real interest to those who wish to specialise cheaply will be found in the modern issues of Roumania. The 1893 types, with their later variations, interlock with the equally interesting 1908 issue. The stamps of the war period have good reason for their existence, and many scarce perfs. may be picked up cheaply; while the current issue affords material for a really fine display. Perhaps it is their rather unattractive appearance which is responsible for the neglect of Roumanian stamps, but those who make a close study, either of the classic or later issues, should have no cause for complaint when this country attains recognition as one of the most interesting, philatelically speaking, in Europe.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

FIVE YEAR HONOR CLUB

A. S. Guthrie, Jr., Fayetteville, W. Va. Fred L. White, Lancaster, N. H.

We enter with pleasure as a member of our Honor Club the name of A. S. Guthrie, Jr., of Fayetteville, W. Va. Mr. Guthrie makes his remittance very informally, enclosing his check for $5 for five years' renewal of subscription.

Fred L. White, Lancaster, N. H., has been upon our mailing list for some fifteen years and he writes that he now has the habit so firmly fixed upon him that he is unable to break it off. So a remittance of $5 comes to us for membership in our Honor Club.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL
A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.
Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:
"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."
C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:
"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."
The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

EDITORIAL.

At the banquet of the Chicago Philatelic Society on February 18, 1926, the guest of honor was Mr. Charles J. Phillips, who made a profound impression on the sixty-six diners by his intimate philatelic revelation. He chained the attention of all and his stories of King George, Ferrari and other truly great philatelists, so far as their enthusiasm was concerned were most interesting. Authoritative versions of the classic tales, such as the sacks filled with triangular Capes, woodblocks, errors and all were presented in vivid verbal pictures. We say with all confidence that Mr. Phillips is doing most effective work in broadening the views of collectors and focusing outside attention on philately. He has the vision to know that the growth of collecting will be relatively slight unless advantage is taken in these days of advertising generally, of the different phases of publicity. As one who puts precept into practice with intelligent direction, he deserves well of philatelists. At the banquet Mr. Phillips exhibited an old letter-sheet that was mailed from Chicago in 1834, and he thought rightly that the newspaper press would be interested in the bit of history that the text of the letter revealed. Mr. Phillips gave the cover, through Mr. Golding, the president of the C. P. S., to the Chicago Historical Society and the Sunday Tribune of Feb. 21st gave a good account of the data. Mr. Phillips told, also, of the plans for the working out of the huge Exhibition and the convention of the A. P. S., next October.

Some months ago, the students of Webster College at Webster Grove, Missouri, started a movement having for its object the erection of a monument to Pelatlah Webster, "a father of the United States constitution," and at the time we were informed that the honorable Cleveland A. Newton, congressman from St. Louis, intended to introduce a bill providing for a Webster memorial this year, which is the second centenary of Webster's birth. A philatelist has engaged the attention of the Hon. Cleveland A. Newton to the question of a special two cent stamp to mark the date and he has suggested that a sort of referendum be taken of the opinion of collectors on the subject. Advices from a correspondent at Washington recently have hinted that bills providing for a number of celebration issues will be introduced this year and it is probable that he has some knowledge of the plans for the Webster exercises in any stamp relation. The indications are that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will be a hive of industry this year, if the expectations of the hopeful stamp boosters are realized.

A valued reader brings to notice a case involving the range of the stamp dealer's guarantee and in its ramifications, the question covers so much ground that it is impossible for one to make an equitable decision. The "guarantee" was discussed by the dealers at the last convention of the American Stamp Dealers' Association and the basis for a thorough consideration of the subject was formulated, but the topic was not debated to a finality. It is understood that the problem will be given the floor at the next convention and it is not unlikely that rules for the guidance of all will be adopted then. In the meantime, it is to be said that a reasonable regard for the rights of both buyer and seller must be recognized and we know that reputable dealers are not disposed to be arbitrary in settling cases when their liability is established.

A few letters have come expressing concern over conditions that have been deplored several times in this column, touching upon the difficulty of obtaining philatelic material that might be used for stamp talks over the radio and for the columns of the non-philatelic press. Philatelists sometimes have the privilege of speaking at business and luncheon clubs and they wish to be fortified on such occasions by well-proportioned reviews of the subject of philately. One correspondent thinks that with our firm's "Charm of Stamp Collecting" and Poole's "Lure of the Postage Stamp" (which was distributed by Mr. Poole at the convention in Los Angeles) the philatelic volunteer is not badly equipped. Another collector says that if he can find the time, he will prepare a number of leaflets intended to "help fill the void."

One Louis H. Allen, whose addresses are rather well scattered over the country and who is alleged to have preyed on numerous collectors evidently has reason to avoid the hospitable confines of Los Angeles, as Mr. Frank L. Coes, Worcester, Mass., the Nemesis of the elusive Allen has had the following letter from Deputy Sheriff Geo. H. Bent, 202 North Broadway, Los Angeles, California: "Am enclosing a picture of this subject (57126 Los Angeles police records) and am asking that if you ever come in contact with him or learn of his whereabouts, you will wire me direct, collect. This man is wanted on a very serious charge and secured his release pending trial by posting a $5,000 cash bond, which he forfeited and we are very anxious to catch this fellow. If you should by any chance come in personal contact with him, h the first officer you see arrest and h him for us." Allen attended some of stamp conventions, but the story of activities at Worcester broke just in t to keep him from joining the Ameri Philatelic Society, at Detroit. The le from the Los Angeles officer speaks itself and Mr. Coes is positive of identity of Allen whose foray in W cester brought a hue and cry after h Developments are awaited.

A discovery of importance has Mr. E. R. Jacobs and Mr. R. McP. been, two Chicagoans who collaborate the study of early U. ign are also duplicated. In the re-structed plate of this stamp there is position such as this and all positions definitely known. The question at e arises: Where does this stamp be-g and why has it not been discovered etofore? One theory presents itself. e shift is so strong that it constitutes defect and as soon as it was noticed, s perhaps corrected by the engravers. make this alteration it was necessary soften the plate and hammer out at st part of the design, after which the mp was correctly entered. It may be hin reason to assume that some of the pe IV (recut design) stamps are an growth of this attempt to correct a lty position. All of the Type IV's ur in a group except one example and least two or three recuts may have n to correct positions, injured in the nmering out process, after which the ravers touched up a few weak ex-ples in the area involved and one in top row of the other pane, thus giving a late state for Plate No. 1. Has one a better suggestion with which account for this stamp?" This varia-n is a remarkable one and the theory anced is tenable. The stamp speaks itself and the task of assigning it to proper place should inspire the special-in these stamps.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP

BOX 3, JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK.
J. Avery Wells Telephone Havemeyer 3350 J. Van Kirk Wells

HEAR YE:—

Mr. George W. Linn has shaken the dust of his native state, Ohio, from his shoes and has hied himself to Holton, Kansas, where he has cast his lot with Mr. A. V. Dworak, becoming associated with him in his printing business. Mr. Linn will have editorial charge of the Gossip and should fit into the position nicely as printers' ink has the tang of the perfume of Araby to him. We understand that he has made arrangements to continue his stamp business at the new base of operations.

On February 16th, at the home of the Reverend Ray; Batavia, Illinois, a number of local collectors gathered to view the collection of airplane covers of Mr. Max Golding, president of the Chicago Philatelic Society and hear his remarks generally on the subject of stamp collecting.

The following rates, sizes and weight limits now apply to regular mail for foreign countries: Letters.—Five cents, first ounce and three cents for each additional ounce of fraction thereof. Weight limit, four pounds, six ounces and maximum dimensions, eighteen inches in any direction.

In the newspaper, Neue Freie Presse, Vienna, we find a well-handled stamp department, "Der Philatelist," under the charge of G. Luithien. Philately certainly is in the air, the world over.

The Wildwood Leader, New Jersey, of January 28, 1926, contains an interesting account of the philatelic activities and opinions of William Lycett, Cape May, N. J., secretary of the Society of Philatelic Americans. Mr. Lycett surely is entitled to all consideration for his consistent support of this society, which through his efforts and those of other unselfish workers has been restored to the position that was enjoyed by it of yore. Furthermore, he is tireless in promoting our pursuit by enlisting the interest of the younger generation in it. We find in The Ink Well, published by the pupils of Cape May High School, an article, "Philately," a well-written, but brief review, that is illustrated by the real thing in the way of a stamp, and a footnote says that the stamps were supplied by Mr. Lycett.

Jimmy Murphy, in his Toots and Casper comic strip, released February 14th, shows the baby, Buttercup, as indulging a penchant for collecting all the mail that he can find in his own home and at the doors of other tenants on the floor. The adoring mother exclaims in the last picture: "It's the stamps he likes, Casper. He's not going to be a mailman! He's going to be a great stamp collector!"

The Philadelphia Inquirer recently told of the death of Thomas Otis Blood, son of the last Daniel Otis Blood, known to fame as the originator and owner of Blood's Penny Post. We quote: "Mr. Blood's father, trading under the name of D. O. Blood and Company, issued postage stamps known as Blood's Penny Post, and which provided for delivery of mail from the post office to the home. Another, issued in 1845, Blood's City Post Despatch, was before the Post Office Department took over the personal delivery of mail."

Peter Mantzoros, a young student in Chicago, is doing exceptional service in stimulating stamp interest among the young people of his city. He not alone encourages the organizing of stamp clubs in different communities with which he has touch, but works to this end among the different junior societies, sponsored by the newspapers. A recent issue of the Journal contained the picture of Peter whose enthusiasm has been brought to the attention of the Chicago Philatelic Society; and it is possible that some alliance may be made between the two to further foster Peter's work.

Among the visitors to Chicago for the banquet of the local society on February 18th, were Mr. A. W. Filstrup, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Mr. A. C. Stewart, Toledo, Ohio, and Mr. N. E. Carter, Elkhorn, Wisconsin.

The used ninety cent of 1857-60 on cover that was found recently in Illinois, has been acquired by Mr. Filstrup.

Here is a postscript to a letter sent from Baltimore in 1853 to Westminster, Maryland: "We wrote by mail today but learning that we could send by stage, we wrote you again that you may get it sooner."

Choice United States

Right at the present time I am in a position to offer to the philatelic world selections from the finest stock of United States stamps now in the hands of any professional. Recent auction sales, notably the sale of a large New York collection, has demonstrated to the satisfaction of those who follow the market, that United States stamps are the most desirable from an interest as well as investment point of view. We have never known such a demand for fine U. S. with the supply practically negligible except when a fine collection is broken up.

Contract Air Mail Inaugurated

It will be recalled that some months back, mention was made in this column of the fact that the Postmaster General was authorized by Congress to enter into negotiations with private concerns for the carrying of air mail over certain routes. To date several contracts have been signed, but on Monday, February 15, 1926, there was inaugurated the first of these contract flights. The mail was carried via airplane through contract with the Ford Motor Company of Detroit, between Detroit and Chicago and Detroit and Cleveland. Arrangements were made for the mail to be carried in both directions.

The inauguration of this service was of such importance that I learn from clippings so kindly sent me by Mr. Herman W. Boers, that there were present when the plane set out from Dearborn (the location of the flying field immediately outside of Detroit) the Second Assistant Postmaster General in charge of the Air Service, the Governor of Michigan, the Mayor of Detroit, the Postmaster, Mr. Henry Ford and other notables.

Arrangements had been previously made for special cancellations and a description of the cancellations are worthy of note. Those used at both Dearborn and Detroit were identical in size and design, the differences being the substitution of the word "Dearborn" for "Detroit." The cancellation consists of three concentric circles nearly 1¾ inches in diameter reading "First Flight Inaugurating Contract Air Mail Service in U. S.—Chicago, Detroit, and Cleveland—Detroit, Mich., 10 A. M. Feb. 15, 1926." Those that I have seen have been in black. Letters mailed from these points to Cleveland show a backstamping of "Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 15, 3 P. M." Those mailed to Chicago show a backstamp in one case of "Feb. 15, 8 P. M.," and in a second case "Feb. 16, 9 A. M."

In Cleveland, a special cancellation circular in form, in black reads, "First Air Mail Flight Feb. 15, 1926 Cleveland to Detroit" and vertically across within the center "Feb. 15-10 A. M. 1926." In addition, the Cleveland post office placed the flying wing insignia of the Air Mail Service on the front of the envelope. Mail from Cleveland to Detroit shows a backstamp similar to the one that this city used for the outgoing air mail dated "Feb. 15—6 P. M." Mail from Cleveland to Dearborn shows a Dearborn backstamp dated, "Feb. 15, 4.30 P. M." I have also seen a cover from Cleveland mailed on the field canceled, "Air Mail Field, Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 15, 1926" with the Detroit air mail backstamp dated 6 P. M. of the same day.

The city of Chicago used a similar air mail stamp to that of Cleveland, which they applied on the cover, but used to cancel the stamp the regular Chicago canceller reading, "Chicago, Ill., Air Mail Feb. 15, 6 A. M." For this trip the Chicago office had a special three line postmark reading, "First Air Mail Flight Feb. 15, 1926, Chicago to Detroit." Letters addressed to Detroit and Dearborn received the same backstamps as those from Cleveland. I have also seen a cover mailed from the air field in Chicago with cancellation reading, "Air Mail Field, Chicago, Ill. Feb. 15, 8 A. M." This cover received in addition the three line cancellation and the air mail cancellation just described on the other letters.

Mr. Boers, who has sent so many clippings regarding the flight, writes that on the evening of Feb. 15th, Messrs. Heyerman and Swan, two well known philatelists of the Detroit Philatelic Society, gave a small banquet in honor of Hon. W. Irving Glover, the Second Assistant Postmaster General. The banquet was held at the Detroit Athletic Club and eighteen members of the local society were present. Mr. Glover spoke on, "National Postal Affairs," Mr. Woodward on "Contracting Mail Service" and the postmaster, Mr. Kellogg, on "Local Postal Matters." Everyone present enjoyed themselves thoroughly and the whole affair was carried off in a way most creditable to Detroit.

Bureau Star Plates

In my chronicle of February 15th through error I stated that the 3c, 6c and 8c plates had been made in star form instead of the 3c, 8c and 12c. In other words no 6c plate has as yet been laid down but a 12c plate has been made with the star spacing.

In the case of these three plates, the well known six point star is found in the upper right pane, the 3c and 8c being near the top plate number and the 12c at the side.

Report Director of Bureau, 1925

The annual report of the Director the Bureau of Engraving and Prin came to hand several days back, b have not had an opportunity of reviewi it heretofore. The report of Mr. A. Hall covers the year ending June 30, 1 During this time the Bureau exper an amount of $10,041,457.46, an incr of 6.8% over the previous year, the w completed exceeding all records, inclu the war peak. During these tw months the Bureau received from Post Office for the printing of 244,000 sheets of stamps, etc., an amount $1,710,801.46. It will, therefore, be that less than one-fifth of the work the Bureau is in behalf of the Post O Department.

During this period, many minor provements in economies in the Post Stamp Division were made in the g ming, perforating, book, coil and pac sections, which are concretely reflecte a reduction of sixteen employees an the increase of about five percent in duction. In the book section, unneces accounts of book covers and folded b were discontinued. In the coil sect the size of coil boxes was changed eliminate the neccessity for cardbo fillers. Gummed paper seals instead wax seals are now used on packages postage stamps. It was on October 1924, that a new scheme of organizat at the Bureau was put into effect. H tofore there had been a Director Assistant Director, but on this date new scheme inaugurated provided fo Director with three assistants one b in charge of each of three major gro of the Bureau.

The stamp which was issued in smal quantity during 1925 was the $5.00 and blue of which one hundred fifty-f sheets made their appearance. Of Norse-Americans, 88,680 sheets of the were delivered to postmasters and du the same time 17,425 sheets of the 5c. the Postage Due varieties, the 30c c tinues as heretofore to be the denom tion used in the smallest quantity, for 1,378 sheets were delivered, the nea approach to the figure being the 50c, which 17,730 reached the hands postmasters.

The report covers the delivery to Canal Zone of upward of 50,000 she of stamps, which includes two hund sheets of the $1.00, five hundred she of the 50c and five hundred sheets of 30c. Of the Postage Due stamps s charged for the Zone, three hund sheets of the 1c were delivered and hundred each of the 2c and 10c.

The report also covers the delivery "Specimen" stamps to the Postal Un but on inquiry I learn from the Depa ment that this does not mean that t are surcharged "Specimens", but simply the normal stamps which t classify as specimens.

The Philippines received nearly o half million sheets of stamps wherein smallest deliveries were in the case of 12c and 26c of which but twenty-t sheets were sent to the Islands and the 8c, fifty-two sheets. This small nu ber is no doubt accounted for in the lar

ony. The overprint on the first value

FRENCH OCEANICA. — The 10c in red nge and dark red, 30c in black and red

GERMANY.—In regard to the recently onicled Charity stamps Mr. A. Wagadvises that he is informed by a relae of his holding a position of high hority that these stamps will have tal value up to and including May 15,
6. This is six weeks longer than origlly intended. Mr. Wagner also sends a translation of an article that ap-red in the Illustrierte Briefmarken-rnal in the Feb. 3rd edition and is as lows:—

"The German P. O. Department con-plates, on the occasion of the impend-new issue of postage stamps, to print mps in the colors stipulated by the iversal Postal Union. New stamps, wever, are not to be expected before summer of 1926, because the very ge stock of stamps of the current set l not be cleared before that date. To ie stamps of a 15pf and 25pf denomi-ion (the present postage for foreign ds and letters respectively) for the interval is not feasible, because the quantity of stamps required for so short a period would be disproportionate to the cost of a special issue."

The above mentioned periodical is published by Senf Brothers of Leipsig, Germany.

IVORY COAST. — The Economist Stamp Co. advise that the 10c is now on sale in rose red on grey and the 30c in blue and rose red.

MAURITANIA.—Three new colors have appeared. They are the 10c magenta on grey, 30c black and yellow and 50c green and blue. The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the new items.

MAURITIUS. — Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts have sent for note the following new colors all in the Arms type and on script watermarked paper, 2c lilac on yellow, 3c green on white, 4c brown on white, 12c grey on white and 20c lilac on white.

NIGER TERRITORY.—The Economist Stamp Co. report that the 10c is now being printed in magenta on grey paper.

POLAND. — Mr. Frederick D. Markee sends a cover from this country bearing the date of Jan. 15th last that has a 10gr Charity stamp of new design. It is bright blue in color and at the top has the two line inscription "Z Powins Zowaniem Nowego Roku". Just below is the year date "1926". In the centre is the likeness of a woman with a small child kneeling at her knee.

REUNION.—The Economist Stamp Co. call our attention to the following new colors: 10c red and orange red, 30c grey and rose red and 50c yellow and violet.

Russia. — In a recent letter from Mr. Karl Koslowski he informs us that the set of small stamps chronicled in issue No. 1831 is called the Decabristu issue, but that he cannot give further information regarding the designs.

ST. LUCIA.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the 3p purple on yellow, script watermark, Die 2. This is a reversion to the old color but the new die.

SENEGAL. — The Economist Stamp Co. report the following changes: 30c grey and blue, 50c red orange and green and the 1fr in blue.

SOUTH WEST AFRICA.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the new triangular 4p stamp with the surcharge in black sans serif capitals "South West Africa" in two lines on the English type and "Suidwes-Afrika" in one line on the Dutch.

We have also received from Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. copies of the ½p and 1p, new type of the Union of South Africa surcharged vertically alternately so that the surcharge in Dutch falls on the Dutch inscribed stamp and the English overprint on the English. Mr. Roberts also sends for chronicle a pair of the 1 pound stamps of the Union of South Africa with the surcharge "South West" 16mm and "Zuidwest" 12mm in length, 9½mm between the lines of the overprint.

UNION OF S. AFRICA.—The issue of a reproduction of the Cape Triangular in the new series for this Dominion, the early values of which are now at last to hand, proves that the Union Government has the intention of making collectors pay a proportion of the cost of producing the new stamps, for an imperf. stamp of triangular shape is by no means practical for general use, even though, for the convenience of business firms, the stamps are sold, already cut up, in packets.

Nor can we imagine that the issue of alternate stamps with inscriptions in English and Dutch (in the same sheet in the case of the ½d and 1d and in different sheets in the 4d) is a real necessity, as dual inscriptions on the same stamp are quite feasible.

However, the new stamps have met with a warm welcome and are a distinct improvement on the old series, though the colour of the 4d is weak in the extreme.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

CATALOGUE VALUE OVER $200,000.00

All 19th Century Stamps

I have the pleasure to announce the purchase of the well known collection of Mr. Henry Schinzel of postage stamps of the 19th Century only. This included the famous collection of British Colonials formed by Mr. Jorge Rodriguez in Buenos Aires and purchased for nearly $50,000.00 in 1916. It also includes collections formed by the late Mr. Benno Loewy, and many stamps from the collections of Messrs. A. B. l'Argentiere and Paul Mirabaud.

I have remounted the stamps in about 126 of my approval books and I can now send collectors any country on approval that they care to see.

The prices are, in general, on the following basis. Stamps from 1880 to 1900 from 50 to 60% of catalogue. Stamps before 1880 about 30 to 35% under catalogue, except for exceptionally fine pieces in early issues which are priced at low market values. The following are brief details of the approval books I have now priced ready for sale.

Ceylon

The old "pence" issues form the most valuable group in the whole collection. I have ten books made up pricing to over $18,000. I have divided these into (I) stamps on covers, (II) unused, (III) used.

In the unused there is a fine Imperf. 4d from the Sir W. B. Avery collection, price $1500 (cat. $2500), five 1s 9d green in shades, and a grand lot of "Star" and "C & C C" in shades.

The used include 10 of the 6d on blued paper and a fine lot of imperf. 4d, 8d, 9d, 1s 9d and 2s. Later issues are superb.

West Indies

There are eighteen books of these with all the old issues strongly represented. In Trinidad I note four unused blue lithographs with a superb very early impression with gum, the only one I have had, thus, in forty years dealing. The Barbados are very fine and include 1d on half of 5sh unused superb pair, two used pairs and several singles. St. Vincent very strong in unused and used. All the Provisionals, the rare 5sh Star is here in six well centered copies. Grenada has most of the errors, many being both unused and used. Turks Island, many of the rare surcharges. Nevis, a grand lot for plating, a great opportunity to fill up gaps in one's plates.

British Guiana has some good items, such as 1852, 4c blue (Scott 7) unused; 1862, 4c blue, a strip of 4 types unused. Set of the rare officials unused, etc., etc. British Honduras. All the rare provisionals, Scott's 26, 26a, 51a, etc.

New South Wales

A fine lot of "Sydney Views", 4 fine unused and 83 used. These include a superb strip of four 1d, plate II. The other Australian Colonies are well represented.

British North America

Most of the rarities are here. Canada, a superb 12d laid paper, unused. New Brunswick, two 1sh's and the 5c Connell. Newfoundland, scarlet, 2d unused, orange 1s unused, etc., etc.

Space will not allow full description, but all the British Colonies 19th Century are very fine and most Foreign Countries are well represented, for instance:—Naples "Arms" and "Cross" unused, and also used on newspapers.

Let me have a list of the countries you are interested in and I will send them as free. Apply early, as the good items are selling very fast.

I am open to buy fine collections of stamps of the early 19th century at top market rates. [35-7

COLLECTORS CLUB BANQUET, LOS ANGELES, FEB. 11

The annual banquet of A. P. S. Branch No. 58, the Collectors Club of Southern California, was held February 11th at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, an establishment whose magnificent appointments and superb cuisine are world famous.

President Sydney B. Brown and his entertainment committee, Messrs. Bloss, Henry, Weisbrod and Prof. J. T. Armstrong, provided an array of entertainment of high and varied order, the management of the Club delivered a banquet of super-satisfaction, the diners were equipped with all the necessary qualifications to enjoy both program and feast, and when the soiree ended at a late hour, the only kicks that had been registered were those of a "cute" little dancer who seemed to have a great deal of attraction for the bachelor member of the entertainment committee.

The usual procedure of the Los Angeles club, that of a throttling long-winded oratory, was rigidly followed: President Brown, in asking members to speak, placed a strict limit on the speech, so that everything was short and snappy. One speaker was allotted five minutes: he used two by the stop watch. Whereupon the next person called to the front was allowed but two, and spent them in protesting the discrimination.

Bill Bloss spent his time, as always, in boosting for a bigger A. P. S. membership. Charley Beamish told a story about Russell Sage, and cut as close to the limit as possible—3c. Parker Lyon prayed for Western Franks on cover, and described himself as the "Original Overland Male." Harold Sandberg, the club treasurer, invited the assemblage to visit him at Sandberg, the town of which he is landlord, banker, postmaster, and J. P. Harry Lelande spoke of the "good old days" of stamp collecting in California, when there was sawdust underfoot, and watermarks were detected by means of "suds" instead of benzene.

The Allied Artist's Bureau presented the following program: Ballads, Miss Billie Hoffman; Dances, Miss Pauline Becker; Jazz Songs, Miss Irene McKinney, and Pianist, Miss Nianne Ghirardelli. The songs were soothing to the ear, and the performers, without exception, were more than soothing to the eye.

Prof. Armstrong also presented a program, as follows: Greek Songs, Mario Gengio; Irish Song, M. Franklin, and Old English Impersonations, D'Arcy Corrigan.

Seventy-five diners absorbed the following menu:

Ecrivisse à l'Ange des Milles Isles
Céleri Olives
Bouillon de Pomme d'amour
Poularde grillé
Pomes de Terre au Gratin
Petits Pois neufs
Salade de Luxe
Parfaits Angeliques
Demitasse

Prof. Armstrong predicted that the next banquet would have 150 persons in attendance, and a menu such as the above should certainly produce this result. L. M. Passmore told us that he is going to buy three tickets for himself next time, and spend the night with the eats.

The Los Angeles A. P. S. Branch now has over one hundred members, and is reaching out for the largest membership in the United States. The officers are:—President, Sydney B. Brown; Vice-President, Chas. Beamish; Treasurer, Harold Sandberg; Secretary, J. D. Fisher; Board of Governors: Messrs. Lelande, Henry and Weisbrod; Entertainment, Prof. Armstrong and Byl Bloss; Publicity, Messrs. Thompson, Gerson, and Fischer.

ODD BITS:—

IF you are able to furnish Charles W. Stutesman, 508 E. Third St., Peru, Ind., with a copy of the WEEKLY for April 30, 1921, the favor will be greatly appreciated. Will some stamp collector in the middle west oblige Mr. Stutesman?

ANY reader of our paper who has been unable to secure replies to letters addressed to Wesley W. Hibbard, Detroit, Mich., are requested to file complaint with the Postmaster at Detroit.

RECENTLY Arthur M. Lazier of Jamestown, N. Y., submitted a suggestion to the P. O. Department for a Sesqui-Centennial commemorative stamp. The Third Assistant Postmaster General replied that the issuing of a set of postage stamps is under consideration, but no definite action has yet been taken.

THE Detroit News of Feb. 15th had a very comprehensive article dealing with the institution of airmail service between Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago as the marking of a new era in American history. Clipping from Philip Short.

THE Huntington (W. Va.) Stamp Club held its first annual celebration February 16th. Harry E. Bryan and Howard M. Jones were re-elected respectively President and Secretary.

IN the British American Illustrated Review for January, 1926, appears an excellent article by Albert H. Harris on "The World's First Postage Stamp." Thanks to Wm. M. McFarlan for the clipping.

WE have information of several impending important changes in New Zealand stamps. The 1d stamp is to bear a portrait of His Majesty in Admiral's uniform, and the new 2s, 2s6d, 3s, 4s, 5s, 6s, 7s, 8s, 10s, will present the King in his Field Marshal's Uniform. These new issues are due for issue about April next. The old Queen's Head long stamps have done duty as postals since 1883, of course, with several changes of paper and watermarks.—WILCOX, SMITH & Co.

WE are indebted to Cecil F. Blogg for several stamp clippings. From one we glean the fact that the Belgian Government has decided to issue some overprinted stamps for the benefit of sufferers from the recent floods to which Belgium has been subjected. Another clipping describes the activities of the Puget Sound Branch of the American Philatelic Society.

WHEN answering an advertisement mention seeing it in MEKEEL'S.

SOME U. S. AUCTION PRICES

in black. It started quietly enough, but soon was bouncing along at $5 a lick until sold at $91.00. Of course it was a "sleeper" the lower right stamp being the rare damaged plate variety showing a vertical row of triangular scars on Washington's neck. Even so, an ordinary used block of the same stamps sold up to $15.25, and three singles with shifts sold at from $2.50 to $5.00.

Truly fine copies of the 5c brick red ran well above catalog, selling at $39.00, $37.00, and $60.00, each with just ordinary cancellations. The only copy of the red brown described as "very fine" brought $28.50, while the 5c browns Type I sold for $11.25, $11.75, $13.75, and $14.25 respectively. A beautiful strip of 3 on cover seemed cheap at $101.00. Type II stamps of this value continued to sell well below catalog, the best copies bringing $7.00 to $8.00.

Fine copies of the 10c '57, Plate I, as usual ran away from list prices. When well centered these stamps are very scarce and though No. 49a only lists $3.50 the three fine singles offered here brought $5.75, $6.25, and $10.50, with $36.00 offered for a fine strip of three. The 10c No. 50's also brought good prices one with PAID selling $6.00, Wells Fargo cancellations on singles bringing $8.00 and $14.00 each; STEAM SHIP, $11.00, and a fine copy on cover marked "via Panama" (which is usual) $14.00.

Another stamp just beginning to be recognized at something like its true relative value, the 12c 1857, went well over list prices for every truly fine copy, the prices realized ranging from $7.00 to $10.50. A fine pair on cover with red "Liverpool" cancellation brought $39.00. The higher values of the series were not well represented and the prices consequently were low.

All the 1c '61's ran so far away from my pretty high bid limits I failed to record the prices of the ordinary copies, but noted a pair with cross-cut cancellation sold $9.75, and 2 copies on a small piece with red grid cancellation, $10.50. But the Waterbury cancellations on these stamps sure set something to shoot at, with $91 for the "Bridgeport Fireman", and $37.00 for the pumpkin. A 3c pink, beautiful shade, tied to cover with green Woonsocket canc. was run up to $35.50, and not dear at that, though an ordinary shade of the 3c, not pink, with red N. Y., carrier, proved a surprise when it was run up to $14.50.

Other cancellations of the 3c stamps sold well; the deer in circle fetching $26.50; "Devil with pitchfork" off cover $19.50; same on flap of cover, $34.50; a Brooklyn shield, $9, while an off-cover copy with experimental cancellation of overlapping circles covered with Washington p. m. sold $36.00.

The buffs were only medium fine and brought prices to match, ranging from $12 to $25. Nor were 10c No. 68's anything to brag about though anything above ordinary brought well over catalog.

Other values in the '61 issues, where very fine, showed what connoisseurs thought of list prices. Of the 12c one with red grid sold $7.50; a fine blue town, $8.25; a red heart, not too bright nor well centered, $21.50; horizontal pair, black town, $6.75. I wanted one of the 30's with a black town and red target, but what chance taking a profit on a stamp cataloguing $3 if you have to pay more than $46 for it? Two singles, one with black town another with blue town, the pair, $20! Another with ordinary Boston PAID in grid, $8.25. Good morning Carrie!

Of the '62 series a very pretty copy of the 5c with blue target canc., $9.50; another on cover with Honolulu postmark, $28.00. That the 15c Lincoln is in the $10 class was demonstrated when every well (not perfectly) centered copy sold $6.10, $6.50, $8.50, $8.75. Only one copy out of a dozen sold for less than the $3.50 quoted in the cat., that brought $3.35. Same thing with the 24c lilac, cat. $2.50, for they sold $7.50, $4.10, $5.25, $7.00, $9.00, $4.10. And nothing to go screaming home to mother about either. A 24c, 30c and 3c with straight edge, combination on cover to Shanghai, $53.00.

Of the grilles two fine 12's with red cancellations sold $7.00 and $9.25, while a nice looking town cancellations on a slightly creased copy fetched another $7. An ordinary 3c grille with Shanghai U. S. Postal Agency, $7.25. An off center 3c with tombstone and skull and crossbones, $37., another on cover with a horse-shoe in circle $15.25. Pretty near time to being collecting odd dates on $50 gold slugs.

I thought $2 a good price for a dealer to pay for a nice 1c 1869, with town cancellation; but some collector on the floor thought it was worth $7.25. Other neat copies with nothing important in the way of cancellations sold, $3, $5.60, $4.50, $4.50, $4.25, $5.25. A single unused copy of the 2c '69 cut from the sheet so margins of surrounding stamps were included in the piece $5.50. A fine 3c with quite common green canc., $6.25; another with small skull and crossbones $15.25; Osaka, Japan, $10.25; the Waterbury "boot" on 3c on cover, $43.00. The 10c with Hiogo, Japan, $12.25; a 12c with black star, $10.25; 15c type I with blue canc., $14.00.

The later issues were thinner, not enough of any one thing to represent values until we reached the carriers, all of which, when fine, went way well beyond accepted standards. Two eagle carriers on covers, usual red star cancs. sold $11.00 and $12.25; Baltimores, black, $7.50, $14.00; 1c red, $35.50, $20.25; Boston, only "fine", $29.00, $18.75, $35.50; New York, 3c blue, $26, $62, $28; U. S. Mail, 1c rose, $20; 1c yellow, $14.50; Philadelphia, 1c on buff, $51.00.

The few Confederates of regular issues also showed spirit for a pair of 5c green on cover cat. $8.00, sold $16.00; two fine 10c blue, cat. $6.00, sold $7.25, $7.75, while a beautiful looking though slightly creased copy of the 10c rose, No. 204, was bid up to $47.00.

Some consolation to be found in these figures for those who have bought fine U. S. at what they thought ridiculously high prices. The significance of the prices realized at this sale lies in the fact that here were not unique pieces, fancy, fabulous items, but just sound U. S. in fine condition. What later sales with really rare combinations will show makes me wonder.

FROM our French office we received a number of packets of this country.

These collections, however, only contain those overprinted stamps which have been so popular with the American collector. We remember when these stamps were sold at a fraction of the present catalogue price, but we anticipate further advances.

CONTRACT AIRMAIL SERVICE

By J. C. ROYLE.

(It is not our practice to publish details of flights. We are always glad to publish news matter which deals directly with the use of stamps upon airmail routes. However, this article taken from the "Buffalo Evening News" is worthy of re-printing. The first contract airmail service records an historical event that deserves attention. Moreover, this article contains certain information which will make it interesting reading.—W. O. W.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The first of the contract air mail services went into effect Monday. Detroit, to which contracts for conveying mail between Chicago and Detroit and Cleveland and Detroit were awarded by the post office department, took over formal operation of the routes. The second of the ten contracts awarded in various parts of the country is expected to go into effect April 1 on the Jacksonville, Tampa, Miami, Atlanta routing. The other successful contractors will start their planes during the spring with the Chicago-Fort Worth service commencing to function early in April.

In addition, contracts for a route between Chyenne, Wyo., and Pueblo, Col., will be let March 1st. The new Cleveland-Pittsburgh contract will be awarded March 22nd and that between Chicago and Atlanta, March 27th. The last named represents a revision of the original Chicago-Birmingham proposal, for which no satisfactory bid was received.

Several other routes are under consideration for which no satisfactory bids are likely at present. This is due to the fact that they involve night flying and private contractors seem to consider prohibitive the expensive lighting of flight planes incident to such transportation. This is the case with the Chicago-St. Louis Memphis-New Orleans journey. Eventually, night flying on many routes must come, since departure in the morning means that much of the mail carried might have been dispatched on trains leaving the night before and have reached its destination equally as soon.

Basis of Contracts

The law authorizing the installation of the contract air mail service provides that compensation shall not exceed 80 per cent of the revenue from the mail carried. Most of the contracts have been let on a percentage basis, but some have been awarded at so much an ounce. The minimum postage charge is ten cents an ounce so that a specific rate in a contract may be translated into a percentage.

Under the contracts, the contractors pay all expenses, including those for landing fields. Post office department simply delivers mail to the fields and takes it away from them. The contracts carry penalty clauses providing for fines for failure to fly or to adhere reasonably close to schedules where the fault is with the contractor. Dangerous flying weather or acts of Providence are accepted as legitimate excuses for failure to maintain schedules.

No guarantee is given by the department to any contractor. While there is no official knowledge of the fact, it is believed that in some cases contractors have been guaranteed against loss by civic bodies, such as chambers of commerce. The department frowns on such practices, holding that the experiment should rise or fall on its merits.

At present all schedules are tentative and only a hazy idea exists as to how penalties are to be assessed. It will be practically six months before any general set of rules can be put down. Estimates of the revenue which will accrue from operation of the routes are tentative at best.

The routes started today provide for carrying mail from the air ports at Dearborn, Mich., 91 miles to Cleveland and back six days a week. The contract calls for payment at the rate of 6¾ cents an ounce.

The Chicago-Detroit service also will be maintained daily except Sunday.

THE 31st anniversary of the Springfield Stamp Club was celebrated Monday evening, February 8th, at the Trinity Community House, Springfield, Mass., President Henry C. Hyde presiding. The wives of the members were entertained as guests of honor. After the banquet an interesting program was enjoyed, the committee in charge being John W. Prevost, Theophile J. Champagne, and George W. Angers. It was interesting to note that there were present six of the original club members; namely, Edgar D. Curtis, John W. Prevost, William C. Stone, T. J. Champagne, Wilson C. Emery, and Robert C. Monroe.

THE annual meeting of the Association for Stamp Exhibitions was held Monday, March 1st, at the Collectors Club, 120 W. 49th Street, New York City, for the purpose of electing fifteen directors to serve three years. The following were elected:—J. M. Bartels, E. N. Costales, Charles Curie, P. G. Doane, H. M. Konwiser, A. H. Lamborn, H. M. Lewy, A. F. Lichtenstein, J. C. Morgenthau, H. B. Newman, A. E. DR. EMILIO DIENA

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

Inquire of anyone posted as to the world's foremost philatelist and I think that without question they will all agree that the honor belongs to Dr. Emilio Diena of Rome. Dr. Diena is not only well known throughout Europe and America, but in every country where stamps are collected. Born in 1860, he started his philatelic activities eleven years later and since that time has been a consistent collector of postage stamps. While his main activities and writings have been devoted to the postage stamps of Italy and the Italian states, nevertheless he is well posted on the earlier emissions of the other countries.

In 1906 he received the Lindenberg award consisting of a medal and diploma awarded annually by the Berlin Philatelic Club to that philatelist who, in their estimation, stood out paramount in the year's philatelic activities.

Dr. Diena has been a member of practically every International Philatelic Exhibition jury during the last forty years and when he attends the International Philatelic Exhibition to be held in New York during October of this year, he will have served his twenty-fifth time as a member of an international jury. I doubt whether there is anyone today who can begin to approach this record.

When I arrived in Rome in December of 1924, my thoughts first turned to Dr. Diena and through his courtesy I spent a most enjoyable day going over a small portion of his philatelic treasures. I had thought heretofore that I had seen many specialized collections, but I doubt whether there is a collection of the issues of any country that approaches Dr. Diena's holdings of Italy and the Italian states in thoroughness. When you realize that he will take a country and not only go in for the individual stamps in singles and blocks, but will plate every variety platable and have every cancellation known, you will appreciate to what I refer. In plating his varieties he is not satisfied with only one plate, but wants it in its different stages of wear, that is, he will show the sharp early prints, the medium prints and the worn prints. When a stamp runs in shades, he endeavors to get together reconstructed sheets of each shade. In the canceled varieties, he wants every cancellation known to every town and he generally has them so arranged that from his canceled copies you can see when a certain postmark came into use and when it was superseded by a further postmark. Dr. Diena started his accumulation at a time when these stamps were readily available for today it would be physically impossible for anyone to duplicate his holdings—no matter what amount he might have at his disposal. I especially recall a portion of his wonderful lot of Sicily. He has the Bomba heads all plated in their different states showing the many recuts and retouches. When a collector today locates a beautiful copy of the 50 grana which catalogs at $40.00, he naturally prides himself on having something choice, but Dr. Diena has two half sheets of this variety in mint condition, in addition to numerous used specimens. He possesses a wonderful array of covers, showing odd combinations. His books on these stamps no doubt ranks as a master piece of philatelic literature.

Although I spent most of the day with Dr. Diena, I believe that it took me fully several hours to look over his collection of this issue alone, which in the catalog covers but a small portion of a column.

Those who have had the pleasure of visiting Dr. Diena will also appreciate that he owns possibly the second or third finest philatelic library in the world. He subscribes to most all of the known philatelic papers, which he carefully files and in the case of monographs, he has practically everything.

Dr. Diena's two sons are equally interested in postage stamps and he tells me that their knowledge of the stamps of Italy and its states is almost as great as his own for they have studied the varieties together and what one has learned has been impressed upon the other.

America will welcome Dr. Diena with open arms at the exposition and many of his old friends in this country will look forward to his visit with a great deal of pleasure.

I might tell a little story about him that came to me indirectly quite recently. It seemed that a well known banker of Vienna was exceedingly anxious to add to his already large holdings the wonderful collection of Dr. Diena and sent a representative to Rome to negotiate the purchase, instructing his representative to buy the collection at any price placed upon it.

The trip was made, Dr. Diena was asked to put a price upon his collection but refused. It was then suggested that he figure it out on a substantial basis and double the figure, but even this was refused, although Dr. Diena is not a man of means. You will, therefore, see that stamps form a great portion of his life and money in such a connection is a very minor consideration to him.

CATALOGUE OF THE STAMPS OF CHINA AND CHINESE TREATY PORTS

That worthy worker in the cause of philately, Mr. Theodore Siddall, Shanghai, China, has published an enlarged edition of the stamps referred to in the title. Mr. Siddall is fortified by long experience to describe the stamps and to appraise them, and to say that the little work of fifty pages will be welcomed is a superfluous remark. Doubtlessly, the half of the list detailing the stamps of the Treaty Ports will have the close attention of those who have been somewhat at sea in dealing with these local issues in question. From Amoy to Wuhu the compiler takes us and with the illustrations and notes, all is made plain and the practic value of the prices appended to the stam is recognized. The rare Weihaiwei a priced, the two stamps of the first ty being listed at forty and fifty dollars r spectively, in Shanghai dollars. Chi in all its stamp ramifications, is spread the pages and prices are adjusted wi care. The surcharges, Formosa and list of Hong Kong stamps used in Chin ports, have place. A study of the list w afford the collector a good backgrou for viewing the issues inasmuch as t quotations on the stamps evidently a based on relative worth. A picture Mr. Siddall appears on one of the pag Price, fifty cents; Theodore Siddall, pu lisher, P. O. Box 1141, Shanghai, Chi

UNITED STATES ISSUES 1870-1900

DR. WM. EVANS, Editor,
313 E. Freemason St., Norfolk, Va.

(Any letter requiring a reply must have a self-addressed stamped envelope. No attention can be given matters that do not belong to the years indicated. What can you contribute of interest?)

A short time ago it was proposed to compile a list of the issues of 1882, along the lines of the specialization in the catalogue. A number of correspondents have favored this, but Mr. Hammatt and Mr. Young are the only ones who have supplied material for the lists. Shades and varieties are already listed and we therefore need only to list the cancellations. So far these are as shown below.

1c blue, black, blue, purple, magenta, red, green, Year dates 1881 to 1888, town.

6c rose, black, magenta, green, town, Year dates 1882-1883.

10c brown, black, blue, purple, magenta, red, green, Supplementary Mail, Year dates 1883 to 1890, town.

5c yellow brown, black, blue, purple, magenta, Year date 1883, town.

1883, 4c blue green, black, Supplementary Mail, town.

1887, 2c green, black, blue, purple, magenta, red, green, railroad, town.

1c ultramarine, black, blue, purple, magenta, red, green, town.

A number of interesting items have been submitted. Mr. Wm. S. Eager sent many of these in one lot.

A 3c green on cover from Dalton, Mass., with a large obliterator on the stamp, which appears to be a colorless E in a big black field, makes one wonder why it's an E, instead of a D.

Taunton, Mass., used green ink for its cancellations in the 50's, and liked it so well that a cover from there dated Oct. 1, 1870, has a green postmark, though the stamps are canceled in black.

And Auburndale, Mass., used year dates in both 1875 and 1876 as is evidenced by two covers dated in those years, the 1876 being magenta.

Then there is a 3c green canceled with black quarterings from a town with this postmark

- - - TON CENTRE
OCT. 18 1878
MASS.

Who can tell us the whole name of the town?

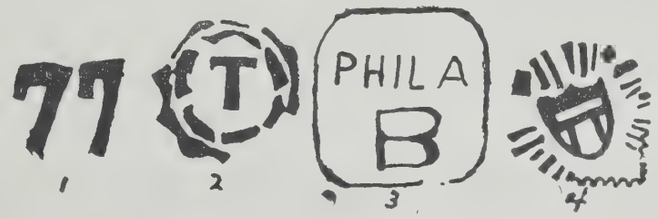
There is also a cover from Peru, Mass., with the large 76 cancellation, and one from Hinsdale, Mass., with just as large 77. (Cut 1.)

A 2c green 1887 cover mailed at Townsend, Mass., has a green postmark and a green star on the stamp, and the date is Mar. 27, 1888. The letter is addressed to Hudson, Mass., and on the back the name of that town appears twice dated Mar. 27. A pen stroke has been drawn through Hudson, and Lincoln written, then that has been similarly treated and Norwood written in place of it. At some time on its journey a second stamp has been added and this is canceled black quartering. And on the face is the postmark Auburndale, Mass., Apr. 4, and then on the back Norwood, Mass., Rec'd Apr. 4. Plenty of postmarks.

A postal card mailed in Chicago in 1874 is canceled with a large T in a double circle, in blue. (Cut 2). This card has an enormous watermark, part of which looks like P. O. D., but there is another portion of it, which I can not make out. Perhaps some more ingenious person can tell us what it is? And was it the regular thing or just an occasional happening?

A 1c stamp on a cover is canceled with a Phila. obliterator which is, to me, new, and odd. (No. 3.)

Mr. Samuel Bennett has sent a two cents 1887 canceled with a neat little shield, which must be quite scarce. It is off cover and the place at which it was used is not known. Who can identify it? (No. 4.)



Dr. H. A. Robinson shows a cover postmarked U. S. Postal Agency, Shanghai, China, on which are two 2c green and a 1c ultramarine of the 1887 issue.

Another cover postmarked Dwarskill, N. Y., with that nice little shield in a circle on the stamp.

And a cover with two 1c 1887 and a special delivery stamp, in the upper right corner of which is pasted a pink label reading "Originally 'held for postage' at New York as short paid, and now forwarded on receipt from you of stamp necessary for full prepayment."

Dr. Robinson also includes some fine cancellations on 2c red brown and 3c green, including a pair of the first each showing a horse's head, a single with a padlock on which appears U. S. Mail in colorless letters, two pumpkin heads, two shields, a four leaf clover, and a skull and bones.

From Mr. Warner Bates, 73 W. Eagle St., Buffalo, N. Y., I have recently received a supply of prints of the 3c green, made from a drawing by Major Bonesteel. These are large and can be used to draw in plate varieties, such as scratches, cracks, double transfers, or other items, and Mr. Bates suggests that if these drawings are made in red ink, the print so treated will be a very nice thing to mount in our albums beside the original, and will be a mighty attractive addition. Mr. Bates also offers to supply these prints to anyone who wants them at cost, which is extremely generous, and they

THAT "ONE BIG CLUB" IDEA

By J. E. GUEST.

Considerable interest has doubtless been taken in Mr. Coes article on the formation of one big society for philatelists. This is not a new idea, but has been proposed from time to time by various philatelists and usually abandoned when it was found that the membership (collectors) were not interested, but perfectly satisfied to endeavor to build their own society, under the direction of the officers they themselves choose.

However, the suggestion that some sort of a meeting ground be arranged or worked out where the questions of importance to philatelists could be discussed once a year by delegates from the several different societies might be considered practical enough to enlist the support of the members of our leading stamp clubs.

In line with this suggestion I would quote from the editorial page of The Stamp Collectors Magazine of New York, issue of December, 1925. In commenting on a suggestion that the smaller societies combine with the larger ones, Mr. Bach states as follows:—"Had there been a suggestion of forming a Federation of stamp clubs, in which all clubs were members, with a national head and advisory board, and to which each club were entitled to send delegates to elect that national head, then it would be a suggestion worthy of consideration. Under such a Federation each club would be free to go its own ways as long as they followed a national constitution, which would have to be written and each club could transact its own affairs absolutely independent and free from domination. If this should come to pass organized philately would have accomplished something."

If Mr. Coes had but an idea in mind like the proposed or suggested Federation, one similar to which we understand exists in this country under the name of the United Stamp Societies, well and good, but one would infer that he wishes to take all the assets of our largest society, including the insurance fund accumulated by its own sales department and place this in trust to protect the smaller sales departments of other societies.

If Mr. Coes believes that the time has come to launch another society to absorb all the other clubs, not excepting the finances of these clubs into a common fund, then it would seem the best thing for him to do to see if this sort of a club meets with the approval of the collectors at large is to get a charter for his club and invite members of the various present stamp societies to resign from their respective societies and come into the new one.

The "One Big" idea is not a new one, only a few years ago we will recall that a "One Big Union," was advocated, in which all Union Labor were asked to participate, but as it seems that such a union was being pushed forward by smaller organizations and not by the leaders, and also it seemed that the main purposes was for these smaller unions by outnumbering the larger ones in such a "One Big Union" would be able to outvote them. The larger ones turned a deaf ear to the plan. Why should these larger and financial strong Unions allow the smaller and weak ones to combine against them and dissipate their finances in propaganda work?

Mr. Coes overlooks the self evident fact that the "One Big Club" has arrived. It is the American Philatelic Society, with around 3,500 members, an official monthly organ second to none and the largest sales department of any society in the world. A sales department that takes the time of two persons to manage.

Now that the large society has been discovered and made known to Mr. Coes it could in order be suggested that he endeavor to help that society grow more powerful and influential in the philatelic world by joining others of the hard workers it has lined up with it and recruit members. If any other club wishes to disband then let them do so at their own wish and apply for membership in the now "One Big Society" that has arrived. There is only one way to get into this society and that is by individual application and not by adoption.

The A. P. S. is big, it's the largest in the Country. It has over $15,000.00 in cash assets. Over $6,000 of this is in its sales department insurance fund and every year this has been increased even after losses occurring have been paid. The A. P. S. charges members insurance on the books they enter in the department, its insurance rate is larger than that of some of the smaller societies, but the A. P. S. can say that it has always been in a position to pay off promptly, and why should the plan of Mr. Coes now include the placing of this fund, paid in by members of the A. P. S. for their protection, into a general fund for the protection of members of other societies who might suffer losses thru other sales departments, where the insurance fund is not sufficient to pay them. Most of the losses probably incurred have happened in transit, damages to the registered packages, but there has been some in all societies by substitution, as well as some debits against the insurance funds to cover purchases of members who have failed to pay. While insurance might be arranged with some company to cover the damages or losses in transit, it is doubtful if they would pay for substitution losses or losses incurred thru the default of members in meeting their obligations.

There are members in other societies that would be protected under such a plan as Mr. Coes suggests, who have been denied admittance to, and in some cases been expelled from the A. P. S. Would it be fair to take our insurance fund and place it in a pool to protect losses that might occur on account of such individuals?

The A. P. S. is a corporate body, it is 40 years old and has weathered many storms, and by taking its assets away and giving the benefit to some other club jointly, the A. P. S., which so many men, such as John W. Scott, E. B. Sterling, C. E. Severn, P. M. Wolsieffer had strived to build up, would be split asunder and out of the wreck numerous small clubs spring up. There are dozens of men both in the A. P. S. and S. P. A. who have the confidence of many members, who could easily influence them to come into an entirely new society, c ruled by the membership, governed their choice and not controlled by a co mittee located in an Eastern metropol

To Mr. Coes I would say that his su gestion is probably the result of mu practical thought and planning, but as has never had very close relationship wi the majority of the membership of a society, he does not know that his pl of scrapping such societies as the A. P. and the S. P. A. would not meet w hearty approval of the membership same. Let him put his shoulder to t wheel with those of us who are trying raise the membership of the A. P. S. 5,000 before next October and then p haps the collectors of this country w realize that the "One Big Society" h really been here all the time. It is t American Philatelic Society.

Two of our national stamp organiz tions have early in the season come o strongly against consolidation of a kind, deciding to go their own way alon these were the I. P. S. and the S. P. A.

THE PHILATELIC INSTRUCTOR

By FRANCIS M. BOTELHO, Ph.D., Wayne, Pa.

CHAPTER XIV.

Displaying Your Stamps.

Every normal human being is a sociable creature. He likes to discuss his affairs and ambitions with congenial spirits. Among stamp-collectors this trait is present in a marked degree. In fact, to such an extent that when two philatelists meet, their topic of conversation invariably veers around to, and centers upon their hobby.

From telling about one's collection to showing it is but a short step. That is why stamp "fans" evince so much enthusiasm in one another's albums. Information is freely exchanged, and as surely as night follows day, or spring follows winter, the exchange of information is quickly replaced by an exchange of "duplicates." This friendly barter benefits reciprocally and acquaintanceship ripens into something more intimate.

But the true philatelist does not confine the displaying of his stamps to fellow-collectors only. He shows the contents of his album or albums to everybody whom he can dragoon to inspect his treasure. In so doing he satisfies his justified desire to exhibit the results of his painstaking efforts both in acquiring and in arranging. At the same time, he whets the curiosity and arouses the interest of non-collectors.

Perhaps you are collecting stamps through having been shown a neatly-assembled aggregation. You, too, feel the urge to show what you have.

Apart from the personal satisfaction, you perform a great favor upon yourself and fellow-hobbyists every time you display your collection, because you tend to implant upon your non-collecting audience the desire to follow your example. Every new recruit you bring into the fold adds that much value to the game because with more participants the opportunities for exchange and sale of duplicates, or even your main aggregation, become enhanced.

For this reason, every stamp society or local club should encourage stamp exhibitions.

Exhibitions can be easily arranged. A room, some tables with a few chairs, and a little publicity by word of mouth, direct mail or press notices, will always attract a number of outsiders. And these are the people that exhibition promoters should aim at drawing.

It is, however, not enough to have them come. It is necessary to tell them the whys and wherefores of the philatelic art, or science as often claimed. This is to plant in their minds the seeds of interest. From them, the flower of conversation will bloom.

Unfortunately, enthusiastic as are most collectors, they are not trained lecturers—nor even competent explainers in an informal manner. This lack is, in a great measure, the result of failure to read up about the different phases of stamp collecting. To a large extent also, the fault lies in the situation deplored by the editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in a recent issue, with the following words:—

"There is an occasional call for philatelic matter suitable for reading before the radio or before non-philatelic organizations and heretofore we have been able to supply material of the kind to those who are willing to make use of it. The receipt of a request from a reader for something of the kind, who asks if there is not some distributing point for articles causes us to deplore the condition that does not take advantage of this means to obtain the much sought publicity that so often is spoken of. An effort should be made to have proper material at the beck of the collectors who are willing to do their part, if the tools are provided."

As most experienced philatelists know, the majority of the philatelic publications in book or pamphlet form are somewhat too specialized to be of interest to the general reader, or even the general collector. On the other hand, the less specialized publications, while containing good points, are not literary gems.

CHAPTER XV.

Stamp Societies and Clubs.

It is paradoxical that whereas stamp "fans" are to be found in every city, town and hamlet, nothing like a really big national or international society is existent.

This fact is the more difficult to understand when one realizes that here in America, over in Great Britain and there on the Continent, surprisingly complete and large catalogues are published annually and sold at a price.

It is true that in Europe there are several organizations that call themselves "International Clubs." In fact, there are counterparts in Japan, the Straits Settlements, etc., including South Africa, if the present writer is not mistaken.

None of them, however, is a very important factor. Some publish monthly or bi-monthly organs of an appearance far from imposing, and with contents less so. The membership is often listed in full, and while the internationality is represented by members scattered everywhere, the totality indicates comparatively little significance.

In the United States there is more than one organization that can be justifiably labeled "national" in scope, but certainly not "international."

There are, of course, obstacles towards making any of the present national societies into an international one. The so-called "International Clubs" of Europe are, in actuality, only the source from which issue organs listing people wishing to exchange duplicates or otherwise barter in stamps and pictorial postcards. The American societies are on a different plane, in that the members are rendered either a selling or exchanging service, or both. That is to say, a member has the privilege of being placed on "a circuit," enabling him to receive approval books containing the offerings of fellow-members for exchange or sale. The society becomes responsible for all material entering into the "circuits," charging the owners for "insurance" and for "commission". The commissions represent the remuneration of unsalaried "sales superintendents" and "exchange directors."

It can, therefore, be readily recognized that there would be dangers and undue risks in sending material to "circuits" outside the country's borders. For this reason, if for no other, the American societies will always remain "national," unless the addition of Canadian "circuits" warrants using the term "international."

Nevertheless, a big national philatelic society is still to come into being. At present, it seems the membership of the largest numbers only about 4,000 or a little more. If the inactive members are excluded from the count, the figure will be appreciably smaller.

Consequently, it is not to be wondered at that there is a growing sentiment towards amalgamating the several larger national societies, to the end that one single "mother society" may come into being. If this plan is realized, duplication of efforts would be eliminated. Especially, where two or more organs or society journals are published separately, only one, and a better one, could be produced and distributed with more economy and to greater advantage.

Such a scheme is, however, not easy to put through, for as long as human nature remains as it is, subordination of self and one's aims cannot be brought about with facility. But it is possible that in time the present or future officers of each of the several separate organizations will devise some arrangement whereby they can merge their units without entirely losing their official philatelic status.

It would benefit everybody.

In the meantime, progress can be made by giving more attention to the promotion of "local clubs," each with the respective officers and sets of by-laws, etc. But, right here it may be pointed out that the organizers of local clubs should be guided by a policy to develop local interest and membership with the view ultimately to affiliate with a large national parent society. As a matter of fact, it is even now possible and practical to organize "local chapters" of the national societies. Doing so would seem to be of more advantage for all concerned. Unity makes for strength.

One chief reason for "locals" is to provide the medium by which both advanced and beginner collectors may meet personally at regular intervals to enjoy that which was given mention in the preceding chapter.

Needless to say, the functions of local club should comprise:

(a) Scheduled meetings.
(b) Membership drives.
(c) Exhibitions and prepared talks.
(d) Social reunions.
(e) Exchanging provisions.
(f) Selling provisions.
(g) Distribution of philatelic literature.
(h) Press notices.
(i) Development of mature specialists.
(j) Research.
(k) Attracting young neophytes.
(l) Winning more followers among the fair sex.
(m) Periodical change of officers by popular vote.

WORTH MORE THAN RADIUM

By C. E. R.

I would like to add a little more as to the comparative value of that British Guiana one penny red that we all regard with awe. I haven't one, it is unnecessary to say, but I do have a lifelike copy on highly glazed paper; I don't mean a copy, but an imitation. It is 33.5 millimeters one way and 35.5 the other and is almost rectangular; there isn't much difference in the dimensions. I cut a like piece of light bond paper of about the weight of that used on our 1857 stamps and it weighed 90 milligrams. Now, assuming that the real stamp weighs as much, it is worth $361 a milligram.

I have seen radium salts quoted at from $70 to $100 a milligram, so that the stamp is worth about four times its weight in radium, and, except for the possible exception of the pair of Mauritius stamps on cover, is the most valuable thing, by weight, on earth. A diamond to be of equal value, would be worth $72,200 a carat (metric) and not even the great Cullinan is that, or was, rather, before they cut it up.

If I owned that stamp I would mount it alongside a fifty billion mark German one; a two-cent (1d) stamp worth thirty-two thousand five hundred dollars, and a twelve billion dollar stamp worth maybe two bits. And I'd look at 'em, and moralize.

EXHIBITION EXHIBITS

HERMAN TOASPERN, F.H.S.L.

From the large number of inquiries received by the Committee on the International Exhibition to be held in New York, this October, it seems as if every collector of importance is grooming his or her collection for showing.

Mr. Arthur E. Owen, who has been our active engineer planned the frames so as to give the maximum result, without having the frames an odd size or irregular. The Committee at its last meeting handed down the following ruling:—

"From the number of exhibits already in sight, it is more than probable that we will not have an overabundance of space to assign an unlimited number of frames to any one exhibitor; and in the interest of all, the committee suggests that exhibitors limit their applications to four frames for any one exhibit, which will allow a display of 120 pages."

"Not more than 40 frames will be allotted to any one exhibitor."

These two rulings are based on a great deal of experience. Most specialized collections consist of three to four Oriels at the most, though there are exceptions. This would be a 200 page collection, at the most, and the figure is high. At least half would not be of particular interest, and the ruling will make the exhibitors show the choicer things and thus avoid a lot of duplication among various exhibitors.

The ruling of not more than 40 frames to one exhibitor is to prevent what one might term "a one man show". There have been such cases in the past, and it is the most urgent desire of the committee to have many exhibitors as well as many exhibits. This exhibition is being run for the benefit of all serious collectors, and not for a select few. Don't let anyone take you into a corner and tell you how Mr. Hoosis and Mr. Whatsthis are going to garner all the honors, because it isn't anywheres near the truth.

The committee is stressing everything possible in the way of conditions to make mere money value of the least importance. Anyone who doesn't believe it is going to be surprised when he see some wonderful philatelic studies in collections that did not cost a raft of money.

Our good friend Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack showed what could be done with a cheap stamp in 1913, and killed the idea that one needed a vast sum of money to make a showing.

The committee hopes to knock the false idea of value so far as possible out of the judging.

We are open to suggestions until the new Prospectus goes to press, and if you don't speak up now, we expect you to forever hold your peace.

If you are in doubt about anything in the Prospectus, read it over again; then if still in doubt write and ask. But please don't ask without careful reading, as Mr. Ams is up to his ears in work.

Better start now working to fatten the bank roll for the trip to New York next October because International Exhibitions must of necessity be at least eight to ten years apart.

THE PROPOSED BOTELHO BOOK

Those of our advertisers who received the recent circular letter sent out by Dr. Francis M. Botelho, Wayne, Pa., will have been impressed by the rather unusually altruistic light under which he presented a unique proposition aimed at gathering in thousands of active recruits to follow stamp-collecting as the hobby of hobbies. Dr. Botelho is the head of an important department at the world-known Philadelphia Commercial Museum. By connections and training (besides being a trade adviser, he is also a linguist and author,) he is particularly well-equipped for putting across the big idea he outlined to you, and about which a special item appeared Feb. 8th. His interesting serial, "The Philatelic Instructor," has been running since a long while in this publication, and it is to be admitted that the series of articles is an eminently suitable piece of philatelic literature for general distribution. We hope sufficient support will have been given Dr. Botelho by both our readers and our advertisers to enable him to complete the realization of the project. We feel sure that if put through along the lines he has planned, the publication will be another forward step towards solidly establishing our hobby favorably in the minds of the vast non-collecting public. If you have omitted to respond to Dr. Botelho's circular, why not drop him an answer conveying your tangible support? The sooner you let him have it the sooner will the project be consummated. It is undoubtedly worth while, and, in our opinion, ought to benefit you in an individual manner if you go in with him to put the thing over.

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY

We are particularly pleased to inform our friends that in addition to last week's announcement we have made a further purchase of the remarkably superb collection and accumulation formed by the Late Dr. George D. Woodward

Of CAMDEN, NEW JERSEY

The collection is parallel to the exceptionally fine one of R. G. Hitchman of Toronto, some of which is offered to you this month in EMCO MONTHLY CIRCULAR on pages 16 to 26. Many exceedingly unusual pieces are to be found, all in the very finest of condition. Some of the better items contained in these collections will be included in our April MONTHLY CIRCULAR.

The accumulation of extra stamps is especially strong in mint British Colonials from 1890 to 1915 inclusive. Over $100,000.00 catalogue value in this section of this purchase alone, all in the very finest mint shape, just as received direct from the different Postmasters. Early South and Central America in abundance in superb condition only.

These two purchases catalogue altogether, approximately, $175,000.00 and combined with our own stock will enable us to fill more of your requirements than ever before.

A goodly number of items from these purchases are offered, as stated above, in this and the next issue of our Emco Monthly Circular. Always remember the fact that the bulk of such purchases as these are placed directly into our Approval Selections by countries. If you would like to fill in certain countries, your application should be shipped without delay. Many good things will quickly disappear.

EDITORIAL.

Philately is in the air and from all quarters come reports of activities based upon an appreciation of stamps as objects of collection. We believe that all the publicity that collecting has been receiving is beginning to converge on the outside citizen who no longer may say that he knows nothing whatever of stamps. It may be said that the coming Exhibition is cracking the shell of ignorance that encases so many folks and will allow them to emerge into the philatelic open. The great task that has been planned by the New York philatelists is one whose accomplishment will entail work of unremitting kind but the sponsors will be buoyed up by the knowledge that success will bring philately into its own and that nevermore in this country will collecting be regarded as something apart from the regard of normal men and women.

Recent remarks on the subject of the possibility of special issues during the year have not been unnoticed and a number of letters from readers speak in no uncertain tones about the prospects. Our opinion that the commemorative stamp is viewed variously by sincere collectors was confirmed some time ago and the present circumstances do not alter it. Some correspondents deplore the tendency of the government to say it with stamps on "slight provocation" while others applaud the enterprise of the authorities in providing stamps at small cost for the embellishment of albums. We do not care to revive the discussion that was once waged in our columns on the propriety of the extra issues and for the time being we shall content ourselves with reporting what we hear from our Washington informant.

Any attempt to cast ridicule on the choice of a collector should be discouraged and while every one is entitled to his opinion, there is no warrant for holding up the collector of any stamps that suit his fancy, to scorn. That United States issues are worthy of the great share of attention that is given them and that they provide material enough to monopolize the thoughts of a good many philatelists do not make it good taste to belittle other stamps. In fact, the specialist in U. S. stamps exercises a demoralizing influence when he wants to give the impression that the philatelic sun rises and sets in them. It is not desired that the field of collecting be restricted to certain countries only and under ordinary conditions, concentration of collecting attention corrects itself by causing greatly advanced prices for the stamps for which there is an extraordinary demand. Collecting tact and tolerance are factors that smooth the collecting way.

If conventionality has been knocked into a cocked hat and if sentiment is kicked out of the way when it strays on the path of business, then the issue of the triangular four pence recently issued by the South African colony does no violence to opinion. While this imitation of its prototype has its points of interest, yet its issue does some slight to tradition because of the secure place that the old three-cornered Capes have in the affections of collectors generally. There is something impertinent about the new stamp and its coming has been viewed with some concern by collectors who wonder if profane hands will dare molest other idols of a past era. It has been predicted freely that the tenure of life of the newcomer will be short and while this year's stamp will be in demand, the attempt to trade on the glories of the old stamps is one that does not meet with approval.

Now that railroad cancellations have such a following, it would be interesting to have an exhaustive history of the origin and development, so to say, of the postal car on which mail is "worked." It is known that before 1860, unorganized attempts were made to distribute mails that had been sorted on the cars but it is generally held that the credit for efficiency in this connection belongs to Armstrong whose idea of postal cars on express trains was developed into actuality in 1864. The first regular cars for the handling of mails in transit were operated on the Galena division of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad on August 28th, 1864, and it has been said that this improvement did not attract the attention that otherwise it would have, because of the distractions of the times due to the momentous events of the civil war. The postal cars were a success and it was not long before they were utilized on lines between New York and Washington, then on the Chicago and Rock Island. Soon after, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and the Pennsylvania adopted them and it was not a great while before most of the trunk lines through the country were similarly equipped. A monument was erected to Colonel Armstrong, the originator of the convenience, and placed on the site of the Chicago post office; and later, it was taken into the halls of the new or present building; and among those who see the statue or bust daily, the stamp collector may best realize what the departure from the old method has meant for all the public.

A variation of the theme, "philately teaches geography" is found in a cablegram appearing in the New York Times from Paris, dated March 1st. A clerk in one of the French revenue tax offices appropriated nearly a half million francs from the tax fund and went on a stamp spree, we should judge. He frequented the open-air bourse in Paris and perhaps he did not pick his sources of stamp supply with care. At any rate, he thought he was making a good investment and that the returns from the sale of the stamps would be attended with profit. It seems that all he could get from the dealer for his collection was 130,000 francs, when he was impelled by the prickings of conscience to restore the money that he had purloined. In answer to the judge's inquiry why he got himself into the predicament, he said that stamps taught him geography! The chap is either very deep or very simple and his act was in emulation of the character in Lamb's story of roast pig, who burned down the village in effect to get the delicacy. The clerk was sentenced to two years' imprisonment as the judge explained to the jury that there were extenuating circumstances; he said that the dealer who offered the man less than half what he paid for the stamps was culpable, as it was he who sold the defendant the stamps originally, although we gathered from the text that the clerk may have bought his stamps variously. The friend who sent the clipping says: "The result of buying unwisely and shows the usual dealer's attitude." We should stress the first clause of the sentence as the man who buys in a hurry has plenty of time in which to repent.

In "Stephen Crane at College," in the current issue of the American Mercury, we found a sentence that whetted our expectations: "He roomed with me for a time and one night attempted to cut my throat with my own razor, alleging that I had stolen a postage stamp. It was a vengeful Cuban who tried to caress a friend of Crane with the blade but try as hard as we could, no philatelic significance could be attached to the further context. If the stamp had been one of the philatelic gems some sympathy could be trumped up for the temperamental outburst.

"Will you not suggest that the publishers of the Specialized U. S. include the 'specimen' stamps other than those of the departments in the next edition of their valuable list?" asks a reader. It would have been just as well for the writer to have registered his wish with the catalogue publishers who, we take it, are always open to reason."

SAN FRANCISCO CELEBRATES

On February 15, 1915, a small group of earnest and determined philatelists met and decided to arouse philately out of the state of lethargy it had fallen into in San Francisco and the bay region. With nine charter members the San Francisco Stamp Society came into existence and slowly but surely it began to work out the destiny of western philately until now it has made a record to be proud of.

With officers and members alike giving all that is in them for the good of the cause, the society has grown with leaps and bounds until now it numbers over 230 members, amongst whom are most of the leading philatelists of the West. It is the largest branch society of the American Philatelic Society and has the proud distinction of giving the national society the first president to be elected from west of the Rockies. Recognized as a representative research body, the Mayor and City Officials have granted the society the privilege of holding its meetings in the magnificent City Hall. It is the only local stamp society in the United States issuing its own monthly paper and it is justly proud of the assistance it has rendered to our unfortunate "shut-ins" and of the regular radio talks given by its vice-president.

And now to celebrate its eleventh birthday were gathered together over 100 of the members and their friends in the beautiful new banquet room of the Hotel Clift, a veritable scene of gaiety and beauty; the varied hues of ladies' costumes intermingled with the beautiful floral decorations making a delightful setting for the Goddess of Philately to hold her sway for an evening of unalloyed joy.

After a few words of welcome by President Wilhelm, the guests proceeded to partake of the sumptuous repast, while an atmosphere of good-fellowship reigned supreme. Introduced as Toastmaster for the evening, Mr. R. H. Willcox proceeded in his masterful and pleasing way. Greetings were read from Mayor Jas. Rolph, Jr., also from Donald Piercy, the latter detained by illness.

Marimbas, the native instrument of Guatemala, were played in a pleasing way throughout the evening by "Doc" Willats' Marimba Band. Monologues and dialect songs rendered by Jim "Scotty" McKenna in his inimitable way evoked much applause. Most pleasing of all were the several whistling solos rendered by Miss Mildred Wright, whose life-like imitation of the warbling and singing of birds was truly remarkable.

Interspersed with this enjoyable program, kindly supervised and directed by Mrs. Ada Morgan O'Brien, musical director of Radio KTAB, were short speeches by several good friends of philately, Colonel J. M. T. Partello, U. S. A., "the grand-daddy of them all"; E. B. McPherson, "good old Mac"; Kenneth A. Millican, "banker on stamps"; Vice-president A. F. Merrill, Radio KFRC's "stamp man"; "smiling" Jim Searle, chief dispenser of "applesauce"; Henry W. Doscher, "square Dealer"; Charlie Turrill, noted collector of "Californiana" and every other kind of "ana", and a guest from far away Hawaii, President Charles J. Cooper of the Royal Hawaiian Stamp Society.

The following were presented with awards for the competitive stamp exhibits held during 1925:— Gold medals for specialized collections to A. H. Wilhelm and Charles W. Arp; Silver medal for general collection to Morris Michaels; Bronze medal for general collection to Donald Piercy.

As a fitting climax to the evening, President Wilhelm again proved that in the midst of their happiness and prosperity the members of this society were always ready to respond to an appeal from "shut-ins" by raising $11.35 for poor, unfortunate George Kump of Xenia, Ohio.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, Mass.

$20,000.00

A valued client has just placed in my hands a very fine collection of British Colonials, used and unused, vintage of the 19th century, cataloging in excess of $20,000.00. The specimens are in excellent condition as a rule and roughly speaking, about 80% of those listing $50.00 or less are present. There is also a fine representation of the rarer varieties cataloging up to $300 and $400 each. The stamps have been individually priced with the idea of moving them quickly—most items being priced at about 40% discount with special net prices on some of the rare birds.

All colonies are here from Antigua to Zululand and many are complete. There is only a single copy of each stamp—so first come—first served. Want lists are especially requested. At the present time I will be glad to make up special selections for those desiring certain varieties and later on they will be made up into booklets by countries and groups of countries, the stamps cataloging up to $10.00 being put into one set of books and the more valuable ones into others.

Such a magnificent collection offers an opportunity to fill in spaces which is only to be had when such holdings come upon the market.

I especially note a fine lot of early Barbados, Cape of Good Hope, Ceylon, Gambia and Gibraltar complete, fine New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, including a wonderful shilling of the former, many rare Turks Islands and Zululand like most of the other colonies through the £5 generally in mint condition. The collection is now being broken up and want lists will be given immediate attention.

Bureau Rotary Prints

Those who have been following the activities of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing have noticed that here of late more and more of the lower denominations on sale at the many post offices throughout the country are of the rotary type. They have now gotten their product to such a point where the complaints have been brought to a minimum and the postal clerk does not find his sheets curling up and breaking apart as was the case when the rotaries first appeared in sheet form.

I am now informed that the Bureau is making arrangements to install new presses, and that beginning with the new fiscal year which starts on July 1st next, they expect to print all denominations from 1c to 10c exclusively from the rotary press. This means that the flat plate varieties of these denominations will be discontinued. The ½c is not likely to appear from the rotary press unless the large number which they now have on hand of the flat plate type is used up. So far, the 7c, 8c and 9c rotaries have not appeared although plates have been made. It is quite likely these three denominations will be placed on sale around the latter part of April or first of May and it is hoped that beginning with July 1st, there will be ample plates for all of the lower denominations, so that the flat plate printing will disappear except in the case of the 11c to $5.00 values.

This change will result in cutting the post office bill practically in half, for offhand, I would say that fully 85% of the stamps printed are of the values of 10c and less.

Air Mail Notes

Mr. S. Hyman kindly sends a clipping from the Chicago Daily News of February 15th calling attention to the contract air mail route inaugurated on that date. Considerable space in this column was devoted last week to clippings from the Detroit end of the route and we now learn from the Chicago clipping that the first plane was piloted by Dean Burford, who left the Maywood field in Ford's ship No. 4 at 1.54 P. M. He carried two sacks of mail weighing fifty-three pounds.

Mr. William Schneider, Jr., sends us an illustration from a Plainfield, N. J., newspaper illustrating an airplane, which they state has been used on the first air mail trip from Chicago to Dallas. I have not heard of the inauguration of any such route, but am communicating with the Department. I imagine that the typesetter read Dallas for Detroit.

1917, 2c Jamestown

Mr. Walter L. Clark submits for inspection a very interesting minor variety of the 2c Jamestown, wherein we find a distinct break under the "w" of "TWO CENTS." This is a break in the transfer roll for the identical variety is found on each stamp in a block of four. It might be classified as a similar oddity to the one recently located in the 5c Walloon, for in this variety you can see where a small piece of metal has become partially detached from the transfer roll. I am unable to state at this time as to what plate the variety is found upon.

We wish to thank Mr. T. J. Gridley, V. P. Masterson, George R. McNeil and F. W. Feeney for notes of interest.

ALBANIA.—Theodore Champion's Bulletin Mensuel chronicles a set of stamps of 11 values, 1q to 5f, of two portrait designs, which have recently been issued. Also a series of four values of postage due stamps: 10q blue, 20q green, 30q brown-red and 50q brown.

BELGIUM. — From Mr. Henry Hooreman, Whitfield King & Co. and the Economist Stamp Co. come copies of the 30c in green of the type of the low values in the 1922-23 issue with the surcharge "Inondations 30c Watersnood" in four lines in red.

BULGARIA.—A Charity label has been issued for this country and is used on Sundays and holidays only, letters posted without this label attached to the envelope are not delivered until the next day. The proceeds of the sale of these labels go towards the Sanatorium for the Post Office employees. The labels are not postage stamps in any way and are not recognized at the International Bureau of Posts at Berne. One leva is charged for the label, which is printed in black on green paper.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly Bulletin.

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC.—Whitfield King & Co. have sent for chronicle a copy of the 3c brown fiscal stamp, which has been surcharged "Correos 1 Centavo" in black in three lines.

A NEW NEW ZEALAND STAMP

Benjamin Cadbury sends us the following ping from a New Zealand newspaper. The ping is so interesting that we publish it its entirety, believing that our subscribers be interested in the story of universal pen- postage established by New Zealand in 1.—Ed.)

The familiar "Zealandia" design of the ny postage stamp of the dominion, ich has been used practically continu- ly since New Zealand led the world in 1 by the adoption of the universal ny postage, will shortly be replaced by lesign portraying King George in Ad- ral's uniform.

n addition to the penny value the de- n of the high value stamps which are nmonly used for postal purposes will be changed. These are the 2s, 2s6d, and 10s stamps, and the new design consist of a portrait of His Majesty Field Marshal's uniform.

t is understood that it is not the inten- n of the Postal Department to change design on the stamps of other de- ninations at present.

Referring to the silver jubilee of the ny "Universal" stamp, the New Zea- d Stamp Collector states that when in 1 the Colonial Secretary intimated t it was the ambition of the Govern- nt to institute a universal rate of one ny on all letters posted in New Zea- d to countries within the Universal stal Union, the statement was greeted h enthusiasm. It was ten years, how- r, before the suggestion became an ac- plished fact. In 1901 New Zealand anced another step with her progres- e policy, and she was the first country the world to offer the privilege of versal penny postage to her people.

n his report for the year 1900 the stmaster-General (Sir Joseph Ward) l:—"The beginning of the new century l fittingly mark the event which should e widespread satisfaction and prove an ch in the history of the colony. New land will, by this reform, be placed he forefront of the civilised countries the world."

Unfortunately the Great War brought reased charges and increased business the Postal Department as in general mmerce, and the letter rate was reluct- ly increased to 1½d; and later on gust 1, 1920, to 2d; but the promise of Postmaster General that the rate uld be reduced at the first opportunity ratified as soon as conditions war- ted the reduction, and on October 1, 3, New Zealand was again to the fore- nt in being the first to restore the 1d to countries within the Universal tal Union. On this occasion the ap" stamp was issued to commemo- rate the event, and although the 1d "Universal" was superseded for the time being, the department continued with the printing of this design after the Map stamp had been issued for some months.

The familiar "Universal" has no doubt grown monotonous to many New Zealanders, and the proposed new Georgian design will come as a welcome change to most people who are not stamp collectors But philatelists the world over will be loth to part with such an old stamp—a stamp which, for single issue specialisation, is unsurpassed as far as philatelic research is concerned. The various plates, re-entries, retouches, papers, and perforations, provide unending study for the specialist, and it is a stamp which will always offer problems to the student. Although during the currency of the 1d "Universal" the design has received minor alterations, the general motif has remained unchanged, and the familiar figure of "Zealandia" has adorned the stamp for a quarter of a century.

HOT SHOT

A Publicity Stunt by W. H. R. of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors' Society.

Vol. I. ST. LOUIS, FEB. 11, 1926. No. 5.

Gone into print on the 11th day of the Second Month, during the year Nine A. P. (After Prohibition). Harken—Fiend of Stamps.

It is with great joy that I bring unto thee this message, which will fill thy heart with cheer and cause thee to rejoice. Wilst not close the draft on thy forge and thy working irons lay aside and list unto my word as it is of great import and concerneth thee and thy well being.

When thou dost awaken from thy couch on the morning of February 16th, which the vulgar call Next Tuesday, gird well thy loins for on this day is there much in store for thee.

What, hast thou forgotten that it hath been decreed by the powers that be that on this day shalt thou feast and hold communion with the faithful? "Yea, verily", I say unto you:

So when cometh this day and the hour of six-thirty having fallen upon the dial of the night, tear ye away from thy aleshop or work bench and repair forthwith to the Temple of Marquette, wherewith ye are already well acquainted, there to break bread with the other faithful disciples of Philately, who, by regular attendance, have gained the favor of our illustrious President Helman and boast of intimacy with His Highness, and comest thou, for woe be unto him who heedeth not and maketh himself conspicuous by his absence.

If thou contemplateth this, let thineself be set straight, for it hath been my good privilege to insert mine proboscis unto the Sacred menu and program of the evening. Tender meats, turned to a rich brown—Gravies that smack of rich spices—Fruits that still bear the imprint of the kiss of Sunny California's Sun—and Dainties and Delicacies made by secrets known only to those who are masters of their craft will be laden before thee in generous abundance. After this bounteous feast when thy stomach is heavy with food and thy pockets bulging with silverware, wilt thou be swayed by the emotions of silver tongued orators—first pathos—then humor—now fear—then fancy—now perforations—then watermarks. Everything will be covered from soup to nuts, so when thou goest home shalt thou wonder at thine own knowledge and wisdom.

But let it be understood that when thou comest that night, thou shouldst come prepared to pay two bucks, which likewise the vulgar call dollars, in consideration of the milk and honey which will be set out for thee.

And last, but not least, I say unto thee, we careth little how often a club member changeth his shirt, collar or socks, but woe unto him who changeth his address, and skiddeth without chains to the Lord knoweth whence, so that neither the Secretary nor anyone else can tell where he tieth his Bull and getteth his last month's coal statement.

Ashes to Ashes, dust to dust,
If the others won't do it, Hot Shot must.

With best wishes and the kindest of personal regards, hoping to see you at the Banquet, I am, Yours

Till the Smith Brothers establish Diplomatic relations with the Barber's Union.

"WASHINGTON POST" EDITORIAL

Clipping from L. E. Tilden.

Collecting postage stamps, once confined largely to schoolboys, has grown to the dimensions of an industry in which millions of dollars are invested. Recognizing the importance of this mania, if such it may be called, the Post Office Department established a bureau of philately, and an office is maintained in one of the rooms of the department in the city post office building wherein are displayed examples of all the current issues of the United States postage stamps, as well as reprints of all that are obsolete. The department adds materially to its revenues by the sale of thousands of stamps annually to collectors, who besides gathering the regular issues as fast as a new denomination or a change in design is produced, are constantly on the lookout for oddities and imperfect specimens.

Philatelists from all sections of the country have been in Washington this week to view the exhibition of rare and common stamps from nearly all the countries of the world. Some of these tiny pieces of paper are so eagerly sought by the men who are inoculated with the collecting mania that they are quoted at prices which approach the marvelous.

There are other collectors, not recognized by the American Philatelist Association as fellows of the craft, who are purely utilitarian in their methods. To these men of venality the triangular issues of the "Cape of Good Hope," the "Locals of Charleston, S. C.," or even the "one penny black of Mauritius" have no attraction whatever. They are after the current issues of the U. S. A., and last Monday night they added materially to their collections. Four "tough-looking birds" broke into the post office in Pawtucket, R. I., and got away with the entire year's supply of the "stickers." The value of the lot is said to reach the comfortable total of $260,000, and it is probable that they will be sold at a discount instead of a premium.

While the philatelic division of the Post Office Department usually welcomes all citizens with the mania for collecting stamps, that welcome is not extended to the "four tough-looking birds," who were last heard of in Pawtucket. But, on the other hand, five inspectors of the Post Office Department are after them and they will welcome any information, which will lead to a personal meeting with the wholesale collectors. They carried the fad entirely too far.

BOSTON'S BIG BANQUET

By ARTHUR GRELLIER

(We regret that we do not have the space to publish Mr. Grellier's report in its entirety. It was mighty interesting reading and did credit to his newspaper instinct. We have abridged his report but think it best to make this acknowledgment of the fine story which he placed in our hands. We must take this opportunity of saying that Mr. Grellier was chairman of the Entertainment Committee, which means that he must have played an important part in making the arrangements and is entitled to a great deal of credit for this splendid celebration.—Ed.)

The 300th meeting celebration dinner of the Suburban Stamp & Curio Club was held at the Hotel Bellevue, Boston, Feb. 24th, and was a big success. Nearby philatelic clubs were represented and nearly seventy people enjoyed a chicken dinner.

Albert Marcher was toastmaster and various speakers responded to toasts, including Fred H. Ohlund, president, H. Schumacher, first president of the club, E. F. Sawyer, the dean of philately, R. Y. Firman, Parker Brown who spoke on "Dealers Problems", W. L. Aldrich, Boston's genial auctioneer, Fernald Hutchins, vice-president of the Boston Philatelic Society, G. A. Davis, president of the Metropolitan Club and George H. Brown, president of the Lynn Philatelic Club.

Two of the speaking guests were accorded a particularly warm welcome, C. A. Howes, former president of the Boston Philatelic Society, and Hon. Roland M. Baker, postmaster of Boston.

Mr. Howes stressed the desirability of studying one's stamps for their inherent interest rather than their "catalog value", a course which will enable many a collector to get a "kick" out of his collecting which perhaps it now lacks.

The speaker of the evening was then introduced, Mr. Roland M. Baker, Postmaster of Boston, who was good enough to make a special effort to be with us. Although not a philatelist, Mr. Baker sympathizes with us in our hobby, and is always ready to do what he can to assist us. He spoke of the enormous stride made by the Postal Department since Benjamin Franklin's time, when the annual sales amounted to only a few thousand dollars, whereas last year the total income of the Department was 650 million dollars. The first post office was established in Boston, in charge of Richard Fairbanks, who, by the way, also sold milk.

The dinner was a great success from every standpoint. Long after the conclusion of the festivities the members of the Club tarried to talk over matters philatelic. The committee in charge spared no pains to make the occasion one long to be remembered.

EAST AND WEST:—

O H. BOHANNAN, Fort Dodg Iowa, is sending out his List No. of U. S. coins and stamps. We are pa ticularly glad to mention this in view the fact that Mr. Bohannan is publ spirited enough to advertise and descri four of our representative U. S. stan publications in the list.

AN interesting monthly paper is issue by the Sales Department of the S. A. It is called "The Chatterbox", a is a good contribution to philatelic liter ture. A copy can no doubt be obtain by applying to Dr. A. E. Hussey, 34 Dury Av., Cincinnati, Ohio.

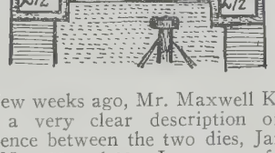
JAMAICA 2 1-2d, NOS. 79 AND 92

By W. D. Pierson.



A few weeks ago, Mr. Maxwell Krause gave a very clear description of the difference between the two dies, Jamaica 2½d Nos. 79 and 92. I was one of those who could not understand "flags reversed" as noted in Stanley Gibbons Catalogue, but of course the watermarks distinguished the two issues. I think, however, that a more apparent difference is the distance between the top of the turret on the forward mast and the shaded horizontal lines below the "Jamaica" tablet. In the first issue, No. 79, watermarked Mult. Crown CA, this distance is quite an appreciable amount, whereas in the second issue, No. 92, watermarked Mult. Crown Script CA, the turret almost touches the shaded lines. The accompanying rough free-hand sketch indicates the distance referred to.

THE BI-MONTHLY JOURNAL

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinary good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

U. S. CIVIL WAR REVENUES

A Discussion of the Great Rarities, Particularly Those of the First Issue Existing in Multiple Form, and a Guide to Their Value

By HENRY L. DEAN, 149 Broadway, New York City

While the beautiful Revenue stamps of our country issued during and immediately following the Civil War period have always attracted many admirers and collectors, there are so few instances of recorded knowledge concerning any of the rare first issue Imperforates known to exist in multiple forms, that reliable present day data on the subject will doubtless be welcomed by both collectors and professionals, and may conceivably lead to the uncovering of items whose values have been unappreciated by their possessors.

Want lists submitted by enthusiasts seeking Imperforate and Part Perforate pairs and larger invariably specify what may be termed "impossible items," while sellers of quite ordinary pieces usually allow their enthusiasm to exceed their information indicating that there are not a dozen persons in the country accurately posted on the multiple Imperforates and particularly the rarities, not as a result of indifference or neglect, but attributable to absence of published facts, the jealous guarding of information by those "who knew," and lack of opportunity to inspect and list the important collections of the past.

True, Mr. E. B. Sterling of Trenton, N. J. (recently deceased), compiled in the middle 80's a price list of such Imperforate and Part Perforate pieces as were then known to him and his worthy collector aids, such as, Messrs. R. S. Hatcher, H. E. Deats, Julius Adenaw and others, but the data of that relatively early period did not permit accurately gauging the rarities as a single example will indicate. Mr. Sterling's 5th edition of 1888 quotes a horizontal pair of 70c For. Ex. Imperforate at $2.50, at the same time listing a pair of $20.00 Conveyance Imperforate at $10.00. The latter is a fair price today but of the 70c not over two pairs have ever been found.

Later collections formed by Messrs. E. Phelps, Wm. F. Morgan, Dr. Bowers and others, developed hitherto unknown items and upon their successive dispersals led to the final formation by Mr. Clarence H. Eagle of the finest Revenue collection by far which has ever been assembled. This property contained a pair or larger piece of every Imperforate which is today known to exist in multiple, the Part Perf. section presented a like situation and the entire collection was complete, except for the 2c Claret and Black (3rd issue error), Scott's No. 3945a, the only present known copy of which rested in the collection of Senator E. R. Ackerman for over thirty years.

Important contemporary collectors with Mr. Eagle were: Messrs. A. Ballard, H. Gibson and A. G. Bishop, and somewhat later, Mr. Wm. S. White, and it is the transfer or dispersal of all of these properties which has made possible the fine present day Revenue collections of Colonel Green, Mr. R. Henn, the writer and others, and made available the information which was long so closely held.

The publishers of the standard catalog apparently have been giving some thought to the desirability of producing a specialized work on Revenues somewhat along the lines of their catalog on postal issues, since they have requested the writer to fill in a tabulation of suggested prices for pairs and blocks of all listed Imperforates. There would seem, however, to be no point in pricing non-existent pieces and that the interests of collectors would best be served by dealing with actualities, adjusting quotations to condition of the rarities as known at present. Furthermore, there is in many cases a vast difference in value between a horizontal Imperforate pair and a vertical pair of the same stamp, hence pricing a "Pair" is meaningless and consequently the following notes will differentiate where desirable. Many scarce and important pieces exist of stamps which as singles or pairs are relatively common, but for the present this article will deal with the great rarities leaving other material to follow should general interest prove sufficient to justify its publication.

Rare Imperforate Pairs, Strips and Blocks.

1c PLAYING CARDS.
Dull Red, "Imperforate"

Horizontal pairs are scarce, particularly in very fine condition, but the stamp would not be noted in the present discussion were there not in existence a block of four which should be recorded, as it is quite generally believed to be unique. Unfortunately its condition leaves a great deal to be desired, hence the writer will make no estimate of its value especially so as the likelihood of its coming on the market, in the present generation at least, is very remote.

1c PROPRIETARY
Pale Red, "Imperforate"

Although not now listed in the standard catalog where it formerly had a place, the records of Butler & Carpenter indicate a supply of 794,045 unfinished stamps delivered to the Government vaults, and while assuming the major portion of these to have been "Part Perforate" some were clearly issued Imperforate as indicated by two known pairs. These, though vertical, have ample and satisfactory side margins and wide margined singles appear frequently enough to further strengthen the case. Also there is the report of a sheet, part of which escaped perforation in the machine so all evidence confirms the action of Mr. George L. Toppan, chief compiler of the Boston Revenue Book in 1899, and an exceptionally studious and cautious type of man, in admitting this stamp to the official list. Accurately pricing one of the vertical pairs is obviously difficult, although a figure of $150.00 can be considered nominal.

3c PLAYING CARDS
Deep Blue, Green, "Imperforate"

Fine, undoubted, singles of this stamp have long been listed amongst the popular Revenue classics and rightly so, hence the desire of the enthusiast to possess a pair is obvious. Few collectors, however, can ever experience the thrill of acquisition for but 5 or 6 pairs are known, and of these several are in far from satisfactory condition. All reposing in the larger collections are vertical, no horizontal piece having as yet been located. The finest known pair is easily worth $800.00, while a defective and repaired one was recently offered at $125.00 and these figures correctly measure the spread of present values as related to condition.

3c TELEGRAPH
Dark Green, "Imperforate"

Ordinary pairs of this title are readily procurable, although exceptionally fine ones are not common. Blocks are extremely rare and the writer knows of but one which originally contained 42 stamps, but which has since been reduced to 2 blocks of 15 and one of 12. This latter is slightly imperfect, but is worth $100.00, while the larger pieces are valued at $150.00 to $175.00 each.

10c POWER OF ATTORNEY
Blue, "Imperforate"

But a very limited number of close students, including both collectors and dealers, have ever had the proper conception of the rarity of a horizontal pair of this stamp, and no secret is betrayed in now divulging the fact that only the undue avariciousness of a prospective buyer lost to him the opportunity to secure such a piece for the very modest price of $30.00 from one of the best informed general students of Revenues. Vertical Part Perforate strips are commonly met with, hence vertical Imperforate pairs are usually open to some suspicion and nothing but a horizontal piece will ever truly satisfy. The writer, however, has never been able to trace but three such pairs, two of which are fine and worth $250.00 each. One of those examined is dated Nov. 23, 1863. It is quite possible that other horizontal pieces exist in obscure collections, if so, time and publicity will bring them forth, but meanwhile several of the largest Revenue properties lack such an item.

50c SURETY BOND
Dull Blue, "Imperforate"

All other titles of the 50c value being more or less procurable in pairs and strips, it is a common but extremely erroneous impression that "S.B." should likewise be available. The most diligent search, however, seems to have brought to light but two horizontal pairs, both fine, and appraised at $400.00 each, at least until such time as new discoveries are made. One of these is dated October 23, 1863. Vertical pairs should always be viewed with great concern owing to the frequency of such pieces in Part Perforate form.

70c FOREIGN EXCHANGE
Green, "Imperforate"

Being an odd value designed for use on bills of exchange ranging from $3500 to $5000, the stamp is common as a single, but collectors fail to appreciate that but one rate, i.e., $2.80 regularly called for its multiple use and no equivalent strip has ever been found. A single being a cheap stamp, want lists of advanced collectors invariably specify a pair, although there are not over two generally known to specialists. One dated April 29th, 1864 is the celebrated "Phelps" piece, and is worth $500.00. The other which is reported has not been seen as yet by the writer. Possibly the future may develop other pieces, the most likely appearing to be a strip of five to meet a $3.50 tax on some document other than Foreign Exchange.

$1.30 FOREIGN EXCHANGE
Yellow, Orange, "Imperforate"

Space concerning this stamp will only be used to note the apparent absence to date of an unsevered pair or larger piece and to venture the opinion that the standard catalog quotation for a single is much too low for a very fine copy. In such condition it is far scarcer than the $1.90, which likewise is priced none too high.

$1.60 FOREIGN EXCHANGE
Blue, Green, "Imperforate"

A pair of the $1.60 is quite generally conceded to be the "piece de resistance" among Revenues and somewhat more desirable than a copy of the 4c Proprietary "Invert," although it must be admitted that the latter would hold a greater appeal to the general space filler or collector of Revenue singles only. Two unsevered pairs are known: one a magnificent piece dated Nov., 1864, with large margins and conservatively valued at $1500, the other dated April 15th, 1867, defective but presenting a nice appearance and priced at $1000 when last offered. In open competition, however, it is difficult to predict what either piece might bring, as witness the recent sale at auction of a 30c "August" at a figure which has since been "the joke of the season" among the really informed professionals.

Pale Mauve, "Imperforate"

This stamp presents a condition q analagous to the $1.30 in that none the leading Revenue collections conta pair. As a warning the uninformed, be sure and avoid the d mauve and brown violet shades.

Dark Red, "Imperforate"

Very fine singles of this title are v worth the current standard catalog fig but it is not generally known that two horizontal pairs have ever been s in important collections, and both these appear to have been originally u on permits for fishing vessels to Ala One is dated Sept. 1, 1866, and the ot March 1, 1867, and as these stamps w first delivered to the Government on J 1863, there is the possibility of one fice receiving a supply of nothing Imperforates, but as many Perfora copies were used in 1865, it is more lik that some of the later printings were sued Imperforate. There is little choose between the two pairs, and th are each worth $1000. A vertical p lies in a large Revenue property, but very inferior in condition and the wri hesitates to venture an appraisal for t reason.
